SECRET IS OUT

FORMULA OF MI-O-NA MADE PUBLIC, A GREAT BOON TO STOMACH TROUBLES.

Our leading druggists are very much pleased to announce that which they sell as a cure for stomach troubles, tested rigidly in every case of heart-burn, acute dyspepsia, wind on the stomach, loss of appetite, cannoying dreams, sleeplessness, general weakness and debility, and where the digestive organs do not act as they should.

Mi-o-na is composed of bismuth subgallate, by all odds the very best antiseptic known for intestinal disorders when used with the free acids. It combines with the free sulphur compounds in the bowels forming a black substance which is passed off from the body without harm. It also has a soothing effect upon the nerve endings in the stomach.

With this is combined cerium oxalate, a standard remedy in the treatment of all irritations of the stomach and digestive organs.

Sodium Bicarbonate is then added to overcome the excessive acidity usually present in stomach disorders, also vomica for its general tonic and nerve-strengthening powers.

This combination of reliable remedies makes Mi-o-na a positive cure for all stomach troubles, and, perhaps the only one in the world that has the only one in the world that has the guarantee that it costs nothing unless it cures.

The regular 50c box of Mi-o-na tablets is sold for 50 cents.

If your druggist obtain Mi-o-na for you druggist, it will be promptly sent upon receipt of price. Write us for advice on your stomach or leaking stomach specialist which will be sent free. The K. T. Booth Company, Ithaca, N.Y.

MODEST CLAIMS OFTEN CARRY THE MOST CONVICTION.

When Maxim, the famous gun inventor, placed his gun before a committee of lawyers, he stated its carrying power to be much below what he felt sure the gun would accomplish. The firing of the trial was therefore a great surprise, instead of disappointment. It is the same with the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. They do not publicly boast of all this remedy is accomplish, but prefer to let its users make the statements. What they do claim, is that it will positively cure diarrhoea, dysentery, pains in the stomach and bowels and has never been known to fail. For sale at The Red Cross Drug Store. 27d

THE LACE TRIMMED BLOUSE.

"There is no doubt," says Elise Morlen, in the Ben Ali Woman's Magazine, "of the fact that the combination of laces and fancy stitches is being overdone, which fact may cause the disappearance of lingerie effects at the end of the summer or a recession to simpler styles. While it is still with us, however, its influence is felt in many other lines of wearing apparel. Lace has never been more in vogue, and the combination of many different varieties, which has already been mentioned, is greatly encouraged by the manufacturers, who producein the same piece Venetian and Cluny patterns, sometimes a batiste motifs on an irish all over background, or a Valenciennes medallion with a Cluny border. Of course these novelties are designed for good piece of lace is always a good investment, but the only one's own combination for value or even front decoration is a less expensive method of achieving equally successful results, especially if one knows when and where to pick up odd little Valenciennes or St. Gall medallions, Italian cutwork squares, or embroidered wheels.

"Although white is the color for lingerie styles, the introduction of a note of color is greatly sought this season. This is frequently contributed by ribbon run underneath the design of Valenciennes lace, or insertion in detached flowers. For this purpose the shaded ribbon comes in an extremely narrow width which, however, is equally suitable for treating even the corner laces in the same manner."

NERVOUSNESS, A CALAMITY.

Many who don't realize what this means, treat it with contempt, or worse still with indifference. Others consider it a joke, and soon pass away. But in these nervousness is a calamity. Only one remedy will absolutely overcome it, nerve strengthener that acts through the blood. Prest it gives you good blood —you get plumpy. Take this blood with nourishment for the nerves and you're right. Energy and strength is instilled into every part of the system. You get well—keep well—permanently for Paine's Celery Compound cures. A Message to Those Threatened with Lung Trouble

For the benefit of all persons who have a predisposition to Consumption, either inherited or contracted by exposure, unsuitable employment or other cause, we make this positive declaration, and stake our reputation upon its accuracy: If they will faithfully take FERROL three times a day, as per directions, it is impossible for the threatened disease to develop. Further, even in cases where the lungs are actually involved, provided the trouble is not too deeply seated, will arrest the disease and repair the waste already committed.

These statements are based on the common sense theory that FERROL contains, in perfect combination, Hypophosphites, the Oil, Iron and Phosphorus which alone can and will repair the waste tissue, enrich the impoverished blood and tone up the relaxed nerves.

Thousands have put this theory to the test of actual practice, and not one has been disappointed.

FERROL is pleasant to take and is so scientifically prepared that it is ready for instant absorption, so that, even where the digestion is weak, no difficulty is experienced in assimilating it. Moreover, FERROL is the only Cod Liver Oil preparation that may be taken with advantage during the summer months.

cows. The most recent discovery in fighting the fly pest is the new preparation, FLEE-O-FLY. This mixture not only kills the flies, but keeps them away. It is non-poisonous, cleanly and easily used. One 25 cent bottle will make several gallons of the spraying solution. The Medical Hall—Fred. L. Hooper—sole agent for Napanee.

PAINTING WHITE.

If you intend painting white either inside or outside, use Sherwin-Williams Ghora White. It will cover more surface, wear longer, remain whiter and cost you less than any other white paint. It will not chalk off like pure white lead. Ask us for prices before painting. The Medical Hall—Fred. L. Hooper, sole agent for Napanee.

POLICE COURT.

Justice was meted out on Tuesday last to Geo. Hartin, a resident of Ernestown, when Police Magistrate Rankin gave the prisoner eighteen months in central prison for criminal assault on a 10-year-old niece named Fox, of the same locality. The crime was committed here in town, and Chief Graham was not very long in gathering in his man after the information was laid. Hartin, we understand, is the father of ten children, which adds if possible to the horror of the deed.

THE STYLE OF HAIR WORN

He has ladies' and gents' Wigs, Toupees, Bangs, Wavy and Plain Fronts, Switches in every length and shade, that he will gladly adjust on any lady's head free of charge to prove this. Don't fail to see him. He is his only visit to Napanee this summer. Call early Monday, July 30th.

LAID TO REST.

A popular citizen Mr. Frank W. Morris passed to his reward on Wednesday morning after an illness of several months. Deceased was born in Manchester, England, in 1834. He served eight years in the British Navy during which time he visited almost every important port on the globe. In 1857 he married Miss Alice Hartley of Manchester, and came to America the same year. After living in Oswego for a time, he enlisted with the Union troops, and served for three years in the West of the Rebellion. He was honorably discharged in 1863, when he and his wife removed to Canada, and have been since continuous residents in Napanee and vicinity. Mr. Morris joined the Methodist church under the pastorate of Rev. Wm. Bryden, at Sidney, and remained a faithful and consistent member of the church until his death. He was a member of the A.O.U.W., and took a deep interest in the order's affairs. He leaves a bereaved widow and one daughter, Mrs. Arnold Wells. The funeral service was held in the Western Methodist church on Thursday afternoon, his pastor, Rev. W. H. Emsley officiating. His brothers of the A.O.U.W., attended in full regalia to pay their last tribute to one whose worth they had learned estimate at his true value, and whose presence in the lodge-room and kindly friendship they will sadly miss.

The Beginnings of Ontario

The U. E. L. Settlement of the Bay of Quinte District

By C. C. James, M.A., Deputy Minister of Agriculture, Ontario.

Mill on the Appamee (Napanee) River in the early years of the 19th century; reproduced from a drawing on birch bark.

By special favor of the Canadian Graphic.

Students of the early history of this Province are aware that when settlement began the people were grouped in four groups. These were quite distinct and each was separated from the next by quite an extensive stretch of unsettled land. First came what is the St. Lawrence District stretching from the Eastern boundary of the Province to the Gananoque River, called the District of Lunenburg, or Lunenburg, as it was generally written. From the Gananoque River to the Trent was the Mecklenburg District. From the Trent to the Eastern end of Longue Point was Nassau District. The Western portion, as far as the Detroit, was called the District of Hesse. The Western portion was later to Eastern, Midland, Home and Western. In describing them now we might call them the St. Lawrence, the Bay of Quinte, the Niagara, and the Detroit River Districts. The settlement was not continuous or unbroken. Those from Brockville to Kingston, from the Trent to Burlington Bay or The Head of the Lake, and those about Fort Erie to Kingsville there were for many years in the wilderness. As a consequence each District was to a certain extent found to be isolated, and there developed within each one characteristic peculiarities in the family to the geographical location of the district and partly to the nature of the people composing the settlement. The history of the early days of this Province can be properly studied only as we consider how these groups have acquainted with the make-up of the people composing each District and the natural conditions under which they were the pioneer life.

We propose giving a few notes as to the people who came in from 1784 to 1796, to settle the ten townships that were surveyed in that portion of Ontario and that were named Kingston No. 1, Ernestown No. 2, Fredericksburgh No. 3, Adolphustown No. 4, Marysburgh No. 5, Sophiasburgh No. 6, Ameliasburgh No. 7, Sidney No. 8, Thurlow No. 9, and Richmond No. 10. It will be noted that these were the three daughters of King George the Third who were called in the names of these townships. There were fifteen children in all, and the names on some of the others may be found in the St. Lawrence District.

There are many interesting chapters to be written in this District — the early churches and the schools, the pioneer farm life and the beginnings of manufactures, and the municipal and political life—but preceding all these comes the chapter dealing with the people, who they were, whence they came, and how they came to settle in this particular section.

TEMPLETON—McINTOSH.

The Presbyterian Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Thursday morning, the 26th of July, when Miss Margaret A. Templeton, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Templeton, was married to Mr. John McDonald McIntosh, of the Dominion Bank, Winnipeg, Manitoba. In honor of the occasion the friends of the bride had decorated the church handsomely with flowers and evergreens, and the bridal party made quite a shrine of bells of pink and white flowers. The ceremony was performed at 10.30 a.m. by the Rev. J. R. Conn, M.A., in the presence of a large and genteel gathering. During the arrival of the guests, Mrs. F. Clarke Smith, presiding at the organ, played sweetly a number of appropriate selections, and standing Goshgarin's wedding march as the bride, attired in a white lace robe over taffeta and wearing the usual veil and orange blossoms, with a shower bouquet of white roses, entered the church escorted by her father. The bridesmaid, Miss Pearl Purry, cousain of the bride, was gowned in pale blue taffeta with valenciennes trimmings, and wore a white tulle picture hat with blue plumes. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. The groom was supported by Mr. G. M. Murray, B.A., Toronto, Mr. Frank Keyes, Napanee, and Mr. Gordon Campbell, Toronto, acted as the ushers.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's father, at which the couple received the good wishes of their many friends. The drawing room was decorated with yellow and white flowers, and Mr. and Mrs. Templeton, assisted by Mrs. Bowerman's knot of white flowers during the early part of the afternoon. The reception was followed by a dainty luncheon served on the sitting-room, handsomely decorated with green and white flowers. The groom and Miss McIntosh were the recipients of many handsome presents from their friends. These were displayed in the dining-room. The groom's gift to the bride was a magnificent diamond and ruby ring, to the bridesmaid, a gold brooch set in the ornamental, a pearl pin, and to the ushers gold pins.

Among the guests present from a distance were Geraldine McIntosh and Mrs. Robert Templeton, Belleville; Mrs. Cull and Miss Cull, Millville; Mrs. Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Webster, Mrs. and Miss Webster, Napanee; Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Vanhorn, Mrs. Dr. Vanhorn and Miss Vanhorn. Mr. McIntosh left on the 1.08 p.m. train for Toronto, Chicago and other points, en route for Regina, the bride travelling in a navy blue tailor-made costume with white embroidered silk blouse and white hat with blue ribbon and peacock feathers. At the station platform a number of the bride's friends who on account of their absence could not attend the reception, gave her a bidding them a final farewell to their home in the west.

Zutoo

Women

Can you Answer "NO" to any of these Questions?

1.

Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets for Women are the prescription used for sick and run-down women by a great specialist in diseases of men. Such a prescription ought to be a good one, hadn't it?

2.

The tablets are compounded just for women and contain the special tonics which your peculiar system needs. That should make them a better medicine for you than any sold for men or both men and women, shouldn't it?

3.

The tablets contain the very latest ingredients and discoveries in medicine—are up-to-date. That makes them worth more to you than any medicine put on the market years ago, doesn't it?

4.

The tablets are a compound—remedy, that is, that contain several tonics—every organ of your system. They must therefore reach the organ which is causing you trouble, even if you don't know yourself which one it is. That is a big point in their favor, isn't it?

5.

Unlike the liquid preparations, the tablets contain neither alcohol nor opium. You don't want to drink whiskey or take opium, do you?

6.

Because the tablets contain something for every organ, they reach immediately the seat of the trouble. Result—immediate gain in health. That is what you want, isn't it?

The Vital Question.

But here is the question of most vital interest to women suffering from a run-down condition or any trouble peculiar to her sex.

Will you take the tablets? Will you risk 50c. to get back your old time life and vigor?

The 72 tablets in a single box, taken now, will start you on the road to health. Take them now before your condition becomes harder to cure.

50c. at dealers or by mail postpaid.

THE NEW SCHOOL LAW.

As supplementation may exist regarding the new law in relation to the salaries of teachers in rural sections, we have much pleasure in stating that it is not enacted that the minimum salary will only succeed to the assessable value of the section.

2. Where the assessable value of all the property of the public school supporters in any township is at least $1,000 per school section, and equal to an average assessment of $30,000 for each section, there is available in the municipal council of such township a fund, hereinafter called the township fund, for the additional sum of at least $200 for an assistant teacher, engaged for a whole year exclusive of vacations, and a proportionate amount of such sum for a part of the year or for a shorter period than a whole year exclusive of vacations, and a proportionate amount of such sum for each additional assistant teacher employed.

3. Where such assessed value is less than an average assessment of $30,000 for each school section, there is not in any township, the municipal council of such township shall levy and collect as aforesaid the sum of $150 or less for every public school where a teacher is employed for a whole year for a whole year exclusive of vacations, and a proportionate amount of the said sum of $150 at least where a teacher is employed for a shorter period for six months or longer; and an additional sum of $150 for each such assistant teacher engaged for a whole year exclusive of vacations, and a proportionate amount of such sum of $150 at least where such assistant teacher is engaged for six months or longer.

4. The sums so levied and collected by the municipal council, as aforesaid, after the expiration of the present calendar year, shall be applied exclusively to teachers' salaries.

5. In addition to the sum provided by the township fund, the trustees of every rural school section in the township, not hereinafter mentioned, pay annually after the expiration of the present calendar year, to the teacher, where there is no assistant, and to the principal teacher where there are other teachers employed, the said sum hereinafter mentioned (subject only to a proportionate reduction in case the whole year's salary does not become due) that is to say:

(a) $200 whose the assessed value of the taxable property of the public school supporters in the section is at least $250,000;

(b) $150 where such assessed value is at least $150,000 but less than $200,000;

(c) $100 where such assessed value is at least $100,000, but less than $150,000;

(d) $50 where such assessed value is at least $50,000, but less than $100,000;

(e) $25 where such assessed value is at least $30,000, but less than $50,000.

And $100 to every assistant teacher whatever such assessed value is.

The said trustees in making their annual estimates and requisitions for school moneys to be raised and collected from the ratepayers, shall include therein, amount, sufficient to meet his or her sources of income, is necessary to provide for such yearly payments.

6. All moneys hereby required to be levied and collected and applied to the salaries of teachers shall be paid over to the treasurers of the boards of public school boards from time to time as may be required by the said trustees.

DIED IN CALIFORNIA.

Oakland, California,
July 19th, 1906.

Dear Beaver,—Many of your readers particularly those in the Township of Richmond, remember Mr. Lawrence Sharp, who at one time resided on Sharp's Corners, in the said Township, Richmond, County of Lennox and Addington. Mr. Sharp was an estimable citizen of our old county, a strong Reformer and an ardent supporter of Hall David Rankin, M. P. for West Richard J. Cartwright, etc. Mr. Sharp left his family, left your county and settled in California about the year of 1868. He made his home at Vallejo, where the Mare Island Navy Yard is situated, distant from San Francisco about thirty miles, where he has resided ever since and has accumulated quite a large property. Mr. Sharp married Miss Sarah Winters, a daughter of the late Daniel Winters, of the Township of Richmond. Mrs. Sharp is his wife, died at Vallejo, California, on the 23rd inst. of May, 1906, leaving three daughters, one son, and husband, Lawrence Sharp. Mrs. Sharp was a grand old lady, and a kind, loving and devoted wife and mother. A sister, Miss Frances Ann Winters, had a good kind word for everyone and all spoke of her as being one to be a good name.

"Good name, in man and woman, dear my Lord,
Is the immediate jewel of their souls."

I cannot call to mind a better or more lovely woman than the late Mrs. Sarah Sharp. I had the pleasure of visiting Mr. and Mrs. Sharp, at their pleasant home in Vallejo on many occasions. These were grand old Canadian home visits and ones that I shall have experienced in your county.

I write these few lines as many people in your county were well acquainted with Mr. and Mrs. Sharp, and they will sincerely sympathize with the bereaved family.

Wishing you much success, I am,
Respectfully yours,
B. S. WILLIAMS.

MODEST CLAIMS OFTEN CABRY THE MOST CONVICTION

When Maxim, the famous gun inventor, placed his gun before boards of judges, he stated his carrying claims in very modest terms and he was sure the gun would accomplish. The result of the trial was a distinct and great surprise, instead of disappointment. It's the same with the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. They claim, not publicly boast, of all this remedy has accomplished, but let others make the statements. What they do claim, is that it will positively relieve and permanently cure all disorders of the stomach and bowels and has a record to back them. For sale by Red Cross Drug Store. 27d

The BRETHREN

[illegible] Haggard, Author of "King [illegible]ves," "She," "Cleopatra," [illegible]erman," "The World's [illegible]

[illegible] 1903-1904, by H. Rider [illegible]

She nodded and answered:

"At length, all. To-morrow afternoon an account will be made upon Ascalon, but even if it is taken the camp will not be stormed that night. There will be great confusion, and Abdullah, who is now what sick, will be the captain of the guard over the princess's tent. He will allow the soldiers to slip away to assist in the sack of the city, nor will they betray him. At sunset but one eunuch will be on watch—Mesrour; and I will find means to put him to sleep. Abdullah will bring the princess to this garden disguised as his young son, and there you two and I shall meet them."

"What then?" asked Godwin.

"Then you remember the old Arab who brought you the horses Flame and Smoke, and took no payment for them, he who was named Son of the Sand? Well, as you know, he is my uncle, and he has more horses of that breed. I have seen him, and he is well pleased at the tale of Flame and Smoke and the knights who rode them, and more particularly at the way in which they came to their end, which he says has brought credit to their ancient blood. At the foot of the garden is a cave, which was once a sepulchre. There we shall find the horses—four of them—and with them my uncle, Son of the Sand, and by the morning light we will be a hundred miles distant on the road. He will ride with his tribe until we can slip to the coast and board a Christian ship. Does it please you?"

"Very well; but what is Abdullah's price?"

"One only—the enchanted star, the Luck of the House of Hassan; for nothing else will he take such risks. Will Sir Wulf give it?"

"Surely," answered Godwin with a laugh.

"Good. Then it must be done tonight. When I return I will send Abdullah, by now tent. Fear not; he shall take the jewel he will give the price since otherwise he thinks it will bring him ill-fortune."

"Does the lady Rosamund know?" asked Godwin again.

She shook her head.

"Nay, she is mad to escape; she thinks of little else all day long; but that is full of telling her till the time comes? The fewer in such a plot the better, and anything to do with it, it is well that she should be innocent, for then—"

"Then death, and farewell to all things," said Godwin; "nor indeed should I grieve to say them good-bye.

But, Masouda, you run great peril. Tell me now, honestly, why do you do this?"

As he spoke the lightning flashed and showed the face as she stood there against a background of green leaves and red lily flowers. Such was a strange look upon it—a look that made Godwin feel afraid, he knew not of what.

"Why did I take you into my inn yonder in Beirut when you were the Queen Peter and Isabel? Why did I find you the best horses in Syria and guide you to the Al-jebal? Why did I often dare death by torment for you there? Why did I save the three of you? And why, for all the while, have I—who, after all, am nobly born—become the mock of soldiers and the tire-woman of the princess of Baalbec?

"Shall I answer?" she went on, laughing recklessly as the beginning because I was the agent of Sinan, charged to betray such knights as you are into his hands, and afterwards because my heart was filled with pity and love for—the lady Rosamund."

Again the lightning flashed, and this time that strange look had spread from Masouda's face to the face of Godwin.

"Masouda," he said in a whisper, "oh! think me no vain fool, but since it is best perhaps that both should know full surely, tell me, is it as I have sometimes feared?"

"Feared!" broke in Masouda with her little mocking laugh. "Sir Godwin, it is so. What does your faith teach—the faith in which I was bred, and lost, but that now is mine again—because it is yours? That men and women are free, or so some read it. Well, it or they are wrong. We are not free. Was I free when first I saw your eyes to do Beirut, the eyes for which I had been watching all my life, and something that came from you to me, and I—the castoff plaything of Sinan—loved you, loved you, loved you—to my own doom? Yes, and rejoiced that it was so, and still rejoice that it is so, and would choose it all again because in that love I learned that there is a meaning in this life, and that there is an answer to the question, to be, or where if not here. Nay, speak not, I know your oath, nod would I tempt you to its breaking. But Sir Godwin, a woman such as the lady Rosamund cannot love two men," and a fine spoke Masouda strove to search his face while the shaft went home.

But Godwin showed neither surprise nor pain.

"So you know what I have known for long," he said, "and I pray you that sorrow is lost in the hope of my brother's joy. Moreover, it is well that she should love the chosen of the better knight."

"Sometimes," said Masouda reflectively, "sometimes I have watched the lady Rosamund, and said to myself, 'What do you lack? You are beautiful, you are high-born, you are learned, you are brave, and you are good.' Then I have answered, 'You lack wisdom and true sight, else you would not have chosen Wulf when you might have taken Godwin, for perchance your eyes are blinded also.'"

"Speak not thus of one who is my better in all things, I pray you," said Godwin in a vexed voice.

"By which you mean, whose arm is perhaps a little stronger and who at a pinch could cut down a few more Saracens. Well, it takes more than strength to make a man—you must add spirit."

"Masouda," went on Godwin, talking no note of her words, "although we may guess her mind, the lady has said nothing yet. Also Wulf may fall, and then I fill his place as best I can. I am no free man, Masouda."

"The love-sick are never free," she answered.

"I have no right to love the woman who loves my brother; to her are due my friendship and my reverence—no more."

"She has not declared that she loves your brother; we may guess that in this matter. They are your words—not mine."

"And we may guess rightly. What then?"

"Then," answered Masouda, "there are many knightly orders, or nunneries, for those who desire such places —as you do in your heart. Nay, talk no more of all these things that may or may not be. Back to your tent, Sir Godwin, where I will send Abdullah to you to receive the jewel. So, farewell, farewell."

He took her outstretched hand, hesitated a moment,—then lifted it to his lips, and went. It was cold as that of a corpse, and following against her she had the hand of a corpse. Masouda shrank back among the flowers of the garden and seemed to hide herself from him and all the world. When he had gone a few paces, called or perhaps, God-win turned and glanced behind him, and at that moment there came a flash of lightning. In its fierce and fiery glare he saw Masouda standing with outstretched arms, pale as death, her face, closed eyes, and parted lips illumined by the ghastly sheen of the levin her face looked like that of one new dead, and the tall red lilies which climbed up her dark, pallike robe to her throat—they looked like streams of fresh-shed blood.

Godwin shuddered a little and went his way, but no evil thence into the black, embracing night, Masouda said to herself:

"Had I served a little more upon his gentleness and pity, I think that he would have offered me his hand in the sight of heaven to wife with it and in payment for my services. Nay, not his heart, for he has none on earth, but his hand and loyalty. And, being honorable, he would have kept his promise, and I should have escaped death in the harem of Al-jebal, might yet have become the lady D'Arcy, and so lived out my life and reared his babes. Nay, Sir Godwin; when you love me—not before; and you will never love me—I am free until I die."

Snatching a bloom of the lilies into her hand, the hand that he had kissed, Masouda pressed it convulsively against her breast, till the red juice ran from the crushed flower and stained her white robe to the ground. Then she glided away, and was lost in the storm and the darkness.

CHAPTER XX.

An hour later the captain Abdullah might have been seen walking carelessly towards the tent where the brethren slept. Also, had there been any who cared to watch, something else might have been seen than the tent-ropes pressed by camp followers, and taking shelter cunningly behind every rock and shrub and tree of the ground. Hidden among some pickeled dromedaries, he saw Abdullah enter the tent of the Nubian, then, within it there like a drunken man, and listened with all his ears. But the thick canvas was heavy and wet, nor would the ropes and the trench that was dug around permit him, who dared not come to far in these ways, to place his head against it. Also, those within spoke low, and he could only hear single words, such as Baalbec, "the star" "princess."

So important did these seem to him, however, that at length Mesrour crept under the cords, and although he shuddered at the cold, drew his body into the trench of water, and with the sharp point of his knife cut a little slit in the taut canvas. To this he set his eye, only to find that it served him nothing, for there was no light in the tent. Still, men were there who talked in the darkness.

"Good," said a voice—it was that of one of the brethren, but which he could not tell, for even to those who knew them best they seemed to be the same. "Good; then it is settled. To-morrow, at the hour arranged, you bring the princess to the place agreed upon, disguised as a young man. In payment for this service I hand you the Luck of Hassan which you covet." Take it; here it is, and expect me to do your part, since otherwise it will bring no luck to you, for I will kill you the first time we meet—yes, and the other also."

"I swear it by Allah and his prophet," answered Abdullah in a hoarse, trembling voice.

"It is enough; see that you keep the oath. And now away; it is not safe that you should tarry here."

Then came a sound as of a man leaving the tent. Passing round it cautiously, he halted, and opening his hand, looked at its contents to make sure that no trick had been played upon him in the darkness. Mesrour screwed his head round to look also, and saw the light gleam faintly on the surface of the splendid jewel, which he, too, desired so eagerly. In no doing his foot struck a stone, and instantly Abdullah glanced down to see a dog or drunken man lying almost at his

SAVED HIS COMRADE'S LIFE.

"While returning from the Grand Army Encampment at Washington City, a comrade of mine, Sigel Hill, was taken with cholera morbus and was in a critical condition," writes Mr. A. Houghland, of Eldon, Iowa. "I gave him Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and believe saved his life. I have been engaged for ten years in immigration work and conducted many parties to the south and west. I always carry this remedy and have used it successfully on many occasions." So they went as prisoners.

the knife three inches deep in his fat thigh. With a cry Mesrour bore down upon him, knowing that if he showed signs of life the next stroke would be in his heart. Then, satisfied that this fellow, whoever he might be, was either a corpse or insensible, Abdullah drew out the knife, wiped it on his victim's robe, and departed.

Not long afterwards Mesrour departed also, crossed the Sultan's house, bellowing with rage and pain and vowing vengeance.

It was not long delayed.

That very night Abdullah was seized and put to the question. By his sufferings he confessed that he had been to the tent of the brethren and received from one of them the jewel which was found upon him, as a bride to bring the princess to a certain garden outside the camp. But he named the wrong garden. Further, when they asked which of the brethren it was who bribed him, he said he did not know, as their voices were alike, and their tent was in darkness; moreover, that he believed there was only one man in it—at least he heard or saw no other. He added that he was summoned to the tent by an Arab man whom he had never seen before, but who told him that if he wished for what he most desired and good fortune, he was to be there at a certain hour after midnight

"DARE TO BE A DANIEL"

DIET INFLUENCES THE CHARACTER OF MEN.

THE NEW LIBERAL THOUGHT

The Noted Divine Takes For His Theme the Refusal of Daniel to Eat the Unclean Food—Sins of the Palate Among the Worst of All Sins —Often the Forerunners of All Other Sins.

Entered according to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1906, by Frederick Biver, Toronto, at the Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 22.—That diet influences character and that a man is largely what he eats is illustrated in this sermon, the preacher taking for his text Daniel i, 12, "Prove thy servants, I beseech thee, ten days."

"What is a victory like?" said a lady friend to the Waterloo conqueror. "The greatest thing in the world, madam, except a defeat," was the answer. Well said, thou iron duke. None could speak more authoritatively. The world has supposed thy heart adamantine. But even the stones themselves might almost weep when they are drenched with human carnage. The cheers of triumph can never drown the sobs of anguish. The glittering rewards of victory cannot blind our eyes to the awful price at which that victory was bought. Lord Roberts, upon his return from the Boer war, was hailed in England as a conquering chief. When he returned from Africa to London the whole nation rose to do him honor. But while the British were acclaiming the mighty deeds of "Bobs," Lord Roberts was wearing upon his uniform grief's symbol, the black crape. Lord Roberts' only boy had been shot among the African hills. So is it always with war. We praise the returning chieftains, but we cannot forget the bloody fields over which these heroes have waded and the many grave trenches they saw filled with the slain bodies of their fallen comrades.

But if the battlefields of the nineteenth century were the scenes of awful tragedies, what must have been the horrors of the battlefields of the fifteenth, the twelfth and the fifth centuries and the battlefields of a thousand years ago. In olden times the conquerors rarely took prisoners or liberated captive people as quickly as we do now. The general custom was to slay their prisoners or, what was still more common, to hold them in bondage to perpetual servitude. This practice was almost universal. Thus many of the nations, like the Phœnicians and the Etrurians and the Cretes and the Sicilians, made war for human sacrifice as well as for gold and silver. These nations were known according to an old historian's definition as "man stealers." They wanted human slaves as oarsmen to man their galleys and laborers to work in their fields and mines. Even to-day their domestic servants as well as men for charity-teams. What was true of the great nations of time stated was also true of Egypt and Rome and Greece and Babylon. Those mighty cities of olden times all had their human auction blocks. The greater the conquests of their returning warriors the greater number of slaves to be put up and sold as common cattle in the market places. Thus having made this explanation, we can understand why Daniel and the finest youths of the Hebrew nation were carried to Nebuchadnezzar's capital after Jerusalem had been captured and overthrown.

No sooner was the Babylonish king back in his palace than he called one of his chief officers, Asphenaz by name, and said: "Ashpenaz, I wish you would go and look over those young Hebrews who I have brought back. Select three or four of the finest physical and mental specimens that are there. Then for the next three years train them and educate them and feed them from my own table. I want to develop these men for my own service, so that in revenge for the intelligence of my own court with the best blood of this Hebrew nation." Ashpenaz, the superintendent of Daniel and his three friends, Hananiah and Michael and Azariah, were selected. Ah, this was high honor for Daniel and his companions. It not only meant liberation from human slavery, but in time it also meant membership in the king's council. But, alas, alas, it seems as though Daniel is foolishly going to upset all his political prospects. When the food and the wine from the king's table are placed before him, Daniel refuses them because they are forbidden diet—are unclean according to Jewish law. "Now, says the king's chamberlain, "you must eat this meat and wine, for if you do not the king will not only punish me, but also will probably slay you. And he will surely know this by refusal of your royal dishes." Then Daniel spake the words of my texts: "Prove thy servants, I beseech thee, ten days, and give us pulse to eat and water to drink. Then let our countenances be looked upon before thee, and the countenance of the children that eat of the portion of the king's meat, and as thou seest deal with thy servants." So the royal officer consented to them in this matter and proved them ten days. You all know the result of this test. At the end of ten days the countenances of Daniel and his three friends were "fairer" and fatter in flesh than all the children who did eat the portion of the king's meat. Such to-day is the simple story from which we will draw our sermonic theme. And may our history in life be like that of Daniel, who refused to eat the king's meat.

Let us now look at our subject as it is typified in Daniel. This king's meat was to Daniel and his comrades a sensual temptation. It appealed to Daniel's eye and nostril and palate. It was the temptation of the banquet hall, which and not the prayer closet he looked good, but it appealed to Daniel the more enticingly because heretofore he had never had the luxuries furnished by the delectable viands of a royal kitchen.

But Daniel had never been an epicure. He had never been one who was a devotee of sensual pleasures. He had been brought up with the plain, coarse, simple and yet wholesome food upon which most of us were reared in our fathers' and mothers' homes. Daniel was a nazarite and the simple dinners and the simple suppers common to Jewish children. Among the Hebrew nazarites is the general name given to the leguminous plants, such as the beans and peas, etc. Thus you can see what a temptation must have come to Daniel in a sensual way when he suddenly had placed before him the rich food and the wines of the king's banquet hall. Oh, they looked so good, and they smelled so good! Every glittering reward of victory cannot blind our eyes to the awful price at which that victory was purchased. Lord Roberts, upon his return from the Boer war, was hailed in England as a conquering chief. When he returned from Africa to London the whole nation rose to do him honor. But while the British were acclaiming the mighty deeds of "Bobs," Lord Roberts was wearing upon his uniform grief's symbol, the black crape. Lord Roberts' only boy had been shot among the African hills. So is it always with war. We praise the returning chieftains, but we cannot forget the bloody fields over which these heroes have waded and the many grave trenches they saw filled with the slain bodies of their fallen comrades.

But if the battlefields of the nineteenth century were the scenes of awful tragedies, what must have been the horrors of the battlefields of the fifteenth, the twelfth and the fifth centuries and the battlefields of a thousand years ago. In olden times the conquerors rarely took prisoners or liberated captive people as quickly as we do now. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

In our country the word "clanishness" is not much meaning. When we go back to our Revolutionary days we find that Fourteenth and Baron Steuben and Lafayette helped to win our independence. Then we find that Hamilton and a host of other statesmen who helped make us what we are were foreign born. Then we find that scores and hundreds of inventors like Ericsson and moneyed kings like Carnegie and teachers like Agassiz were also born across the sea. And thus, strange to say, the highest recommendation that an artist or a writer or a preacher can have before the American public is that he was foreign born. But, though our own people seem to feel that all prima donnas must be of foreign name can sing better than our own, yet this is not true of foreign lands. The man whom the Germans are most ready to honor is the German. The one the English are most ready to honor is the Englishman. The man the Scotch are most ready to honor is the Scotchman. The same law was true of the Romans, the Greeks, the Egyptians, the Hebrews and the Babylonians. The people who were not of their own nationality were always looked at askance and despised. Thus you can see the natural prejudice which at once arose against Daniel after his selection by the king because he was foreign born.

"Aha!" the people cry. "Aha! If he does not eat the king's meat we will expose him. Then this foreign upstart will remain a slave, as he ought to do. And yet, my friends, as I hear the enemies of Daniel gloating about his overthrow, can I not hear your enemies gloating over your spiritual overthrow in the same way? You enter a certain line of business. The proprietor decides to keep his place open on Sunday, or, what is worse, the salesman comes to you and asks you to do something which is not squarely and uprightly honest. "But," you say to the foreman, "I never work on Sunday," or you say: "That is not honest. I am not going to do it." The foreman shrugs his shoulders and says: "All right. If you won't do it, I will tell the boss. Then I guess you will have to hunt another place." Then all your enemies will cry: "Aha! We will destroy him. Aha, aha!" What have you done? Are you to-day compromising your Lord in the presence of your enemies?

But there is yet one more fact about Daniel's meat to which I wish to call your attention. It was spread in a foreign land; it was spread scores and hundreds of miles away from the place where Daniel was born; it was spread in the Babylonish capital; it was spread so far away from home that Nebuchadnezzar at first I can hear Daniel whisper to himself these words: "Well, what's the difference if I do eat the king's meat and drink the king's wine? It is up to me to have a strong mind to do it. Father and mother will never hear about it. They are away off now where I cannot see them. I may as well do go back to Jerusalem, why, then will start all over again and be a consistent Christian." Little did he or no sooner does he speak thus than I hear him say: "Nay; I will not do this. My God sees all the time. I know. And I will be true to myself and true to my absent loved ones and true to my God whether I am in the Babylonish capital or in my own father's house." Oh, my friends, has not the temptation come to you, as I have imagined he came to Daniel, whispering: "Why don't you eat the unclean food? No one knows, no one will know. Why don't you eat the fruit of the forbidden tree just once?"

But, though the tempter may come to us and whisper, "Child, just once, and no one will know it. But, yes, I believe him not; the tempter is a perjurer. For no once sinned but a voice that sin found him out. In that fascinating book of travels, "On the Frontier," Mr. Campion tells us how in the Isthmus of Panama he tried to gather some beautiful green plants of almost delicate shade and form. No sooner would he reach out and pluck one than this leaf would become nothing but a withered, sickly, yellowish weed. "At first," said Mr. Campion, "I thought I was stricken with a delusion of the fatal Panama fever, but after awhile I found that I had been plucking a sensitive plant, so sensitive that as soon as I touched one it withered. lately it lost its color and life." So it is with sin. We may think we can pluck the beautiful leaves or raise to our lips the cup that is filled with sin, and no one will know it. But, alas, the world will soon see that we are not holding in our hands the beautiful flower of purity, but a withered stalk of sin. No sin can be safely hidden. Every sin will ultimately be found out. Conviction is a terrible word, but the misdeeds of a Daniel will be carried back to the home land and, what is far worse, carried up to be written down in the pages of the great book which shall be opened by the recording angel at the judgment seat of Jesus Christ. Hear it, man! Hear it, woman! Hear it, child!

Thus it is with great joy that I hold up before your eyes the character of Daniel for you to copy. The last time I ever heard D. L. Moody preach was about this mighty man of God. In that sermonic picture he showed us how Daniel was able to stand with unblanched cheek amid the gaping mouths of the lions' den. But if you have followed me you know I have not once mentioned Daniel as the mighty statesman of Nebuchadnezzar's court. My sermon has revolved about the first great temptation of Daniel's life, when he refused to eat the king's meat, as the first great temptation of Joseph's life was in Potiphar's home. When these two young men were found true to God in the first temptations of youth the way was paved for them to become the premiers of kings. So may we be true to God in the first temptations that may be true to God in our youth. Then, whether we rise to positions of power and influence among men or be found our continue in humble life, doing our duty in obscurity, we shall please him who feeds the ravens and who is done, shall give to us our heavenly crown. Thus I close with the only five words in the sermon of D. L. Moody's sermon. They are these: "Dare to be a Daniel! Dare to be a Daniel! Dare to be a Daniel!" In God's name and with God's power, dare to be a Daniel and triumph on earth and in heaven. In God's name, dare.

Sale of Girls' Hair.

The Hair Fair of Limoges was held July 13, and the market place was filled with girls, who stood demurely by their wares crowded with critical eyes their long and beautiful tresses.

Buyers from Paris, Berlin, Geneva and London were there. And it was curious to see them bargain with the girls, and how they raised the price march them off to be cropped.

Prices of tresses varied from 29 to 11 francs, the latter being for a tress of eighty-six pounds (taken from the members of one family) realized $1,000.

Hair fetches a good price, the best better hair from the Limoges market than from any other in the world.

Dafoe's Manitoba Patent

By numerous tests by the best bakers the above mentioned grades have been proved to be the best flours in the market.

When buying flour, ask for Dafoe's, and patronize your home mill, thereby producing a home market. The great complaint of the farmer or the producer is, that he is unable or to outside points for an article he can produce at home, and we ask you to do so, but he does not hesitate to buy flour from other than his own mill, and sell you an inferior flour for more than double what you can purchase the home product for, every bag of which is guaranteed.

A TRIP THROUGH MICHIGAN.

July 12th, 1906.

Dear Sir:—This is the twelfth day of the twelfth in Canada, but is a beautiful day in Michigan. We are now in a town of about one thousand inhabitants called Newberry, and are now still a wonderful to go through. They employ about 400 men for the mill. They cut 100,000 feet of lumber a day. A planing mill here employs over one hundred men. They make sash, doors, drying mill, where they make their lath and farr and oil from the wood. They have a large electric light plant and a filling up a part of the lake with sand. They make a road bed for the G.T.R. next season to make charcoal out of it. The G.T.R. expect to go through here in the spring. They have cars made of steel. The wood they use grows here. These cars are filled and run to the mill. The wood is cut in four foot lengths and it is reduced about one half, and is put into the kilns. The kilns are steamed in the case to run out and the heat is turned on. It takes about two days to get it out. It is then put away to season. It will take five days to get from the station of the sea of Michigan. We passed through it. Michigan is a beautiful land, no one will leave it. On July from Detroit, and passed through a lake about seventy miles in length and about two hundred miles in breadth. Then we came to the sand hills. They are about one hundred miles long, one hundred miles or more; then we came to the land of Michigan, and it is called Cadillac, one of the largest cities in Michigan. It has a population of 10,000 inhabitants. Everything is very cheap here. We travelled by boat through swamps and marshes. Every few miles there is a town. We passed a place I have already described. We have also travelled through a place called Marle, but shall go no farther now with the description.

July 16th—We are now at Fargo, and are going to stay until the 21st, and go to Toronto. When we go to Fargo we shall go to Lake Huron and then to Lake Huron to meet his wife and accompany her home. We shall be home after her stay at Peterboro'.

The "Sunshine" furnace and "sunny" ways are synonymous.

The cold, dreary winter days can be made cheery and warm with a pure, healthful heat if you have a "Sunshine" furnace.

Is easier to operate, cleaner, uses less fuel and "shines" in many other ways over common furnaces.

Two shakers are used to shake the heavy, triangular-shaped grates. This just cuts the work of shaking down in half, besides being easier on the furnace than the old one-shaker style.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

Slade—I used one and told him to tell no one.

Mudd—And what did he do?

Slade—Why, it wasn't two minutes before he repeated it.

It is a Liver Pill—Many of the ailments that man has to contend with have their origin in a disordered liver, which is a delicate organ, peculiarly susceptible to the disturbances that come from irregular habits of lack of care in eating and drinking. This accounts for the great many liver regulators now pressed on the attention of sufferers. Of these there is none superior to Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. Their operation though powerful, is effective, and the most delicate can use them.

The Scot is proverbially careful with money, but if the following be true he is more careful than we before suspected. A certain Scot and his wife Highlander entered a chemist's shop and asked for a penny's worth of "Rough on Rats"; dawn stick o' this and nothing in a good way." He was informed that it was only sold in six-penny packets. He looked long and lovingly at his sixpence, and then said, "Then we'll no commit suicide the noo."

Tested by Time.—In his lastly celebrated Pills Dr. Morse has given to the world one of the most unique medicines ever offered to the public in late years. Prepared to meet the want for a certain bowel remedy, without nausea, and that would purge without pain, it has met all requirements in that direction, and it is in general use not only because of these two qualities, but because it is the most positive alterative and curative powers of any medicine at the front rank of medicines.

Mamma—Why, Johnny, what's the matter with you?

Johnny—My new sailor hurt my feelings.

Mamma—No wonder, dear; you have them on the wrong foot.

Johnny—W-well, I-can't help it. I always get no other f-feet. Boo-hoo-oo!

Death Comes to all—But it need not come prematurely if proper precautions are taken. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" applied to have prevention at hand and allow a dreage to work its will is wickedness. The Thomas' Eclectric Oil not only allays pains when applied externally, but will prevent lung troubles resulting from colds and coughs. Try it and be convinced.

It acts with wonderful rapidity and never fails to effect a cure.

MISSIONS.

First Canadian Summer Conference of the Young People's Missionary Movement.

This movement organized in 1902, is a federation, uniting the young people's departments of the various denominational Home and foreign Missionary Boards of Canada and the United States, and its board of management consists of fifteen representatives of these boards. It deals with the problems of the young people in the local church, only through the organizations connected with it already organized mission boards and not by independent societies.

Its purpose is to insist in deepening the spiritual life and missionary purpose of the young people, to develop public literature. The movement has already issued a first-class monthly, which have had a circulation of 192,700 copies, and has distributed 1,000,000 pamphlets of general information.

The first summer conference convenes in summer and institutes in winter for training leaders, as may be possible and advisable.

The present summer four conferences are being held. The first will be held in Canada met in Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, July 9th to 20th inclusive. Rev. T. C. Hamilton, M.D., secretary of the Foreign Department of the Canadian Methodist church was the secretary of the conference, and was assisted in its organization by Rev. R. P. MacKay, D.D., Secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, Rev. G. Brown, B.A., D.D., secretary of the Baptist Missionary Society of Ontario, Toronto, was the presiding officer.

Each morning session was opened with family prayers by Rev. Dr. McTavish, of Toronto, and Rev. J. F. Stothers, D.D., secretary of the Women's College, of Baltimore. Mission study classes, on India, were taught each morning by Rev. L. E. Smith, D.D., of Toronto, on the Bible and Rev. W. E. Witter, D.D., of Boston. The Normal Class for training leaders was under the direction of Rev. Percy C. Ellwood, B.A., of New York, International Secretary of the Y. M. C. A.

The Institute, under the supervision of Mr. Harry Wade Hicks, PhB., of Chicago, assistant secretary of the American Board of Commissioners on Foreign Missions, and Miss Grace Sloan, who was assisted by Rev. Dr. Spencer, Rev. R. Douglas Fraser, Ph. D., of Toronto, and Mr. Chas. V. Vickrey, B.D., also of Toronto, secretary of the Y. P. M. M., discussed questions connected with missions with the Sunday School, Junior and young people's societies at evening meetings of study, giving and prayer.

Platform meetings held morning and evening were addressed by Rev. Dr. Sutherland, of Toronto; Rev. Dr. Robinson and Rev. Arthur Lea, M.A., of Montreal; Rev. John Griffith, B.A., of Chicago; Rev. Alexander Nugent, of Cincinnati; Rev. Norman B. Hall, D.D., general superintendent of Canadian church in Canada, Rev. Alexander Sutherland, D.D., secretary of the board of missions for Canadian Methodist church, and Rev. Spencer Dobson, Troop, M.A., of St. Martin's church, Toronto.

A fine exhibit of missionary charts and literature was opened each day in charge of Rev. Charles Joliffe, a student volunteer, and was of great assistance in every department of the conference.

The bible study classes met at 9 a.m. and were in charge of Rev. Dr. Osborne Troop, M.A.

The afternoons were spent in personal interviews and various forms of recreation.

Denominational rallies were held from time to time. In these the latest plans for missionary work were discussed, resolutions passed and by the respective denominational secretaries, than reengaging in co-operation between the young people and their own mission boards.

The volunteer meeting was addressed by several who plan to go to the foreign field. A stereopticon exhibition of the development and growth of the Y. P. S. M. M. was given by Rev. Dr. Sutherland.

The Sunday morning prayer meeting was in charge of Rev. Dr. McKay. Rev. Dr. Goucher preached at 11 a.m. The closing service of the conference was held in the form of a testimony meeting, conducted by Rev. Dr. McKay.

Gunn—I can't understand why Dobbert wants a divorce. His wife had nearly that condition when he married her.

Brown—Yes, and she has every dollar of it yet. That's the trouble.

The other day a benevolent old gentleman was stopped by a tramp who asked for money to pay his lodging.

"Well, look here, my man," the old gentleman said, "what would you say if I offered you work?" "Why, my life, sir," came the reply, I wouldn't mind a bit; I can take a hint same as most people."

chapter that we propose to write here and only a brief outline can be given. It is hard to realize the feeling of the American colonists when the revolutionary fire broke out and the call to arms came in 1776. In one district there was stern, imperious resistance; in another resolute determination to submit to British rule, and a sacrifice; in many of the inland districts there was a neutrality or indifference. Gradually, however, the spirit of loyalty to the crown and to the people were forced to make a choice. As the struggle progressed down into a keen and determined contest those began an enrolment of loyalists, family by family, there met together conspicuous for their loyalty and who had only a few days before commissioned to organize companies. Usually these companies would gather more in the districts in which they were known, and would march in well organized bands or companies of loyalists, every man equipped at his own expense. Many of these companies from some one section who were bound together by the strongest ties of friendship, and, to a certain extent, by family relations. Many of them could find a company made up mainly of Highland Presbyterians, another of Scottish Roman Catholics, another of German Lutherans, and so on. Every one who was true to the flag and to the cause of loyalty and to the crown was commissioned to organize companies. BIG FIRE AT MOSCOW.

The large cheese factory owned by VanLuven Bros., of Moscow, was unfortunately gutted by lightning and destroyed by fire early last Saturday morning. A fierce thunder storm was raging, and when the fire was discovered the whole building was enveloped in flames. Different parties came up watching the storm and claim that a few moments before the alarm, no signs of fire were visible. As the storm approached the wind raised, and how clouds of burning cinders over the village, and had the rain not come just when it did, no doubt the whole village, and possibly the famous "Huffman Street" would have been destroyed. As it was the cinders lodged in various places, but were removed and promptly extinguished. Three other buildings were set on fire from the burning cinders, and one building caught the third time, but fortunately ladders and water were close at hand, and by aid of the rain, which fell in torrents for a while, a further disaster was averted.

The building destroyed means a great loss not only to the owners, but to the patrons as well, who realize now more than ever before the necessity and convenience of having a good cheese factory so convenient. The building had been re-modelled only a few years ago, and was in a good shape for cheese-making. It was insured for $800, its contents for $850. There were 95 cheese, worth about $950, standing in a car at the station there, which had been taken from the factory the day previous for shipment, and the balance of cheese in the factory was fully covered by insurance.

The house of Mr. Mark Burgess, two miles south of the village, was struck by lightning in the same storm, but little damage was done. Reports from a mile or two south and east of here state that scarcely enough rain fell to lay the dust.

LACEY—CUNNINGHAM.

A very pretty wedding took place at Ernestville, Ont., July 19th, when Mr. J. W. Cunningham and Miss Mary A. Lacey, both of Tamworth, were united in holy bonds of matrimony. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Parker Carey. The bride looked very pretty, dressed in a handsome gown of white chiffon with hat to match. The bridesmaid, Miss Lilly Farrell, was similarly attired. Mr. Hinch, cousin of the groom, acted as best man. The happy couple went to the home of the bride's mother, where only the immediate relatives were entertained. The presents were costly and numerous, including a check from her brother. Their many friends wish them a long and prosperous life.

EARLY COUNTY HISTORY.

We are indebted to the Canadian Graphic, published in Toronto, for the interesting article and picture on our first page, of the first flouring mill on the Napanee River. The article is the first of a series by Mr. Chas. C. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, a Napanee old boy, and son of the late Charles James, a prominent citizen and former Mayor of our town. The Graphic, although not an old publication, has already made a name for itself in Canadian journalism, and is regarding a Canadian national spirit, which is to be commended. Its illustrations are carefully prepared and printed, and its letter press is distinctly Canadian. Our former townsman, Mr. G. M. Elliott is its manager. It is but a dollar a year, and should be in every household.

Two hundred thousand people visit the Thousand Islands every year. Are you one of them? If not why not take in the Newburgh Epworth League excursion to 1000 Islands on Thursday, by Bay of Quinte Ry. and Str. Cayuga.

CANOE RACES.

A large crowd assembled at the swing bridge last Friday evening, to witness the first of the series of canoe races. The contest was keen, and great interest was taken in their various favorites by their admirers and friends. There were three entries for each double, the course being from Bartlett's to Light's wharf and return. The canoes finished in the following order:

1st—W. Joyce and Mark Graham.
2d—Harry Scott and Roy Moore.
3d—F. H. Carman and E. E. Bedard.
4th—Clarence Madill and Harry Delmage.

Early in the race Messrs. Madill and Delmage's craft upset, but they promptly righted it, and made a good finish.

In the scaging there were three entries, the course being from Light's wharf to the bridge. The contestants reached the goal in the following order:

1st, W. Joyce; 2d, Clarence Madill; 3d, F. H. Carman.

The second race of the series will be held this Friday evening, at 7.30.

FAMOUS PEOPLE
BY FANNIE M. LOTHROP

Copyright, 1906, Fannie Lothrop

DR. WILLIAM HENRY DRUMMOND
The Famous Poet of French-Canadian Life.

It was eight years ago that Dr. Drummond's delightful book of verse "The Habitant and Other French-Canadian Poems" made its début. Their quaintness, pathos, humor and realism, blended with the rare, sympathetic touch that makes smiles chase away tears and tears follow smiles, won instant response in the hearts of Canadians and of all lovers of good literature throughout the world. The simple-hearted, pure-hearted French-Canadian characters told their stories in a new dialect—handled with such loving, sympathetic interpretation that no slightest cloud of exaggeration or burlesque marred the spell of the charm.

They were originally scribbled on a block of ice held on the author's knee, often by a camp-fire; later, begged, borrowed or purloined by friends, many of them rhymed in print and became popular without the author's name and with no trace of their parentage. It was the poet's wife who carefully collected all these earlier poems and made copies of the later ones, and so made possible one of the best books of poetry in recent years.

Dr. Drummond was born in County Leitrim, Ireland, in 1854, and when a boy of nine was brought with his three brothers to Canada by his father who settled in Montreal. He loved out-door life, camping, fishing boating—anything with open air and companionship. He was happy at Bord à Plouffe, meeting the river drivers and shanty men on their way down to Quebec, absorbing their stories and quaint talk with all the intensity of an impressionable boy, unconsciously storing them away in silent preparation until the day when he was to add a new chapter to the literature of Canada and a new name to her roll of real poets.

While in the High School at Montreal and later in Bishop's College at Lennoxville in his medical course from which he graduated in 1884, he wrote some verse; but it was his splendid physique and great strength that distinguished him—his wonderful records in hammer-throwing and shot-putting winning more attention than his throwing of words or putting of phrases.

When he came to Montreal to practice, he became identified with the fishing clubs, and on the rivers and in tramping through the woods came again into close companionship with the guides, the half-breeds and the habitants whose confidence he won and whose unreserve was given to him as naturally as echo responds to sound. In recognition of his splendid contributions to literature, Dr. Drummond was elected a Fellow of the Royal Society of Literature, England, and of the Royal Society of Canada, a D.C.L. of Bishop's College, and honored with an LL.D. from Toronto University. His latest book is "The Voyageur."

Entered according to Act of the Parliament of Canada, in the year 1905, by W. C. Mack, at the Department of Agriculture

LETTER FROM A. P. BELL.

Mr. Editor,—I am now in Owosso, Mich., which reminds me I must write my many friends concerning this city. It is a beautiful city, of about 15,000 population, and has a great many factories and mills and car shops. The sugar works employ five hundred men at the present time, besides the other small town called Corunna, by which it is surrounded, and has a 1,600 of a population, and is a very pretty place. It is three miles distant from Owosso. The Government Building is a handsome, substantial, up-to-date structure, and is very much admired by strangers visiting here. The court house is also a handsome building. It is nicely situated on the shore of Lake Cooper, which is a beautiful sheet of water, and is very much used for bathing, boating and fishing purposes. The Government Building is also by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness, caused by catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

THINKS YORK LOAN MAY PAY IN FULL.

Toronto, July 20th.—I wouldn't be surprised if the York Loan paid 100 cents on the dollar and costs on the dollar.

This was the statement made this morning by a lawyer who is well acquainted with the work of the liquidators, and the situation of the estate generally.

Up to date the holders of 11,000 shares have been heard from. The Central Trusts Refusal, which was supposed to hand one of the largest blocks of shareholders in the world, has one-third more than all these. The work of assorting the York Loan pass-books, and proving the claims is enormous, and will not be finished after Christmas.

The liquidators state that the new railway line up Rosedale Valley must all have the street level materially changed in front of the property. Already there have been many applications to purchase flats. The houses are nearly all sold.

For man or beast Nerviline is a panacea for all pain and costs only 25c per bottle. Buy Nerviline to-day from your druggist.

TWO HUNDRED REVOLVERS.

A strange tale has just come to light, of how two hundred citizens of Ottawa attended a hanging armed with loaded revolvers. It was at a time when Fenianism was rampant in Ireland and the United States, and when there were Fenian circles in Montreal, Ottawa and other Canadian cities. In 1869, Thomas D'Arcy McGee contested Montreal as a candidate for its representation in the House of Commons. He was bitterly opposed by the Fenian element among his own countrymen. Apparently his life had been decided upon, and a few months afterward he was murdered. The assassin was convicted, sentenced and executed in Ottawa. A Fenian rescue was expected, and two hundred loyal citizens assembled in the corridor leading to the hanging to see that justice was not interfered with. The details of the story are entertainingly told in the Canadian Magazine by T. P. Gill, R. McCready, the veteran journalist, who was in Ottawa at the time.

MRS. GEORGE CLAPPER.

Retha N. Campbell was born in the Township of Sidney, Hastings County, in the year 1830, and died at Morven, July 25th, 1906, aged 76 years. In 1878 she was united in marriage to George Clapper, of Morven, by whom she endeared herself to a large circle of friends. Those who knew her best were her best friends. She was a true Christian woman. Her pure life is her faithful use of the means of grace both public and private, her cheerful disposition, her meek and lowly spirit, and her cheerfulness and willingness to help in every good work and work developed in her a beautiful character. She was a member of the Methodist church, and an officer in the W. M. S. at Morven. She will be greatly missed by the community, but more by her mother and sisters, but she will be chiefly missed by her husband. Death has put with a loss and Heaven has no doubt received to its bosom a gem. We sympathize with the sorrowing friends our heartfelt sympathy and prayers. Her body has laid to rest in the Morven cemetery to await the resurrection at the last.

THE THIN MAN'S DANGER.

He can't resist disease germs,—that is why he's such a mark for consumption. His skin is pallid, blood thin, nerves a wickedness, especially when it's so easily overcome with Ferrozone. The remarkable tissue builder makes you fat quickly; it does so by forming blood that's rich, nourishing and health-giving. Ferrozone supplies the nutriment needed by worn-out nerves, rapidly constructs muscle and solid flesh. Thin folks fill out, the cheeks redden, proving that weight is well and strength is there. Feel well, use Ferrozone. Fifty chocolate tablets in a box for fifty cents or six for $2.50, at all dealers.

The BRETHREN

Rider Haggard, Author of "King Solomon's Mines," "She," "Allan Quartermain," "The World's Desire," etc.

1903-1904, by H. Rider Haggard.

The afternoon drew towards evening, and Godwin stood before Saladin in his private chamber.

"You sent for me, said the Sultan sternly.

"A boon," answered Godwin. "My brother is doomed to die before nightfall. I ask to die instead of him."

"Why, Sir Godwin?"

"For two reasons, sire. As you learned to-day, at length the riddle is answered. It is Wulf who is beloved of the lady Rosamund, and therefore to kill him would be a crime. Further, it is I and not he whom the emissary heard bargaining with the captain Abdullah in the tent—I swear it. Take your vengeance upon me, and let him go to fulfil his fate."

Saladin pulled at his beard, then answered:

"If this is to be so, time is short, Sir Godwin. What farewells have you to make? You say that you would speak with my niece Rosamund? Nay, the princess you think will not see you, indeed cannot, for she lies swooning in her chamber. Do you desire to meet your brother for the last time?"

"No, sire, for then he might learn the truth and—"

"Refuse this sacrifice, Sir Godwin, which perchance will be scarcely to his liking."

"I wish to say good-bye to Masouda she who is waiting-woman to the princess."

"That you cannot do, for, know, I mistrust this Masouda, and believe that she was at the bottom of your plot. I have dismissed her from the person of the princess and from my camp, which she is to leave at the head of that already left—with some Arabs who are her kin. Had it not been for her services in the land of the Assassins and afterwards, I should have put her to death."

"Then," said Godwin with a sigh, "I desire only to see Egbert the bishop, that he may shrive me according to our faith and make note of my last wishes."

"Good; he shall be sent to you. I accept your statement that you are the guilty man and not Sir Wulf, and take your life for his. Leave me now, who have greater matters on my mind. The guard will seek you at the appointed time."

Godwin bowed and walked away with a steady step, while Saladin, looking after him, muttered:

"The world could ill spare so brave and good a man."

Two hours later guards summoned Godwin from the place where he was prisoned, and, accompanied by the aged Bishop who had shriven him, he passed its door with a happy countenance, such as a bridegroom might have worn. In a fashion, indeed, he was happy, whose troubles were done with, who had few more days to mourn, whose faith was the faith of a child, and who laid down his life for his friend and brother. Thus he left the tent of the great house where Saladin was lodged—a large, rough place, lit with torches, in which waited the headsman and his assistants. Presently Saladin entered, and, looking at him curiously, said:

"Are you still of the same mind, Sir Godwin?"

"I am."

"Good. Yet I have changed mine. You shall see farewells to-day, and hear as you desired. Let the princess of Baalbec be brought hither, sick or well, that she may see her work. Let her come alone."

"Sire, pleaded Godwin, "spare her such a sight."

But he pleaded in vain, for Saladin answered coldly, "I have said."

A while passed, and Godwin, hearing the sweep of robes, looked up, and saw the tall shape of a veiled woman standing in the corner of the vault where the shadow was so deep that the torchlight only glimmered faintly upon her royal ornaments.

They told me that you were sick, princess, and with sorrow, for that sickness may be, because the man you love was about to die for you," said Saladin in a low voice. "Now he is dead, and I, in your grief, and his life has been bought with another life, that of the knight "who stands yonder."

The veiled form started wildly, then sank back against the wall.

"Rosamund," broke in Godwin, speaking in French, "I beseech you, be silent and do not unman me with words of pity. I am at peace, and know that it is best. Wulf you love as he loves you, and I believe that in time you will be happy together. But you do not love, save as a friend, and never have, Moreover, I tell you this that it may ease your path and my conscience; I no longer seek you as my wife, whose bride is death. I pray you, give to Wulf my love and blessing, and to Masouda, that truest and most sweet woman, say, or write, that I offer her the homage of my heart; that I thought of her in my last moments, and that my prayer is we may meet again where all crooked paths are straightened. Rosamund farewell; peace and joy go with you through many years, ay, and with your children's children. Of Godwin I only ask you to remember him, that he lived serving you, and so died."

She heard and stretched out her hand, and none forbidding that Godwin walked to where she stood. Without lifting her veil she bent forward and kissed him, first upon the brow and next upon the lips; then with a low, moaning cry, she turned and fled from that gloomy place, nor did Saladin seek to stay her. Only to himself the Sultan wondered how it came about that it was Wulf whom Rosamund loved, she still kissed Godwin thus upon the lips.

As he walked back to the death-place Godwin wondered also, first that Rosamund should have spoken no single word, and secondly because she had kissed him thus, even in that hour. Why or wherefore he did not know, but there rose in his mind a memory of that wild ride down the mountain steeps at Beirut, and of lips which then had touched his cheek, and of the odor of hair that then was blown about his breast. With a sigh he thrust the thought aside, blushing to think that such memories should come to him who had done with earth and its delights, knelt down before the headsman, and, turning to the bishop, said:

"Bless me, father, and bid them strike."

Then it was that he heard a well-known footstep, and looked up to see Wulf staring at him.

"What do you here, Godwin?" asked Wulf. "Has yonder fox ensared both of us?" and he nodded at Saladin.

"Let the fox speak," said the Sultan with a smile. "Know, Sir Wulf, that your brother was about to die in your place, and of his own wish. But I refuse such sacrifice who yet have made use of it to teach my niece, the princess, that should she continue in her endeavors to escape, or allow you to continue in them, certainly it will bring you to your deaths, and, if not be, her also. Knights, you are brave men whom I prefer to kill in war. God forbid that we should without take them as my gift, and ride with these foolish citizens of Jerusalem. We may meet again when I have time. Nay, I think we not. I thank you who have taught Saladin-ed-din how perfect a thing can be the love of friends."

The brethren stood awhile bewildered, for it is a strange thing thus to come from death to life. Each of them had made sure that he must die within some few minutes, and pass through the blackness which waits man in the end he knew not what. And now, behold! the road that led to that black mist was turned again at its very edge, and ran forward through the familiar things of earth to some end unknown. They were brave, both of them, and accustomed to face death daily, as in battle, so in place and time of peace; be; mor-, they had been shriven, and looked to see the gates of Paradise open on their newborn souls.

Yet, since no man loves that journey, it was very sweet to know it done with for a while, and that they still might hope to dwell in this world for many years. Little wonder, then, that their brains were swam, and the earth grew dim, as they passed from the shadow to the light again. It was Wulf who broke the first.

"A noble deed, Godwin, yet one for which I should not have thanked you if you had been accomplished, who then must have lived on by grace of your sacrifice. Sullen, we are grateful for your noble offer, though you shed this innocent blood surely it would have haunted us to our graves. Stay we bid farewell to our cousin Rosamund before we ride?"

"Nay," answered Saladin; "Sir Godwin has done that already—let it serve for both. To-morrow she shall learn the truth of the story. Now go, and return in peace."

"That must be as fate wills," answered Godwin, and they bowed and went.

Outside that gloomy place of death their guards were given them, and two good horses, which they mounted. Hence guides led them to the embassy from which they came, and already in the saddle, who were very glad to welcome two such knights to their company. Three days hence did fall to the bishop Egbert, who wept for joy at their escape, escorted for a while by Saladin's soldiers, to ride away from Ascalon at the fall of night.

Of what befell them on the road all there was to tell. When he heard of the woe of Rosamund Wulf well-nigh shed tears.

"We have our lives," he said, "but how shall we save her? While Masouda remained with her there was some hope, but now I can see none."

There is none, except in God," answered Godwin, "Who can do all things—even free Rosamund and make her your-wife. Also, if Masouda is at liberty, we shall hear from her ere long so let us keep a good heart."

But though he spoke thus, the soul of Godwin was oppressed with a fear which he could not understand. It seemed as though some great terror came very close to him, or to one who was near and dear. Deeper and deeper he sank into that fear, and of what he knew not what, until at length he could have cried aloud, and his brow was bathed with the cold sweat. Godwin, Wulf saw his face in the moonlight, and asked:

"What ails you, Godwin? Have you some secret wound?"

"Yes, brother," he answered, "a wound in my spirit. Ill fortune threatens us—great ill fortune."

"Then is it time to fight," said Wulf, "in this land of blood and sorrows. Let us meet it as we have met the rest."

"Alas! brother," exclaimed Godwin, "I fear that Rosamund is in sore danger—Rosamund, whose brother—"

"Then," answered Wulf, turning pale, "since we cannot, let us pray Heaven soon send peace and her."

"Ay," said Godwin, and as they rode through the desert sands between the hosts of Islam and Christ together they prayed to the Blessed Mother, and to their saints, St. Peter and St. Chad—prayed with all their hearts, yet the very soul reeled beneath this spiritual pain, and the death which he had escaped seemed a thing desirable.

The dawn was breaking, and at its first sign the escort of Saladin's soldiers had turned and left them, saying that now they were safe in their own country. All night they had ridden fast and far. The plain was behind them, and their road ran among hills. Suddenly it turned, and in the flaming lights of the new-born day they beheld them a sight so beautiful that for a moment all that little company drew rein to gaze. For yonder before them, though far away as yet, threaded upon her hills, stood the holy city of Jerusalem. There were her walls and towers, and there, behind red, though with the blood of its worshippers, soared the great cross upon the mosque of Omar—that cross at which was so soon to fall.

Yes, yonder was the city for which throughout the ages men had died by tens and hundreds of thousands, and still must die until the end was done. Saladin had offered to spare her citizens if they consented to surrender, but they would not. This embassy had told him that they had sworn to perish with the holy Places, and now, looking at it in its splendour, they knew that the hour was near, and prayed aloud.

Godwin groaned also, but not for Jerusalem. Oh! now the last terror was upon him. Blackness surged round him, and in the blackness swords, and a sound as of a woman's voice murmuring his name. Clutching the pommel of his saddle, he swayed to and fro, till suddenly the anguish passed. A strange calm covered as low about him and lift his hair; a deep, unearthly peace sank into his spirit; the world seemed far away and heaven very near.

"It is over," he said to Wulf. "I fear that Rosamund is dead."

"If so, we must make haste to follow her," answered Wulf with a sob.

CHAPTER XXI.

At the village of Bittir, some seven miles from Jerusalem, the embassy dismounted to rest, then again they pressed forward down the valley in the hope of reaching the Zion Gate before the mid-day heat was upon them. At the end of this valley stood the shoulder of a hill whence the eye could command its length, and on the crest of that shoulder appeared suddenly a man and a woman, seated on beautiful horses. The woman's hair, and, fearing lest these might herald some attack and that the woman was the Princess Rosamund, they halted. While they waited thus firesolute, the pair upon the hill turned their horses' heads, and, notwithstanding the steepness, began to gallop towards them very swiftly. Wulf looked at them keenly and said to Godwin:

"Now I am put in mind of a certain ride which once we took outside the walls of Beirut. Almost could I think that yonder Arab was he who sat behind my saddle, and yonder woman she who rode with you, and that those two horses were Flame and Smoke reborn.

Note their whirlwind pace, and strength, and action."

Almost as he finished speaking the strangers pulled up their steeds in front of the embassy, and the woman bowed his salutations. Then Godwin saw his face, and knew him at once as the Arab called by him Ibn Sand, who had given them the horses Flame and Smoke.

"Sir," said the Arab to the leader of the embassy, "I have come to ask a favor of yonder knights who travel with you, which I think that they, who have ridden my horses, will not refuse me. The woman," and he pointed to the closely-veiled shape of his companion, "is a relative of mine whom I desire to deliver to friends in Jerusalem, but dare not do so myself because the hill-dwellers between here and there are hostile to my tribe. She is of the Christian faith and no spy, but cannot speak your language. Within the south gate she will be met by her relatives. I have spoken."

"Let the knights settle it," said the commander, shrugging his shoulders impatiently and spurring his horse.

"Godwin, they are with her," said Godwin, "though what we shall do with her if her friends are wanting I do not know. Let us ride to them and ask us."

She turned her head to the Arab as though in question, and he repeated the words, whereon she fell into the place that was shown to her between and a little behind the brethren.

By Saladin's order the Arab to Godwin, "by now you have learned more of our tongue than you knew when we met in the pass days at Beirut, and rode the mountain side on the good horses Flame and Smoke. Still, if so, I pray you of your knightly courtesy disturb not this woman with your words, nor ask her name, for therein since such is not the custom of her people. It is but an hour's journey to the city gate during which you will be troubled with her. This is the payment that I ask of you for the two good horses which, as I am told, bore you none so ill upon the Narrow Way and across plain and mountain when you fled from Sinan, also on the evil day of Hattin when you unhorsed Salah-ed-din and slew Hassan."

"It shall be as you wish," said Godwin; "and, Son of the Sand, we thank you for those horses."

"Good. When you want more, let it be known in the market places that you seek me," and he began to turn his horse's head.

"Stay," said Godwin. "What do you know of Masouda, your niece? Is she with you?"

"Nay," answered the Arab in a low voice, "but she bade me be in a certain garden of which you have heard, near Ascalon, at an appointed hour, to take her away, as she is leaving the camp of Salah-ed-din. So thither I go. Farewell." Then with a reverence to the veiled lady, he shook his reins and departed like an arrow by the road along which they came.

Godwin gave a sigh of relief. If Masouda had appointed to meet her uncle the Arab, at least she would be safe. So it was no voice of hers which seemed to whisper his name in the darkness of the night when terror had a hold of him—terror, born perhaps of that which he had endured and the shadow of death through which he had so lately passed. Then he looked up, to find Wulf staring back at the woman behind him, and reproved him, saying that he must keep to the spirit of the bargain as well as to the letter, and that if he might not speak he must not look either.

"That is a pity," answered Wulf, "for though she is so tied up, she must be a tall and noble lady by the way she sits her horse. The horse, too, is noble, own cousin or brother to Smoke, I think. Perhaps she will sell it when we get to Jerusalem."

Then they rode on, and because they thought their honor in it, neither spoke nor looked more at the companion of this adventure, though, had they known it, she looked hard enough at them.

At length they reached the gate of Jerusalem, which was crowded with folk awaiting the return of their ambassadors. They all passed through and the embassy was escorted thence by the chief people, most of the multitude following them to know if they brought peace or war.

Now Godwin and Wulf stared at each other, wondering whither they were to go and where to find the relatives of their veiled companion. Of them all they saw nothing. Out of the street opened an archway, and beyond this archway was a garden, which seemed to be deserted. They rode into it to take counsel, and their companion followed, but, as always, a little behind them.

Jerusalem is reached, and we must speak to her now," said Wulf, "or else to ask her whither she wishes to be taken."

Godwin nodded, and they wheeled their horses round.

"Lady," he said in Arabic, "we have fulfilled our charge. Be pleased to tell us where are those kindred to whom we must lead you."

"Here," answered a soft voice.

They stared about the deserted garden in which stones and sacks of flour had been stored ready for a siege, and finding no one, said:

"We do not see them."

Then the lady let slip her cloak, though not her veil revealing the robe beneath.

"By St. Peter!" said Godwin. "I know the broidery on that dress. Masouda! Say, is it you, Masouda?"

As he spoke the veil fell also, and lo! before them was Rosamund, not Masouda and yet not Masouda. The hair was dressed like hers; the ornaments and the necklace were the very claws of the lion which Godwin killed were hers; the skin was of the same warm hue, there even was the little mole upon her cheek, but as the head was bent they could not see her eyes. Moreover, such a little moan she lifted it, and looked at them.

"Rosamund! It is Rosamund herself!" gasped Wulf. "Rosamund disguised as Masouda!" And he fell rather than leapt from his saddle and ran to her, murmuring. "God! I thank Thee!"

Now she seemed to faint and slid from her horse into his arms, and lay there a moment, while Godwin turned said his head.

"Yes," said Rosamund, freeing herself, "it is I and no other, yet I rode with you all this way and neither of you knew me.

"Have we eyes that can pierce veils and woollen garments?" asked Wulf indignantly, but Godwin said in a strange, strained voice:

"You are Rosamund disguised as Masouda. Who, then, was the Arab to whom I bade farewell before Saladin while the headsman awaited me; who was he who wore the robes and gems of Rosamund?"

"I now not, Godwin," she answered, "unless it were Masouda clad in my garments as I left her. Nor do I know any further of this story of the headsman who awaited you. I thought—I thought it was for Wulf that he waited—oh! Heaven, I thought that!"

"Tell us your tale," said Godwin hoarsely.

"It is short," she answered. "After the casting of the lot, of which I shall dream till my death-day, I fainted. When I found my senses again I thought that I must be mad, for there before me stood a woman dressed in my garments, whose face seemed like my face, yet not the same.

"Then she spoke to me, and I knew that she was Masouda, who, amongst many other things, have learned how to play a part. Listen: there is no time to lose. I have been ordered to leave the camp; even now my uncle the Arab waits without, with two swift horses. Yes, Princess, will leave in my place. Look, you wear my robes and my face—almost; and say of my height, and the man who guides you will know no difference. I have seen to that, for although a soldier of Salah-ed-din, he is of my tribe. I will go with you to the door, and there bid you farewell before the eunuchs and the guards with weeping, and who will guess that Masouda is the princess of Baalbec and that the princess of Baalbec is Masouda?"

"And whither shall I go?" I asked.

"My uncle, Son of Sand, will give you over to the embassy which rides to Jerusalem, or failing that, will take you to the city, or failing that, will hide you in the mountains among his own people. See, here lies the letter that he must read: I place it in your breast."

"And what of you, Masouda?" I asked again.

"Of me? Oh! It is all planned, a plan that cannot fail," she answered. "Fear not; I escape to-night—I have no time to tell you how—and will join you in a day or two. Also, I think that you will find Sir Godwin who will bring you home to England."

"By Wulf? What of Wulf?" I asked again. 'He is doomed to die, and I will not leave him."

"The living and the dead can keep no company, she answered. 'Moreover, I have seen him, and all this is done by his most urgent order. If you hold him, he bids that you will obey."

"I never saw Masouda! I never spoke such words! I know nothing of this plot!" exclaimed Wulf, and the brethren looked at each other with white faces.

"Speak on," said Godwin; "afterwards we can debate."

"Moreover," continued Rosamund, bowing her head, "Masouda added these words, 'I think that Sir Wulf will escape his doom. If you would see him again, obey his word, for without obeying there is no other hope to look upon him living. Go, now, before we are both discovered, for I would speak more death of mine, who, if you go, am safe.'"

"How knew she that I should escape?" asked Wulf.

"She did not know it. She only said she knew it. Rosamund repeated, she answered Godwin in the same strained voice. "And then—"

"And then having Wulf's express commands, then I went, like one in a dream. I remember little of it. At the door we kissed one another weeping, and while the guard bowed before her, she blessed me on the forehead, not, for at that hour, although perhaps you did not see it in your prisons, a drizzle of rain began across the sun, of which all folk were afraid, thinking that it portended evil, either to Saladin or Ascalon.

"In the gloom we came to a place, where was an old Arab among some trees, and with him two led horses. The soldier spoke to the Arab, and I gave him Masouda's letter, which he read. Then he put me on one of the led horses and the soldier mounted the other, and we departed at a gallop. All that evening and last night we rode hard, but in the darkness the soldier left us, and I do not know whither he went. At length we came to that mountain shoulder and waited there, nearly all day, for the coming of that which the Arab had with him, till we saw the embassy, and among them the tall knights.

"See," said the Arab, 'yonder come the brethren whom you seek. See and give them the letter of Masouda, who has not lied to you, and to whom I must now return.'

"Oh! my heart wept as though it would burst, and I wept in my joy—wept and blessed God and Masouda. Then the Arab, Son of the Sand, told me that for my life's sake I must be veiled together again, and veiled and disguised even from you until we reached Jerusalem, lest perhaps if they knew me to be one they might refuse escort to the princess of Baalbec and niece of Saladin, or even give me up to him.

"Then I promised and asked, 'What of Masouda?' He said that he rode back at speed to save her also, as had been arranged, and that was why he did not take me to Jerusalem himself. But how she was to come he was not sure as yet; only he was sure that she was hidden away safely, and planned a way of escape which she wished it. And—and—you know the rest, and here, by the grace of God, we three are together again."

"Ay," said Godwin, "but where is Masouda, and what will happen to her if she is found? Was there much a plot as this? Oh! know you what this woman did? I was condemned to die in place of Wulf—now, does not matter; you will learn it afterwards—and the princess of Baalbec was ordered so that she was deceived, and I, even I, was deceived. Yes, when for the first time I saw you veiled I knew it not. I was deceived, for I thought I feared for you.

"Now, mark you, Wulf; take Rosamund and lodge her with some lady in her city, or better still, place her in sanctuary with the nuns of the Holy Cross, whence none will dare to drag her, and let her don their habit. The abbess may remember you, for we have met her, and at least she will not refuse Rosamund a refuge."

"Yes, yes; I mind me she asked us news of folk in England. But you? Where do you go, Godwin?" said his brother.

"I ride back to Ascalon to find Masouda."

"Why?" asked Wulf. "Cannot Masouda save herself, as she told her uncle, the Arab, she would do? And has he not returned thither to take her with him?"

"I do not know," answered Godwin; "but this I do know, that the safety of Rosamund, and perhaps for my sake also, Masouda has run a fearful risk. Brother, you what will be the mood of Saladin when at length he finds that she upon whom he had built such hopes has gone, leaving a waiting woman decked out in her attire."

"Oh!" broke in Rosamund. "I feared it, but I awoke to find myself disguised, and she persuaded me that all was well; also that this was done by the will of Wulf, whom she thought would escape.

"That is the worst of it," said Godwin. "To carry out her plan she held it necessary to lie, as I think she lied when she said that she believed we should both escape, though it is true that so it came about. I will tell you why she lied. I see that she might give her life to set you free to join me in Jerusalem."

Now Rosamund, who knew the secret of Masouda's heart, looked at him strangely, wondering within herself how it came about that, thinking Wulf dead or about to die, she should sacrifice herself that she, Rosamund, might be sent to the care of Godwin. Surely it could not be for love of her, although they loved each other well. From love of Godwin then? How strange a way to show it!

Yet now she began to understand. So wise and high was this great love of Masouda's that for Godwin's sake she was ready to hide herself in death, leaving him—now that, as she thought, his rival was removed—to live on with the lady whom he loved; ay, and at the price of her own life giving that lady to his arms. Oh! how noble must she be who could thus plan and act, and, whatever her past had been, how pure and high of soul! Perhaps, if she lived, earth had no grander woman; and if she were dead, heaven had won a saint indeed.

Rosamund looked at Godwin, and Godwin looked at Rosamund, and there was understanding in their eyes, for never both of them saw the truth in all its glory and all its horror.

"Wulf," she said, "I should go back also," said Rosamund.

"That shall not be," answered Wulf. "Saladin would kill you for the flight, as he has sworn."

"That cannot be," added Godwin. "Think the sacrifice of blood be offered in vain? Moreover it is our duty to prevent you."

Rosamund looked at him again and stammered:

"—that dreadful thing has happened, Godwin—if the sacrifice—oh! what will it serve?"

"Rosamund, know not what has chanced; I go to see, I care not what may chance; I go to meet it. Through all threats, death, and the worst need, through all the fires of hell, I

SLEEP IN THE FRESH AIR.

Almost ninety-nine people out of every hundred, in town and country, think there is something unhealthful, uncanny and surely hurtful about night air. This fear is the indirect cause of a large proportion of sickness and death. The little fresh air and too much food and drink, are the causes of most of the common ills that flesh is heir to.

In cold weather, most people in the temperate zone, sleep with their windows shut or open hardly a crack. The house or room is heated by stove, furnace or other non-ventilating system, compelling one to breathe bad air over and over again. Then they go to bed, turn off the heat and open the windows and sleep in plenty of fresh air, and they shudder and say, "I'll catch my death of cold." If that were true, how is it that a feeble, emaciated and run down consumptive, with one foot in the grave, can practically sleep outdoors in zero weather, and with beneficial effects?

While the fresh air treatment of consumption has been recognized as meritorious for several years, it is only within two or three years that the public has realized that it is by no means always necessary for one threatened with consumption to go to the Adirondacks of Colorado, or some other resort to effectively help and cure him, but that they can get fresh air by living outdoors in their own backyard, on even by sleeping with their heads only in the fresh air. But it does not seem to have entered the mind of our otherwise intelligent people that if fresh air is such an excellent cure for the sick and feeble, how much more essential and beneficial must it be in maintaining a degree of health and strength that is the best possible insurance against any form of disease. I cannot speak too highly of fresh air myself. Of course people who are not accustomed to fresh air should not make the change too suddenly, but should gradually accustom themselves to more and more air until they at last sleep in absolutely pure and fresh air.

THE ARGUMENT FOR HANGING.

Mr. Goldwin Smith, in the Toronto Weekly Sun, writes:

A measure has been introduced by the New York legislature for the abolition of capital punishment. It is a step in the direction of human life which shrinks from putting a murderer to death, while it sends hundreds of thousands of innocent men to die on the field of war. The great objection to capital punishment is that the doom is irrevocable, while courts are liable to mistakes. But the rarity of mistakes, juries always tending to the side of acquittal, is hardly a conclusive answer. There can be little doubt that the death penalty is the most deterrent, and no doubt that it is the most generally impressive. When a man has committed wilful murder, is it not better for him as well as for the community, that he should cease to be than that he should live on an object of universal horror and execration? Will he not himself think that it is, if he has any moral sensibility, left in him? If you do not put him to death, what will you do with him? Imprison him for life. It is a punishment far worse than death, and more terrible the longer he lives.

The Presbyterian Church at Brigden was struck by lightning just before the hour for service on Sunday, demolishing the steeple and wrecking the interior.

Napanee's Greatest Store

Closed all day Wednesday, August 8th, Napanee's Civic Holiday--also Friday afternoons, Aug. 3d, 10th and 17th.

August Clearing Sale of Summer Goods.

We've at least several thousand dollars worth of goods we mustn't carry into September. Good store-keeping tells us that. We'll be glad to sell them for less than cost. Half-price is the rule—but not half-price on everything; nor queer prices for the sake of being just half. No make-believe bargains—all real.

The statement as to value has to be just as honest as the statement of price. Suppose we had a piece of goods here marked $1 and we marked it up to $1.50, and then put 75c sale price on it. Who'd know? We and at least fifty of our employees. Could we ever after that censure one of them for lying?

And lots of our customers would know, because they are watching the values. Couldn't fool them and they'd say "it's a fake."

We've no idea that everything in the store is right, we've no monopoly of goodness, virtue and truth, but we are trying to make this a safe store for the public.

Real Bargains in Our Men's Store.

BOYS' WASH SUITS—Sixteen at half price. Ages 2 to 14 years. 75c ones 38c, 90c ones 45c, 1.50 ones 75c, 1.19 ones 60c, 1.69 ones 85c.

RED TICKET SALE of men's and boys' and children's clothing. Every Red Ticket denotes a reduction of from 20 to 50 per cent., and in some cases even more. There are so many prices that we haven't space to print a list, but your size is in the lot, and you can get a suit now for several dollars less than you would have had to pay a month ago.

MEN'S STRAW HATS, BOYS' STRAW HATS—Half-price for any one of them. 25c hats for 13c, 50c for 25c, 1.00 for 50c, and so on.

MEN'S SHIRTS—Regular 1.00, 1.25 and 1.50 goods now 75c. About 5 dozen on centre table.

BOYS' SHIRTS—with two separate collars, only about 2 dozen left. 75c for 38c or 2 for 75c.

MEN'S NEGLIGEE SHIRTS—about 2 dozen, sizes 15 and 15 1-2, 39c for 25c.

BOW TIES—Hook-Ons, made from silk remnants, 5c each.

APOSTOLIC AND EPISTOLARY.

A Philadelphian riding through the mountains of Pennsylvania stopped one evening to water his horse before a little cabin, outside of which sat a colored woman watching the antics of a couple of pickaninnies playing near by.

"Good evening, aunty," he called. "Che-ap lot of boys you've got here. Your children?"

"Laws a massy! Mah chillun! 'Deed dem's mah daughtah's chillun. Come hyah, you boys," she added, sharply, "an' speak to ol' gen'leman!"

As the boys obeyed the summons the Philadelphian inquired their names.

"Call to goodness, sah, dem chillun is right smaht named!" said the old woman. "Ye see, mah daughtah done got 'ligion long ago, an' named dese hyah boys right out de Bible, sah. Dis hyah one's named Apostle Paul, an' de uddah's called Epistle Peter."

THE BUTLER BROKE THE NEWS GENTLY.

On his return from an extended trip abroad an English squire was met at the steamship wharf by his old and trusted butler. Thinking it strange that the old man should have come to meet him the squire asked if there was bad news.

"Yes, sir," replied the butler, "very bad news. The old maggie is dead, sir."

"What did the bird die of?"

"Too much horsefleah, sir."

"Too much horseflesh, John? Where did it get it?

"Carriage horses, sir."

"What, are they dead, too?"

"Yes, sir. Died from over-exertion drawing water the night of the fire."

"What fire?"

"The mansion, sir."

"You don't mean to say the mansion is burned, John?"

"Yes, sir; it burned the night of the funeral, sir."

"Whose funeral?"

"Your poor mother's, sir."

"What, mother dead, too?"

"Yes, sir; she never held her head up after your poor father died."

"Great Heavens, John! dead as well? I never heard a word of any of these misfortunes. What was the cause of my father's death?"

"Well, sir, it was this way. He received a telegram telling him that the ship had gone down that had the whole of his fortune on board; the shock of it killed him."

"John, I am entirely ruined!"

"That you are, sir!"

THE LAST ENGLISH DUEL.

The last duel fought between Englishmen at least—was fought in a field in Malden lane in a wood, on the 21st of May in 1843. The district acquired considerable notoriety from the event. It was the duel fought between Colonels Fawcett and Lieutenant Munro. The former was killed. The duellists were not only brother officers; they were also brothers-in-law, having married sisters.

The coroner's jury on the inquest returned a verdict of wilful murder not only against the seconds also. The latter, however, were discharged. Munro evaded the hands of justice by sewing refuge abroad. Four years later he surrendered to take his trial at the Old Bailey. He was found guilty and sentenced to death. He was, however, strongly recommended to the mercy of the sentence was eventually commuted to twenty months' imprisonment.

The neighborhood in which this duel was fought is no longer sublurban. A wide thoroughfare, known as the Finchley road, now passes through it, a rifle ground beside the Brecknock Arms appropriately indicates the Men Driven Insane By Heat.

An epidemic of heat madness has broken out all over Spain.

The temperature is almost unendurable, and is causing innumerable cases of suicide. The thermometer stood at 104 in the shade in Madrid the other day.

Four persons who became violently insane were arrested in the streets of the capital. There have been a few cases similar cases each day during the last week.

The ambulance stations and hospitals are kept busy attending to sunstroke patients. In one institution alone over 100 persons who had succumbed to the heat were treated.

Famine is again threatened in the southern provinces owing to the parched state of the ground, which is rendering agricultural labor impossible. The peasants have not yet recovered from last year's terrible visitation.

The lives of thousands of them will be sacrificed if the hot weather continues, as the government will be unable to afford the necessary relief.

Snails as Food.

The Langet advocates the use of snails as food. The snail, it says, has been called "the poor man's oyster." It makes an excellent fish sauce and may be used for the same purpose as oyster sauce. Care must be exercised in the choice of the snails to be food purposes, as it is well known that snails feed on poisonous plants, and it is the custom in France to allow a few days to elapse after they have been taken from their feeding ground in order that any poisonous matter may be eliminated.

Bicycles For Fishermen.

THE CHURCH SLEEPERS

LESSON FROM THE INCIDENT OF THE YOUNG MAN EUTYCHUS.

FELL AND BROKE HIS NECK

Sermon to the Careless, the Indifferent, the Irreverent, Who In Church Keep One Eye on the Sermon and the Other on Business or Pleasure—Correct Application of the Text Made by the Preacher.

Entered according to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1906, by Frederick Dixey, Toronto, at the Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 23.—To the careless, the indifferent and the irreverent, who in church keep one eye on the sermon and the other on business or pleasure, this sermon has a direct application. The text selected is Acts xx. 9, "And there sat in a window a certain young man named Eutychus, being fallen into a deep sleep."

No class of men work harder for Christ than do the traveling evangelists. When such men as John Wesley and George Whitefield and D. L. Moody have a word for a palish, they realize how large that field is, and they do everything in their power to travel over it before they die. The true evangelist preaches on Sunday, and also preaches on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. He not only preaches at night, but in the afternoons and in the mornings. He preaches at all times and under all conditions. He seems to say to himself: "The harvest is plenteous, but the laborers are few. O God, give me strength to wield thy sickle with superhuman power and gather thy sheaves by the multitudes into the gospel granary."

John Wesley, the traveling evangelist always began his day's work at 4 o'clock in the morning. Many were the times he preached two sermons before breakfast. On an average he used to travel every year nearly 5,000 miles. He preached from two to four sermons every day of his life. Not only that, but he everywhere disseminated his printed appeals for Christ. Truly Fourneman was right when he eulogized John Wesley's herculean labors in these words: "Looking at his unyielding purpose and will, to do each time to write, and, looking at his books, the marvel is how he found time to preach." But preach he did. He labored on preaching under all conditions. He seemed to say, "My life is slipping away so fast that I must preach the gospel to as many people as possible before I die." He preached in the open on morning to the miners of Cornwall. He preached in the market places at noon. He preached in the fields in the afternoon. He preached in the churches at night. He preached at all times, and he was a powerful and able who would hear the message of the atoning love of Jesus Christ.

Now, if I had met the Apostle Paul I would say that the Apostle Paul was the John Wesley among the early disciples. In all probability he was not an impassioned speaker like Peter. Peter always seemed to me to be the George Whitefield of the apostolic band. I can imagine him preaching on the day of Pentecost as George Whitefield so often stood before his audiences, with flaming eyes and earnest gesture and resonant voice. Oh, what a power Peter must have been! But, though George Whitefield had his work to do, John Wesley had his work also, and a far greater work. John Wesley went from place to place, not only preaching, but also organizing churches and collecting money for his evangelistic work. Such was the work of Paul. He was the John Wesley of the apostolic band.

Now, to-day we find this ancient John Wesley in one of his great missionary tours. He wants to make the most of his trip, so he stops only a short time at Troas. I think I hear him say to his traveling companion, "Luke, do you think we can get through our work here in a week?" "I do not believe so," answers Dr. Luke. "A week is a very short time." "I know it," says Paul, "but if we wait for the sailing of another vessel there is no telling how long we may have to remain here. I would like to preach to these friends for months instead of a week. But we must hasten on. I want to present the gospel to as many different cities as I can before I die. I think if we get up early in the morning and preach before breakfast and Bible class on preaching during the day and preach late in the evening I can sow a good many seeds. Our time is very short. We must hasten on to Asos and Mitylene and thence go to Chios and Trogyllium and Miletus."

Thus we see Paul hard at work in Troas. Six days slipped by only too quickly. On the last day before he sails he has so much to say that he continues his discourse far into the midnight. While he is exhorting the Christians of Troas to be true to their faith a young man who is sitting at the window sill of the room dozes, loses his balance and falls out and breaks his neck. The young man sat in a window a certain young man named Eutychus, being fallen into a deep sleep, and as Paul was long preaching he sunk down with sleep and fell down from the third loft and was taken up dead." Now, I would like to consider with you the reason why this young man fell asleep during the preaching of Paul and why his somnolence should be a rebuke to all Christians sleeping in our church pews.

In the first place, I believe that this sleeping Eutychus is a type of that large class of young men who think it is smart to act disrespectfully and obnoxiously in the house of God. When those young men attend church we have always go under protest. While in the church pew by their actions they try to advertise the fact that they would want to be there. When the minister preaches a little longer than his might, these young men begin to fidget and twist and talk with their seat mates until they put themselves out of the running with the service, and the preaching to them becomes stupid because they do not listen to it intelligently. Just as Eutychus the Eutychus of Troas, who under the preaching of Paul allowed his eyelids to become heavy and his head to nod until he fell out of the window, upon the sill of which he was sitting, and struck the ground, and was taken up dead. You have seen this class of men. They are to be found in every Sunday school and every church service.

This class of irreverent young people was well illustrated for me some time ago. I was attending one of the saintating exercises of one of the greatest educational institutions of America, and I was in the gallery and could distinctly see all that took place. The huge building was literally thronged. The floor, first gallery and rostrum were packed. The second gallery was also filled by the immense audience. The great orator was delivering the address of the evening. That audience, almost to a person, hung upon the words upon the lips. But no sooner did this great orator commence to speak than three of the members of the quartette which sang that night began to whisper and to laugh. They thought they were behind a curtain and no one could see them. They talked, and they seemed to say by their actions: "Oh, must we be bored? Do we have to sit through all this? We are singers. We care nothing for the fact that we have a beautiful, silly famous, is delivering one of his greatest addresses to-night. When will he never ending flow of words cease?" That was a stupid address to those three singers, merely because in their obnoxious egotism they supposed they had outgrown it and could not be benefited by it.

I protest against the irreverence of these modern Eutychuses in the house of God. I protest against their wearing of hats and young women, for some young women are as bad as the irreverent young men, coming into the house of God and not giving the same respectful attention to God's ambassadors which they would give to an ordinary caller in their father's parlor. The house of God is not a playground. It is not a confectionery. It is not a place where young folks come to munch candy. It is not a place for young people to write letter and to write notes. It is a place to worship. And, if our young people do not come to church to worship, then they had better stay away. You must head the fact that the sleeping auditor of to-day is the lost youth.

But while Eutychus sits upon the window sill of the room in which Paul was preaching I see him also continually glancing across the street. I approach him to-day and say: "What is the matter, Eutychus? Why are you looking so much out of the window? I should think you would want to keep your eyes all the time riveted upon Paul. Why, he is the greatest preacher of all the ages." "I have heard that," answers Eutychus. "That is one of the reasons I am here. But I can't neglect my business even for a Paul. Then I am trying to kill two birds with one stone. I am sitting here upon the window ledge, so I can hear Paul with one ears, and at the same time with my eyes I can watch my store, just across the street. You see, there are many customers gather about my counter, why, I can just slip away and attend to them." Do you wonder that Eutychus kept one eye upon his counter at the same time he was listening to Paul, that the sermon was to him dull and stupid and as soon as the shadows of night fell that Eutychus' eyelids grew heavy and that he stupid out of the window and broke his neck?

"But," says some one to me, "I do not see where you get authority for the statement that Eutychus was a young business man. The Bible does not state this. And, furthermore, how do you know that his bazaar, or shop, was just across the street? Why you might have been just the place where he would have sat. And, furthermore, I do know that, just as Eutychus might have been watching his bazaar, there are hundreds and thousands of men who when they come to church bring along their businesses with them, and while the ministers are preaching they are planning how they will do at the store the next day, or how they will purchase their goods, or how they can undersell their rivals. Furthermore, I do know that, whenever a merchant or a business man goes to church his business into the church pew, that moment even the most brilliant and consecrated of preachers. Their ears as dead as did the words of Paul when he was pleading with Eutychus of Troas and fell out of the window and broke his neck on the last night before Paul sailed away on his famous missionary journey.

O ye merchants and manufacturers and professional men, is there no lesson for you in this story of Eutychus? You have often said, "If these ministers were only brilliant speakers and would preach Scientific Christianity, I would come to church and stay awake and listen to their discourses." Is that true? Was not Eutychus listening to one brilliant discourse? Was he not listening to the most brilliant pulpit orator the world has ever seen? Ah, no, Eutychus did not fall asleep because he was listening to a stupid preacher. I believe he fell asleep for the same reason that so many business men become drowsy when they try to attend church service in between the ledges of their temporal business. While the sermon is going on some of them upon the fly leaf of a hymn book or upon the corners of their envelopes to estimate how much profit they can make upon some real estate deal or how much they can cut down their employes' wages without having them quit for good or go out on a prolonged strike.

You say the modern ministers preach too long. Open the leaves of your church history and find the biographies of our great preachers. I defy you to find any of them who made a great impression for Jesus Christ unless they were long preachers. And, furthermore, you cannot show me any church in America who is noted as a deeply spiritual church unless the services of that church are long services. Do the audiences of that church sit through long services, but even after the benediction is given the members are loath to leave. They linger in groups in the aisles and about the doorways, and at least one of those church members talking with each other on the street corners as though they could not tear themselves apart.

But this sleeping Eutychus is the symbol also of the thoughtless Christian. His actions bring to mind the lives of those who do not care to what church they are going, as long as they are listening to some new minister and delving into the mysteries of some creed. Thus these modern Eutychuses say, "I must study all the novel creeds and sit at the feet of all the new teachers, because I cannot tell but in a few years one of these new creeds may become the accepted creed of my country." Thus we find them not identifying themselves with any one Christian church, but making it a practice to go around and investigate all churches and all beliefs.

We are in the seaport town of Troas. It is about the year 56 A. D. We see a crowd of people hurrying along, some of them talking very earnestly together. We hail one of them, whom we find to be an old acquaintance of ours, and say: "Hello, Eutychus! What is the matter Where are you going?" He turns quickly and says: "Is that you, John? Why, I am going up to hear this new preacher Paul. He has been in town about six days. He is going to leave for Asos to-morrow. Come up with us and hear him." But we say: "What is the good of that, Paul? You do not expect to become one of his followers, do you?" "Oh, no," answers Eutychus. "But I make it a rule to hear all the noted men speak who come to town. Last week there was one of the noted priests of Diana here. He was telling about his goddess Diana. Last month there was a philosopher from Athens. Yes, I went to hear them all. I always go and hear everybody who comes to advocate some strange creed. Come along with me and let us listen to this Paul. We can sit in the back of the room. Perhaps we can sit on the window sill. The window is close to the door, and then we can slip out if the speaker becomes tiresome." Is it too much a stretch of the imagination to picture Eutychus going to hear Paul in such a spirit as some of our modern Eutychuses go to hear the different speakers of the various churches in these cities of the western hemisphere?

Lastly, I remark this ancient Eutychus made another mistake, which so many men and women are making to-day. He did not believe that there was ever a last time for him to receive the gospel of Jesus Christ. He felt that if he could receive Christ to-day then he could receive him next week or next month or next year or even two years from the night of his fatal accident. But there was a last chance for Eutychus, and there is a last time for us. And the sad fact is that for some of us this last time for accepting Christ may be to-day—this morning, this afternoon or to-night. Perhaps Christ is speaking to us as Christ spake in the parable of old, saying, "Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee." To-night the death angel may come to thee as he came to Eutychus of old, when he fell out of the window and broke his neck.

"But," says some one, "you must remember, though Eutychus may have broken his neck, that Paul, by the power of the Holy Spirit, resurrected him. The Bible distinctly declares that." Yes, my friend, you are right. But you must have yet to lay too much stress on that fact. It is not every preacher who has Paul's power of restoring men to life. If you were to break your neck, if you reject the gospel to-day and should die before night by some accident or disease, no preacher could obtain for you another opportunity, as Paul did for Eutychus. So I think, after all, that was Eutychus' last chance for salvation, for, if after that fall and resurrection he did not receive Christ, he would never have received him at all. And I know, further, that after the hard trouble God has lately sent upon you in the financial misfortune or in the death of your loved one or in the pains of your late sickness, if you do not receive Christ now, even in all probability you will never receive Christ lay at the vision of the face of a loving Lord?

Thus, whether we live or die, may we never again be weary with hearing what Christ has done for us or weary in doing something for Christ. There is a beautiful incident, told by Mrs. Mary Livermore, that when she was an army nurse during the battle of Gettysburg a young captain was fatally shot. At once his young bride was sent for and came to the bedside of the dying soldier. Two hours before his demise Mrs. Livermore was passing through the ward of the field hospital and saw him. She stopped a minute by his bedside and said, "My poor young man, are you ready to go?" The young wife looked up and answered: "Yes, Mrs. Livermore, we are both ready, and I to stay. When he enlisted I gave him to God and his country. I expected him to return to me, but, my friends, can we speak to Christ as that young wife spoke to Mrs. Livermore? Can we look up into the face of our Saviour and say: "Master, Saviour, Jesus, Lord, I have given my life to serve thee on earth or to glorify thee in heaven?" Ah, ye sleeping Eutychuses, teachers, because I cannot tell but in a few years one of these new creeds may become the accepted creed of my country." Thus we find them not identifying themselves with any one Christian church, but making it a practice to go around and investigate all churches and all beliefs.

We are in the seaport town of Troas. It is about the year 56 A. D. We see a crowd of people hurrying along, some of them talking very earnestly together. ride on till I find Masouda, and kneel to her in homage still.

"And in love," exclaimed Rosamund, as though the words broke from her lips against the will.

"Mayhap," Godwin answered, speaking more to himself than to her.

Then seeing the look upon his face, the set mouth and the flashing eyes, neither of them sought to stay him further.

"Farewell, my liege-lady and cousin Rosamund," Godwin said; "my part is played. Now I leave you in the keeping of God in heaven and of Wulf on earth. Should we meet no more, my counsel is that you two wed here in Jerusalem and travel back to Steepla. There to live in peace, if it may be so. Brother Wulf, fare you well also. We part to-day for the first time, who from our birth have lived together and loved together and done many a deed together, a-mess of which we can look back upon without shame. Go on your course rejoicing, taking the love and gladness that Heaven has given you and living a good and christian knight, mindful of the end which draws on apace, and of eternity beyond."

"Oh! Godwin, speak not thus," said Wulf, "for in truth it breaks my heart to hear such fateful words. Moreover, we do not part thus easily. Our lady here will be safe enough among the nuns—more safe than I can keep her. Give me an hour, and I will set her there and join you. Both of us owe a debt to Masouda, and it is not right that it should be paid by you alone."

"Nay," answered Godwin, looking upon Rosamund, and think what is about to befall this city. Can you leave her at such a time?"

Then Wulf dropped his head, and trusting himself to speak no more words, Godwin mounted his horse, and, without so much as looking back, rode into the narrow street and out through the gateway, till presently he was lost in the distance and the desert.

Wulf and Rosamund watched him go in silence, for they were choked with tears.

"Little, did I look to part with my brother thus," said Wulf at length in a thick and angry voice. "By God's Wounds! I had more gladly died at Saladin's battle than leave him to meet his doom alone."

"And leave me to meet my doom alone," murmured Rosamund, "and added, "Oh! I would that I were dead who have lived to bring all this woe upon you both. I know that in your heart, Masouda, I say, Wulf, I would that I were dead."

"Like enough the wish will be fulfilled before all is done," answered Wulf wearily; "and then I pray that I may be dead with you, for now, Rosamund, Godwin has gone, forever as I fear, and you are left with me. Come; let us cease complaining, since to dwell upon these griefs cannot help us, and let us think what is best to do, at least, we are free. Follow me, Rosamund, and we will ride to this nunnery to find your mother, if it be there."

So they rode on through the narrow streets that were crowded with scared people, for now it was known over all that the embassy had rejected the terms of Saladin. He had refused to give the city food and to suffer its inhabitants to fortify the walls, and to hold them till a certain day. Therefore, unless the Lord Baldwin should arrive with reinforcements, or the Christians should succeed in making the effects of the intruding hide relieve the pressure of the enemies which cause the headache. Try them.

"Weary Willie, reading "ad"—"Marry, would to chop wood, bring up coal, tend furnace, take care of garden, mind children, and children?"

Frayed Fagin, groaning—Get! don matrimonial advertisements make me ill.

A Merry Heart Goes All the Day.—But one cannot have a merry heart if he has a pain in the back or a cold with a racking cough. To be merry one must be well and free from aches and pains. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil will relieve all pains, muscular or otherwise, and for sprains, soreness of colds and coughs it is a splendid medicate.

Recently a little girl was taken to London by her parents for the first time. On her return home she was describing the place she had seen to her friends. One of them asked:

"Did you see Old Bailey, where they hang the murderers?"

"No," replied the girl, "I don't think so, but I saw the Royal Academy, where they hang the artists."

Some persons have periodical attacks of Canadian cholera, dysentery, diarrhoea. Be careful to use a preventative to avoid the disease. Nothing is more effective and good fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. For such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for all summer complaints. If a few drops are taken at the first sign of symptoms are nothed no further trouble will be experienced.

The Spinster—How many lodgers did you say your husband belonged to? The Hotpotato, dear?

The Spinster—"My goodness!" Just think of a man having out fifteen nights a week! Well, I'm glad that I'm an old maid."

Mark Twain had finished his speech at a recent dinner party, and, on his seating himself, a lawyer rose, shook his hands deeply into the tail pockets, as was his habit, and laughingly inquired of the guest of the society dinner:

"Doesn't it strike this company as a little unusual that a professional humorist should be present?"

When the laughter that greeted this sally had subsided Mark Twain drawled out—

"Doesn't it strike this company as a little unusual that a lawyer should have his hands in his own pockets?"

"Archelly," called the father from the head of the stairs, "is that young man gone?"

"Yes, father. Completely."

ULCER OF THE STOMACH.

INSIDIOUS NATURE OF THE DISEASE—HOW TO RECOGNIZE AND CURE IT.

Ulcer of the stomach may exist for years without very marked symptoms, excepting those caused by indigestion.

In good health, the stomach resists the action of the gastric juices, but when weakened, the membrane is badly nourished and the digestive fluids act upon it as well as upon the food, keeping up until perforation of the stomach occurs. In advanced cases of ulcer of the stomach there is much discomfort after eating, with a constant gnawing sensation between meals, pain from the pit of the stomach back to the shoulder blade.

At the first symptoms of indigestion, treatment should at once be started with Mi-o-na. This is a scientific remedy adapted specifically to one purpose, the cure of stomach troubles.

Mi-o-na is not a patent or a secret remedy, but is a combination of the best and most reliable of remedies for strengthening the digestive organs and building up the whole system. It costs but 50c a box, but it for a few days and there is no reason why you should not be able to eat your food you like of any time and without fear of distress.

If you cannot obtain Mi-o-na of your druggist, it will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents. Write us for advice on your case from a leading stomach specialist which will be sent free. The R. T. Booth Company, Ithaca, N.Y.

The engines of the Corliss type, 150 horse power each, and each one complete weighs fourteen tons. The dynamos are very compact and the most up-to-date obtainable. They weigh about four tons each. Linemen are at work putting up the wire, and it is expected that the plant will be in operation in about four weeks.

THE BIGAMIST FROM COE HILL.

(Syracuse Post-Standard.)

William I. Kronk, serving a sixty days sentence in the Napanee, Ont., jail, under the name of William J. Cronk, left his residence at No. 711 First North street eight weeks ago. The first tidings from him, however, were contained in a letter written in the Napanee jail and received by his wife yesterday.

According to despatches from Napanee Kronk has another wife and four children at Coe Hill, Ont., and the Canadian authorities may prefer a charge of bigamy against him. Kronk, since his incarceration, has stated that the Syracuse woman was not his wife, that they were never married.

She said last night that she and Kronk were married at Carthage twenty years ago, when she was seventeen years and he about twenty-one years old. She admitted that she had no marriage certificate, saying that one of her children had while playing with it so badly mutilated it that she burned it. She said that in justice to herself and family of eight children if her husband persisted in denying their relations she would be obliged to take steps that might result disastrously to him. She declared that she would never allow him to set his foot inside their house again.

In his letter to her Kronk does not mention that he has another wife in Canada. She says that he must have married the woman when he was a young man. She said that she and her husband had on several occasions since they were married visited Napanee, but that she had never heard that he had a wife and children living at Coe Hill.

Mrs. Kronk said that when her husband left home he announced that he was going to Napanee in search of employment. He is a wood worker. She said that in his letter he said he intended to return to Syracuse as soon as his sentence expired. Kronk said that his arrest was caused by his brother's wife, whom he struck in a quarrel.

Keeping Advertised Promises

THE BANNER UNDER WHICH WE WORK.

A store can't be run on the show plan. A show comes along and stays a day or a week. If it advertises a troup of one hundred people and there are only fifty, no person will have any serious fault to find about it. But we don't work on the show plan. We're in business for good and must keep every advertised promise ; when we say bargain we mean "bargain" and that's what we give.

We make no statements we can't substantiate.

We don't advertise bargains and then be sold out when the customers come for them.

We guarantee every article we sell to give satisfaction beyond the investment.

Come to-day and enjoy the shopping privileges afforded you at this city like store.

Watch our advertising space and visit us as often as you can.

NOTES.

Editor Beaver,—

Dear Sir,—Within the week that we have learned that we are blamed by some parties for not having exposed for writing the Leinster correspondences which appeared in the Beaver on or April 27th and May 11th, having Mr. A. Hudgins' permission to do so.

And we wish to take this opportunity to state that we had nothing to do with or in connection with composing or writing those correspondences. And in looking like Mrs. Stone's that is not our style of writing, but reserved and can trace no resemblance.

Therefore, the writer of the parties who were mean enough to deliberately write, and the family that we regret is that the parties who blamed us were not mean enough to come forward and own up like men. They had the opportunity and chance to prove our innocence, and not leave us to be misjudged by others, and afterwards when one of us had left the country.

If these parties still think that we are guilty, we are ready and willing at any time to prove our innocence.

Signed,
Mrs. George Brown,
Mrs. Hard.

A Rare Combination

for Women

So Says the Doctor about

Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets

We never object to showing the formula of Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets to any reliable physician.

We showed it recently to a doctor of many years' experience.

The other day he wrote us a letter. Doctor-like he doesn't wish his name published, but says we may publish the letter. Here it is.

Messrs. B. N. Robinson & Co.,
Coaticook.

Gentlemen,—I have studied carefully the formula for Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets for Women, which you submitted to me, and I am free to admit that it is a rare combination to meet the various diseases to which women are subject, and shows that it has come from one who has mastered the art of healing the diseases peculiar to females.

—M.D.

The doctor speaks truth when he calls the remedy a "rare combination," for that is just what the tablets are.

They combine the very latest remedies for women known to medical science. There cannot be anything better until there are new discoveries in medicine.

If you have been taking the old remedies put on the market years ago, stop it. Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets for Women, you will find all that medical science can devise to this date to make you a healthy woman, and you need nothing they do not contain.

They Make Healthy Women.

TO STOP A CRYING BABY.

Babies cry because they are sick. If you have a baby in the house you know it cramps—pain is the cause. A few drops of Nerviline relieves the pain, the distress and cramps, the baby is quickly, peacefully. Where there are young children Nerviline should also be in the house. It cures all the minor ailments—cramps, colic, diarrhoea and—and no surprise—Nerviline is fifty cents a bottle. Nerviline has been the great household remedy of Canada for half a century, and is sold everywhere in large 25c bottles.

LETTER FROM ALBERT CLOSE.

Lerwick, Shetland Islands,
July 21st, 1906.

Ed'or of The Beaver:

As it has been my lot to be here during the terrific gale which swept around these Islands for two days, carrying death and destruction everywhere before it, I thought you might interest your readers if I gave them a brief description of some of the thrilling incidents which have taken place here in connection with the wrecks of some of the steamers and other fishing craft.

The fishing fleet of the Islands about 9 a.m. Wednesday, July 19th, and raged until 6 a.m. Saturday. On Thursday a steamer in the harbor at Lerwick dragged her anchors and went ashore, but all the crew were saved; about 3 p.m. the same day a steam trawler rushed into the harbor and reported that the Fleetwhite fishing boat, Purtan, was on the rocks outside. Not only her crew out of water, while the crew were hanging on for life, but all of her sails were blown to ribbons. The spar was so full of sunken rocks that all were afraid to attempt a rescue, and into the bursting raging sea for fear of being dashed to pieces themselves. At last one man, Capt. Martin Garner, from Papa Stour, a small island about 8 miles from Lerwick, volunteered to take the risk. Yarquhard Ill., also a Papa man, even if he was wrecked himself. Out they went and nearly sank twice, and drove his vessel inch by inch through the bursting sea, down to the rock, and then launching his small boat, they managed to pull for life. Twice and twice were the gallant fellows carried back, and the second time after that, and again inch by inch they came on, and when they broke the rock again and at last the wreck was reached and the crew of four were taken off, delirious and others insensible from the effects of the cold and wet.

When they came into the harbor it was a touching sight to see the brave fellows being carried through the streets by these gallant fellows, dead to all but what brave fellows these are, they had a call come to them and came to save another.

The wrecked skipper said after, that their hearts sank as they saw a steamer and a steamer pass them, and make no attempt to save them, for they dared not go into such a sea without help, also how near the sunken reefs. And how well they, when longer or no man dare risk it, filled their hearts as they saw the gallant rescuers near their own village, during death and disaster to help their own, coming through the reefs to save them.

The wrecked skipper said tears as I stood on the dock of Capt. Garner's steamer a few days after, that he was the affectionate greeting the rescued skipper gave to the man who had saved his life.

News has just come in, Saturday, that the Fleetwhite's crew has been rescued bodily up in the air, and came down so heavily in the sea that they forget her steel bottom on, and for hours the crew drifted out to sea, hours under water and her stern in the air and until the Lowestoft steamer "Consolation" sighted the helpless crew, 60 miles from land, and at the risk of being smashed to pieces by the two boats steaming for days in such a sea, the gallant Lowestoft skipper backed down up to the very stern of the wreck so the crew could jump on board. It was a small sea could live in such a sea. They have just left the Island for their homes, to their wives, and leave for their homes in Scotland to-night.

The "Consolation" has also come in, and reports that a gigantic wave swept her deck fore and aft, stern and carried the skipper overboard, but a big "sea" threw him on board, state they could see their father on the crest of the waves for twenty minutes after he went overboard, and they were powerless to help him as the gale was so strong they could not turn the boat back to rescue him, but had to stand still and watch him till he sank from view. They will make your heart bleed to see the poor fellows, so sad and dejected were they, as they walked aimlessly about the streets to-night. Their hearts are missing altogether, and no wonder from them how they have been torn from them how they have been. There may be many more thrilling stories to tell, but I must close.

Trusting this may interest your readers and give them a true account of the British seamen are in times of danger.

Yours faithfully,
ALBERT CLOSE.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness, caused by catarrh, that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

BEAUTIFY OUR TOWN.

Napanee, June, 1906.

To Mr. W. S. Herrington, K.C.,
President Horticultural Society.

Dear Sir,—I am very glad to know you are interesting yourself in beautifying our town of Napanee. If you would just take a walk to the east end of the town and admire the beauty of the G. T. R. bridge, the river and the view, and the old covered bridge, and at the same time look at the dirty sheds and the budpocks and the dust that have sain in the bridge all winter, I think it would knock a farmer off a load of hay. Is there a means of taking an ax and axe with ladies viewing the beauty of Napanee. You know I am busy all day, so could not help you.

You say two men $2.00 a day, so could, for would be a few cents and they rids along with empty carts and they can't object to that, I think. Something is wrong, for they do not touch the ground or a blade of grass would go the road once a day a good soaking they would not have to go over it again that day. Hoping to see the improvements you will accomplish during the next visit to Napanee.

Yours sincerely,
AN ADMIRER.

SUMMER DIARRHOEA IN CHILDREN

During the hot weather of the summer months the first unnatural looseness of a child's bowels is an urgent immediate attention, so as to check the disease before it becomes serious. All that is necessary is a few doses of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy followed by a dose of castor oil to cleanse the system. Mrs. M. O. Stockland, Pastor of the First M. E. Church, Little Falls, Minn., writes, "We have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for several years and find it a very valuable remedy especially for summer complaints in children." Sold by The Red Cross Drug Store. 31s

Sani Bernard included this in his report at a wedding feast in New York:

"I am glad to see here a luxury to which all brides and bridegrooms are not accustomed.

"I for instance, called one day in June upon the bridal lady who did her washing and ironing.

"Where is your husband this morning, Mrs. Jones?' I said to her as I looked around. I hope he isn't ill.'

"Oh, no,' said the old lady, 'he's up in the attic ironing, and we've got a fine breeze there while I wash on the kitchen table.'"

SAFETY FOR CHILDREN.

Liquid medicines advertised to cure stomach and bowel disorders and summer complaints contain opiates and are dangerous. When a mother gives Baby's Own Tablets to her little one she has the guarantee of the Government analyst that they contain no narcotic poison, particle of opiate or harmful drug. The prudent mother will remember that Baby's Own Tablets there is absolute safety. An occasional dose to the well child will keep it well—and they promptly relieve the illnesses of childhood when they come unexpectedly. Mrs. G. Hamlin, St. Adolphe, Que., says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for colds and stomach troubles and find them safe and speedy in their cure." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. Keep the Tablets in the house.

When a woman suffers from severe pains, nervousness, she usually realizes how helpless—how thoroughly worthless she is. Dr. Shoop has brought relief to thousands of such women. He teaches diseases peculiar to women in two great, specific ways—local treatment found in druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Night Cure, and a constitutional treatment prescription called Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is a special local treatment for the nerves while you sleep. It reduces inflammation, it stops disagreeable actions, it soothes, it comforts, it cures. Dr. Shoop's Restorative (the Safe-Nerve Liquid Form) is a constitutional, nerve tonic, blood builder. It helps revive strength, lasting ambition and vigor to weak, nervous women.

Those two remedies, singly, or used together, have a irresistible, positive, helpful power. Try them a month at our risk. Sold by F. D. Wallace. 31s

Here's Just the Right Bowel Laxative

Gentle. Sure—Pleasant to Take—A Tried and True, Genuine, Nature's Remedy.

5¢ Laxets Only 5¢

If you do not have fresh, easy and regular movements each day, the cause is the accumulation of poisonous matter in the intestines. There's more danger from constipation than from almost any other disease, since biliousness, sick-headache, nervousness—retention of food matter, which decomposes, pollutes, irritates and poisons the whole system. You make the blood, the circulatory system carries it to the tissues, the scavenger, instead of carrying away the impurities, deposits it in the form of fat, and it clogs the whole machinery. Then you have biliousness, sick-headache, nervousness, indigestion, constipation, and many other troubles. Laxets are put up in a plain, neat package, and contain the same valuable ingredients as are put up in a flat metal box and sold for 25 cents. Laxets are the ideal laxative for everyday ailments. They are not a violent purgative, but a gentle tonic laxative. Laxets are put up in a flat metal box

My Hair is Scraggly

Napanee's Greatest Store

Store closed on Friday Afternoons of Aug. 10th and 17th.

We repeat that we wish we could make everybody really know what a store this is, that is continually buying thousands of dollars worth of goods and always ready for more,

Everything we sell is guaranteed to give satisfaction for the money invested. Supposing one article you buy goes wrong, that will probably be only one article out of five hundred that we sell, AND WE GIVE YOU A NEW ONE FOR IT. That means only a slight store loss and means the backing up of our word with you.

We'll give the article, whatever it is —every time — because we want to make good.

When we have made everybody in this vicinity have a lively working belief in the integrity of the store's purposes—when we make you know that we do not want to make a sale — or let it stay made if it isn't a transaction that will keep you friendly; when we make you know that, while there are blunders and errors, the store is good; does good and makes good; when you really know The Robinson Store we needn't advertise.

A SPECIAL VALUE
—OF—
Men's READY-TO-WEAR TROUSERS

We were fortunate this week in securing two lines of Men's Trousers from The W. E. Sanford Co., Limited, which mean bargains to our customers. They are among the season's best sellers, and the patterns are very neat. To see them will convince you that they are real bargains.

The regular price was $3.00, and they were extra good value at that.

Our Special price $2 25.

MEN'S WORKING SHIRTS.

During the harvest season we are offering some splendid values in Men's Working Shirts. We have a very large assortment from which to choose, and at prices which will suit every purse. Prices run from 25c to $1.00. A few of those Flannelette Shirts left, the regular price which was 50c, we are clearing at 39c or 2 for 75c.

MEN'S STRAW HATS

A few of our Men's and Boys' Straw Hats left. Nearly two months of summer weather to come. While they last your choice of any of them—HALF PRICE.

A WHIRL AMONG THE SMALLWARES.

SATURDAY ANDNE XT WEEK.

Seldom do we give advertising and window space over to smallwares. Big things seem to crowd them out. SATURDAY, AUG. 11th, and next week, we will make up for lost time by using our window to display specials in Shoe Laces, Hair Pins, Dressing Combs, Pins, Hair Ornaments and dozens of items that are used every day in the home.

Women's Thin Underwear.

We have the knitted Gauge Vests without sleeves, with just the gusset, short sleeves and the full dress type. 10 cents to 50 cents each. Drawers to match, knee length, umbrella shape, 25c to 50c.
(Ground Floor.)

20 Per Cent. off Fancy Parasols.

This has been a good old fashioned summer, and our parasols are pretty well sold out. But to make the clearance complete we have reduced all the fancies at least 20 per cent. Some of the expensive ones are marked half price.
(Main Aisle.)

Women's Embroidered Lisle White Hose.

All White Lisle embroidered in White is the latest addition to our summer hosiery. Sizes, 8 1-2, 9, 9 1-2. 50 cents a pair. (Scarce Goods.)

Don't Forget that We Have Women's Suits Reduced.

If you contemplate a trip, require a suit, find your dressmaker out of town, please remember that we have some real swell Tailored Costumes, and if we have your size will sell you a $25.00 suit for $20.00, a 20.00 suit for 16.00, or a 12.50 suit for 10.00. (First Floor.)

Women's Skirts to Your Order in 3 Days.

If we cannot fit you from stock we can build you a skirt to your measure in three days. No extra charge for the special measure. Every skirt guarant eed to fit, to be shrunk, to be stitched with silk.

Sample White Silk Waists Less than Regular.

We struck a little lot of sample Silk Waists this week at the usual price allowance for samples. Not one in the lot is soiled a particle. We could place them in stock at regular, but prefer to clear them at sample price. (First Floor Ready to-wear.)

Rugs, Rugs, Rugs.

The number of people who buy Rugs is increasing each season. For sanitary reasons if for no other, there should be more using them. We have every reason to believe that Rugs will have an increased demand and have made our fall purchases accordingly. Besides the made up Rugs we have borders for nearly all our best carpets. In that way we can make you rugs in any wantable size. Our all wool and union rugs came to hand this week. You can get a square for a bedroom for as little as $3.00 and good choice from prices up to $15.00. (Those who use rugs are not bothered much with Buffalo bugs.)

New Tapestry Table Covers.

These new ones are made in Scotland. Designs were copied from the original French Tapestries. Being British made they come in under the preferential tariff. Sizes are mostly 2 yds. x 2 yds. and 2 yds. x 2 1-2 yds. Medium priced, 1.75 to 4.00. Colorings more like the carpet shades of to-day.
(Good for wedding presents.)

Wrapperettes.

A name that is misleading when applied to all printed nap goods. Our new 1906 neat patterns make an interesting collection. Nice enough and desirable for house waists, shirt waist dresses, dressing jackets, wrappers, etc. (About 40 designs at 10c yd.)

British Made Carpet Manufactured Expressly for The Robinson Co.

Our Carpets at seventy-five cents a yard with border to match have stood the bunt of competition many times. This fall's range of patterns will be even larger than last seasons. We opened up this week a sett, border and body to match, that was woven expressly for The Robinson Co. We have therefore control of weave and design. The design is worked out with dark red and mid greens on a background of clouded oak. Special 75 cents yard. (If you require carpets later on take a look at this one.)

Why Not Buy Your Children's Wash Dresses Now?

If more mothers only knew the snaps that are to be picked up these days in the wash dress goods section, they would be laying up a year's supply. We try to clear all goods in their season. Just now we have a table of washable fabrics worth up to 35 cents a yard clearing at 10 cents yard.
(The heavier fabrics make good school dresses.)

VALUE OF FOUNDATION

CHARACTER BUILDING MUST BEGIN FROM THE BOTTOM.

AND BE LAID TRUE AND DEEP

Work For the World and Humanity Only Possible to Those Who Have Not Been False to Their Highest Ideals — The Rock Upon Which Christian Character is Built and Which Will Endure For the Ages.

Entered according to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1906, by Frederick Dyer, Toronto, at the Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 5.—In this sermon the preacher shows that in order to make one's life work of real value to the world and humanity the foundations of character must be laid deep and true. The text is Matthew vii. 27, "And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew and beat upon that house, and it fell, and great was the fall of it."

The scene the Bible text sets as plain and interesting to some people as it might be is because they do not understand the geographical and geological and meteorological conditions of the Holy Land. In order to intelligently follow the "earthly footsteps of the Man of Galilee" the tourist should not be content with a cursory or superficial examination. He should study the meteorology of Palestine to the last detail. He should not only study its tornadoes and hurricanes and thunderstorms which unsheath their swords of destruction and tumble down upon the earth huge masses of water when the windows of the heavens are opened by great cloudbursts, but he should also study the freshets and those movable sands mixed with water, commonly called "quicksands," as the simoom, or sirocco, sweeping over its nearby deserts, where there is but little moisture in the furnace heated air, for the atmosphere of Palestine would not be what it is if the Arabian desert was not on its border. All of these meteorological studies will clarify the lessons of many of Christ's parables and give an added meaning to some of the strange, weird oriental customs of the Hebrew race.

It is said that Gen. Lew Wallace wrote his great religious masterpiece, "Ben-Hur," before he as a tourist had ever seen Jerusalem. But, though Lew Wallace might have evolved a true idea of the Holy Land out of his study, I am frank to confess that with all my theological studies I never knew what the Holy Land was like until I set foot in those sacred valleys and saw with my own eyes those hallowed hills. I expected to find Palestine almost a tropical land. I expected to find its hills covered with dense forests, its valleys dotted with farms, its bees turning every mound into a honeycomb, all its vineyards growing huge grapes of Eshcol, and its flowers crowding every nook and corner of the soil. Now, what did I find? I found that Palestine had nothing more or less than a parallel of southern California with another name. People who preach or lecture on meteorology and kindred subjects should not allow themselves to be misled in all that time. Naturally not one shower will come. Then the grass withers. The soil becomes like baked clay. The dust is everywhere.

But when the rainy season comes, then, in order to compensate for her paucity of moisture, Nature sends storms in perfect deluges. Every canon has its raging torrent. The hillsides are cut into deep gullies. The water seems to be everywhere. The fact is due to the geographical conditions, because the waters cannot find their drainage outlets as they do in the verdure covered hillsides of the east. No man, except the bravest, dare venture out of doors when the storms break upon the Judean hills in rainy season. The sewers will be choked with water. Every street from curb to curb will be a huge, rushing river. The car lines will be blockaded. All traffic will come to a standstill. Then the hillsides and the valleys will blossom as the rose. The flowers and the rich grasses will spring up as if by magicon, every side. No New Yorker or New Orleanian can fully understand this atmospheric condition unless has been in Palestine or in southern California and has studied the meteorological influences of Palestine before you try to interpret the parable of my text.

Christ is not here saying, "Every one who heareth these sayings of mine and doeth them not shall be likened unto a foolish man who built his house upon the sands in Pennsylvania or Germany or in France, where it will rain two or three days every two or three weeks in every winter year, and the water will be drained quietly and quickly away." Christ is saying, "Every one who heareth these sayings of mine and doeth them not is to be likened unto a foolish man, who builds his house on the sands at the foot of some Palestine canon in a dry season." That dry season may continue for months and months. Then when the rainy season comes the deluge will come. Then the hurricane will beat upon that house from above, and the freshet will undermine that house from beneath, and it will fall, and great will be the fall of it. With these few words of geographical and atmospheric explanation let us study the parable. I am able a little more in detail and find therein practical gospel lessons for the work of everyday life, both for the pulpit and for the pew.

The parable, in the first place, proves that God never takes cruel judgment upon any one. He is not like the cruel marksman. I will not call him a sportsman who shoots pigeons from a trap. There the poor doomed bird is brought out in a cage. Then by pulling a string the cage tumbles to pieces. Then before the dazed and frightened bird can stretch his wings, bang goes the gun, and the bird's poor mangled body falls over a quivering corpse. God does not destroy an immortal soul in any such cruel, murderous Indian would stealthily creep up and tomahawk and scalp the sleeping immortal. Neither would God leap to their feet and grasp their rifles and fight for their lives. God does not deal with man in the manner as if he had to build as Robert Louis Stevenson's grandfather built. That great engineer, Robert Stevenson, built the famous lighthouse upon the dangerous rocks of Little Cumbrae. He built it between the storms which drove howl about and bombard the Scottish coasts. When you build on that coast you must hasten or you will be swallowed up in the surgings of the seas. But God says: "Man, you can build your house in the dry season of the east. You will have plenty of time to build it. You must not be slothful or indifferent. Time but it does not fly so quickly that you will not have plenty of time to do the work which I have given you to do. You will only conscientiously apply yourself to that work." "The rainy season are coming," he warns us. "But the rainy seasons will not come before the dry seasons have given you plenty of time to prepare for the onrushing deluge." Is not this a true interpretation of my text. Is not this a true interpretation of the history of our personal lives?

Let us reckon to-day how long your "dry season" or years of building have lasted. Ten years, twenty years, thirty years, forty years, fifty years, have they been. What! Few men over you have they not lasted sixty years? For the first ten or thirteen years of your life you may not have been responsible for what you did, but since then you certainly have been responsible. The other day the warden of one of the largest state penitentiaries told my people that a few years ago there was sentenced to his penitentiary a boy who came there in short succession to serve a sentence of many years. If that boy, because he had committed a dastardly crime, was looked upon as morally responsible, how much more are we morally and spiritually responsible for what we have builded since we entered our teens? Then let us no more speak those words how far they are back in memory for some of us. Yes, God does not work a single moment upon any one here to-day. He gives us our work to do. He gives us a long "dry season," years of preparation in which to do that work. What have you builded in your years of preparation? What have you done for men and what have you done for God?

But while I was pondering upon our "dry seasons," or years of preparation which have come to us in rearing our life work, this thought came upon me with driving force: During our years of preparation for the "rainy season" we are all builders. We can not get away from that fact. Every one of us is building, consciously or unconsciously. We are either building upon the rocks or we are building upon the sands. There is no escape. We have to keep doing, and as we are ever growing, growing for good or growing for evil.

But where shall we locate these two houses which Christ dramatically pictures? Shall we take a map of Palestine, we place one away off from the habitations of man in the midst of the Sahara desert? Shall we take a map and locate the ruins of old Memphis and with these plunging "ships of the desert" travel on and on, day by day, week by week in and and week out, month in and month out, until we locate it amid as an endless sea of sand? Where shall we build the other house? Shall we place it upon the highest pinnacle of a Matterhorn or upon Mount Chimborazo? Shall we build it upon some dizzy crag where the eagle builds her eyrie to rear her young? "Nay, nay," you answer; "not in either one of those places must you build one of the two houses of the text. When Christ illustrated a truth he never used absurd comparisons. The house must be built upon rock was not built upon an inaccessible mountain height. The house which was built upon the sands was not situated in the centre of an impassable desert. In all probability the wise man and the foolish man of this parable of the text built their houses very close together. In all probability these two men were neighbors, and as neighbors their families associated with each other." My friend, I believe you are right. I believe these two men of the parable were not only neighbors, but that they had adjoining farms, and when they built their houses they built them at the same time. That is just such a familiar comparison as Christ nearly always drawn in his parables.

I go still further than that. I believe the two farms of these men lay about in the same parallel position at the foot of the mountains, and that they lay in the valley and the other half upon the hillsides. Methinks I can see these two men out on their farms as they plan to build. The wise man, like the ant, selects a sit for his house upon a mound or hill where the rains would not be drenched. Then he digs down and down until he strikes the rock. Then he starts off to get his lumber and drag it up with the ox teams. While on his way he passes his neighbor and finds his work nearly finished. "How is it," he asks, "that you are ready to put on your roof, while I have only just dug the foundation of my house?" The other answers: "I spared myself that trouble. I have merely leveled the soil without digging a foundation. It is easier and quicker that way." The wise man says: "Neighbor, neighbor, you must not build your house there. Why, you are at the foot of that canyon. Then the soil is all porous. It is full of water now. It is nothing but a mess of quicksand. When the rainy season comes and the freshets leap and tear and rush out of those mountains you will be swamped in a night." "Bosh," says the foolish man. You are a pessimist. You are a miserable hunter of trouble. You are always anticipating tornadoes and floods. I will fool you. I will build and be the fall of it. With these few words of geographical and atmospheric explanation let us study the parable. I am able a little more in detail and find therein practical gospel lessons for the work of everyday life, both for the pulpit and for the pew.

The Pandora Thermometer

The thermometer on the Pandora range oven means precisely in accuracy to the cook what the square and compass mean to the draftsman. Without the square and compass the draftsman would have to work entirely by guess, just as you do without an accurate and reliable thermometer on your oven.

The Pandora thermometer reduces cooking to an exact science. You know precisely how much heat you have and what it will do in a given time. It is one of the small things which makes the Pandora so much different and better than common ranges.

"When the nerves are unstrung and the whole body given to wretchedness, when the mind is filled with gloom and dismal forebodings, the result of derangement of the digestive organs, sleeplessness comes to add to the distress. If only the sufferer would take Dr. Chase's Nerve Food he would find relief and a speedy obvion for a while and temporary relief. Fuerve Vegetable Pills will not only induce sleep, but will act so beneficially that the subject will wake refreshed and restored to happiness.

Mr. Jawbacks—Naturally. You had been pulling the wool over my eyes for some time.

"By Medicine Life May be Prolonged."—So wrote Shakespeare nearly three hundred years ago, and to-day. Medicine will prolong life, but be sure it is the qualities of the medicine. Thomas' Eclectric Oil used internally will cure coughs and colds, eradicate asthma, overcome croup and give strength to the respiratory organs. Give it a trial.

A man accompanied by his wife, visited a merchant tailor to order a suit of clothes. The couple differed as to the material and the manner of making, and the result was a lost temper.

"Well," he replied, humbled meekly, "I didn't suppose you'd want to wear the coat and waistcoat."

One of the students in an eastern university, wishing to turn an honest penny during his vacation, decided to introduce a new and popular cyclopedia into the country districts. Needless to say, he had many queer and amusing experiences. At one place he found an old farmer working in the fields.

"I'd like to sell you a new cyclopedia," said the agent.

"Well, young man," said the farmer, "I'd like to have one, but I'm afraid I'm too old to learn new things."

THE BRETHREN:

As he sat thinking thus, and was very unhappy, the aged bishop Egbert, who had nursed him so well, entered his tent, and, noting his face asked:

"What ails you, my son?"

"What would you wish to hear?" said Godwin.

"Am I not your confessor, with a right to hear?" answered the gentle old man. "Show me your trouble."

So Godwin began at the beginning and told it all—how as a lad he had secretly desired to enter the Church; how the old prior of the abbey at Stargate consecrated him that he was too young to judge; how then the love of Rosamund had entered into his life with his manhood, and he had thought no more of religion. He told him also of the great battle that had ensued when he lay wounded after the fight on Death Creek; of the vows which he and Wulf had vowed at the time of their knighting, and of how by degrees he had learned that Rosamund's love was not for him. Lastly, he told him of Masouda, but of her Egbert, who had shriven her, knew already.

The bishop listened in silence till he had finished. Then he looked up, saying:

"And now?"

"Now," answered Godwin, "I know not. For a while I was certain that I heard the sound of my own feet walking upon cloister stones, and of my own voice lifted up in prayer before the Altar."

"You are still young to talk thus, and though Rosamund is lost to the Church and Masouda dead, there are other women in the world," said Egbert.

Godwin shook his head.

"Not for me, my father."

"Then there are the knightly Orders, in which you might rise high."

Again he shook his head.

"The Templars and the Hospitallers are crushed. Moreover, I would fight them in Jerusalem and the field, and love them not. Should they change their ways, or should I be needed to fight against the Infidel, I can join them by dispensation in due course. But counsel me what shall I do now?"

"Oh! my son," the old bishop said, his face lighting up, "I will give you, come to God. I will show you the road."

"Yes, I will come," Godwin answered quietly, "I will come, and, unless the Cross should once more call me to follow it in war, I will not depart from the time that is left to me in His service and that of men. For I think, my father, that I have had enough of love."

Three days later Godwin was ordained a priest, there in the camp of Saladin, by the hand of the bishop Egbert, and that night I sent tent for those of Mahomet, triumphant at the approaching downfall of the Cross, shouted in the name of the great and Mahomet His only prophet.

Saladin lifted his head and looked at Ballan.

"Tell me," he said, "what of the princess of Acheron, whom you fled with from Ascalon? Rosamund D'Arcy? I told you that I would speak no more with you of her, and that I would not, since she was delivered to me for judgment. Yet I see her not."

Then Rosamund Ballan, "we found this lady in the convent of the Holy Cross, wearing the robe of a novice of the Order, and by the altar in the sanctuary there by the altar which we deem so sacred and inviolable, and bound to counsel."

Saladin laughed.

"Cannot all your men-at-arms drag one maiden from the altar?" he asked. "Less, indeed, the great knight Wulf stood before it with sword aloft," he added.

"So he stood," answered Ballan, "but it was not of him that we thought. Though assuredly he would have slain some of us. To do this thing would have been an awful crime, which for sure sure must bring down the vengeance of our God upon us and upon the city."

"What of the vengeance of Salah-ed-din?

"Sire, as is our case, Sultan, we still fear God more than Saladin."

"Ay, Sir Ballan, but Salah-ed-din may be a weapon in the hand of God."

"Which sword, Sultan, would have fallen swiftly had we done this deed? I think that it is about to fall," said Saladin, and again was silent and stroked his beard.

"Listen, now," he said at length. "Let the princess, my niece, come to me and ask it of my grace, and I promise that I will grant ten times for which, in your plight, you may be thankful." Then he was silent again, and rising and take her," answered Ballan sadly, "having first slain the knight Wulf, who will not let her go while he is alive."

"Nay, Sir Ballan, for that I should be sorry, nor will I consent to slay even a Christian he is a man after my own heart. This time I said 'Let her come,' and I say now 'Let her be brought.' As come of her own free will, to answer to me for sin against me, understanding that I promise her nothing, who in the old days promised her much, and kept my word. Then she was the princess of Baalbec, with all the rights belonging to that great rank, to whom I had sworn that no husband should be forced upon her, nor any change of faith. Now I take back these things, and if she comes, she comes as an escaped Cross-worshipping slave, to whom I offer only the choice of life or of a swift death."

"What high-born lady would take such terms?" asked Ballan in dismay.

"Either, I think, she would ask choose to die by her own hand than by that of your headsman, since she can never abjure her faith."

"And thereby doom eighty thousand of her followers to death, since in this company her to that death," answered Saladin sternly. "Know, Sir Ballan, I have given to every Christian in this time, that if my niece Rosamund does not come, of her own free will, unforced by any, I shall slay them all, to sack."

"Then the fate of the holy city and all its Christian hangs upon the nobleness of a single woman?" stammered Ballan.

"Upon the nobleness of a single woman, as my vision told me it should be. If her spirit is high enough, Jerusalem may yet be saved. If it be baser than I thought, as well may chance, then shall perish all that is left Christ in Asia. Now I have no more to say, but my envoys shall ride with you bearing a letter, which with their own hands they must deliver to my niece, Rosamund de Baalbec. Then she can return with them to me, or she can bide where she is, when I shall know that I have but a lying vision of peace and mercy flowing from her hands, and will press on this war to its bloody end.

Within an hour Ballan rode to the city under safe conduct, taking with him the letter of Saladin and the letter, which they were charged to deliver to Rosamund.

It was night, and in their lamp-lit chapel the Virgins of the Holy Cross upon bended knees chanted the slow and solemn Miserere. From their hearts they sang, to whom death and dishonor were so near, praying their God and the merciful Mother of God to have pity, and to spare them and the inhabitants of the hallowed town where He had dwelt and suffered, and to lead them safe through the shadow of it to fate as awful as His own. They knew that the end was near, that the walls were tottering to their fall, that the defenders were exhausted, and that soon the wild soldiers of Saladin would be surging through the narrow streets.

Then would come the sack and the slaughter, either by the sword of the Saracens, or, perchance, if these found time and they were not forgotten, more mercifully at the hands of Christian men, who thus would save them from the worst.

Their dirge ended, the abbess rose and addressed them. Her bearing was still proud, but her voice quavered.

"My daughters in the Lord," she said, "the doom is almost at our door, and we must brace our hearts to meet it. The commanders of the city do what they have promised, they will send some here to behead us in the Square, while the others are happily to glory and be ever with the Lord. But perchance they will forget us, for there are but a few among eighty thousand souls, of whom some fifty thousand must thus be killed. Or their arms may grow weary, or themselves they may fall before ever they reach this convent. And what, my daughters, do we then?"

Now some of the nuns clung together and sobbed in their affright, and some were silent. Only Rosamund drew herself to her full height, and spoke proudly.

"My Mother," she said, "I am a newly-made sister of the Order, but I have seen the knights of Hattin, and I know what befalls Christian women and children when they fall captive. Therefore I ask your leave to say my say."

"Speak," said the abbess.

"This is my counsel," went on Rosamund, "and it is short and plain. When we know that the Saracens are in the city, let us set fire to the convent and get us to our knees and so perish."

"It will spoken; it is best," muttered several. But the abbess answered with a sad smile:

"This counsel indeed, such as might be looked for from high blood. Yet it may not be taken, since self-slaughter is a deadly sin."

"I see little difference between it," said Rosamund, "and the sparing of this thing, death should be your portion. No longer, therefore, are you the princess Rosamund, but only an escaped Christian slave, and as such doomed to die, whenever my sword reaches you.

"Of my vision concerning you, which caused me to bring you to the East from England, you know well. Repeat it in your heart before you answer, that thing was told me by my sire. Or, if you so desire, bide where you are of your own free will, and be dealt with as God and Saladin."

A Midsummer Query.

Do you feel fit and up to the mark? If not there must be a reason why. Probably, owing to the depressing effects of the warm weather, you are not taking the usual quantity of flourishing food, although the system requires quite as much nourishment in hot weather as in cold. To overcome the difficulty you should use a concentrated, palatable and easily digested food. This description fits to a nicety.

When the system is run down, appetite failing, weight decreasing and nerve tone depressed, there is nothing like FERROL to restore normal and healthy conditions. Unlike other concentrated preparations FERROL can be taken in summer as well as at any other season; it never causes nausea or other gastric disturbances.

FERROL is not a patent mystery. The formula is freely published. It is prescribed by the best Physicians. It is endorsed by the leading Medical Journals. It is used in prominent Hospitals throughout Canada.

"What on earth shall we do?" cried three young people of Newburgh, as they watched their train pull out from the K. & P. station last evening. The agent gave them the best advice in his power, but they didn't feel calm enough to listen. They had come here yesterday morning on the excursion from Newburgh and had gone on a boat trip. They returned to the station in time to see the train pulling out. The two girls began to cry; the young man looked very glum. The great city was no joke for them, and they hardly new where to turn. Finally the young man went to one hotel and the women to another. To-day they returned to their anxious parents.—Kingston News, Friday.

The amount of insurance passed upon at the July meeting of the Directors was $122,000. Their investments carefully. The Company never did more business, never had more policy-holders or more insurance, has been able to meet its losses most promptly, and has a good cash surplus on hand, and continues to do business at the old stand, despite reports to the contrary. FARM LABORERS WANTED WEST.

C.P.R. Run Special Low-Rate Excursions.

Western crop prospects have never been more promising, and with a bumper harvest in absence of rust, and favorable weather conditions, the only trouble left to the farmer in Manitoba and Saskatchewan is the scarcity of men for harvesting. It is reported on good authority that at least 20,000 laborers will be needed in these provinces, and this is considered a modest estimate by those who realize that the harvest of 1906 is to be a record breaker in many ways. Plenty of work and high wages is the order of the day. To meet as far as possible the demand for outside help the Canadian Pacific Railway will run special "Farm Laborers' Excursions on August 14th, 17th and 22d. The fare to Winnipeg and tickets to points in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, where help is needed, is only $12.00; return ticket to starting point for $18.00 additional (after at least 30 days' work at harvesting).

Will be seen this low rate means to the man who does not mind a little work a cheaply cheap trip to the West. He will see the country at its golden best, spy out the land for himself, and if he thinks a prospective settler or not, will arrive home richer in experience and money in pocket.

For conditions and full particulars see nearest G. T. P., Grand Trunk agent, or write C. B. Foster, D.P.A., C.P.R., Toronto.

LONSDALE.

On Tuesday afternoon the south bridge tumbled in while Mr. Pinkle's team, of Newburgh, were crossing. When at about the middle of the bridge it collapsed, and the horses and load fell a distance of about twelve feet. Fortunately the driver escaped without much injury, and through the timely aid of bystanders, horses and load of the team escaped without injury. The whole superstructure, we learn, was in a state of decay, and in an unsafe condition for the last three years. Where were the Road Superintendent and the local road boss who examined this bridge six weeks ago? Certainly they must have made their inspection, or the people would have been notified and travel suspended.

TALK IS CHEAP

BUT FACTS ARE STUBBORN THINGS

It's easy to say things in print — to assert that your prices are lower than others—to endeavor to create a belief on the part of a reader that "yours is the only store" as far as values are concerned. All this may be done and probably is done by others—BUT IT IS NOT OUR WAY. We recognize the fact that there are others in the field. We expect energetic competition, and we meet it in the right way—by selling reliable goods ONLY, for as low a margin of profit as we can sell them for and remain in business.

Our advertising announcements are plain, HONEST, simple statement of facts. We cordially invite an inspection and comparison of our goods and prices with those of other houses, and believe that a great many people will find it profitable to do so. Put us to the test.

WE CLOSE AT 12.30 TO-DAY--FRIDAY. SHOP EARLY.

THE UNITED EMPIRE LOYALISTS.

(Bay of Quinte.)

Here was born an infant nation,
(Where Great Britain owns with pride.)
'Neath the pines and sturdy maples,
By old Quinte's peaceful side.

Here was rocked our infant nation,
Rocked by hands long since at rest;
They are now the Great King's subjects,
Numbered with the loyal blest.

Here the giant pines and maples
Fell beneath their mighty stroke,
Cleared out our lands and built our homesteads,
Proud to wear the British yoke.

Here the Union Jack they planted,
Placed it firm on British soil,
Where it waves, our dearest emblem,
For their sons who pray and toil.

Then to God a house they builded,
Where our nation's corner-stone was found,
Found a setting, true and lasting,
In their hearts, and at His throne.

Thus they labored, and they worshiped,
This our heritage divine,
Praise the God of their devotion,
And our great ancestral line.

—N. Finley Spencer, Pres. O. B. A., Toronto.

MOSCOW.

On Tuesday morning, 31st July, the cheese factory here lay a heap of ashes. It had been burned down by fire 21st July, about 1 o'clock in the morning. On the Saturday morning milk was taken into one of the largest and most up to date cheese factories, on the same foundation as the old one, and it was finished in a long distance from it. It is 42 by 50 feet, built with cement blocks, cement floors, cement curing room and covered with asbestos roofing. Its owners, are determined to preserve credit for the quick and efficient work, and the hearty and co-operative spirit displayed in rebuilding so soon after the fire. It is said there will be a public ball in the new factory, which is very much needed in the village. ARDEN BOY SUICIDES.

James C. Hudson, a native of Addington, Ont., on Sunday night shot himself through his brain with a rifle, and died instantly. The shot occurred in Watertown at 11 o'clock, and Dr. Potts, coroner, had been boarding since last winter. From the fact that Mr. Hudson was in the employ of the Bell Telephone Company, Toronto, and was in Belleville, it is supposed that Hudson had some means. The police have a letter found addressed in his hand after the shot was heard. The bullet entered the head just back of the right temple and came out the left side, dead in the brain. Coroner Calkins returned to Watertown from Arden on Monday morning, and held an inquest on the body. The deceased will probably be buried on Tuesday at Watertown.

Mr. W. G. Wilson, Barrister, who has acted for several years for the estate in which young Hudson had an interest, was seen by us and informed us that the young fellow was born in Kaladar Township of Tweedsmuir, and his father was related to the Hudsons and Vermilyeas of Belleville. That the widowed mother lived for a time in Arden, but now resides with her son in Watertown. That deceased's brother Thomas, aged about 19, and sister Blanche, aged about 16, lived with their uncle near Belleville. That the brother and sister were interested in the Arden Boy's Band, and that Mr. W. H. Crumm, Cobden, occupied the pulpit in Mr. Hudson's absence last Sunday evening.

NEWBURGH.

On Saturday, Aug. 11th, the senior baseball team played a friendly game of ball on Enterprises with the team of that town, the Enterprises team winning by 10-15. Walker and Loucks did the pitching for the locals. Manager Thomson umpired the game and gave general satisfaction.

The Enterprise team played the return game here on Saturday last, and won again by a score of 9-14. George Shorey was on the slab for the visitors and Loucks behind the check at all stages. His knee is still very sore and he could not run, but his pitching ability was not interfered with and the little fellow pitched the home team to victory. Seventeen of Newburgh's baseball fanatics were in their efforts to locate the southpaw's shoots, and but two charities were given by the local artists. They played for the visitors, striking out eight men, and though he didn't get a hit himself he was very lucky. Both leaguers played good ball, but the work of Umpire Scantlin was the hottest exhibition given here in years. There was considerable sickling, too much in fact by the locals who should remember they were the hosts. However, visiting teams could not be let or made by bringing a competent official.

Workers of the congregation of ball readers will be the local's opponents on day. The Yarker team has been secured, and the locals will have to go some to down them.

For Inflammation of the Eyes.—Among the many good qualities which Dodd's Kidney Pills possess, is that besides regulating its digestive organs, it also relieves the inflammation of the eyes. It has called forth many letters of recommendation from those who were afflicted with this complaint, and who used a few of these pills. They affect the nerve centres and the blood flows through them in this way, and the result is almost immediately seen.

SUFFICIENTLY IDENTIFIED.

From Everybody's Magazine.

She walked down Broadway and up upper Broadway and pushed a check through the window of the bank teller.

"You will have to be identified," said the teller, as he looked at it.

"You don't, eh?" said the woman, with a toss of her head. "Why, I'm the wife of the branch family that has a branch in Manhattan Island!"

"Oh!"

"Yes," said I'm the well-headed heiress that your wife's always complaining about. Now you just hand me the money, and don't keep me waiting, for I'm in a hurry. Don't you know me? Why, I'm the one that's always coming in here. Don't guess you've got any new clerks, have you?"

"No, madam," said the teller, as he paid out the money. "I'm the only one in the bank. I'm the bookkeeper, the paying teller, and also teach it and—

CUT THIS OUT.

The thoroughness of the training at the "Picton Business College" may be judged by the fact that one year ago, three young ladies, who had not passed the entrance examination to the High School, entered the College and at the end of the twelvemonth, two were placed in Toronto at salaries of $416 and $520 respectively, while the third was placed in Peterboro at $780 per annum. Another young lady whom we placed in a position one year ago at $780 is now drawing a salary of $900 per annum. We also sent a young lady of 12 years to Toronto, at a salary of $620 while a telephone message from Fort Frances, a few days ago, took one of our young lady undergraduates to a position in that town at a salary of $620.

No other College in Canada can produce such a favorable history as the above, while with us these things are common occurrences and but a few cases mentioned. For further information address

DECORATION DAY.

The annual decoration of the graves of their deceased brethren was held on Sunday last by the members of Napanee and Argyll Lodges I.O.O.F. In the morning at 10 o'clock the lodges assembled at the rooms of Argyll lodge and marched in procession to the cemetery, where eloquent addresses were delivered by Rev. Bros. Emsley and White. There was an abundance of beautiful flowers and wreaths, and the beautiful and commendable ceremony was carried out without a hitch.

"Lady," began Weary Walker, "I'm hungry."

"Indeed!" interrupted the housekeeper, "I don't believe it. You've only currred to you to look for work."

"Yes, but I'm hungry, nevertheless," ma'am, le dat I'm fer-sighted. When I get real close to work I can't see it."

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by the inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness, caused by catarrh, that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

WEDDING AT ENTERPRISE.

In spite of the busy harvest time the stirring village of Enterprise put on holiday attire and attended the fashionable wedding which occurred in St. John's church, on Wednesday, the 15th inst., at 1.30 p.m. The popular couple were Wm. Guy Fenwick, merchant and miller, and Miss Lillian Alexa Wilson, the only daughter of Mr. Thomas Wilson, a wealthy farmer of the neighborhood. The church never looked lovelier in the decorations. Miss Laura May Wilson presided at the organ, and the choir sang "O Perfect Love" and "Lead, Kindly Light." The bride was given away by her father, Mr. Thomas Wilson, and looked charming in a handsome costume of white. Instead of the usual bouquet of flowers she carried an ivory prayer book, and her only brother, John L. Wilson, gave her away. The bridesmaid, Miss Alleta Rombough, looked pretty in a dainty pink lawn dress. Mr. Percy Fenwick was groomsman, and the Rev. J. W. Jones officiated. After the beautiful ceremony the bridal party and guests drove to the bride's home where a most elegant breakfast was daintily served with the conventional toasts. The citizens' band of Enterprise discovered their presence there on the lawn during the afternoon. The happy couple caught the evening train for Toronto followed by showers of confetti and rice and the heartiest good wishes of the entire community. The bride's going away gown was a Scotch grey. The wedding presents were numerous, costly and useful, one, a gift of a dozen solid silver spoons from the choir and friends to the bride who is the pleasant and faithful organist of the church of which the groom is the esteemed church warden. On their return the happy couple will reside in Enterprise.

OBITUARY.

MRS. NIAL P. WOOD.

The subject of this sketch was born in the Township of Knowlton in June, 1840. Her maiden name was Catharine E. Snider. She was united in marriage to Nial P. Wood forty-two years ago, and settled on a farm near her birthplace, where they spent one-half of their wedded life surrounded by very many warm friends. Deprived of their departure in 1887, having received a government position which they held until removal to Kingston. New associations were formed, and many new friends were added to the list of old ones which Mrs. Wood numbered among her dear. She was converted to God in early life and united with the M. E. Church, and while in the country was a consistent member of the Bethel congregation. Since coming to the city she has been a member of the Sydenham street church. Her home was always open to the preacher, and many a one has found it most enjoyable place to be. She was noted in what peculiar in manner, but it only required a slight acquaintance to find that she was possessed of sterling qualities. For the past few years going in and out of her home, no unkind word was heard against any. Possessed of more than an ordinary degree of household economy, she seemed ever happy where illness did ever had should prove her lot. All this and more kind skilful medical aid could do failed to stay the hand of death, and she fell asleep in the early morning of August 11th, 1906. Her illness was largely attended by pain, when a short service was conducted at the home and her remains were taken to Knowlton cemetery. She leaves a sorrowing companion to finish the journey of life alone, with many personal friends to sympathize with her in the loss of their earthly companion. Odessa, August 16th, at 3 p.m., conducted by the Rev. F. B. Isaman. 26j

PRESENTATION AND ADDRESS.

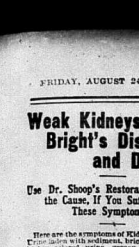
On Tuesday evening, August 14th, a number of friends of Mr. Jas. Fleming, Dundas st., called at the residence of Mr. J. Sills' office and presented him with a purse of gold and an address, previous to his departure for his new home in Toronto, where he has secured a lucrative position in the Vernon Hardware Co. Mr. Fleming was a Napanee Mr. Bustin has made a host of friends while he resided here, who will be pleased to hear of his continued success in his Western home. The following address was read by Mr. Sills:

Napanee, August 14th, 1906.

Dear George—It is with exceedingly [illegible] that we have heard you are about to leave us, and after a sojourn of some twelve years, during which time you have endeared yourself to a large circle of friends, not only in this town but in the surrounding country, and in fact wherever you have been associated, we feel that we cannot let you go without giving some expression of our feelings in the matter. Your genial disposition, your kindly manner, your ever ready willingness to help a friend in need, your sterling integrity, your unfailing courtesy, your generosity and goodfellowship, and your well equipped business training to consist, are but a few of the qualities that have combined to make that modest, unpretentious motto which you have chosen for your own, "Success and Merit," a sure guide, which we feel certain, will lead you to success, not only in your chosen profession, but also in the higher and more important walks of life, and whose great worth, with wooded hills and generous minerals you will take your pipe lessons every day, and a sterling integrity, your unfailing courtesy, generosity and goodfellowship, and this

Weak Kidneys Bright's Disease and Diabetes

Use Dr. Shoop's Restorative to Cure the Cause, If You Suffer From These Symptoms.



There are the symptoms of Kidney complaint. Pains in sides with sediment, brick dust in urine. Dark, discolored urine, greasy froth or blood in it. Stringy mucous in urine. Dragging pain in the small of the back. Pain over the back and over the kidneys, hot, dry and itchy skin. Dark circles under eyes. Puffy bags or bunches under eyes. Dropsy, sleeplessness, dullness, loss of appetite, loss of weight, chills and nausea, loss of memory, general debility, irregular heart, thirst, weak eyesight, trouble with hearing, specks before eyes, nothing from one to all of these indicates more serious trouble than Kidney complaint. Don't make any mistake about it. Kidney medicine will give relief from first dose. Most distressing cases get relief from first day's use. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is not a pretentious remedy. It is not a constipating cathartic. It does not overwork the kidneys. It is not a habit forming drug. It does not stimulate. These characteristics are unusual. They are the reasons why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is the most successful kidney remedy. Don't make any mistake about it. Don't confuse the kidneys themselves, for you will only injure them. Their only strength is in their power. Dr. Shoop's Restorative vitalizes the weak kidneys.

"This hangs upon your judgment. If you come and ask it of me, I will consider the question of the sparing of Jerusalem and its inhabitants. If you refuse to come, I will certainly put every one of them to the sword, and such of the women and children as may be kept for slaves. Decide, then, Nicea, and quickly, whether you will return with my envoys, or bide where they find you.—Yusuf Salhd-ed-din."

Rosamund finished reading and the letter fluttered from her hand down to the marble floor. Then the queen said:

"Lady, we ask this sacrifice of you in the name of these and all their fellows." And he pointed to the women and the children behind her.

"And my life?" mused Rosamund aloud. "It is all I have, and I have paid it away I shall be beggared," and her eyes wandered to where the tall shape of Wulf stood by a pillar of the church.

"Perchance Saladin will not merciful," hazarded the queen.

"Why should he be merciful," answered Rosamund, "who has always warned me that if I escaped from him and was recaptured, certainly I must die? Nay, he will offer me Islam, or death, which means—death by the rope—or in some more fashion."

"But if you stay here you must die," pleaded the queen, "or at best fall into the hands of the soldiers. Oh! lady, your life is but one, but the Nearly every one likes a fine hair dressing. Something to make the hair more manageable; to keep it from being too rough, or from splitting at the ends. Something, too, that will feed the hair at the same time, a regular hair-food. Well-fed hair will be strong, and will remain where it belongs—on the head, not on the comb!

MORE HARVEST HELP WANTED — MANITOBA AND SASKATCHEWAN.

Although all the provinces in Eastern Canada have contributed a large number of laborers to assist in harvesting the tremendous wheat crop of Canada's Western Provinces, there is a great demand for more laborers.

With the improved machinery, and the men already sent, the crop will be cut, but the demand is for laborers to assist in the threshing and the movement of the grain to the elevators.

Between 15,000 and 20,000 laborers have gone west; 5,000 to 10,000 more are required!

There will be a low rate laborers' excursion from South-Western Ontario on September 5th, from the North-Western section September 6th, and from the Northern and Eastern sections on September 8th.

Through second class tickets are sold at $12 to Winnipeg, and on arrival there the laborer is met by Government representative of the farmers, and when he has contracted to work he is furnished by the railway with a free ticket to the nearest station to the farmer he is to work with. On arrival at that station he deposits his certificate with the agent, and when he is ready to return after he has been working 30 days, the farmer he has been engaged with makes a verification to that effect on his certificate, and the agent issues ticket from that station back to the starting point at a rate of $18.00.

It is expected a very large number will take advantage of these excursions to spend a few weeks in the West, and acquaint themselves with the conditions in that country. This is an opportunity to have an outing and make some money besides.

Anyone wanting further information write to C. P. R. Passenger Department, Toronto. 34b

ONE WHOM JESUS LOVED

PREACHER SHOWS BELOVED DISCIPLE IN A NEW LIGHT.

NOT PERFECT, BUT STRONG

Rightly Held Up as a Prototype For Young Christians to Copy After—Extended Sketch of One of the Best and Noblest of the Apostles—St. John a Model of Physical, Mental and Spiritual Proportions.

Entered according to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1906, by Frederick Dixey, Toronto, at the Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 19.—In this sermon the preacher shows us John, the beloved disciple, in a new light and as a model of strength, courage and heroism for Christian of every age. The text is John 13, "Now there was leaning on Jesus' bosom one of his disciples, whom Jesus loved."

No art student dare that he has truly studied to the best advantage unless he has sat at the feet of the old masters. What Mecca is to the Mohammedans and Benares to the Hindoos and Jerusalem to the Christians, Rome and Venice and Florence and Milan and Paris and Antwerp are to the young artists and sculptors. He overcome was Michael Angelo when he first looked upon the wonderful figure of St. George carved by the sculptor Donatello on the north side of the church of San Michel at Florence that for a time he could not speak. Then as he studied the magnificent proportions of that greatest of all the great works of the Florentine sculptor he raised his hand majestically and cried, "Now, march!" In these two simple words the architect of St. Peter's, the sculptor of "David" and "Moses" and the artistic creator of the "Last Judgment" and of the frescoes of the Pauline chapel affirmed that the statue of St. George was perfect in its physical proportions and had everything in its makeup but a human soul.

The works of the old masters are almost engrossing; hence we find that the greatest art schools of the world are near to the galleries in which are preserved the immortal pictures and the statues of the greatest artists and sculptors of past centuries. The Louvre has more to do with teaching art students to the "Latin quarter" of Paris by the hundreds and thousands than any other cause. Not a day passes but you can see scores of young students, with their easels, to-bound Murillo's "Holy Family" or his "Assumption of the Virgin," which hang upon the Louvre's wall, "Peter Rubens and Rembrandt and Velasques and Pra Bartolmeo and Da Vinci are still as much art professors as though they were alive in the flesh. What is true of Paris is equally true of all the Italian cities. So much are the models of the ancient artists sought after for copying purposes that in the Vatican exhibitions are forbidden any of its subjects to sell any of these old masterpieces to any person excepting the Royal Academy of Italy knows that the loss of the works of the old masters would be irreparable, and it prizes as the greatest one of the greatest glories of Italy would have vanished forever.

What Raphael's Madonnas are to the young art students as models, the characters of Moses and Joshua and Samuel and Nehemiah and Daniel and John the Baptist and Peter and Paul and John, the "beloved disciple," are to young Christians. These Bible characters are not perfect, any more than the artistic works of the old masters are perfect. Paul Veronese, one of the greatest of Venetian artists, painted his female characters of "The Family of Darius at the Feet of Alexander After the Battle of Issus," in the hoop-skirts and low bodiced waists of the Venetian costumes of the sixteenth century, although the battle of Issus was fought a third of a millennium before Christ was born. There is only one perfect being mentioned in the Bible, and that person is Jesus Christ. But though the best Bible characters are not perfect, yet, many of them are richly held up as prototypes for young Christians to copy after. To-day I want to speak about one of the best and noblest of the apostles for us to emulate. I want to show how St. John was strong, and how he was one of the most influential and perhaps the best beloved of all the disciples who gathered about the table at the Last Supper, just preceding the crucifixion.

The model of my text, in the first place, was, I believe, a Christian of superb physical proportions. Ke was not among puny people like those physical weakling. He did not have his head pillowed upon Christ's breast at the banquet table of that Supper because he was a suffering invalid. Oh, no. Far from that. Of all the stalwart men gathered about that table—for at that time they were probably all young—St. John, I believe, had the best and the strongest physical frame. His eye, like David's, the shepherd boy, must have been clear and quick. His limbs must have been supple and sinewy. His chest must have been broad and deep. His skin must have been aglow with health. He must have had the body of an athlete. He must have been a young man bubbling over with fun and good humor, because of the splendid resiliency of his strong physical constitution. He must hage had all the advantages which accrue from perfect health, because the Bible indirectly affirms it.

How does the Bible assert this? You must read between the lines. The Bible implies that John lived to be a very old man. You must not study St. John the young man as an isolated figure unless you study St. John an old man on the island of Patmos. There he was supposed to have lived to a very advanced age. Albert Barnes declared that in all probability St. John must have lived far on in the nineties before he died. Like Titian, the great artist, who died of the Venetian plague in his ninety-ninth year, St. John may have almost reached the century mark before he passed to glory. No, no man could have lived as long as St. John lived and have done the work he did unless he started with an unlimited supply of physical health and had carefully husbanded is health all through life.

But we do not have to turn to Revelations to prove that John was physically a marvel. There is another reason why I know St. John had a superb physical body. When we read the twentieth chapter of St. John we find Peter and John running down the graded tomb on the morning of the resurrection. Which was the swifter of the two? Then, in John's own words, we read, "And the other disciple did outrun Peter." Now, no one for a moment would judge the physique of Peter to be that of valetudinarian. Oh, no! His muscles were those of a powerfully formed fisherman. His skin was bronzed from many a hot sun and tempest beating down upon the Galilee. When the artists draw his picture it is always with the swarthy neck and the deep chest. Yet the disciple John did outrun Peter. When John surrendered his life in the work of the Master he did not have to say, "Here, Lord, is a pair of wheezy lungs and a heart whose valves are worn out, and a brain with all its corpuscles white." He did not say, "Here, Lord, are my weak nerves, too much wine I have to do anything but call for a medicine chest." Oh, no—that was not St. John! He came to the Master and said, "Here, Lord, is a fine physical body. I was born well. I promise to take care of this body. Every morning I will make it a mighty agent to do my work. I will keep it well supplied make it a mighty agent to do thy best ability, so that I may live on earth for many years possible to do thy work. Here it is, Master. Take it for thy service." Will we consecrate our bodies to God, as did John? We are prone to physical ailments, will we do all in our power to win back that health if such we have? Are you willing as well as spiritual athletes in the Master's services?

"Oh, yes," say some people, "John was one of those lovable men. He was one of those clinging vines. He was the gentle John. He never would say anything to hurt anybody's feelings. He would go miles and miles to tell a pleasant fact. He would go miles and miles to escape telling an unpleasant truth." Is this other words, was John's paint John with an effeminate face. He is supposed to have a face which closely resembles that of a great surgeon who has to drive in the knife or to a great prosecuting attorney who has to arraign a man at the bar of justice or to a great commander who has to lead on his soldiers in battle or to a great statesman who has to plead for death warrant when it is necessary and right so to do. We are not picturing him as a man of wrath and denunciation, but only of pardon and of peace; whereas, in fact, the countenance should be chiseled with firmer features of decision. He was a positive man through and through. He seemed to be able to handle the thunderbolts of heaven as no inspired writer before or since has ever been able to do. Where can we find such awful descriptions of eternal punishment as in his book of Revelation? Where such denunciation of sin and eternal death as in his apocalypse and his visions? Did you would be an apostle like St. John you must be an uncompromising foe of evil as well as one who preaches and lives for the pardon and the mercy and the forgiveness of Jesus Christ.

But as we come into the banquet hall and find the twelve apostles gathered around Jesus for the Last Supper there is another characteristic to which I want to call your attention about this same St. John. He was not only a disciple who saw visions and dreamed dreams, but he was one of the most practical of men. All his Utopias were not air castles. All his Utopias were not anchored in the cloudlands. All his telescopes were not focused upon the dim future. He could see the grass growing at his feet as well as the stars glittering above his head. Before he thought about heaven, he always had his feet planted upon the soil of earth. The ecstatic words of the celestial chorus did not drown out the roaring waves beating themselves into foam upon the rocks below. He was practical, neither did the "Bread of Heaven" entirely shut his eyes to the necessity of working in the harvest fields of his own home. In other words, when John prayed, he prayed like the common sense Christian Mr. Spurgeon once told about. A poor laborer with a large family broke his leg.

Friends decided to hold a prayer meeting to ask God to care for his helpless servant. The meeting was conducted by a Deacon Brown. Hardly had the meeting got under way when there was a knocking at the sick man's door. "Is Deacon Brown in?" asked a husky, growing youth. "Well, father wanted me to tell him that he not have time to attend the meeting to-day. He had to work. But he has sent his prayers and they are in the cart." The prayers that were sent were piled in an old farm wagon. Those prayers consisted of big bags of potatoes and beef and flour. So when St. John prayed, he prayed with his hands and feet as well as with his lips. He did not worship God as did the devotees in the Temple of Isis, who always worshiped their deity by going to sleep; but he was ready to toil and labor for his daily bread, as every other man ought to be.

"Well," you ask, "how do you make St. John out to be such a practical man? How do you know he was careful about his money matters and careful to provide clothing and a home? Does the Bible teach us that? I never heard of St. John being specially careful about his money matters." Yes, my friends, I think the Bible tells us that St. John was careful and careful about the practicalities of life.

Here is the picture: Christ is dying; the great drops of agony are oozing from his brow; groan after groan escapes his lips; he has only a few hours more of life. To whom is he going to intrust the care of his mother? All the poets and the painters and the theologians love to describe the helplessness of Mary the Virgin when Jesus was about to be born. Tell me was she so helpless then, with Sir. brawny Joseph by her side, as she was on the day of the crucifixion, when a brokenhearted, helpless widow, she knelt at the foot of the cross to see her divine Son die? Tell me, where can you find in all history a picture so pathetic as that crucifixion scene of Mary in her desolation and helplessness? Ah, yes; the most pathetic scene in all the Bible to me is that broken hearted widow watching the dying agony of her divine Son. Agony of Christ finds its echo in agony of maternal heart; dying gasp of Jesus is answered by the moaning cry of the mother, who swoons away. Now, Christ was God, but Christ was also man, and Christ did for his mother just what you and I would do for ours if we had been in his place. He intrusted to put her in the care of one who would never neglect her and never let her want. He did not give her to Peter; he was not sure of Peter; Peter was not steady enough. But he gave her to the faithful John. He practically said: "John, I know you will never neglect her; I know you will clothe her and feed her and give her a home to shelter her weary head. Look after her for my sake."

Let us learn to be like the practical John. A man cannot be a true Christian and be simply a theological Christian; he must be a practical Christian. He must know that it is his duty to work for his daily bread. He must make an honest struggle to pay his butcher, his grocer and his clothier's bill and to care for those of his own household, or else he is no Christian at all. What does James say? He says that your faith must go hand in hand with your works. Your faith can no more live without works than your hand can live after it has been amputated from the arteries of the arm. "Faith, if it hath not works, is dead." St. John was a practical worker as well as a Patmos seer.

But there are still two more thoughts to which I would call your attention. The first is, John was ready to give up his life for Christ; for Christ's sake he was ready to break the home ties and go into a foreign land as a missionary and even to yield up his life. Are you and I willing to do so much for Christ? Perhaps we are too old to become foreign missionaries or ministers of the gospel; then the next best plan that I make is that we are willing to give your children up for the service of the Master, as John went to another to the sever churches of Asia?

"Oh," says some one, "I have nothing to do in reference to my children entering the missionary or the ministerial field." That call must come from God. I do not believe in parents making ministers or in parent made missionaries. Nevertheless parents have no right to prevent children's consecration of themselves than you think. The reason we have so few theological seminaries crowded with students to-day is because the parents are not sending their children there. How are we going to get them there? By consecrating their children's lives to the Master's service at their very birth and by keeping on consecrating their children to God's service every day of their earthly lives. If by prayer we can consecrate our children to Christ, shall we not by prayer first consecrate our own selves to His dear name?

And now a closing word of warning. Like John, let us be careful that we remain faithful to Christ unto the end. Oh, that we might all, as young, as middle-aged, and as old men and women, cling close to the Master! What do I mean by this? Why I simply want to warn you against the temptations which Satan continually sets for the gray-haired, as well as for the youth of the raven locks.

This is no useless "red light" which I am throwing over the rocks lining the jagged shores of eternity. When we were young our friends were continually warning us against sin. But when we became older, when we made a success in life, when we became ministers in the pulpit or elders by the communion table or mothers of grown-up daughters, the people seemed to think we were safe. Are we? Was Solomon safe? Was David safe? Are you safe, oh father or mother? What is the sin that is most easily besetting? O God, I have often prayed for thee to save me from the sin of youth. Father, I now pray to thee to save me from the temptations of the thirties and of the forties and of the fifties and of the sixties and of the seventies, and, Lord, from the temptations of the eighties. Thou didst guard me from the sins of manhood. Though I may be thy servant to proclaim thy name in thy public, make my faith that of a little child. And this I ask in the name of Jesus Christ, who was with the aged St. John in Asia and on Patmos, and who was also with St. John in the banquet hall of the Last Supper when he was a young man.

God keep our children from sin. God keep our young men from sin. God keep us when we are middle-aged, and God keep us when old, like St. John, our eyes are dim and our step is heavy. May we be like John, the young man, and like St. John, the aged patriarch.

SUMMER CATARRH.

HOT WEATHER SEEMS TO HAVE BAD EFFECT UPON SOME PEOPLE.

It is generally admitted by physicians that many people suffer more from Catarrh in the summer than in the winter. The hot, dry weather and the change from the hot days to cool nights seems to have a bad effect upon the disease.

Dr. Hyomei advises usual methods of treating catarrh have been unsuccessful. Hyomei will cure the disease, and all catarrh sufferers should take the Hyomei cure.

In many instances Hyomei has relieved in a few minutes that have suffered since childhood. Quite a number of cases in Napanee who for years have been unable to get a good night's rest on account of the disagreeable tickling and dropping at the back of the throat, have found quick relief from a few treatments of Hyomei, and continued use has made a complete and lasting cure.

Dr. Hyomei is positively dealing with one uses Hyomei. Simply breathe the medicated air through the pocket inhaler that comes in every outfit and all germs will be killed and the membranes made to be healthy.

The complete outfit costs $1.00, extra bottles 50c.

For sale by all dealers. The R. T. Booth Co., Buffalo, N.Y.

The Best Flour,
Dafoe's Nonesuch,
Dafoe's Manitoba Patent

By numerous tests by the best bakers this standard combined grades have been proven to be the best flours in the market.

When buying flour, ask for Dafoe's, and patronize your home mills, thereby producing Bran and Shorts that you can purchase cheaper than the product of the Western mills, which has to be transported a long distance, at great expense and usually, when it reaches you, of inferior quality.

Give the miller a call. Mr. Farmer or the mechanic sends to Toronto or to outside points for articles to be bought at the home store just as good, but he does not hesitate to buy flour from mills hundreds of miles away, and call you an inferior flour, and more money than you can purchase the home product for. Quality is what is guaranteed.

Chicken feed, meal and buckwheat flour always on hand. Feed grinding a specialty. Highest cash price for mills known to the trade.

A full stock of the best Antrachite coal; also in the market for the product of Mill Seat Bag.

Ask for prizes at the Big Mill, before purchasing your Flour, Feed or Coal.

Pandora Range

Managed Like an Engine.

One-third of a housekeeper's life is spent in her kitchen.
One-half the labor of housekeeping is at the cook stove.
Your range can double or halve the cooking slavery of housekeeping.
A poor range adds worry as well as work, and worry multiplies the housekeeper's care.
Get a range that reduces the work and eliminates the worry.
The Pandora Range is as easily and accurately managed as an engine—it responds to the touch as quickly and certainly as the huge engine obeys the hand of the engineer.
The Pandora Range saves worry, and because worry kills, it prolongs life. Sold by enterprising dealers everywhere. Write for booklet.

HOW NOT TO SPOIL THE HAIR

Don't use a comb to spread the pompadour by pulling the hair forward over the forehead.

Don't comb the hair from the forehead over backward when arranging to brush it. The hair is long and heavy the strain comes on the front hairs with each stroke of the brush. If they do not fracture and fall out at once, they become loosened in the follicle, kink up and drop out later.

Avoid vigorous brushing; bear in mind that the hair in the head is worth two in the brush.

Don't use curlers or kids during sleeping hours.

Don't grasp the front hair by the puls tie a band and comb upward from points to crown "roughing it" in order to make a full round pompadour. This needless abuse destroys life and lustre, fractures the hair shaft, renders it knotty, and produces a frumpy, aged appearance.

Don't use face bleach without first protecting the hair line by saturating with cocoanut cream or cocoanut oil.

Don't scrub the hair line with a facial brush; pin a small towel over the hair before you commence operations with a facial brush.

Don't rub facial cream into the hair line when using it on the face, as it fills the follicles with fatty substance and prevents proper growth.

Don't use strong alkalies to lighten the color, or shampoo too frequently to keep the hair fluffy.

Don't linger on the beach after bathing and allow the salt to dry in the hair.

Don't take everybody's advice and dull sorts of things to your hair and scalp.

Follet Marion Lee in the September Delineator.

"MAKE HAY WHILE THE SUN SHINES."

There is a lesson in the work of the thrifty farmer. He knows that the bright sunshine may last but a day and he prepares for the showers which are so liable to follow. So it should be with every person clear headed, diarrhoea and cholera morbus may attack some member of the family without warning. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy which is the best known medicine for these diseases, should always be close at hand, as immediate treatment is necessary, and delay may prove fatal. A SYSTEM FOR KEEPING YOUNG.

"Here is a summary" writes Harriet Ma-tin in the New Idea Woman's Magazine for September, "of a number of rules that can keep the busiest, the most beautiful, the plainest, the cleverest, the stupidest woman young all her life: Have a conscious determination to keep sweet (mental-ly). Have determination to use your brains for so many as the case may be, to develop them is every possible way in order that you may increasingly develop. Have a purpose you may show in your countenance; have a determination, having developed your brains, to use them for the sake of the purpose you may be sensible and therefore suitable to your time of life, and that your dress may evidence a knowledge of your years and your general good judgment. Having thus attended to the matter of your life over which you really have the responsibility, await events, never attempt to hurry them, remembering that 'thy fate is hurrying after thee.'

The reason so many rules are made about a woman's age is mainly in her strong dependence on her looks. Men, vain as they are, are more given to observation and less to comment upon the disadvantage. Dust as soon as women in their looks—face and figure—learn to dress—health to become more, rather than less, attentive, the ugly thing will cease."

Stadelcher, pensively— "Yes, that's just exactly like you. Jason! Jason! Why don't you consider the case for a coolin' woman than a mill-stun! How do you s'pose I can rip up wame with a safety razor?"

GEORGE LOTT,

A prominent citizen of this county, died at his home, Newburgh Road, on Sunday last, in his eighty-third year. Mr. Lott was an unusually intelligent and keen business man, and for years was extensively engaged in lumbering with the Hon. John Stevenson, and also with the late John D. Ham. He leaves besides his widow, two sons, Albert, in Mexico, and William, on the homestead. He was a member of the Methodist church and a life-long reformer. The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon to the Eastern cemetery vault, and was one of the largest seen in these parts for years.

SIMPLIFIED SPELLING IN ACTUAL USE

We notice that The Robinson Co. have adopted the use of the simplified spelling in their advertisements. Simplified spelling is rapidly taking the place of the older and more cumbersome forms. So eminent a body as The National Education Society Association of many thousand members has deliberately selected a number of simplified spellings to be used in its printed documents, and these spellings have been adopted by many periodicals and by hundreds of individuals. We commend The Robinson Co. for their progressiveness.

OUR NEW PRESS.

It is very seldom that The Beaver ever "toots its own horn", but when there is anything new it is always of importance enough to let our readers know about. This is a century of progressiveness all over our fair Province, and we are pleased to state that the circulation of The Beaver has grown in the past ten years to such an extent that it has become necessary to install a new newspaper press, which the expert starts to erect to-day. The circulation of The Beaver has nearly reached the 2,000 mark, and as our present press prints about 1,000 an hour, it takes about half a day to get out our weekly issue. The new press is a wonder for speed and will print from 1,500 to 1,800 papers an hour. It weighs over 14,000 pounds and will sit on two concrete piers. We invite our readers to call and see it whenever convenient. Also if you owe a dollar for subscription this would be a splendid time to pay it, as the press costs $1,800.00 and we need the money.

IS IT THE MARY?

John S. Parsons, of Oswego, N.Y., received a telegram from D. F. Densmore, captain of the Cornelia, stating that he had seen the upset of a two-masted schooner off Galoup Island, Capt. Densmore adds that he believes the boat to be the schooner Mary. The Mary left Fair Haven, November 6th last, and was seen off Oswego that evening, under bare poles. This was the last ever know of her. She had on board her wife, Andrew Baird, Jr., of Napanee, and three men. She was loaded with 210 tons of coal, consigned to Napanee. AN ENVIABLE RECORD.

On page two will be found the results of the recent departmental exams. The results for Napanee Collegiate Institute are truly wonderful, ninety-seven per cent of candidates being successful. This is but a repetition of the results for the past three or four years, and Principal Finch and his staff are deserving of the highest praise. We question if another Collegiate in the Province can show such successful work. For Part I. senior teachers, 13 tried and 13 were successful. For Part II. senior teachers, 1 tried and 1 passed. For Part II. junior teachers, 14 tried and 12 were successful. For full junior of matriculation, 7 tried and all passed—2 in all 2 note and 35 succeeded. Of the successful ones 10 took honors, Harrah for Napanee. The full list will be found on page 2. Mr. Thos. Maxwell's name was omitted through an error. He was successful in Part I., senior teachers, without physics.

NEWBURGH'S CASE.

Mr. Editor: In your last issue I endeavored to consider the question, "Is Newburgh dead?" Our investigations led us to the conclusion that it is not dead. So that further consideration of its case will not be of the nature of a post mortem, but rather a diagnoses, to ascertain the nature and effect of some functional troubles with which it is afflicted. As a matter of fact, some of its organs have been considerably overwrought in the past, and are therefore in a weak and exhausted condition.

The Council of Newburgh, which we designated the heart, struggled for years with a debt placed upon the village to bonus the B. of Q. Railway. To the credit of the council of those days, backed by the ratepayers, the debt has been entirely wiped out, but the effect has been followed by a great deal of lassitude and indifference.

Many of those who were instrumental in placing this debt upon the village took the first opportunity to get out, in some cases leaving behind them property which is becoming more and more dilapidated and unsightly. If some of the old boys and girls should revisit the old town, they could be entertained in groves of hardwood and sweet clover, on their own property. This state of things has a bad effect on others who are residents follow the example of others, and with regard to their property, so that instead of being one of the most beautiful villages in Ontario, which nature has contributed largely to make it, Newburgh as a whole is, unsightly and shabby, and a decided lack of public spirit is manifest.

To meet and correct this state of things, it is necessary that the council take up and pursue a vigorous and progressive policy, setting an example of thrift and enterprise, of which, I am sure, the citizens will not be slow to catch the spirit.

There are habits which tend to public evil, which arise upon the citizens of communities such as ours. Some of these may be considered in future communications, as well as some of the bright and pleasant things of which Newburgh has not a few.

JOHN COLIN FORBES R. C. A.

Canada's Great Portrait Painter

The artist who was commissioned by the Canadian Government to paint the portraits of King Edward and Queen Alexandra for the Dominion House of Parliament, and whose services were honored with sittings by their Majesties in the early part of this year, is John Colin Forbes who has a long trail of successes in his sixty years.

Born in Toronto of Scotch-English parents, he was educated at Upper Canada College in his native city, and at an early age showed the first faint dawnings of his artistic genius. He was entirely self-taught, following with the sure instinct of true power along the lines of nature, and sketching and painting out his own destiny until he produced his first real work, a portrait of his father. This revealed so commanding an exhibit of his ability that he was sent to study at the South Kensington Museum, and later at the Royal Academy in London. One of his first paintings, a marine view called "Toronto Bay," took a first prize at the Provincial Exhibition in 1886 and he later painted a number of portraits that added greatly to his fame, notably those of Lord Dufferin, Sir John Macdonald, Alexander MacKenzie, Edward Blake, Sir Charles Tupper and Lady Helen Blackwood.

In 1881 he was elected to the Royal Canadian Academy of Arts and five years later painted for the Canadian Pacific R.R. a series of pictures which reproduced some of the masterpieces of Nature's painting and sculpture in the wild romantic Canadian Rockies, where Titanic mountains, deep gorges, great expanses of scenery are shown in a color scheme of Nature at her best. These gave him themes that filled his artistic soul with joy. Those who are familiar with his paintings "The Canon in the Royal Gorge," "The Mount of the Holy Cross," "Mount Stephen," and the "Glacier of the Selkirks" must ever carry with them the memory of their majestic beauty and power. In 1891 members of the Canadian Liberal party sent him to England to paint a full-length portrait of Gladstone for the National Liberal Club of London. For the past few years much of his work has been done in the United States where he has made portraits of many of the leading men of the country.

Fire and water have been merciless in their pursuit of Mr. Forbes. When the steamer "Hibernia" went down in mid-ocean in 1859 it carried with it some of his best paintings and he barely escaped with his life, and his famous painting of the Parliament buildings destroyed by fire in 1879. In these and other years of trial he fed the flames, and yet this Phœnix painter of Canada, undismayed and undaunted, has ever risen with new life from the ashes.

Entered according to Act of the Parliament of Canada, in the year 1906, by W. C. Mack, at the Department of Agriculture

The Yarker baseball team played in Newburgh on Saturday, and won by a score of 12-5. Mann, Mooney, the Yarker pitcher, had everything, and kept the local's score down. Some fine and the ball innings when they fell on his offerings, for four runs. George Shorey worked for the home team, and pitched a good game, though the support he got was quite unequal to his opponent's. The Gentle Kidney Cure.

Don't think that Bu-Ju is not effective because it does not "tear things loose." The man, who talks most, does least. Kidney remedies that purge—and overstimulate the kidneys—upset the stomach—are going to do you mighty little good.

Bu-Ju

goes about curing you gently, mildly, correctly. You never know you are taking medicine—except that you begin to get better and keep on getting better. Bu-ju heals inflammation in the kidneys—takes away that sharp pain in the back and the dull ache through the hips—stops excessive urination—all causes, in fact, of diseased portions of the kidneys to heal and strengthen.

Women

Make Healthy Women.

Upon being taken into the stomach, the various ingredients are absorbed by the blood, and then find their way to every organ and tissue.

Some reach the uterine system. These allay inflammation, stop all drains on the system and make women regular.

Some strengthen the stomach. They help digestion and increase the appetite.

Others act on the bowels. They cure constipation.

Other ingredients stimulate the liver and kidneys in carrying off impurities from the system.

Others reach the nerves. These tone up the nervous system and supply vital energy, thereby curing the nervousness, sleeplessness and melancholy, to which so many women are subject.

The full effect of all the medicaments in the tablets is to arouse the entire female system to renewed life and vigor.

Improvement is noticed the first week.

Has Taken a Thousand

Zutoo

Always Cured Headache. Never Affected her Heart.

Here is a testimonial from the wife of Doctor W. L. Shurtleff, K.C., of Coaticook, Que., who has taken a thousand ZutooTablets (the Japanese Vegetable Headache remedy.)

It should convince any doubting one, that while the tablets cure headache, they do not, like the cures, affect the heart, the nerves or stomach. No one would or could take such a number if they were not perfectly harmless. Mrs. Shurtleff herself had to discard the drug cures.

Here is what she says:

I have always been a great sufferer from headache, and have taken a great many headache cures. I found that after taking them for a time they caused palpitation of the heart. Three years ago I began using Zutoo. I have likely taken over a thousand tablets. I have never yet felt the least ill-effect from using them and they cure my headaches as quickly as any remedy I ever took.

They are Harmless as Soda.

Blaze At Deseronto.

Deseronto, Aug. 25th—One of the most disastrous fires which has occurred here in recent years started this Saturday afternoon, shortly after 2 o'clock, and for about an hour threatened to wipe out the whole eastern portion of the town. The fire originated at the big trestle shed decked by the Bathurst Lumber Company, beside of a few minutes the whole shed was a mass of flame. The blaze was a strong south wind blowing towards the town, and it was seen that everything was doomed to destruction unless help could be had. An alarm was at once sent in, and every engine available was pressed into service to help keep down the blaze. The big trestle shed, with its thousands of feet of lumber and corded of hardwood belonging to the Bathhurst Company, and all the houses were destroyed. The firemen were handicapped on account of the scarcity of water. Two docks, with a large quantity of lumber and St. Mark's Church were in danger for a time.

The fire was got under control at 2 o'clock Sunday morning, the trestle and dump cars were destroyed, in addition to the immense amount in the immediate vicinity. There are from 2,000 to 2,500 tourists in Deseronto, and at one time it was feared that the town would be very seriously suffered from the flames. Fortunately this did not prove to be the case, although the loss was severe enough. A number of residences were threatened, and a good many people moved out of their homes for fear they might be burned out, but only three or four residences were damaged. The Napanee fire brigade did good service.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh, that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

"WHEN WOMEN LOVE."

"When Women Love," the big, new scenic melodrama, will be presented at the Opera House, Friday, 31st of August, by a large and competent company. The scenic production is worthy of note, and is one of the best attractions playing in popular priced houses. The play is a new one, and this combination will fit the rich and poor, the scenes being laid in New York City, principally in the slums, during the women's ward at Hackwell's Island; the interior of a large factory, and in the summer home of a capitalist; the great mob scene, and the garden fete with its numerous electrical effects.

The novel features, elaborate scenery, and thrilling climaxes make it an attraction above the ordinary. It is a play that will delight and please all classes. The action of the piece is interspersed with musical specialties, rendered by well-known vaudeville artists. Plan at S. S. Rawley's.

Then, after the tones of that voice ... above the tumult, Rosamund stopped ... and looked around her, but saw no ... one, for the guard hemmed her in. "Ay, ay," answered Godwin, "that's ... easy to be done, but not yours," ... said the bishop gently, "come to our ... tent and let us to our knees. and she entered the great courtyard of the convent, and saw that it was decorated as though for a festival, for about it and in the cloisters round hung many lamps. More; these cloisters and the space in front of them were crowded with Saracen lords, bearing their robes of state, while yonder sat Saladin and his court.

"That for the third time you may plot their escape from my vengeance?" said Saladin. "Nay, bide in Jerusalem and await my word; you shall meet them at the last, no more."

It was the voice of Godwin, and on his head was the tonsure of a monk.

Lo! attended by squires and minstrels, Wulf came forth, clad in splendid armour inlaid with gold, wearing on his shoulder a mantel set with gems and on his breast the gleaming Star of the Lock of Hassan. To Rosamund he he strode and stood by her, his hands resting on the hilt of his long sword.

"Princess," said Saladin, "I give you back your rank and titles, because you have shown a noble heart; and you, Sir Wulf, I honor also as best I may, but to my decree I hold. Let them go together to the drinking of the cup of their destiny as to a bridal bed."

Again the trumpets blew and the heralds called, and they led them to the doors of the chapel, which at their knocking were thrown wide. From within came the sound of women's voices singing, but it was no sad song they sang.

"The sisters of the Order are still there," said Rosamund to Wulf, "and would cheer us on our road to heaven."

"Perchance," he answered. "I know not, I am amazed."

At the door the company of Moslems left them, but they crowded round the entrance as though to watch what passed. Now down the long aisle walked a single white-robed figure. It was the abbess.

"What shall we do, Mother?" said Rosamund to her.

"Follow me, both of you," she said, and they followed her through the nave to the altar rails, and at a sign from her knelt down.

Now they saw that on either side of the altar stood a Christian priest. The priest to the right—it was the bishop Egbert—came forward and began to read over them the marriage service of their faith.

"They'd wed us ere we die," whispered Rosamund to Wulf.

"So be it," he answered; "I am glad."

"And I also, beloved," she whispered back.

The service went on—as in a dream, the service went on, while the nuns and robed sisters sat in their carven chairs and watched. The rings that were handed to them had been changed; Wulf had taken Rosamund to wife, Rosamund had taken Wulf to husband, till death did them part.

Then the old bishop withdrew to the altar, and another hooded monk came forward and uttered over them the ben-diction in a deep and sonorous voice, which stirred their hearts strangely, as though some echo reached them from beyond the grave. He had all hands above them in blessing and looked upwards, so that his hood fell back, and the light of the altar lamp fell upon his face.

It was the face of Godwin, and on his head was the tonsure of a monk.

Once more they stood before Saladin, and now their train was swelled by the abbess and sisters of the Holy Cross.

"Sir Wulf D'Arcy," said the Sultan, "and you, Rosamund, my niece, princess of Malbec, the dregs of this cup are sweet or bitter, or bitter-sweet, are drunk; the doom which I decreed for you is accomplished, and, according to your own rites, you are man and wife till Allah sends upon you that death which I withhold. Because you showed mercy upon those doomed to die and were the means of mercy being also give you mercy, and with it my love and honor. Now bide here if you will in my freedom, and enjoy your own wealth, or go hence if you will, and live out your lives across the sea. The blessing of Allah be upon you, and turn your souls to light. This is the decree of Yusuf Salah-ed-din, Commander of the Faithful, Conqueror and Caliph of the East."

Trembling, full of joy and wonder, they knelt before him and kissed his hand. Then, after a few swift words between them, Rosamund spoke:

"Sire, that God whom you have invoked, the God of Christian and of Moslem, the God of all the heavens and of the world worship Him in many ways and shapes, bless and reward you for this royal deed. Yet listen to our petition. It may be that many of our faith still lie unransomed in Jerusalem. Be my lands and gems and wealth to be valued, and their price given to pay for the liberty of some poor slaves. It is our marriage offering. As for us, we will get us to our own country."

"So be it," answered Saladin. "The lands I take for my own, and decree the sum of them as you desire—yes, to the last bezant. The jewels also shall be valued, and their price sent back to you as my wedding dower. To these nuns further I grant permission to bide here in Jerusalem to nurse the Christian sick, unharmed and unmolested, if so they will, and this because they sheltered you. Ho! minstrels and heralds lead this new-wed pair to the place that has been prepared for them."

Still trembling and bewildered, they turned to go, when lo! Godwin stood before them smiling, and kissed them both upon the cheek, calling them "Beloved brother and sister."

"And you, Godwin!" stammered Rosamund.

"So Rosamund, have also found my bride, and she is named the Church of Christ."

"You said, then, return to England, brother?" asked Wulf.

"Nay," Godwin answered, in a fierce whisper and with flashing eyes, "the Cross is down, but not forever. That Cross has Richard of England and many another true champion beyond the seas, and they will come at the Church's call. Here, brother, before all is done, we may meet again in war. Till then, farewell."

So spoke Godwin and then was gone.

THE END.

Narrowness.

It is strange, very strange, to me that many men should devote themselves so entirely to the study of their own particular callings. It seems as if they thought a mind must grow narrow before it can come to a focus. We send our young men abroad to enlarge and modify their notions, but those who stay at home shut themselves up with the primers and catechisms of their professions and their arteries are stiffened into machines for specific purposes. The knowledge of a man who confines himself to one object bears the same relation to that of the liberal scholar that the red or violet ray of a prism does to the blended light of a sunbeam.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Fresh Water Leviathan.

The official announcement will probably be made soon that the Midland Navigation Co. of Toronto are closing with the Collingwood Shipbuilding Co. for the construction of the largest Canadian steamer on the great lakes. The new vessel is to be delivered by next October, but will not participate in the grain business next year, and for this reason construction will have to be commenced at an early date. The unofficial information places the vessel as 450 feet long, 55 feet beam, and her capacity as something in excess of 300,000 bushels. The same company control the Midland King and Midland Queen.

The Waiter Brought It.

A Toronto man took a well-known clergyman in to lunch at a well-known buffet, upstairs, a few days ago, and after he had given the order for both of them the clergyman picked up the handed to them had been changed; Wulf had taken Rosamund to wife, Rosamund had taken Wulf to husband, till death did them part.

"I'm blind as a bat," he observed on finding that he could not read it.

"Yes, sir," said the waiter, who had been standing by.

In a moment the waiter returned with a pint of Labatt's ale, which he proceeded to uncork and pour into the glass of the nonplussed clergyman. Then it dawned on him that the waiter had misunderstood his remark about his defective eyesight.

Cages For Grasshoppers.

There is a regular business in Italy of making little wire cages for grasshoppers. The insect is regarded as lucky, and if one can be got alive in the cage for a month it is believed the year will be prosperous. The superstition arose from this incident: A cardinal of the Medici family invited a bishop to dine with him in his garden. The cardinal drank to the bishop a glass of wine. A grasshopper fell from a tree into the wine, and the bishop did not drink it. The wine was afterward found to have been poisoned.

Underhanded Methods.

"George," sharply demanded Mrs. Ferguson, "what was it you cut out of this paper?"

"It was this, Laura," responded Mr. Ferguson, promptly producing the clipping from his vest pocket and handing it over.

"Why, it's an article on the wastefulness and extravagance of housewives, and he knew, the designing wretch, that in no other way could he have succeeded in bringing it to Mrs. Ferguson's attention.

Paris in Londen.

A show-place in Earl's Court in London is a great permanent exhibition to be known as Paris in London, with an imitation Paris courtyard and galleries, a theatre where good plays are to be given in French, an arcade of shops and cafe restaurants gay with flower beds and fountains.

LIFE WORTH LIVING.

Appreciation of Duty By Tom Watson, Candidate For U. S. Presidency.

"The life which is truly worth living," Tom Watson said in the magazine for August, "has not always led to ease, worldly success, happiness and earthly honors.

"Too often the man who consecrates himself to the nobler purpose has been what the world called a failure; has been led away into captivity by pitiless foes, has died at the stake amid torments.

"But, like the Indian brave, such a warrior has never feared the stake nor the torture.

"Like the Indian brave, such a warrior has always given no sign of shrinking, and amid the flames in which he dies his death song rises to thrill the world.

"I have fought a good fight. Never once did I lower my flag. To the Right and Truth I was true. To it I was always true. Not once did I bend the knee to the Wrong, consciously.

"All my life I fought for the betterment of humanity. Here are the scars to show it. Defeat has rolled over me, but not stifled me.

"To no man or woman have I knowingly done hurt; if I have not done some good it is not because I failed to try.

"To millions of my fellow-men I found the chains of a bondage more galling than slavery; I did my utmost to show them how to be free.

"Millions I found hungry, naked, homeless; I did my best to point the way and to organize into plenty.

"I found the old foes of the human race winning ground day by day; the rich man grinding the face of the poor! the tyrant using Law and Government to rob the people; the priest again spreading the cloud of ignorant Faith over the sunny fields of Knowledge; the hired politician and the State once more uniting to plunder the human race and to divide the spoil.

"Against these ancient devourers of men, against these relentless foes of the human race, champion of humanity, I raised the cry of defiance, fought them with all the power that God had given me, and though I might do to arouse my fellow-man to a sense of the peril which was coming upon him.

"Yea! I have fought a good fight. Here are my wounds. No white flag flew over my citadel. It held out to the last.

"Loneliness pained but did not subdue me; prosecution saddened but did not conquer me; friends deserted me and foes multiplied, but I was not utterly cast down. The sacred torch of human progress I held aloft, even as better men had done in the ages of the past.

"Its light will not fail. Others will seize upon it and bear it on. Some day the night will pass, and the human race will no longer grope in gloom.

"In that my faith is strong. For that I have never ceased to watch and pray and work.

"And now my part is done. The shadows gather about me—but I am not afraid. The voices from the dark-ness call for me—and without regret I go.

"Duty grants me her honorable discharge; Conscience acquits me of her service; the boon of Peace Within seethes upon me with the caress of infinite calm—and so I pass down into the turning of the darkened road, with no pang or remorse in my heart, and no chill of doubt or fear on my soul.'

"Thus one will have lived the life worth living, or the life worth the big hut or stately mansion.

"While it is yet day and he can work, he works unhasting and unresting. At the loom of time he toils persistently, weaving into his life-garment threads of gold.

"The creed of such a man is an inspiration; his life a call to duty. His tomb becomes an altar; his death a song of triumph. Neither rust nor time shall dim the splendor of his effort; and the influence of his thought and his example shall not be lost upon the world as long as Duty has a devotee and Truth a holy shrine."

SUMMER DIARRHOEA IN CHILDREN

During the hot weather of the summer months diarrhoea, sometimes of a chronic nature, occurs, and attacks are frequent. Before a disease becomes serious it is necessary to check it. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy followed by a dose of castor oil to clear the system (to which a little paregoric has been added) are all that is necessary. Sold by M. E. Church, Little Fells, Mc-Donald's Corners. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is a very valuable remedy especially for use during the summer season. Sold by The Red Cross Drug Store.

ANECDOTES OF DAVITT.

A Moonlighter's Joke On Organizer of Irish Land League—Story Told By William O'Brien, M. P.

In his "Recollections" William O'Brien, M. P., relates this story concerning his conference, the late Michael Davitt, the organizer of the Irish Land League, when the latter was carrying on a campaign against the moonlight atrocities prevalent in the south of Ireland a few years ago:

The principal form of the outrages took was the destruction of cattle belonging to Lord—, and the moonlighters took the ingenious device of maiming as well as killing the cattle in order to deprive Lord— of all evidence.

After an speech in which the orator denounced the moonlighters roundly to a crowd Mr. Davitt was entertained at dinner in the local hotel. After dinner he was waited upon by a group of stalwart young men, the ringleader of whom said:

"That was a fine speech of yours today, Mr. Davitt, and we were a bit hard on the boys, but they have no grudge against you for it. I hope you made a good dinner anyway."

"Never ate a proper piece of beef in my life," replied the poor fellow.

"I'm not surprised at that," remarked the moonlight captain, "it was the hide cut off one of Lord —'s bullocks!"

Spoke the Gaelic.

A good story of Michael Davitt was revived by the illustrated London News apropos of the publication of his speech, "The Inner Light For Freedom." The story pertains to one of Davitt's speeches as organizer of the Irish Land League and runs as follows:

"He lashed his large audience into a sort of frenzy by his strictures upon English rule and Irish slavery. During his most impassioned and eloquent, if least loyal, passage he was interrupted by the arrival of the Government shorthand reporter, who dashed up on an outside jaunting car accompanied by three members of the Irish constabulary with rifles and side arms fixed. The fresh arrival immediately prepared to take down the words that were burning from the man who was at that time second to none, including Charles Stewart Parnell, as the chosen of the people. Davitt paused and gazed at his new hearer, who awaited him, notebook and pencil in hand, and then, turning to a man of supreme calmness, he finished his peroration in the wild eloquence of their native language, and then bowed to the reporter to exhibit, for certainly the Government reporter did not, as he gazed blankly at the speaker. The audience understood and appreciated his purport, expressing their approbat on in wild and unbounded screams and shouts."

Japanese English Again.

The following English is of the "world language" order. It is from the Japan Mail:—

"Zinolia" Musk Soap is comprehend the most useful ichthyolum for the skin therefore it has a great effectual point for the beauty of the face, and the skin disease.

This soap is specially made with the good trial for the materials and it will be used long time because it is very hard.

If you once used it, it has the peculiarity of impearting its desirable Violet and unbleached odor of Musk to other objects, and at least for the five days, it may be used to scent clothing, gloves, towel, handkerchief, summer garment, and bed.

Also, if you always used, it has a great economical effectual point, not to be used perfumes, artificial musks, waters, etc.

Its style is no adornment and the materials are made with great attention, therefore it is far superior to foreign made and its price is very lower.

ABANDONMENT OF CHILDREN.

Crime Increasing Through Parents Neglecting Their Children.

Judge Snider, of the Toronto police court, has been giving a timely warning to parents who neglect their children. Only a few days ago he had to deal with a case of this kind, and he took occasion to point out to the parents of the boy in question that they were to blame for the lad's misdeeds. He said that the boy was only following the example set by his parents, and that if they would show a better example he would follow it. Judge Snider thinks that the time has arrived when parents should be compelled to look after their children, and that if they neglect to do so they should be punished. He says that there is no excuse for the present state of affairs, as there is plenty of work for everybody who wants it. The trouble, he says, is that many parents are too lazy to work, and that they prefer to live on the earnings of their children. He thinks that the time has arrived when something should be done to put a stop to this state of affairs, and that the only way to do it is to punish the parents who neglect their children. The above is a fair sample of the quarrelling and bickering in the home. A quarrelsome husband is a curse to his family, and a wife who is always nagging is the cause of half of the trouble.

The first thing to do is to get rid of the habit of nagging and fault finding. Then the husband and wife must be taught to control their tempers, and to be more considerate of each other's feelings. They must learn to be more patient with each other's faults, and to make allowances for them.

This, however, is a very difficult matter to accomplish, and it is a problem that has puzzled the wisest men and women for ages. It is a problem that will probably never be entirely solved, but it is one that should be given more attention than it has received in the past.

DID ALL HE COULD.

From the Pittsburg Sun.

"Ah, quoth the Irishman, as his chief upon returned beef and cabbage, 'I guess I'll take a drink fix for a king.'

But alas! it was Prohibition.

'Give me some of the whitefish,' he said.

'Very sorry, sir, but this all out,' replied the waiter. 'Have some beef?'

'Well, make it blotfish.'

He scanned the menu in order to find a more to his taste.

'Ah, here's some piece of shad!' he cried in utmost amazing his lips. 'Bring me a shad, and be quick about it, because we have none,' said the waiter.

The customer hurriedly read his eye along the menu, but finding nothing to his liking, his appetite grew more keen than ever.

'Bring me a shad,' he said, in such a stern tone. Anyhow, asked for it.

COURAGE REWARDED.

From the Cornell Plain Dealer.

"In the Seventeenth Ward," said the old politician, "we rewarded courage much sooner than marriage usually does. If a man had the courage to marry into the Ward he got a job right away. If he married a girl with a mother-in-law he got a job as a driver. If he married a girl with seven brothers he got a job as a policeman. I don't want to be understood as saying that courage is a good thing to have when you're going to get married, but you can't look at it in any other light when you see how many men get married with their knees knocking together and their teeth chattering. I've seen men get married who had more courage than a lion tamer, and I've seen them get married who had less than a rabbit. I've seen them get married who were brave enough to face a cannon, and I've seen them get married who were afraid to look at a mouse. I've seen them get married who had the courage of a prize fighter, and I've seen them get married who had the courage of a chicken. I've seen them get married who had the courage of a lion, and I've seen them get married who had the courage of

The Rockwell Family.

Historical Records Date Back to the Norman Conquest.

Illustrated Weekly.

The name Rockwell is of Norman origin, being derived from a town in Normandy called Rochorville. The first of the family was called "of Rochorville," or "the Rochorville," as no other first appears upon the records.

History of the family begins with Sir Ralph de Rochorville, who accompanied the Empress Maud into England when she claimed the throne of that realm during the Norman conquest, 1066. Sir Ralph ultimately joined King Henry II, and for valor and patriotism was granted three knights' fees of land," in the County of York.

These knights' fees of land as "as much as three yokes of oxen can plow in one season." This statement is a sign of Rochville's importance and influence.

The name has been smoothed from generation to generation. Sir James Rockwell, of Rockwell Hall, Hoxbridge, County of York, being the representative of the family in 1660.

During the reign of James II., when so many sought refuge in America, these hunted people organized themselves into a religious body. Among them were Rockwells, and sailed forth to the new world. William Rockwell, the subject of this church organization, took passage with wife and son Jacob at Bow, Mary and John. They located in Massachusetts in 1630, and made a home for themselves on Connecticut River, where he was deacon of the church, the oldest in the colony to this day, except that of Salem. He was one of the select men of the town, and was admitted freeman October 19th, 1630. His name appears as all the early land grants. Subsequently he removed to Windsor, Conn., Stamford, Conn., and finally settled in Rockville, Conn., where he died May 15th, 1640, leaving three sons—John, Samuel, and Joseph, who settled in Windsor.

Deacon William is considered the pioneer of all the Rockwells in America, as a family well represented in every State and in Canada.

The pilgrim William married for his wife Susannah Chapin, of Windsor, and through their daughters, who also married Christopher Huntington, a descendant of former Premier W. S. Grant. After the death of William Rockwell his wife married, in 1642, Matthew Grant.

It is a matter of story that Deacon William brought along his coat of arms which is also found upon the tombstone of his wife.

The eldest son of Deacon William Rockwell was Samuel, Jr., the 2nd, a leading man in the town of Windsor, and through their daughters, who also married Christopher Huntington, and a descendant of former Premier W. S. Grant. After the death of William Rockwell his wife married, in 1642, Matthew Grant.

It is a matter of story that Deacon William brought along his coat of arms which is also found upon the tombstone of his wife and was painted on the panels of his house.

Jacob, the eldest son of Deacon William Rockwell, Jr., 2nd Samford, Ct., in 1681, head of the fourth generation married Judith Keeler and settled at Ridgefield, Ct.

Jacob, Jr., of Colchynock, Ct., late son in 1760, was divided into "seven" parts, each being the number of proprietors, of whom James Rockwell is fourth generation was one.

In every way the Rockwells have been prominent in the affairs of the country. Members of the Republican were Lieut. Thaddeus and Hon. John, both of Connecticut. Thadd us was an early member of the Council of State. John was elected after the close of the war of Independence and long was secretary, a dignified post. He was also a member of the house of representatives in the 3rd, 4th and 5th congress.

One of the ministers of Mary Queen of Hudson to and the Earl of Northumberland and Lord Percy, the latter and Hon. Sept. Percy from the army of Earl Douglas. American traditions have it that Lord Ellis threw his cloak in Macmillan toy of remarkable strength. passed the day on many occasions, notably upon the on memorable night handed, he declared a crowd. I seems that one of his knights a mutiny had arisen and he will dam further than he had any right. The knights tried in every way to induce him to lower his dam to no purpose. Finally one night Jim would that unless he did so they would tear it away and on night assembled to put the threat into execution. They found the dam guarded by the owner and all his friends, armed with firearms and rude clubs, and threatening to shoot any man who put his foot on the works. This baffled the crowd, and they were loth to disperse, when Mr. Rockwell cried out:

"You just hold my hat and coat, and I will take the fort alone."

He then went down and said to the crowd: "You villains, the records have it so, and this must be a faithful chronicle. Would you murder a man without any arms? Pile up your arms and I will clean you out in five minutes."

They agreed to this invitation. The doughty hero of this tale took the fort by the collar, and threw him into the pond, and repeated the operation until four were floating in the water and the others had fled.

The dam was not disturbed and the mill ran peaceably ever after.

Rockwell characters are fearless and independent, decidedly, fairness, with intelligent and effective discharge of every duty, either to God or man, strong and active sympathies for the poor and oppressed, and a desire to do to all in spite of public opinion, and a hatred of shams and hypocrisies of information are also characteristics of the Rockwells.

He had a mind willing well pay with more." Another, the cast of his own from to equanimity."

The family occupy a position of importance as professional men, preachers of the gospel and statesmen. Eight have been United States Senators, nine members, five judges of the United States courts, one chief justice of the district of Columbia, one judge of the Supreme Court, judge, John Arnold Rockwell, of the U. S. Court of Claims, Washington, and Samuel, was the chief originator of the Court of Claims, Washington, Columbia, Massachusetts, also a prominent statesman.

Among the coats of arms which sound from the middle centuries, are, and Gules, Or, Sable, Argent, Azure, Vert, Purpure and Proper. Motto, "Tout pour mon Dieu et mon Roi." "All for God and my King."

The armorial bearing of animals is one of the most ancient forms of symbolism, and to obtain a warrior. The boar is a fierce animal, and the wild boys, and means fighting only with its tusk, and is therefore a fitting emblem to adorn the shield of a valiant soldier. A wild boar was the badge of Richard III. A boar's head was given by the first duke of Normandy to his lord as the condition of feudal tenure. It was also the emblem of hospitality, being conspicuous in baronial times at every great feast. At Queen's College, Oxford, bringing in the boar's head at the Christmas feast is still a good function.

The motto or and argent signify, the first, generosity and elevation of mind, the other peace and sincerity. Sable and Or are emblems of constancy and grave military fortitude and magnanimity.

BLEANOR LEXINGTON.

ASAHEL ROCKWELL.

Asahel Rockwell, who is mentioned in this record, emigrated from Connecticut, U.S.A., came to Canada in the year 1810, and died at the age of 86 years and 6 months. He raised a family of six sons and two daughters. He was a carpenter and joiner, a staunch, prosperous and devoted man in secular and religious life. Just before he died he asked his wife and her eldest to raise him up and he sang several verses in a grand old hymn of early days. Then to his dear ones he said, "Now, lay me down; I am as happy as a king." These were his last words on earth. His eldest son is Benjamin Spicer Rockwell, now 81 years old, a hearty, vigorous and respected citizen of our town. Among the descendants of the Rockwell family are many of the names of those mentioned in this record, Asahel, Andrew, John, Almon, Nelson and Rev. Floyd and Spencer. The late grand-sire has left in this town, in Bedeque, and Duluth, and has four sons and one daughter, twelve grandsons and one granddaughter; seven great grandsons and four great granddaughters. There are three great great grandsons, and two great great granddaughters. The eldest children of the great grandson of William and Ferdinand Spicer, who live in Chicago.

DISGUISED BLESSINGS

PREACHER BRINGS RECONCILING REASON TO BIBLE PARADOX.

A NEW INTERPRETATION

How the "Prince of Peace" Could Say "I am Come to Send Fire Upon the Earth," and Still Maintain His Character as a Benefactor of Mankind — Symbol of Heat a Strange Blessing in Disguise.

Entered according to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1906, by Frederick Dixey, Toronto, at the Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 26.—In this sermon the preacher gives an altogether new interpretation to a passage which teaches us that God's mercies and blessings sometimes come to us in strange disguises. The text is Luke xii. 49, "I am come to send fire upon the earth."

To the casual Bible reader these nine words may seem to convey a meaning which it is hard to reconcile with other passages. You cannot understand how Christ can be called the "Prince of Peace" and yet how he could send fire upon the earth. "Fire," you say—"why, fire is the agent of death, not the forerunner of life. It is the most ruthless destroyer known to man." Go to-day through any of our great forests, and what do you see printed by the roadsides? It is a warning to the campers and the travelers to beware of starting a forest fire. Why do the Government officials in Yellowstone Park and Yosemite and in many of the mountain reserves refuse to allow the campers to carry a shotgun? Is it for fear that he will kill game out of season? Perhaps that is one reason, but the chief reason is that the forest rangers are afraid that the shotguns might set fire to the woods. Have you never attended a country college and witnessed the deadly forest fires burn for weeks and weeks upon the mountain side? What was the only danger the western cowboy feared worse than the Indian's warehoop? It was the prairie fire, which could lick up the dead grasses faster than horse could run or deer could scurry away. Have you ever read of the unsheathed sword of fire, which razed Moscow to the ground? These flames were able to devour the indomitable ambitions of the "Little Corsican."

Will our people ever forget the ghastly tragedy that destroyed America's wealthiest summer resort, which looked the Golden Gate of San Francisco bay? One of the first lessons we teach our children is to leave matches alone and fear the danger of fire. Yet the so-called "Prince of Peace" says, "I am come to send fire upon the earth." How can you explain this anomaly? I can only suggest some of the theory of fire, which may give us a hint of our Lord's meaning, for though we may look upon fire as an agency of death, I cannot help but feel that it may become in God's hands an agency of eternal life and of the purest and the best of all earthly things. May God help us as we try to understand these holy words.

Fire, in the first place, is the symbol of heat. Heat is the symbol of life. Therefore we find that all true life comes from God, even as all heat of the earth primarily comes from the fires of the sun. In every blade of grass, in every bee that hums, in every squirrel that chatters, in every flower that grows, in every tree that rustles and in every human being that walks we see the great divine fact illustrated that the God who sent fire upon earth is the great God who was and is the Creator of all. Now, the fact that all animal and vegetable life is dependent upon fire and heat for creation and development is well understood.

I am sitting upon the farmer's kitchen porch, and I hear a cackling noise. The old speckled Plymouth Rock hen is calling: "I have laid an egg! I have laid an egg! I am going to hatch out a little chicken, for I have laid an egg!" But the farmer's wife has another use for the egg. Each morning she goes and takes that egg away from the hen. She is absolutely merciless in this respect. She cooks for her summer boarders the best food for a breakfast —namely, a fresh laid egg. When you break it open, there it lies in the half with its centre of gold covered over with its wrappings of purest white. The cook would not be whiter than the albumen of a new laid egg. At last the old hen grows tired of having her eggs eaten, so she, in turn, finds a secret nest. She flies away to the top of the hay-loft, or she goes off to the other side of the great field and creeps under an old board near the fence, and there she makes her nest. Day after day the white beauties grow in number. The old feathered fowl keeps very still about her secret. When you out and say, "Biddie, where is your nest" she looks as innocent as an old owl. Then after twelve or thirteen of those eggs have been laid side by side Biddie suddenly disappears. She comes around once a day for food, but that is all. Then after three weeks you hear a great commotion, and up to the kitchen door marches the proud mother, leading a large brood of fuzzy little creatures which are her children. Now, how were the contents of those eggs turned into little living creatures? Simply by the agency of heat. Day after day and week after week that old hen sat upon those eggs. She sat so long that the feathers were worn off her breast. She sat so long that her heart became like fire. The warmth of her body went into the eggs, and the germs of life which grew until they were able to burst asunder the shells and walk forth as perfect chickens.

"Why do you not plant your flowers and vines on this side of the house?" I asked a neighbor, whose home in whose country home I was stopping. "These archways would form a perfect trellis where the vines could cling. Then, the first view the visitor has of the house is from this driveway. Instead of planting most of your flowers toward the east side of the house I would plant them on the west." "Ah," said my friend, "nothing I would like better than that, but my flowers will not grow here. You see, remember that the sun rises in the east and that means that during the morning hours the west side of my house is kept shut out from the light of the sun. That means the ground here is always cold. Seeds and flowers must have heat in order to grow." Heat means life for the vegetable world, and cold always means death. So you see that fire is not always destructive, but is the symbol of life. Now, when I hear Christ say, "I am come to send fire upon the earth," in a broad sense, I seem to hear Christ say, "I am come in order to put children into the cradles of the nurseries and to weigh down the orchard branches with fruit and to cover up the harvest fields with golden headed grain and to fill the gardens with busy bees and to hatch out the salmon eggs which have lain in the shallows of the rivers." Oh, the wonders of nature as revealed in the miraculous creations of life! Have you ever ceased to be amazed at the first sentence of the Apostles' creed: "I believe in God the Father almighty, maker of heaven and earth, and in Jesus Christ, his only Son, our Lord"?

Utter folly is it to deny the Fatherhood of God and the Sonship of Jesus Christ as revealed in the creations of nature. Many years ago in a debating society the Earl of Beaconsfield in order to fill out the list of debates, tried to prove that this world had no need of an overruling power. He argued that the existence of the Apostles' creed: "I believe in God the Father almighty, maker of heaven and earth, and in Jesus Christ, his only Son, our Lord".

After he had finished his speech and won the applause of the auditors he turned and said, "How can a man who walks upright, who sees the wonderful creations of nature and the glories of his senses and reason use them to the denying of his Creator?" So say we all, of us. When we witness the miraculous effects of heat in the creation of life we bow before the great God who has built the fires of reproduction upon every hillside and in every valley, whether we see that life illustrated in the wing of a bird, the leaf of a tree or in the throbbing heart of a mortal and yet immortal man.

But I find that fire is the symbol of purification as well as of creation. When Christ comes he will send fire, I remember that one of his purposes is to take the dross out of the hard metals hidden away in the earth, part of his mission as to create the seeds of life and by heat burst those seeds into the white blossoms of the springtime. The more I study Christ's life the more I am impressed with the fact that Christ continually was trying to get over and purify us, even as the nuggets of gold must be burned in the smelting furnaces to separate the alloy from the true gold. "What," you say, "all?" Yes, all. There is no exception to the rule. We have all erred and strayed like lost sheep. We have all followed too much the customs and the desires of our own hearts. There is none that doeth good—no, not one.

We have all been contaminated by sin from the very atmosphere which we have breathed. To a certain extent it is possible in an operating room to keep the patient's wound free from poisonous infection. In the first place, the patient before being operated upon has his body thoroughly cleansed. Then he is sheltered and separated in the operating table. There every instrument and every piece of furniture and cloth has been made antiseptic to receive the patient. There the nurses and the doctors are all dressed in pure, clean, antiseptic robes. Then even wash their hands, their faces and their hair in carbolic solution. The entire atmosphere is filtered through apertures covered with gauze. Thus is the sick patient cared for in the operating room. Then the doctors are thus careful that no external dust or impurities may enter into the corpse of the albumen of a new laid egg. At last the old hen grows tired of having her eggs eaten, so she, in turn, finds a secret nest. She flies away to the top of the hay-loft, or she goes off to the other side of the great field and creeps under an old board near the fence, and there she makes her nest. Day after day the white beauties grow in number. The old feathered fowl keeps very still about her secret. When you out and say, "Biddie, where is your nest" she looks as innocent as an old owl. Then after twelve or thirteen of those eggs have been laid side by side Biddie suddenly disappears. She comes around once a day for food, but that is all. read, "There is a time to rend and a time to sew, a time to keep silence and a time to speak, a time to love and a time to hate, a time of war and a time of peace." Yes, there is a time for gospel carnage. And Christ further says, "He that is not with me is against me, and he that gathereth not with me scattereth abroad." In other words, you and I must be mustered under Christ's standard and warm ourselves by the campfires or else we must be enrolled among the cohorts of his enemies and have different counter-signs and different purposes for which we fight. These fires of my text are the conflagrations of an invading army upon the march, as well as the altar flames which shall announce to the world a universal peace.

Now, war may be a curse or it may be a blessing. It depends upon the purposes or causes for which we fight. And when I speak thus I have well in mind the awful cost. "Give me the money that has been spent in war," said a noted speaker, "and I will purchase every foot of land upon the globe. I will build every man, woman and child in an attire of which kings and queens would be proud. I will build a schoolhouse on every hillside and in every valley over the whole earth. I will build an academy in every town and endow it, a college in every state and fill it with able professors. I will crown every hill with a place of worship consecrated to the promulgation of the gospel of peace. I will support in every pulpit an able teacher of righteousness, so that on every Sabbath morning the chime on the hill shall answer to the chime on another part of earth's wide circumference, and the voice of prayer and the song of praise shall ascend like a universal holocaust to heaven." That eulogy of the power of peace was most beautifully said, but, though the past war may have shed rivers of blood, I do not believe the awful gashes of the soldiers' grave trenches were too deep or too wide for the blessings which many of them brought to this suffering world.

Were not the blessings which came to Europe through the crusades worth the price of the lives of the thousands of feudal system worth their sacrifices of human life? What was the intrinsic value of a few thousand or even a few million lives in comparison to the freedom of the home and sanctity of our loved ones and the independence of a man's life, whereby he could put his arm about his daughter and say to the petty king who claimed to be his master, "Hands off. She is my child. She is mine"? Were not all the sacrifices for religious liberty well made? Would you put out the fires of Smithfield, the martyr fires of Ridley, Latimer, Huss, Savonarola, if in order to do it we had to go back and expose about all the persecutions and the tyrannies of the dark ages? It is said when Gustavus Adolphus, the great King of Sweden, was fighting the last battle at Lutzen that amid the roar and crash of carnage a little frightened bird lighted upon the hilt of his sword. He looked upon it for a moment, so he alighted upon the shoulder of the mighty warrior. Gustavus reached up and took the little creature gently in his hand. Then he spoke a few soothing words to the bird and bid it away to protect the nest of his own armor. After Gustavus was slain and the lurking soldiers were creeping about the bleeding corpse it is said that this little bird flew out of the cloak of the dead warrior and no sooner did he start to fly away than he began to sing. So even upon the corpses of the martyrs and amid the persecutions of the covenanters and amid the bitter attacks made up on Luther, Knox and Calvin we can hear the song birds of thanksgiving singing. We can say they died well. Aye, these martyrs died well, for by their sacrificial blood we won our religious liberty.

But, lastly, I learn from the words of my text that God's fires are to be the fires of triumph. The same soldiers who pled wearily along upon their forced marches and tramp through the long hours of the night doing sentinel duty; the same soldiers who, week after week and month after month and year after year, suffer exile from home and loved ones; the same soldiers who make the battlefields destructive, with the flames leaping out of the cannons' mouths and with the tongues of fire spitting bullets from rifle barrels, are the soldiers who will most joyfully build the campfires of triumph after glorious peace has been declared. It is said that when the peace agreement was signed at Appomattox every company plied on the wood in its company streets. Then, as the flames leaped higher and higher, the soldiers, like a lot of schoolboys, joined hands and danced about these fires. They kept singing: "No more war; no more war! Peace has been declared! We are all going home to our loved ones! No more war! Thank God, no more war! Blessed peace — blessed, triumphant peace!" Thus shall it be when our Divine Leader shall be triumphant over sin. Then the churches of war shall be changed into the leaping flames of triumph. Sin shall be forever done away. Dear ones shall then be reunited. Oh, the glorious triumphant fires of earth and heaven when God shall conquer all his enemies and everlasting peace and everlasting reunions shall be ours.

Can heaven be a truly happy place for our loved ones if we are not there to sing with them the song of redemption and of Moses and the Lamb? One of the saddest sights I ever witnessed was when the Second Illinois regiment was about to leave for the Spanish-American war. I was at its chaplain. Just before we left the armory the cry was taken up, "Does any one know a man by the name of Sc-and-so?" "What is the matter?" I asked. One of the majors turned to me and said: "A young boy ran away from home to enlist. His mother is here, and she thinks he enlisted in our regiment. She wants to bid him good-bye and give him her blessing." No so-ner did the major speak than than I saw this little old mother in faded dress among the soldiers. I followed her. She looked from face to face, and as she looked she kept saying: "Do you know where my boy is? Do you know my boy?" Not a soldier answered. Hardly an eye was dry. Why? They were watching a mother's breaking heart hunting for a lost child. Can it be that such a scene as this shall be repeated in heaven on account of our absence? Can it be that in the most mournful hour of all time, when Christ shall build his funeral pyre, our mothers and fathers and our wives and dear ones and our Christ shall be looking in vain in our faces among the rejoicing hosts of heaven. Shall it be? Shall such a thing never be seen by the campfires of triumph which shall burn and leap over the flaming torches of sin shall be forever snuffed out?

LIVES ON MILK.

Boy of Six Thrives On Strange Diet and Puzzles Doctors.

There is a boy living at Penarth, Glamorganshire, Wales, who has existed entirely on milk since his birth, six years ago.

His name is Arthur Keene. He lives with his mother and father, and he is one of four children.

He will not take anything but milk. The choicest morsels of food have been offered him, but he refuses to be coaxed away from his milk diet.

On one occasion his mother forced food down his throat, but it made him ill at once, and he asked for milk. His diet each day consists of three pints of milk mixed with sugar and water, which is by no means an excessive quantity for even a twelve-months-old infant.

Yet in spite of this scanty and monotonous diet, the boy is fully developed, of normal size and of good weight. He is inclined to be a bit rickety, and is rather nervous, according to the Medical Council School, and is of a most cheerful disposition.

He has baffled the doctors of Penarth. They have carefully examined him, and they confess that the case baffles them completely.

One doctor saw him last Sunday, and expressed the opinion that it was extraordinary that the boy should be so well after living solely on milk for six years.

Pandora Range

SAVES FUEL AND HELPS TO PAY FOR ITSELF.

It is not the price you pay for a range which makes it cheap or expensive, but the fuel it consumes after you get it.

If you buy a range which costs $5 to $7 less than a "Pandora," and it burns a ton of coal more or a cord more in a year, what do your gains? Nothing, but you actually lose money, besides putting up with all the inconveniences, troubles and extra work which are a certainty with a poor range.

The "Pandora" is equipped with many fuel-saving features which are not found on any other range. Hot-air flues are constructed so that all the heat from the fire-box travels directly under every pot-hole and around the oven twice—and every atom of heat is used, and only the smoke goes up the chimney.

Sold by all enterprising dealers. Booklet free.

They are a specific for indigestion and disorders of the digestive organs, and have no equal.

"Why did you place such a tough fowl before me?" asked the indignant boarder. "Is it the result of a raid on a hen roost?"

Dolls' Mothers' Meeting.

If it by bit the scientists are making havoc of children's play. The latest educational craze is that children must be taught "the art and science of motherhood" by means of their dolls. The dolls are to be brought to school, they are to be properly bathed and clothed, and object lessons are to be given to the children as to various hygienic devices by which the health of the dolls should be thoroughly safeguarded. The preparation of the food for the dolls is also to be taught, though it is not said who is to eat the food. Some of the practical experiments in preparation. Perhaps the neophyte in motherhood is to be punished with a dollarus by the doll's mother when their children are teething.

Thin, Bloodless People

Are constantly in danger of contracting disease of one kind or another. Good rich, red blood naturally repels disease and destroys disease germs, and the man who's blood is in that condition is practically proof against germ diseases.

On the other hand, if the blood is weak, thin and watery, the system is in no condition to resist attack, and the anæmic person is always liable to contract Consumption, La Grippe, Typhoid, Pneumonia, and kindred diseases; Coughs and colds are easily taken and hard to shake off, and disease of some kind is always either present or impending.

The moral is, "find something to enrich the blood." There is just one preparation which can be depended upon to do this speedily and with absolute certainty, and that is

FERROL

FERROL contains all the elements necessary to the formation of rich, red blood, and in such a shape that they cannot fail to be assimilated.

If your blood is thin do not fail to take FERROL, and do not delay even for one day. Delays are dangerous.

"MAKE HAY WHILE THE SUN SHINES."

There is a lesson in the work of the thrifty farmer. He knows that the bright sunshine may last but a day, and he prepares for the showers which are so liable to follow. So it should be with every household. Dysentery, diarrhoea and cholera morbus are liable to attack some member of the home without warning. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which is the best known medicine for all bowel diseases, should always be on hand, as immediate treatment is necessary, and delay may prove fatal. A MOTHER'S STORY.

She Tells How Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Saved Her Daughter.

Anæmia is the doctor's name for disease. It is also an ailment that affects almost every girl in her teens. Womanhood makes new demands on the blood supply that she cannot meet. Month after month her strength, and very life, is being drained away. No food and no care will help her. Only a true blood medicine can save her. She needs new blood to feed to the nerves, and this—the only thing—that can make it is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new blood, and in this way reach every nerve, muscle and organ in the body. Mrs. Anson Clark, Aidrich, Ont., is a mother who knows what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been a great blessing in the case of her daughter. She says: "My daughter was troubled with anæmia and was very pale and sickly. She seemed to be losing flesh, and did not have any appetite. She was troubled with headaches and grew very weak. At times she would cause her heart to palpitate violently, so that she could not go up stairs without stopping to rest. She doctored with one and another, but the doctor said she did not have as much blood in her body as a child of her age should have, nor would have in after years. The doctor's medicine did not do her a particle of good. She seemed slowly fading away. Then she became afflicted with salt rheum and her face was a sight. I was about this time a neighbor advised the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and she began taking them. After using the pills for a few weeks we could see an improvement, her appetite began to return, and a slight color came to her cheeks. She continued taking the pills until she had used thirteen boxes when she was as well and strong as ever. Every trace of both the anæmia and salt rheum disappeared, and she has since enjoyed the best of health. Later on my youngest daughter suffered from anæmia in the same way, but thanks to our experience with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills we were able to cure her at once and after using three boxes the color came to her cheeks again. I have also used the pills myself for rheumatism and troubles incident to years."

Both red blood is the secret of health. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make rich red blood, that is why they cure such troubles as anæmia, headaches, indigestion, nervous prostration, palpitation, neuralgia, rheumatism, sciatica, St. Vitus' Dance and the after effects of la grippe. They also make the lives of so many women happy and bright. You can get these pills by all medicine dealers or by mail from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MORE HARVEST HELP WANTED — MANITOBA AND SASKATCHEWAN.

Although all the provinces in Eastern Canada have contributed their quota of help to assist in gathering the tremendous wheat crop of Canada's Western Provinces, there is a great demand for more help.

With the improved machinery, and the men used to handle it, the crop will be cut, but with the shortage in laborers to assist in the threshing and the movement of the grain to the elevators, when 15,000 and 20,000 acre yields have gone west, 5,000 to 10,000 more are required.

To meet this demand, the C.P.R. announce excursion from South-Western Ontario on September 5th, from the North-Western section September 7th, from the Northern and Eastern sections on September 8th.

Through second class tickets are sold at $12 to Winnipeg, and on arrival there the laborer is given a transportation permit to any point in the country. This is an opportunity to have an outing and make something besides expenses.

THE STORY OF TWO BOYS

Who Used Their Brains with Satisfactory Results.

There are plenty of stories written about boys' schools, but a story of a Catholic boys' school is rather unique. "The Three Shoe Men," by John T. McIntyre in the September McClure's, is full of humor and charm. In this case it was not the Three Wise Men who were the seekers, but two destitutes who had to write a prize essay upon "the three greatest men in the world."

We won't "gotta win," declares the more confident of the two.

"How can we?" protests the other. "We don't know more than three great men and—"

"You can find out. We'll ask people."

Accordingly they ask people, only to arrive at the deeply philosophical conclusion that the three greatest men were, depends on whom you ask. Finally, however, the idea of the boys won the prize. How they went about it, how they pulled through, is an amusing narrative, showing a thorough understanding of a boy's point of view.

Too Much to Ask.—"Dear, am I the first man you ever loved?"

"Now, look here, George, do you suppose I've wasted some of my best opportunities of my life waiting for you to come along?"

The boy fell off the schooner's deck in the angry tempest's roar;
They had no boat and he missed the rope.
Yet plucky lad would not give up hope.
But shouted, "Throw me a bar of soap,
And I'll wash myself ashore!"

"I want to see your tank," said the waterwicke man, at the kitchen door.
"Then you'll have to see the cistern," answered Mrs. Mc-Fash, savagely, "it's never at home at this time o' day!"

"Yes," said Farmer Cornstosel, "long about July the population of this 'ere tavern kinder doubles up."

"Summer boarders or green apples?" asked the new arrival, innocently.

SIR THOMAS SHAUGHNESSY

President of the Canadian Pacific Railroad.

To be the guiding spirit of a great railway company, with a firm hand on the lever of a thousand phases of the work, requires long, practical, thorough experience, splendid executive ability in choosing and handing men, and a quick mind to decide vital issues on the moment if need be. Sir Thomas G. Shaughnessy has these essentials and more; he is a tireless worker, a man of energy and enthusiasm, a keen common sense that cuts Gordian knots of difficulty with ease, and a prodigious memory that is always ready on the instant.

He was born in Milwaukee, Wis., of Irish parentage in 1853, and after taking the usual course in the public schools had a little supplementary finishing down and polishing in a business college, and was then ready at sixteen to begin the battle of life. He entered the kindergarten of railroading in his first position in the purchasing department of the Milwaukee and St. Paul road, and it was not long before it was recognised that he had a good business head firmly set on his broad shoulders; and with constant purpose and undaunted determination he worked his way, never looking at the clock nor minding his dinner hour.

1879, at the age of twenty-six, he was general store-keeper of the road.

In 1882, Sir William Van Horne, another alumnus of this railroad which was a splendid college for railroad engineers, resigned from the Milwaukee and St. Paul to assume the management of the Canadian Pacific. He had been keeping close tally on Mr. Shaughnessy's work; he realised his possibilities and was confident that the young man was broad enough to be equal to larger opportunities, and took him to Canada as general purchasing agent. Two years later he won, by his ability, the post of assistant general manager, later becoming assistant to the President and in 1891 was made Vice-President and elected a director, and in 1898 when Sir William Van Horne retired from the presidency, the opportunity of his life, the climax of the roseate dreams of his ambition came to Mr. Shaughnessy when he was made President—the kindly autocrat of the Canadian Pacific.

In October, 1901, his old folks at home in Milwaukee were roused from sleep one night by a messenger with a telegram. In trembling fear his father opened the envelope and with wonder and delight read aloud these words from one of the great railway kings of the western hemisphere: "You may be gratified to know that His Majesty has conferred on me the honor of knighthood." One owns a great deal to a good father and mother. T. G. Shaughnessy.

Entered according to Act of the Parliament of Canada, in the year 1906, by W. G. Main, at the Department of Agriculture.

NEWBURGH'S POLITICS.

Mr. Editor,—

The writer once heard the remark made that Newburgh had more politics to the square inch than any municipality in Ontario; and there seems to be an impression among outsiders that this is the case. A careful observer of public sentiment in our village must come to the conclusion that party politics had as little to do with the election of men to public office in Newburgh as it has in many other places, where there is not anything heard or said about politics.

There are, however, habits and influences which are introduced and made to do duty as politics and for which politics is made a kind of scapegoat, that work detrimentally to the interest or even at times to the resolutions, and stand in the way of advancement in many ways.

A certain public institution is not approved of by some citizens or it may not perhaps contributing to his private interests as he thinks it should, and people like so well. It therefore must be wiped out or starved out. The word is passed to some of the irresponsible of the particular political party, and the interested citizen belongs and the cry gone out, that institution must be wiped out. Newburgh is an old community, it has an honorable past, some worthy institutions at present and furnishes opportunity for good things in the future, but many of the best people with fixed foods or its fads will furnish good stock in trade for political capital in public meetings and citizens generally must combine for its protection.

A VETERAN MINISTER.

Perhaps there are few if any counties in Ontario that have turned out more Methodist preachers than Lennox and Addington, and of the many from there, few if any, deserve mention more than Rev. Isaac Brock Aylsworth, M.A., LL.D., who was born in Adolphustown, near Odessa. His father, Rob-ert Aylsworth, was a prominent personnel among the local preachers for many years, and was also a steward to any pulpit.

Isaac entertained by the Love of Christ, left the parental home in 1840, and began to preach on the Bay of Quinte circuit, which was one of the largest in this Province, but one broken up at that time. He was ordained at the Conference held in Belleville, and proceeded his ministerial labors in the county where he remained until he took the degree of B.A. from Victoria University in 1858 the writer first formed his acquaintance, which soon developed into true friendship, and many times since been richly enjoyed in social and religious life together. He was an ardent lover of books and had in his earlier years a good knowledge of the kind that would qualify him for his important work. He continued in attendance as a writer, preacher, lecturer and as a humorist. He early moved his church from the beginning of his work, and was justly devoted to all for interests.

His conference was not slow to ascertain this fact and elected him four years in succession to the ardurous office of a Presiding Elder, also delegating him to the General Conference. Conference, electing him as fraternal delegate to the British Conference of the M. E. church, and lastly, to the highest office in the gift of the Methodist Conference, that of President, showing that his many talents did not only possessed the qualifications of a preacher, but also of a leader of men, and he so often helped to frame.

After reaching 52 years of active service in June last, he again accepted another appointment, but failing health compelled him to seek rest, and he went to Jo's sorrels, at Detroit in quest of old, but the Master said, "Come up higher," and realizing that his work had been done, the happy soul took its flight to the land where they never say good bye, on Aug. 12th, 1906, in the 75th year of his age. He falls to the lot of few ministers to have so wide a circle of friends, having travelled from the Rentrew region to Sarnia. He is survived by his fellow labor and seven four daughters, three brothers and four sisters of the family, also one side of the old homestead. His remains were interred at High Gate, one of his old charges.

On Tuesday evening, Aug. 21st, there assembled at the home of Mrs. Mary Green, a large and representative gathering from Arden and vicinity, to express to the esteem with which Mrs. Green and her daughter Lily were held, and also to give tangible expression of their appreciation of the valuable services of both in various branches of church work in which they were always identified. Mrs. Green from a child was a member of Arden Methodist Church Sunday School, having held the office of teacher, assistant superintendent, and for the last seven years that of secretary in Arden, she held the office of superintendent with great ability. As an active member of the League, she was always faithful, holding the office of President for two years. Every good work of the church always received the active and financial support of Mrs. Green.

Miss Lily Green, like her mother, grew up in the church, and was always ready to use her talents when called upon. She took the greatest interest in all

For the Stomach Heart and Kidneys

Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a Cause Cure—not a Symptom Cure.

It is a common mistake to take artificial digestants for stomach troubles—or heart stimulants for weak heart—or so-called kidney remedies for diseased kidneys. These organs do not act separately or of their own accord—they have no control over themselves—and not once in 50 times is the sickness the fault of the organ. It is the fault of the nerves which control the organ—and only through these nerves can the heart, kidneys or stomach be reached. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a Wisconsin, Racine, nerve remedy. Not until the nerves early in life, discovered the power over the nerves that is now in Dr. Shoop's Restorative was it possible to make a medicine that would help the insomnia, backache, heart weakness, and nervous, Bright's disease and all other effects of kidney disease. For all of these ailments are not separate diseases and cannot be treated as such. They are always symptoms of the starved nerves, and when the nerves are restored the symptoms and the sickness disappears. The remedy which Dr. Shoop prescribed for these ailing nerves is known as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. It relieves the pain and distress of kidney, stomach and heart troubles more quickly than those medicines designed simply to give temporary relief. Dr. Shoop's Restorative can now be had of druggists everywhere. For sale and recommended by

CLAY EATING.

Natives of Nearly All Tropical Countries Crave This Food—Many Instances of Curious Practice.

The natives of nearly all tropical countries, and especially those of the sea islands, exhibit many vagaries of taste in the matter of food, in many cases showing an almost irresistible desire to fill their stomachs with the various kinds of earth, generally clays. At first thought one would imagine that this clay eating habit had been formed through a desire to get alkaline substances into the stomach in order to neutralize the acids of that organ, but investigations prove the contrary, the eating of such earth being most crave being unctuous and wholly devoid of saline elements.

Humboldt says that the famale potteas workers on the Madalena river, in South America, put large lumps of clay into their mouths quite frequently while shaping their earthenware vessels, and that the clay-eating instinct is so strong in the natives of that region that infants of from one and a half to three years of age are still with the lots to prevent them from overloading their stomachs with the unwholesome diet. On the Orinoco river our great traveler passed several days with a clay eating tribe of Indians called the Otomacs. He thus describes the peculiar habit as noted in that queer people:

"The earth which the Otomacs eat is a soft, yellowish white potter's clay, with a small quantity of oxide of iron as a constituent part.

"They seek for it on the banks of the Rio Orinoco and Meta when the water is low; eat it with great care, not considering all clays equally agreeable to eat. A very intelligent native assured us that one of them would eat from three-quarters of a pound to one and a half pounds of this food in a single day. On his inquire of an Otomac Indian concerning his winter's provisions he will point to a heap of clay balls arranged away in his hut."

As noted in the opening, we find this queer earth eating practice diffused throughout the torrid zone and occasionally hear of the practice in Sweden, Norway, Finland and in New Caledonia as well as in the southern states of America. On the human system should crave such odd food could probably be scientifically explained. However, it is not the purpose of this "note" to seek remote reasons for the existence of the habit, but simply to state that the practice, though admittedly a curious one, is well known in the various quarters of the globe.

Leave Relic Warships In River.

The Archaeological Department of the Ontario Government is not likely to take any action in connection with the raising of the sunken British man-of-war at the mouth of the Grand River and in the River Thames at Chatham. This is a matter that rests almost entirely with the Imperial authorities.

Chatham—some time ago offered to expend the sum of $500 in an effort to raise these sunken relics, but as the amount was a mere bagatelle compared to the money necessary the idea was abandoned.

The opinion of the curator of the Ontario Museum is that these relics would be the property of any one who received permission from the Imperial Government to raise them and was willing to spend the money.

would then be carried to our museum, either in the United States or any other part, of the world.

When a Man Dies.

He was in The Toronto Star office and for some reason or other his own was carefully going through the large pile of exchanges. After an hour of this work he turned to the exchange editor, saying:

"It seems to me that the country papers in Ontario devote most of their space to publishing obituary notices."

"Why not?" asked the exchange editor, who once published a country weekly himself. "Why shouldn't they speak well of good citizens who pass away—men who were pioneers?"

"Still," the stranger pursued, "there must be something more than funerals going on. Besides, I saw an item in one of these papers that hasn't find it new—but it said something like this, that when the average man dies, the loss is generally not long remembered."

With such a person the exchange editor naturally declined to hold further converse.

Wheat Possibilities of Canada.

The British are evidently looking forward to the time when Canada shall meet all the wheat requirements of the United Kingdom, says the Philadelphia Ledger. A Canadian authority predicts that if only one-fourth of the land suited for cultivation in Manitoba and other Canadian territories where planted with wheat and the average production were equal to that of Manitoba for the last ten years, the total crop would be sufficient to meet the Canadian demand and the present requirements of Great Britain three times over. An American wheat expert hazards the prediction that Western Canada within ten years will be the principal source of the European wheat supply.

Parole System is a Success.

W. P. Archibald, the Dominion parole commissioner, recently addressed several meetings pleading "the cause of men who have fallen, but not beyond hope or kindly efforts to uplift them," as Mr. Archibald tersely puts it.

"The parole system is doing great good. I say this with confidence and but judging from the practical results of its operation during the past six years, since its inception," said Mr. Archibald. "Out of nearly eleven hundred men released conditionally from our penal institutions in Canada, we have only had to return twenty-four of these men to the penitentiary for criminal offences during the six years of the operation of the parole law, while 760 have earned their full liberty. We have about 200 now reporting."

Value of Good Breeding.

OCEAN OF THE ATMOSPHERE.

Its Variations and Tides As It Rotates With the Earth—A Very Clear Exposition.

We are dwellers at the bottom of a sort of sea. This sea bottom, which is the surface of the earth, may vary as to altitude, being diversified with plains, valleys, plateaus and mountains, but in this only slightly varying range of a few miles is all human life restricted, while the wonderful and mighty atmospheric ocean rolls over all. As our globe is swung in space in its relationship to the sun it is impossible that an equal diffusion of solar heat should strike and penetrate this atmospheric envelope as the equatorial zone gets the vertical rays, the temperate zone receives rays that are more slanting and consequently less heat, while the frigid zones, made such by reason of the polar zones, are regions most remote from the direct rays of the sun, receive the minimum of light and heat.

Now, what is the consequence? Certain areas or belts are intensely heated and expanded. Other belts are only moderately heated, and other regions are almost bereft of heat, and this very mobile ocean by a law of nature rushes, in its mobility, self and a system of currents interchanging and intercommingling is set in motion that are in action seemingly ever and forever. But in the meantime a peculiar factor is operative and exerts a singularly modifying influence on this procedure.

This is the earth's diurnal motion, its daily turning on its axis, whereby this very limpid ocean is also turned and is caused to have many of these currents. It is presented to the sunward side or the side away from the sun. This action results in currents of the greater part of their labor, and were it possible for the ocean to turn with a pole to the sun and the one side constantly to the solar heat while the other side was constantly away from it we cannot conceive of the incessant hurricanes that would then prevail as they fiercely heated and its frigid antipode exchanged atmospheric compliments.

We are not to suppose that this atmospheric sea is heated even over the equator from the bottom to the top, which is theoretically about forty-five miles, and here is another peculiarity.

At a height of only from four to five miles it is incessantly cold, and higher up the air has more than a polar temperature. But we have evidence of the pression of the upper air phenomena while we are down at the bottom of this sea. There are thousands of impediments that temporarily retard and stop the currents and that must consequently go in fits and spurts regardless of the more even and regular flow above. If we could be at the bottom among the rocks and holes of a deep, swift flowing river we should get no correct idea from the surrounding walls of the smooth and uniform flow on its surface. Into the ocean of our atmosphere vapors rise and form clouds which under certain conditions intercept and retard the electric currents, which then accumulate and again seek equilibrium in explosive action, causing the phenomenon known as lightning and followed by peals of thunder. But we are far from being fully conversant with the varied phenomena that bear the surface of this atmospheric sea. We do not understand the situation where the illimitable ether stops to give way to a commencing but as yet exceedingly rare atmosphere, if, indeed, the atmosphere is not all the ether condensed as it impinges on the globe.

Whatever the solar emanations that come to us, whatever they are as they leave the solar surface, it is evident that they undergo transposition or correlation as they enter and pierce the ethereal space, and another transformation takes place by which they penetrate our atmosphere and develop into what we call heat and light as they impinge on the earth.

Skater Rescued in Canoe.

A young man named Guerin, while skating near the point at the cemetery, went through the ice about thirty yards from the shore, says the Peterboro' Examiner. His position was one of extreme peril, and had it not been for the presence and courage of efforts of a spectator, whose name is withheld as his act was modest, a fatality was an almost certain consequence. The ice surrounding the young man in the water was extremely thin and would not support the weight of Guerin. The young man mentioned promptly secured a canoe which was lying upon the shore, and, seated astride, pushed his way across the ice till Guerin was enabled to grasp the rear of the boat and was quickly succored from his perilous position. As condemned a boat had assented upon the shore by this time, and, both young men seated in the stern, the craft was paddled back with a hockey stick, the bows being forced in this way to the surface of the ice, where it was pulled in by the spectators.

Consolidated Schools.

Among the many interesting features which impressed Dr. Crews while away was a visit to the large consolidated school at Middlet, where six or seven scattered institutions have been combined. It is backed by Sir William McDonald, who has paid all deficiencies for the three years of its life.

"The pupils from the outlying districts are brought to school in the morning

World's Ghastliest Curiosity.

Guanajuato, the ruined city in Mexico which was destroyed by a cloudburst, furnishes one of the ghastliest curiosities of the world. In one of the vaults of the Pantheon are preserved many mummies which were dug from the soil. They afford a curious evidence of the natural embalming properties of the earth.

A STAVE SILO.

One in Use on the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Now is the time to get lumber ready to build a silo this fall, says The Maritime Farmer and Co-operative Dairyman. All that is necessary is a quantity of straight sound two-inch plank, preferably pine, although hemlock will answer, two or three scantling for standards and a dozen or 1 inch round iron hoops, cut with threads, washers and nuts at each end, and long enough to reach a little more than half way around the outside of the silo. The blacksmith will make these for a small consideration and it may be advisable to hire a carpenter to superintend the erection of the silo. The rest of the work can be done by the regular farm hands.

The first step is to calculate the dimensions. We would not advise building a silo for fewer than eight or ten cattle; the percentage of waste would be too great. An ordinary cow should consume about thirty pounds of silage a day. Some would say a good deal more, but in this climate where the ensilage corn is none too well matured we would not advise one to figure on more than this much per head. In a feeding period of 200 days this rate of feeding would require of 3 tons per head, or thirty tons for ten head. Silage fairly well packed into a silo twenty-five feet deep should aveoage 40 pounds per cubic foot, or in other words, 50 cubic feet would weigh a ton. The shallower the silo the less the weight per cubic foot. To be fed from for 200 days the silo should be not less than twenty-five feet deep else the daily layer removed will be so shallow that mould will form around the edges. If plank of sufficient length are not available shorter ones of unequal length may be spliced together by bevelling the jointed ends and breaking joints with the next pair of staves. The depth should not exceed thirty feet in any case, because, while the capacity is increased thereby, it is found that the silage in the bottom of these excessively deep silos is liable to sour. Twenty-four to twenty-six feet is the depth we would advise under ordinary circumstances. We will assume therefore a depth of 25 feet. The capacity of a tub silo is got by multiplying the square by then multiplying the product by 3 1-7 and then by the height. This gives the capacity in cubic feet; dividing by 50 gives the capacity in tons. Reversing the process, if we require a capacity of 80 tons and intend the silo to be 25 feet high, the required diameter would be double the square root

$$\frac{80 \times 50}{3\frac{1}{7} \times 25}$$

or double the square root of

$$\frac{4000}{3\frac{1}{7} \times 25} = \frac{4000}{78.57}$$

or double the square root of 50.89 = 14.28 (approximately) 2 x 14.28 = 28.56 ins.

Inside diameter, requiring about 80x4x2 inch staves plus two 4x4 inch standards to hold the hoops. Blocks of wood or casting may be used if desired in place of the scantling standards. The edges of the staves need not be bevelled though the structure may hold its shape a little better if they are. No roof is necessary or desirable except to keep out snow. What rain falls on the silage is an advantage. No floor is necessary except clay though it pays to put in a concrete floor to keep out rats and provide a solid level foundation for the staves to stand on. The concrete should be three or four inches thick. It is often recommended to excavate a cistern so that the silo may be partly underground. Our advice is, "Don't." It is easier to elevate the corn into the silo by machinery than to pitch the silage out of a pit by hand. Provide good drainage away from the outside of silo so that water cannot stand around the bottom of the staves.

Three or four doors 18x24 inches should be cut out after the silo is built, but before setting up, select one stave out of which the doors are to be cut and start the saw at top and bottom of each door. Cut them with ends bevelled so that they will fit tightly when the silage presses against the inside. A perpendicular chute leading down past the doors should be provided to prevent the blowing the leaves away when throwing out the feed. Do not leave this until "some time later"—the chances are that time will never come.

There are other kinds of silos but having seen and used a good many of them we unhesitatingly recommend this. Brick and concrete are expensive and so are the elaborate wooden ones. A stave silo, when set up, is as satisfactory as any, is durable, portable and cheap. We do not advise everyone to build a silo but where corn will succeed and a fair stock is kept we would strongly recommend it as being the cheapest and best way of storing the most profitable fodder crop that grows.

Explorers After Treasure Buried in a Sacred Lake—The Native Tributes to An Indian Deity.

In a small city office situated in London wall news is anxiously awaited from a man who is sitting on the shore of a mountain lake in Colombia, Central America, waiting for rain.

Heavy rain may mean for him and for those in the city office in London, wall, the recovery of treasure worth, so experts say, at least $500,000,000, the hero of the vigil is H. Knowles, managing director in Bogota of Contractors, Limited. The story of the treasure is one of the most amazing romances of treasure-seeking in history.

The Lake of Guatavita, in Colombia, lies in the basin formed by the cone of an extinct volcano. It stands 8,000 feet above the sea level, and is but a few miles from the thriving little coal city of Bogota. Many centuries ago it was the Sacred Lake of the Chibchas, a race which at the time of the Spanish conquest numbered over 1,000,000 individuals.

The Chibchas worshiped the "Gilded Man," and devoutly believed that their deity made his home at the bottom of the Lake of Guatavita.

The story of the Chibchas has many times been investigated by travelers, and all agree in believing that the lake contains untold treasure. Humboldt, the famous traveler and historian, was one of those who estimated its value at $500,000,000.

An Early Failure.

Quesada, the Spanish conqueror of the Chibchas, was told the story of the treasure, and succeeded in reducing the water of the lake, then 214 feet deep, to fifteen feet. Then the dike fell in, and all his labor was wasted. Further attempts were abandoned, and the lake regained to a very large extent its former depth.

Where the great Spanish administrator failed, however, Contractors, Limited, a prosaic British syndicate, formed for the purpose of exploiting concessions obtained from the Colombian Government to drain the lake and recover for their owners the treasure believed to be hidden by its waters. Among its directors are R. J. Price, M.P. for the Devizes Division of Norfolk, Lieutenant and C. J. de Murietta. Its capital was originally $150,000, and was increased to $1,750,000 in 1903.

After six years of hard work, however, some of those connected with the company are beginning to believe that the "Gilded Man" is still at the bottom of the lake guarding his treasure. Encouraging finds of isolated gold and silver gods and jeweled goddesses have from time to time supported the tradition of the treasure.

First the lake was drained. It was not an easy task, for it is three and a half miles in length, and unforeseen difficulties were continually confronting the workers. The most harassing of these was the constant rain, which, winter and summer hardly ever ceased.

Lake Drained.

At last, however, toward the end of 1903, the welcome news reached London that Mr. Knowles and his staff of engineers and workmen had succeeded in cutting through the basin of the lake, and the water had been drained off successfully. There was great jubilation, and preparations were made for the large consignments of gold, silver and jewels which might be expected to arrive by the next boats.

Unfortunately, however, the water is not the only barrier on which the "Gilded Man" has to rely for the safekeeping of his treasure. The jubilation in London-wall was summarily ended by a cablegram stating that twenty-five feet of solid mud, or some 30,000,000 cubic feet in all, still lay between the treasure-seekers and their quest.

But what is 30,000,000 cubic feet of mud when $500,000,000 is at stake? A new engineering feat was decided on—the construction of a great dam across the hole made in the side of the basin terminating in a shaft through which the mud should be washed and carefully precipitated, so as to secure the gold and silver treasures as they were disturbed from their hiding place of centuries.

The dam was constructed, and with it the cleansing shaft, but while the work was in progress a strange thing had happened. The "Gilded Man" was evidently at work again.

For over three years the engineers had worked in the rain, in such a downpour, indeed, as was unprecedented in Central America. As the water ran from the lake, however, the rain had stopped, and a drought equally without a parallel in the history of the country set in. For more than two and a half years not a drop of rain had fallen at the scene of the operations, and when the engineers had completed the construction of the dam it was only to find the sun had baked the 30,000,000 cubic feet of mud into the consistency of brick.

Hidden Wealth.

The, metaphorically speaking, the engineers sat down and wept. The rock like substance still lies at the impenetrable bomb-proof lid over the golden gods and the silver dishes and ornaments, and it may mother of the jewel goddesses and their glittering bandmaidens.

The few natives in the regions, remnants of the great race of Chibchas, occasionally visit the scene and smile cheerfully at the downcast English men. "It is all the work of the 'Gilded Man,' who is watching over his treasure still," they say, and they plainly hint that when the rain comes it will bring with it, in the form of the mud, some other obstacle will defeat the desire of the treasure-seekers.

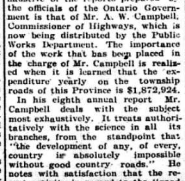
Letter upon letter from the shelves to the little office in the city dejectedly refers to the determined opposition Nature has set up in her path.

"I regret to say rain absolutely refuses to fall here," he wrote in one of his letters. "All the time we are perishing as it falls all round. I have been here hoping against hope, hearing the thunder and seeing the storm pass us by, which is an awful trial, as you can imagine."

"Really ought to get all the water we want in May," he wrote again; but it was the treasure he meant.

So far his pessimism has been justified. The "Gilded Man" is taking care of his own.

THE TABLES TURNED.



The big investigator dreamed a dream. The little investigator turned down a leaf. A bed's vast in wrath began investigating humble man.

Municipalities Ave Spending $1,878,986 This Year.

One of the most interesting and exhaustive of the reports prepared by the officials of the Ontario Government is that of Mr. A. W. Campbell, Commissioner of Highways, which is now being distributed by the Public Works Department. The importance of the work that has been placed in the charge of Mr. Campbell is realized when it is stated that the expenditure yearly on the township roads of this Province is $1,872,9?4. In his eighth annual report Mr. Campbell deals with the subject most exhaustively. It treats authoritatively on the scientific in all its branches, from the standpoint that "the development of any, or every, country is absolutely impossible without good country roads." Hence the satisfaction that the recent activity in regard to the "good roads movement" is bringing about a general system of roads-making with a corresponding improvement of the roads, but says much remains to be done. By the end of 1903 about one hundred and thirty townships had abolished or commuted statute labor. In its place had adopted systems whereby fewer and more permanently appointed officials superintend the work, the pathmasters of the statute labor system, and by which all road work is paid for in money. Provision is made for road-making machinery is being employed, and definite methods of doing the work have been established.

At present the report shows that there are 1,124 miles of county road being built under the roads improvement act with aid from the Provincial Treasury. This does not include the roads of Lincoln and Oxford, which have recently decided to avail themselves of the provisions of the act.

Considerable space is given to the question of statute labor. Its disadvantages are pointed out and a substitute is provided. A list of the municipalities that have abolished statute labor is given, and from a number of them reports are printed giving the opinions of the officials with regard to the system.

County road systems are dealt with, and the advantages which are to be gained under the improvement act are indicated. Leading officials in counties which have adopted the county roads system present reports on their experience which will be of considerable value and interest to other municipalities contemplating availing themselves of the act.

Under the heading "The Science of Road-making" Mr. Campbell gives important instruction as to road drainage, formation, preparation of gravel and broken stone, the machinery that should be employed and how it should be operated. There is an important chapter on the maintenance of earth roads, the care and protection of hills and the repair of old roads. Mr. Campbell tells of concrete for sluices, culverts and bridges, and gives designs, specifications and the materials to be used and how they should be applied.

The whole report deals with the conditions existing in Ontario, and the definite plans and suggestions are all such as may be adopted by any municipality in the Province. The total township road mileage in Ontario at the present time is 60,771.

THE RACES.

The races on Monday last, postponed from Dominion Day, were much above the average, and, considering the threatening weather early in the day, were well attended. The entries for the various events were well filled and keenly contested, and it was acknowledged on all hands that the Driving Park Committee had fully sustained their excellent reputation of the past. The track is known to be fast, and the races were a little late in being started. The following are the results:

BASEBALL.

The exhibition of baseball on Monday afternoon was perhaps the finest ever witnessed here. Newburgh and Yarker clubs are rivals and each played their best ball. Newburgh proved the stronger and finished with the well earned score of 11 to 4.

The winners then played Picton, but were defeated, as was to be expected, after a couple of hours of such strenuous work with Yarker. The score was 9 to 4 in favor of Picton.

MATCHED RACE.

A matched race for $100 was trotted on Tuesday afternoon, the contestants being Minnie Kenwick, 2.16¼, and Minnie Wilkes, 2.18¾. Quite a crowd assembled. Minnie K. had things quite her own way, winning in three straight heats.—Best time, 2.17¾.

ODESSA.

Life insurance agents are doing a rushing business in this place. At every corner you may find them posted and talk well. Some of them, as the saying is, "would talk the leg off a pot."

Fishing is a great amusement to those who are at leisure. Quite a number of the finny tribe have been caught.

It is said "no news is good news." We therefore fulfill the adage as there is nothing to chronicle but the coming and going of visitors.

Mr. Will. Cooke of Toronto, paid an unexpected though welcome visit to his father, Mr. Cooke, last week.

Mr. Todd, accountant of the Crown Bank, was ill for a few days. His place was filled by Mr. Metcalfe of Kingston.

Mrs. (Dr.) Mabee accompanied her parents, Mr. & Mrs. E. Booth, to her home at Brooklyn. Mrs. Mabee will also visit New York City and Long Island before returning.

Mr. and Mrs. Stan Mabee, after spending some time with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Mabee, took their departure to visit at Mrs. Mabee's brother, Mr. J. M. Dwyer, Whitby, and friends at Toronto, after which they will return to their home at Williamsport, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Pleasant, with their grandchildren, left on Tuesday for New York City after spending a number of weeks very pleasantly.

Mr. Trafers and mother, Napanee, accompanied by his aunt and cousins of Chicago, spent an afternoon the guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Sprouls.

Mrs. R. Hawley and daughter, Peterboro', are spending a few days with Mr. Hawley's mother, Mrs. C. Hawley.

Mrs. Will. Cairns of Kingston spent a few days with her father, Mr. Howard, and her sister, Mrs. Wycott. Mr. Wycott is still on the sick list. His sister with her son, of Cobourg, are spending some time with him.

Miss Donaldson returned to Toronto.

Mrs. Remion of Cornwall is spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. R. H. Peters, and other brothers, the Messrs. Remion.

Miss Lizzie Thomas and Mr. Thomas Prest spent last Thursday in Napanee visiting friends.

Mrs. J. Denyes, Miss White, Harold and Ray Mabee, have returned to their homes at Williamsport, Pa., after spending part of the summer visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Bell, Mr. Davey, have gone to their respective homes at Toronto.

Gladwin Clarke has gone to the "hall of learning" at Newburgh to imbibe some of the knowledge obtained there, while Gladys Calder has returned to Napanee.

Mr. John Amey and daughter of Montreal, are at Mr. Wm. B. Smith's.

We see in Tuesday's Whig in the editorial notes, of a Toronto usurer lending money at the rate of 192 per cent. That is certainly worse than 60 per cent. Electrocution is much too mild for such.

Quite a number from this place are attending the Fair. Among the many are Mr. and Mrs. Asselstine, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hamm and son Robert, Mrs. Doherty, Miss Lane, Miss G. Aylsworth, Messrs. John and Sidney Dunnett, Mr. Tom Kenny, Mr. Bernard Toomey, Mr. John Cairns.

At the home of Mr. W. M. Clarke, at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening, the marriage of his second daughter, Ethel Blanche, and Mr. John E. Hagerman took place under an arch of evergreens and white flowers. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. McCamus. Mr. Will Hagerman performed the duties of the groomsman and Miss Lena Calder acted as bridesmaid. The bride was given away by her father and wore a becoming gown of cream cashmere and a wr.ath of wax berries secured the conventional bridal veil. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. After the newly married couple had received the congratulations and good wishes, some sixty couples sat down to a rich repast and did ample justice to the viands spread before them. The presents were both numerous and costly. After a social time spent by the friends and neighbors dispersed to their several homes. We wish them all success.

NOBLETON.

Living in a sober voracious community where superlatives are scarce it will not be possible to do justice to the event of the year, the Social Dinner that was held in Assaltine's Grove, north of the village, on Wednesday, Aug. 29th. Many people were looking forward to a pleasant day and with a good dinner, basts of friends, plenty of music and an interesting programme it was not too much to expect. But the most sanguine were the broadest souls of the crowd. Nature favored us with a perfect day. The beautiful harvest was shown by the abundant evaporations. Almost all the community was there, for nearly 2,000 had dinner. If there was any one who wished to see Jack Frost, he was not and you would find them. The band of Napanee was there and discoursed sweet music, perhaps not best of all was the program of the afternoon. Rev. R. Duke of Bradford in his remarks to an introduction of the speakers to follow. Rev. J. J. Rae, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference, in a witty address advocated the sunny life, and if all the faces that he broadcast acquired the habit then his mission's fulfilment was prodigious. Dr. John Potts of Toronto University, who had made a trip from British Columbia to Newfoundland, with unsurpassable ease enjoyed the claims of Canadian citizenship, and his was no considered view. He spoke on the dignity of labor by hand and head. In Scriptural de lens, at home, in the state, in church, we were urged to pay our obligations to the land of our birth or adoption. We were filled with pride as he gave such an outline view of our privileges and when he closed the gathering song with our God Save the King. The proceeds of the day were in the neighborhood of $200.

On Sunday services next, Sept. 9th, Robin Sunday School with Wheatley and Osborne will meet in Noblet n at 10 a.m. for children's service.

NEWBURGH.

Surprised! Well I guess so, but such a pleasant surprise! After their perfectitiere here a week ago, no one doubted but what Yarker would win from Newburgh in Napanee on Monday, but the locals turned the tables on the crack aggregation from Yarker by a score of 12-4. There was no fluke about it. Everything was of the clean cut variety. Montgomery pitched for Yarker, and Wood for Newburgh. For the greater part of the game it was a pitchers' battle, but the local artist was the leader with men on bases. Shorts, at first base, was just about "it", his catch of a difficult foul fly being about the grand stand article. Both pitchers were effective, Wood striking out 16 men, and Montgomery 14. Both teams played good ball, but the Newburgh boys bunched their hits and won by a good margin. The Yarker boys proved good sports, and took their defeat without a word.

With a team played out after the Yarker game, and Shorts and Rose injured, the locals went up against the Picton team and were beaten 9-4. The Picton bunch are about as speedy as there are, and the locals in their condition did well to hold Picton down. By the way, if our Enterprise friend is looking for the picker's cup, it might be found in Picton. Mr. Clarence Trimble, of Napanee, umpired both games, and gave general satisfaction.

The Epworth League will hold its annual reception to the High School staff and students on Monday evening next, in the basement of the Methodist church.

Miss Young has a badly sprained ankle.

The High and Public Schools re-opened on Tuesday. There were 102 students present at the High School.

Thos. Shorts, Arthur Shorts, and the Misses Wright, of Hartford, Conn., are visiting at John Shorts'.

James Thomson, J. B. Aylesworth, W. W. Adams and wife, and Mrs. Frye, are in Toronto this week.

Harold Ryan returned on Monday, after spending three weeks at Sydenham.

Dr. H. A. and Mrs. Nesbit spent Sunday at D. A. Nesbit's. Mrs. Nesbit sang "In the Secret of His Presence" during the offertory in the Methodist church on Sunday last. She has a beautiful contralto voice, and those who heard her on Sunday evening were greatly pleased.

The Epworth Leaguers picknicked down the river on Saturday.

Mr. McRae, Kingston, and Miss Warner, Colebrook, spent Tuesday with the Misses Warner.

Miss Beaman, of the N. H. S. staff, returned on Monday, after spending her holidays at her home in Kemptville.

Simon Fitzmartin's team ran away last week, but were caught before any damage was done.

C. E. Miller, of the N. H. S. staff, returned on Monday, having spent his holidays at his home in Warton, and on Lake Huron.

Miss Ellie Welbanks, Marysville, spent Sunday at her home here.

Hugh Kelly, Montreal, spent a few days this week at his home here.

Thos. Gilroy, of Wesley, has taken Miss Chant's place in the Newburgh Pharmacy.

Miss Jessie Wilton and Miss Elsie Moore are attending Model at Napanee.

Miss Vera Grange left on Monday to take a course at the Normal School, Toronto.

Mr. Sager is having his new house remodelled.

Miss Grace Langmaid left this week to teach school near Flinton. Miss Anna Sutton will succeed her as assistant postmistress.

M. Ryan is spending the week in Toronto.

There will be a very pleasant feature to the proceedings, for Kingston mines here for a game. After their feat of Monday the fans would like to see Newburgh trim up a saint either of these teams at Diamond Park.

NEWBURGH.

Surprised! Well I guess so, but such a pleasant surprise! After their perforlittee here a week ago, no one doubted but what Yarker would win from Newburgh in Napanee on Monday, but the locals turned the tables on the crack aggregation from Yarker by a score of 15-4. There was no fluke about it. Everything was of the clean cut variety. Montgomery pitched for Yarker, and Wood for Newburgh. For the greater part of the game it was a pitchers' battle, but the local artist was the stender with men on bases. Shorts, at first base, was just about "it", his catch of a difficult foul fly being about the grand stand article. Both pitchers were effective, Wood striking out 16 men, and Montgomery 14. Both teams played good ball, but the Newburgh boys bunched their hits and won by a good margin. The Yarker boys proved good sports, and took their defeat without a word.

With a team played out after the Yarker game, and Shorts and Rose injured, the locals went up against the Picton team and were beaten 9-4. The Picton bunch are about as speedy as there are, and the locals in their condition did well to hold Picton down. By the way, if our Enterprise friend is looking for the picker's cap, it might be found in Picton. Mr. Clarence Trimble, of Napanee, umpired both games, and gave general satisfaction.

The Epworth League will hold its annual reception to the High School staff and students on Monday evening next, in the basement of the Methodist church.

Miss Young has a badly sprained ankle.

The High and Public Schools re-opened on Tuesday. There were 102 students present at the High School.

Thos. Shorts, Arthur Shorts, and the Misses Wright, of Hartford, Conn., are visiting at John Shorts'.

James Thomson, J. B. Aylesworth, W. W. Adams and wife, and Mrs. Frye, are in Toronto this week.

Harold Ryan returned on Monday, after spending three weeks at Sydenham.

Dr. H. A. and Mrs. Nesbit spent Sunday at D. A. Nesbit's. Mrs. Nesbit sang "In the Secret of His Presence" during the offertory in the Methodist church on Sunday evening. She has a beautiful contralto voice, and those who heard her on Sunday evening were greatly pleased.

The Epworth Leaguers picknicked down the river on Saturday.

Mr. McRae, Kingston, and Miss Warner, Colebrook, spent Tuesday with the Misses Warner.

Miss Beaman, of the N. H. S. staff, returned on Monday, after spending her holidays at her home in Kemptville.

Simon Fitzmartin's team ran away last week, but were caught before any damage was done.

F. G. Millar, of the N. H. S. staff, returned on Monday, having spent his holidays at his home in Warren, on Lake Huron.

Miss Effie Welbanks, Marysville, spent Sunday at her home here.

Hugh Kelly, Montreal, spent a few days this week in his home here.

Frank Clancy, of Wesley, has taken Miss Chant's place in the Newburgh Pharmacy.

Miss Jessie White and Miss Ethel Moore are attending Model at Napanee.

Miss Florence Lyons left on Monday to take a course at the Normal School, Toronto.

Mr. Sager is having his new house remodelled.

Miss Grace Dougan left this week to teach school near Flinton. Miss Anna Sutton will succeed her at Sandhurst Corners.

M. Ryan is spending the week in Toronto.

The baseball players ought to bring the Picton or Kingston nines here for a game. After their feat of Monday the fans would like to see Thomson's Pets run up a rainet either of these teams at Diamond Park.

MONEY A PUBLIC TRUST

MAN WHO MAKES CAPITAL HIS IDOL IS AN INCAPABLE.

HE CANNOT LOVE THE CHRIST

Insidious Power of the Love of Wealth, and the Gradual Increase of Avarice in a Man's Soul—Timely Sermon on the Temptations, Burdens and Responsibilities of Great Wealth, With an Incidental Word to Those Who Have It Not.

Entered according to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1906, by Frederick Dixon, Toronto, at the Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 2.—The temptations, burdens and responsibilities of great wealth form the theme of this timely sermon, the text for which is taken from Ecclesiastes v. 10, "He that loveth silver shall not be satisfied with silver, nor he that loveth abundance with increase."

I have no sympathy with the demagogues who are trying to antagonize the masses against the classes. I have utter contempt for the false agitators who preach the pernicious doctrine that every person who dresses in broadcloth or in silk is an enemy of his race, and that the insignia of all human perfections can only be found in the laborer's soiled garments and in the fluttering rags of a shiftless tramp. The outward appearance of man does not always portray his true character. Thus we find some of the blackest sheep feeding among the flocks browsing in all manner of fleeces. The wealth of a man or the poverty of a man cannot be used as a criterion by which to judge whether the nature I assert and have is pure or impure. They have been many rich men with true hearts and noble impulses and many rich men with false hearts and selfish intents. The world remembers with reverence such men as Sir Moses Montefiory, whose life was consecrated to charity; Baron Hirsch, who built and endowed homes for the shelter of persons in bad health; Peter Cooper, whose splendid institution is still developing the genius of the poor, and William E. Dodge, whose benefactions extended to the poor and struggling of his day. Who would dream of placing the portraits of Robert Morris and Jay Cooke in the rogues' gallery. The patriotic banker who risked his fortune in the support of Washington and the millionaires who stood by the side of Secretary Chase during the darkest days of the civil war were true patriots. Robert Morris' money and Jay Cooke's money were just as essential to American liberties as were the soldiers who carried the muskets and fired the cannon.

All palaces are not the walled in castles of buccaneers and thieves. I go further than this. I assert and have a right to assert this from the highest socialistic standards that men of capital are as necessary to the development of the country and to the success of an enterprise as are men of muscle and brains. It is unadulterated nonsense to say that the capital of this country rests entirely in the brain and muscles of laborers and the mechanics. The laborers and the mechanics of this country could accomplish very little for the true development of this country were it not organized and directed by skilled brains and by the resources of money. Sometime ago I walked through miles and miles of sagebrush and cactus that for years and years covered the San Bernardino estate extends from San Bernardino to Ettawanda. In all that desert there were not any living creatures but snakes, a few birds and leaping jack rabbits. Then I climbed the San Bernardino mountains and traveled into those hills for many miles. There I came to where the engineers and the financiers were building a great dam which would collect all the waters from an immense area of land into one great lake. "What are you going to do with this water?" I asked the chief engineer. "After we collect the water," said he, "we are going to send it by tunnels under the mountains, where it will be scattered over the arid lands, extending between Ettawanda and San Bernardino, and that water will make that desert blossom as the rose." Do you mean to tell me that the ignorant Mexican laborers who were digging the tunnels and erecting the dams of Little Bear Valley could work that miracle without the planning of skilled engineers and the re-enforcement of capital, any more than capital could make that reservoir possible without the cooperation of labor. Oh, yes, even in the wildest dreams of the discontented classes there must be partnership between man and man. There is a place for capital as well. Capital and labor are to a strong arm of God's people. Their two hands must lift together and work together and live together and die together.

But it makes a great deal of difference whether the capitalist looks upon his fortune as a public trust or whether he plots to make money and to squeeze the last dollar he can out of his suffering employes. It makes a great deal of difference whether capitalists are living for others or whether they believe that God has selected them as his special favorites and expects all those with whom they come in contact to live for their benefit. And yet that is the way many of our moneyed potentates act. They squeeze, they gouge, they do everything which is base that they can to hoard their gold. And the strange fact is the more they get the more they want and the more they are dissatisfied with what they have. Ecclesiastes well describes the insatiable spirit of some money seekers who are about us when he said, "He that loveth silver shall not be satisfied with silver, nor he that loveth abundance with increase."

In the first place, I learn from this text that when a man makes money his idol he is incapable of loving Christ. The two loves are antagonistic. They are in mortal combat. They can no more live together than a dove could nest with a buzzard or the light and the darkness could together fill the same room. The love of silver is from the devil. The love of Christ is of God. The Bible distinctly says it, "Ye cannot serve God and mammon," and he cannot serve two masters. For either yore will hold to the one and despise the other or else you will hold to the one and despise the other. The house divided against itself cannot stand. Therefore, my friends, you who have prayed your lives more and more to the acquisition of wealth are at the divergent forks of two roads. Either you will have to surrender your love for gold or else you will have to surrender your love for Jesus Christ. There is no doubt about it. The love of silver is a sin. And unless a man is ready to sin, he cannot render all sin he cannot become one with Christ.

"Oh," says some man to me, "that is absurd. You are taking an impracticable view of life. Do you mean to tell me that all merchants who are building their goods over a counter, that all real estate speculators who are trying to make a profit out of their business, all clerks and merchanics and lawyers and doctors and professional men, editors and authors and laborers who are earning their weekly wages are antagonistic to Jesus Christ?" No, my friend, I never said that. Thousands and tens of thousands and hundreds of thousands of men lives and benefit endless deeds. The world remembers with reverence such men as Sir Moses Montefiory, whose life was consecrated to charity; Baron Hirsch, who built and endowed homes for the shelter of persons in bad health; Peter Cooper, whose splendid institution is still developing the genius of the poor, and William E. Dodge, whose benefactions extended to the poor and struggling of his day. Who would dream of placing the portraits of Robert Morris and Jay Cooke in the rogues' gallery. The patriotic banker who risked his fortune in the support of Washington and the millionaires who stood by the side of Secretary Chase during the darkest days of the civil war were true patriots. Robert Morris' money and Jay Cooke's money were just as essential to American liberties as were the soldiers who carried the muskets and fired the cannon.

All palaces are not the walled in castles of buccaneers and thieves. I go further than this. I assert and have a right to assert this from the highest socialistic standards that men of capital are as necessary to the development of the country and to the success of an enterprise as are men of muscle and brains. It is unadulterated nonsense to say that the capital of this country rests entirely in the brain and muscles of laborers and the mechanics. er did we fix up the parlor than we had to buy new furniture for the dining room, and so we went on fixing the house. Then, after we had refurnished the house, we decided that the house itself was not good enough for the furniture, so we moved into a larger house on a better street. Then, when we moved into the better street, we found out that we had to have better clothes. Thus we went on increasing our expenses and our outgo, while our income remained the same. Then, the first thing I knew the bills kept piling up, and I was a financial wreck."

"Ah, yes," I said to myself when I heard that story, "how true that is about the unsatisfying result of selfishly living for what we can get." When we live for self the more we have the more we want. Greed has an omnivorous appetite. Greed is a glutton. Greed keeps crying: 'More, more. Give me more. I must have more!'" My friend, is not this the personal history of your greedy life?

My brother, how old are you? "Forty." How are you getting along in business? "Oh," you say, "splendidly, splendidly! My business was never better than now." Are you making any money outside of your business? "Yes," you say. "I do not tell this to everybody, but I will to you. Last week I closed one deal alone whereby I made on one piece of land a net profit of $10,000." Indeed! I suppose you inherited a good deal of money from your father to start a business? "Inherited! Indeed, I did not. Why, father never had anything to speak of. I was brought up on a farm. I made my own way alone. Why, when I first came to this city my wife and I used to live in two rooms. Then I often said to her, 'If the time ever comes when we have an annual income of $1,500 and a little home of our own we will be satisfied.'" Then you laugh to yourself and say, "Thank God, we have a good deal more than our little home now and $1,500 a year income." Is that so, my friend? Then I suppose, as your money is increasing, you are living more and more to God and to your fellow men. I suppose, as your capital enlarges, you do not grind your clerks down to a mere pittance and that you give them more time off for rest. I suppose that every year, as your financial income enlarges, your benevolences enlarge also. You look at me a moment. Then you drop your eyes as you slowly say: "No; I ought to do this, but I do not give as much now as I did twenty years ago. The strange fact is that financial success rarely ever encourages selfishness. The more I get the more I want and the less I give in proportion to my means. This is a selfish world, and I am each year like all other men, becoming more and more selfish." God pity you. I say again, because as you grow wealthier you do less and less for others.

You know one fact is true — the more you get less enjoyment you derive out of your own selfish successes. "He that loveth silver shall not be satisfied with silver nor he that loveth abundance with increase."

Are you one of the wholesale robbers whom Christ has condemned in that terrible philippic lately published called "The Jungle?" I do not know enough of the book to answer, but her he is right in his denunciation of the stockyards and their proprietors, but this I will say, that this spirit of selfish monopoly is practiced in many trades and professions. Every operator cannot bear to see a poor operator making a humble competence in his little store. He grudges him his little income and freezes him out and adds his connection to his own big business. Are you, O man, building up your fortune out of coffin lids and destroyed homes and wrecked lives? Some of you rich men are doing thus. You will never be able to atone for your murderous tyranies by a few donations to colleges and hospitals and libraries. Never, never, never! What you have won from man by dishonest methods you must, like Zaccheus, return to man fourfold. Are you one whose "gormandizing greed" is leading you to take unfair advantages of your fellow men?

But, after all, the most tragic and pathetic part of that Sinclair's book called "The Jungle"—and the reason I quote from this book is because I believe it is an epoch making book—is the tragic chapter where the once noble and honest "Jurgis" is now a thief and a robber, is led into the palace of the great stockyards packer, Jones by name, by the drunken son of the killer of over a quarter of billion of cattle. The millionaire gives him a financial prince could pile up his stolen riches for his children. And, mark you, I am not attacking or insinuating against any personality in Chicago, but only alluding to the character of the book as Upton Sinclair portrayed it. Jones could pile up his millions. But when

He gave his money to his son, like a satanic addict he bite, it spiritually and morally wrecked his boy's life. And when Jones died, his spiritually wreck the lives of our children, if we, as dishonest parents, give to them ill gotten gain. Oh, man, oh, woman, why will thou live for gold? Why will thou strive to win money for thy children and will that money give to them the parental example of a spiritually unstable life? Knowest thou not that the history of Jones, the millionaire packer of "The Jungle," is to be repeated in tiny histories and in the history of they children, if thou lovest silver for silver's sake and gold for gold's sake.

Thus, my friends, in this sermon I have tried to broaden your vision of life. I have not tried to stunt any of your faculties, but rather to give the broadest freedom to each of your mental and physical powers. What I have tried to do is to get you to consecrate the highest of your faculties to God. If you have the sweet throat of the thrush sing for Christ. If you have the powers of winning gold win it for Christ. Wherever you go and whatever you do, there seek an opportunity to reach out the helping hand for Christ. It is only the things of the spirit that live and bring happiness to those who live for the spirit, both on this side of the eternity and beyond, in the eternal life. "He that loveth silver shall not be satisfied with silver nor he that loveth abundance with increase."

Are you here and now ready to live the Christ life? Are you ready to help men up to God instead of trying to drag them down to sin? Oh, my friends, with the knowledge of the tragedies which are happening every where around us, dare we, can we, refuse the spirit life?

An Engineering Marvel.

Plans have been perfected by the Canadian Northern to construct a bridge near Lethbridge, Alberta, which will be an engineering marvel and probably will be ranked as one of the world's wonders. The plans call for a structure more than a mile long and 300 feet above the water, and it can be compared with other bridges of the world the Brooklyn bridge is no longer and is not more than half as high.

SUMMER CATARRH.

HOT WEATHER SEEMS TO HAVE BAD EFFECT UPON CATARRH SUFFERERS.

It is generally recognized by physicians that many people suffer more with catarrh during the summer than in the winter. The hot, dry weather and the change from the hot days to cool nights seems to have a bad effect upon the disease.

Even after the usual methods of treating catarrh have been unsuccessful, Hyomei will cure the worst case, and catarrh sufferers should take the treatment.

In many instances Hyomei has relieved even the deafness that usually follows catarrh. Quite a number of people in Napanee for years have been unable to get a good night's sleep on account of the disagreeable tickling and dropping at the back of the throat, have obtained quick relief from a few treatments of Hyomei, and the continued use effected a complete and lasting cure.

Hyomei is a simple, healing, which one uses Hyomei. Simply breathe it through the little inhaler that comes with every outfit and in a few minutes the whole mucous membrane will be healed.

For catarrh, coughs and colds, extra bottles 50c.

PAIN FROM A BURN PROMPTLY RELIEVED BY CHAMBERLAIN'S PAIN BALM.

A little child of Michael Strauss, of Vernon, Conn., was recently in great pain from a burn on the hand. Several cold applications only increased the inflammation, Mr. Strauss came to Mr. James N. Nichols, a local merchant, and asked for something to stop the pain. Mr. Nichols says, "I advised him to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm, as it was the first application drew out the inflammation, and gave immediate relief. I have used this liniment myself and in my family for cuts, burns, strains and lame back, and have never known it to disappoint." For sale at The Red Cross Drug Store. 36i

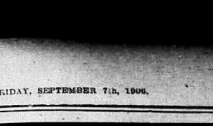
Cooks and Bakes perfectly at the same time



There is not another range built in which the heat may be regulated so that you can bake in the oven and cook on the top at the same time without spoiling one or the other.

But you can do both equally well at the same time on the Pandora, because its heat is not wasted and is at all times under the simplest, most positive control.

If you do the cooking of your household you can appreciate exactly what this means.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

"Have you any new song that is soft and pretty?"

"Well, here's one that just came in. It's called 'I Lost My Little Oozy, Dear, Mamma.' That sounds mushy, doesn't it?"

Dyspepsia Discomfort.—At the first symptoms of indigestion, disorder, Parmelee's Vegetable Pills should be resorted to immediately. Two or three of these salutary pellets, taken before going to bed, followed by doses of one or two pills for two or three nights in succession, will serve as a preventive of attacks of dyspepsia and all the disorders which follow in the train of that fell disorder. The means are simple when the way is known.

She—Is a telephone girl's occupation a profession or a business?

He—Neither; it's a calling.

Newlywed—Probably always much a point to tell my wife everything that happens.

Oldwed—Pooh! That's nothing. I tell my wife lots of things that never happen at all.

Do Not Delay.—When, through debilitated digestive organs, poison finds its way into the blood, Burdock Blood Bitters is to get the poison out as quickly and as safely as possible. Do not delay, may mean disaster. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will be found a most valuable and effective medicine to assist the digestive organs in their work of expelling the poison and restoring health. They go at once to the seat of the trouble and work a permanent cure.

A certain Lebanon clergyman is so much afraid of giving offense that he is very careful in his examination of candidates for matrimonial honors. Not long ago two darkies, a young man who sought to engage him to perform the ceremony, presented themselves.

"Is your intended wife a spinster?" asked the minister in a pleasant voice.

It Keeps the Muscles Pliant.—Men given to muscular sports and exercises find them more enjoyable when free from bicycle riding will find Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil very useful in preventing. As a liniment it will keep the muscles pliant and free from pains which often follow constant use of the limbs. When applied it will not impair their strength. For bruises, sprains and contusions it is without a peer.

"What are you going to call your umbrella?" asked Jinkley.

"Hydrogen Vase," replied Rimer.

"Ah! that reminds me of a little boy, a servant girl of ours dashed off the other day."

One trial of Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator will convince you that it has few equals as a worm medicine. Buy a bottle and see if it does not please you.

Mother, to Tommy, who has just said his prayers—Tommy, you forgot to ask the Lord to take care of your baby sister.

Tommy—Ah, ma'am, I'll take care of her myself."

Blunt and soft corns cannot withstand Holloway's Corn Cure; it is safe and sure. Get a bottle at once and be happy.

Tom Hobo—Please, mister, will youse give me a quarter for 10,000 dollars?

Mr. Arab—Sakes alive! Where would I get 10,000 dollars?

Tom Hobo—Well, mister, I'll give you a receipt for it.

"What'll you have on your face, sir?" asked the polite barber.

"Little arnica, and court plaster, if you don't mind," said the fat man.

A worthy, who had got inebriated, in his peregrinations accidentally stumbled against the post of a lamp one day round it, and on feeling the handle of his sword, exclaimed:

"Now, sonny, pit doon yer stick an pit right, an' I'll."

Cucumbers and melons are "terbludes fruit" to many persons so constituted that the least indulgence is followed by attacks of cholera, dysentery, griping, etc. These persons are now aware that they can indulge to their heart's content if they have on hand a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, a medicine that will give immediate relief, and is a sure cure for all summer complaints.

"My friend, you're an ass," "I'll see one thing."

"Do you call me your friend because I'm an ass, or an ass because I'm your friend?"

"While the Hon. E. B. Flynn, of Springfield, Muse., was on his way to the Supreme Court, one day last week, to judge his arm several law-books. A friend remarked to him: "Flynn, I'll go to the books."

"Why, I thought you carried all that stuff in your head."

"I do," quoth Edward Flynn, with a knowing wink. "These are for the judges."

LETTER FROM 'PEEP' WILSON.

New York, Sept. 21, 1906.

Dear Mr. Templeton,—The Governor General's Body Guards are going to Toronto, and I saw a lot of them in the street last night. For fun, asked a cop what was soldiering, and he said they were the Mexican militia. I heard the man speak to 10,000 people in Madison Square Gardens, and there were six hundred extra policemen on guard. Before Bryan had finished speaking the boys were selling extras with the first part of his speech in them. Don't you think we could do that?

Bobby had early awakened a certain taste for unctuous and always drank his information about the various parts of the body. Some days ago one day he came to his mother in great perturbation, and said:

"Mother, I know where my liver is, but where is my gizzard?"

The engler smiles forth agin,
And by the hookoth's shine
Doth idly fish and fish and fish
Goes home and lies some more.

WILLIAM JACKSON, Colerock

Is Baby Plump, Rosy and "Good"?

That is the normal condition of a healthy baby. If your baby is thin, pale and peevish there is something radically wrong, and ten to one the trouble is with its food. Either the food is lacking in nourishing qualities, or, being unsuitable, is not assimilated, and, as a consequence, baby is miserable and fails to thrive.

What is absolutely necessary in such a case is a concentrated and nourishing food, and, at the same time, easily digested.

The ideal infant food is

FERROL

Phosphorized Oil and Iron—the original and only combination of Oil with Iron and Phosphorus. Babies like FERROL, it always agrees with them, and never fails to give the most gratifying results.

FERROL is absolutely the only Infant Food which develops every part of the system: Phosphorized Oil, the most valuable food known, to build up the tissue and muscle; Iron to enrich the blood; and Phosphorus, for the development of bone, nerve and brain.

If you wish to have a strong, healthy baby, do not fail to use FERROL—the result will amaze you.

Rheumatism is not incurable. Stuckey's Nervine Rheumatic Liniment and Nervine Remedy will if faithfully used get it out of the system. It's a blood that's at fault. Poisonous crystals like sand get into the joints and muscles. Dr. Stoop's Rheumatic Remedy prevents this. It drives Rheumatism deep into the blood and Rheumatism dies. We recommend and sell it. T. B. MORE HARVEST HELP WANTED — MANITOBA AND SASKATCHEWAN.

Although all the provinces in Eastern Canada have contributed a large number of laborers to assist in harvesting the tremendous wheat crop of Canada's Western Provinces, there is a great demand for more laborers.

With the improved machinery, and the men already sent, the crop will be cut, but the demand is for laborers to assist in the threshing and the movement of the grain to the elevators.

Between 15,000 and 20,000 laborers have gone west; 5,000 to 10,000 more are required.

The Grand Trunk Pacific are laborers' excursion from South-Western Ontario on September 5th, from the North-Western section September 7th, and from the Northern and Eastern sections on September 8th.

Through second class tickets are sold at $12 to Winnipeg, and on arrival there the laborer is met by Government representatives at the depots, and when he has contracted to work he is furnished by the railway with a free ticket to the nearest station to the farmer he is to work with. On arrival at that station he deposits his contract with the agent, and when he is ready to return after he has been working 30 days, the agent gives him a transportation ticket and certification to that effect on his certificate, and the transportation ticket from that station back to the starting point at a rate of $48.00.

It is expected a very large number will take advantage of these excursions to spend a few weeks in the West, and acquaint themselves with the conditions in that country. This is an opportunity to have an outing and make something besides expenses.

Anyone wanting further information write to C. P. R. Passenger Department, Toronto. 3d

2,000 MEN SEEK WIVES.

Yearly Marriage Mart in Belgian Village Crowded With Suitors.

Two thousand bachelors from all parts of Belgium, many from France and some from Germany, swept down on the village of Remiremont-Laking the other day to find brides.

It was the fourth yearly marriage mart as established by the maids of Ecaussines, and as there are only three-score maidens in the village ladies in the quaint little place, the supply of matrimonial partners fell deplorably short of the demand. All the same, the proceedings were a great success.

The men began to arrive early in the morning, but it was toward noon before trainloads of them appeared. There were all sorts and conditions of men. One man of 72 had traveled all the way from Luxemburg to find a wife, to whom he promised a dowry that would place her beyond want. There were tradesmen, clerks, mechanics, miners, laborers—indeed, no branch of trade appeared to be unrepresented.

Cupid's Signs.

Gay banners of welcome, triumphal arches with mottoes of encouragement for prospective husbands, figures of Cupid and hearts pierced by arrows were to be seen everywhere; but the local authorities had set a limit to the young ladies' proposal to name the main streets "Places des Piancalles," "Place Conjugale" and "Place de la Concorde."

At noon the bachelors were formally welcomed at the gates of the village by the Spinster Committee. Last year's president and several members of the committee are now married as the result of the festivities twelve months ago, and others had been elected in their place.

All marched to the "Grande Place," where there was an open-air concert. The bands played nothing but nuptial marches and love songs. At the close an announcement was made to the town hall, where the young ladies took their places at tables on which stood bouquets of red roses with the inscription as "Hope On," "Love," "Be Trusting" and "Have Faith."

Securing Partners.

A vacant chair was left beside each girl, and at a given signal the men with matrimonial intent made a rush to secure the seats. Then coffee and a sweet cake were served, followed by a bonbon, lasting of love. When this was over the lady president made a speech on the art of winning the heart of the man, who was wildly applauded. Dancing in the open air ended the program of the festivities.

Hundreds of letters, many of them very amusing, were received this year from bachelors intending to attend. A official from Paris anxiously inquired whether, in the event of not finding a bride to his taste, he could refuse to marry and would be allowed to leave quietly.

Some bachelors from Gilly (France) explained that they were young, good looking and earning $60 a month, and therefore had no fear of finding Ecaussines, where the girls are known for their good looks and quiet domestic life.

Two friends, a butcher and a hairdresser, called for information about two nice girls by the president, but so mixed up their qualifications that it appeared that the butcher dressed animals with antiseptic treatment, and the hairdresser slaughtered his customers humanely.

TEETHING TIME.

Every mother dreads that period in her baby's life known as teething time. The little gums are swollen, feverish and sore, the child suffers greatly, and is so cross and irritable that the whole household is on edge. All this can be changed to happy when baby's Own Tablets are used. This medicine allays the inflammation, soothes the swollen, tender gums, brings the teeth through painlessly in good time. "I have found Baby's Own Tablets a splendid medicine for teething time," says Mrs. Alphonse Dupuis, Ste. Rose du Degele, Que., "and I also found they relieved baby of stomach trouble and constipation." My baby was very poorly at that time, was cross, restless and had no appetite. After giving baby the Tablets there was a decided improvement, and in the course of a few days baby was quite like the same child. The Tablets are just the medicine to help little ones over the trying teething time." You can get Baby's Own Tablets from any druggist or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

DOCTORS CHANGE THEIR METHODS

Years ago they fought catarrh by inhaling strong drugs. They tried to paralyze the stomach and changed to the constant use of cocaine, thereby creating a habit. This treatment is sure to cure. It goes to the root of the disease, it destroys the causes that maintain catarrh and even in the worst cases a permanent cure is effected. Failure with Catarrhozone is impossible. A DRAMATIC MOMENT

The illness of Sir John Macdonald in the spring of 1891 has been almost forgotten, but about six weeks Canada held her breath. Early in the session he was called to his department in apparent good health, and was suddenly stricken in his room. The hurriedly called doctors gave no hope. The papers set up obituary notices. For six weeks, the sufferer lay in the room in which he fell, too weak to be moved. At length he was strong enough to be removed to the Windsor Hotel and thence to the Parliament Buildings and later to Prince Edward Island. This is one of the incidents described in personal reminiscences of J. K. R. McCready now being published in The Canadian Magazine. The fifth of his six articles appears in the September issue.

THE SUCCESS OF MAKING PICKLES.

The pride of many housekeepers is based on the quality of their own made pickles, sauces, etc. As you know — to achieve good resul s—more depends on the quality of the ingredients that go in the processing. You will be looking to your own interests by buying your spices from us, which "we guarantee pure"—absolutely pure and true to name. Nothing finer to be had at any price. You must not forget our "Imperial" Vinegar—pure, sparkling, clear as crystal—full-bodied—yet of that exquisite mellow flavor that makes it the favorite of the knowing housekeeper.

DESHANE—LEARY

A quiet wedding took place at the English Church, Napanee, on Wednesday, Aug. 29, when Miss Mabel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Leary, Napanee, became the wife of Mr. David J. Deshane. The bridesmaid was Miss Bertha Leard, of Petrolea, niece of the groom, and Mr. T. D. Oliver, Deseronto, did similar honors for the groom. The bride was dressed in a travelling suit of brown with white silk blouse and hat to match. The bridesmaid was dressed in white dotted muslin. The happy couple left on the 4 20 train, mid showers of rice and good wishes, for a week's visit with friends in Crookston and Belleville. On their return they will reside in Napanee.

MEMBERY—LOVE

A pretty wedding was celebrated at the home of the bride's uncle, Mr. W. E. Membery, 1478 King W., Toronto, on Wednesday afternoon, 29th Aug., when Miss Ida Membery was married to Mr. Walter Love. Rev. Bernard Bryan was officiating clergyman. The bride, who was given away by her father, was dressed in white crepe goods over white silk and wore a handsome pearl brooch, the gift of the groom. Her shower bouquet was composed of bride roses and ferns. The bridesmaid was Miss Edna Allison, cousin of the bride, while Mr. Joe Madill assisted the groom. The bride was the recipient of many valuable and useful presents. After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Love left for a trip on the Upper Lakes.

THE COUNTY EXHIBITION.

Our County Agricultural Society is one of the oldest in the Province, and has always been a good show and well attended. Our agriculturists and their good wives and families are up-to-date in every respect, and it is due to their united exertions that Old Lennox Show grounds such a grand appearance. Unlike many other similar societies, it has always been kept up to a high standard, and instead of declining in its advanced age, it has constantly increased in popularity and size. This year promises to eclipse all past exhibitions, and nothing but unfavorable weather will prevent it being a record exhibition. And as we write to the veterinary Secretary, Dr. Mew, for a prize list, and do not hear what to make the show a success, we guess we will have to go and it will be worth your while to read the list of special prizes on page 8.

COUNTESS OF ABERDEEN
A Worker for the Good of Humanity.

A warm-hearted, earnest woman, serene, simple, sincere and sympathetic, with a special talent for human helpfulness and inspiration to higher living—this is Lady Aberdeen.

In "Guisachan," the romantic Scotch estate in Inverneshire, Isbbell, youngest daughter of Sir Dudley Coutts Marjoribanks, later Lord Tweedmouth, was born in 1857. A right royal welcome was given to visitors in this hospitable home in the Highlands, and from the lips of the prominent statesmen that gathered there little Isbbell learned politics at an age when she should still have believed in fairy tales. When she was eleven, a young man of twenty-one who had ridden across the country, lost his way and unknowingly trespasses on the Marjoribanks estate. A chance interview with Sir Dudley proved him to be John Campbell Gordon, son of Sir Dudley's good old Parliamentary friend, Earl of Aberdeen, and he was invited to spend the night. The love at first sight between the two young people led to their marriage in 1877.

In 1886, Gladstone offered to his friend, young Lord Aberdeen, the post of Viceroy of Ireland. It was a delicate, difficult position, strewn with pitfalls which taxed the watchfulness, tact and diplomacy of the Viceroy to avoid. There was great distress in the country; the crops and fisheries had failed, the people grimly tolerated the consignants of Dublin Castle because protest was useless; but soon the sunshine and glow of affection from Lord and Lady Aberdeen melted the stolid, sullen reserve, and love reigned where force had proven worse than useless. Perhaps the Countess herself a descendant of the old Irish and Scotch kings, struck some sympathetic chord that vibrated in kinship and unity. Her practical nature realized that the people should be helped to help themselves through their own labor, and unapproached by gifts. She devoted herself with great energy to reviving the domestic industries of Ireland—weaving, knitting, embroidery and lace-making—and made the wearing of Irish poplin an essential to admission to official functions at the Castle.

In Canada, where Lord Aberdeen was Governor-General from 1893-8 they endeared themselves to the people by their many acts of kindness. The Countess' first effort in syndicating sunshine and sweetness was her organization of the "Onward and Upward Society" among the tenants, domesties and the poor on the Scottish estates, which has spread over the world. Her Women's Liberal Federation which she organized and led as President has over 80,000 members; but her club work and labors for humanity never for a moment eclipse her home, with her three children remaining in the loving circle.

Entered according to Act of the Parliament of Canada, in the year 1905, by W. C. Wilson, at the Department of Agriculture.

NEWBURGH.

The Council have begun the putting down of the cement walks for the year, in front of W. W. Adams' store and in front of M. Ryan's store house.

Taxpayer seems determined to give the village and its institutions as bad a name as possible. We fail to see what good it will accomplish, but if Taxpayer will come out into the lime-light over his or her own signature, probably some one interested in the welfare of Newburgh would take the matter up with our critical friend. Until the writer of such articles will do that the people of the village will treat such letters and anonymous communications should be treated, with silent contempt.

The Epworth League of the Methodist church held its annual reception to the staff and pupils of the High School, on Monday evening. A very interesting programme, consisting of a quartette by Miss Brisco, Miss Wood, J. W. Yeomans and D. D. Shorey; a recitation, by Miss Jennie Brandon; a violin solo, by F. G. Miller; and speeches by Rev. J. G. Mears, B. Aylesworth, T. A. Dunwoody and D. A. Noble, was given. The entertainment proved decidedly interesting, the prizes being won by Miss Mary Warner and Master Frank Ryan. Refreshments consisting of cake and coffee, were served, and a very pleasant evening spent by all.

On Monday evening next J. W. Yeomans will give a lecture on the Missionary Conference of Whitby this summer. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend this meeting of the league.

Mrs. John Patterson is visiting Mrs. Gardiner in Ottawa, this week.

The baseball club at the N. H. S. was reorganized this week.

A large number from the village will take in the World's Fair at Centreville, on Saturday.

Miss Dockeray, Fred Miles and Harry Miles, of Peterboro', are visiting at George Walker's.

Miss Dockeray will leave on Monday next, for Her Honor Judge Price. The docket was a very light one.

For the beating they gave the Yarker baseball team in Napanee, on Labor day, the local team have received considerable commendation from some of the interested fans of the village.

The Public Library Board are arranging for a concert to be given here on Thanksgiving night, if all arrangements can be made by that night.

Miss Baker, of Moscow, spent Sunday with Miss Ethel Bird.

The Board of Education met on Monday night.

MORVEN.

Our pic social on Friday night was a perfect success. The programme was rendered in full by the Morven, Mrs. Leslie, of Heyburn, recited in his excellent manner. Miss Horton sang two solos which were very well rendered. Other solos were given by little Miss Smith, of Clarkers, which were pleasing and acceptable. W. A. Rev. Ensley, of Napanee, and Rev. Dibb, of Odessa, were the speakers. All enjoyed themselves immensely. Proceeds over $20.00.

Sunday services were well attended.

Mr. Edgar Cook, of Napanee, won the prize at the race. Who can beat Morven for racing?

Miss Grace Heywood, Mr. A. Galt and Mr. R. J. Galt, of Hawley, spent Sunday at Mr. R. Galt's.

Mr. W. Thomson and Mr. Moran, Montreal, spent Sunday with Mr. Thomson's parents. Mr. Post week visiting their auntie, Mrs. W. H. Francis.

Mrs. and Mrs. H. Milling and daughter spent Sunday under the parental roof.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Trish spent last week in Toronto.

Beautifully Lighted.

The new Electric Light lights the streets beautifully. Frankly speaking, the streets are lighted too much. Why not have the lights turned down a little? Say it at Wallace's Red Cross Drug Store.

DESMOND.

A large number from here intend taking in the fair at Centreville on Saturday.

Miss Dockeray is visiting Sister Sunday with Miss Myrtle Switzer.

Messrs. Arthur Switzer, Albert Macdonald, Urban Wilson and Fred Bell have returned from Toronto fair.

Miss Gertrude Wagar, Centreville, is visiting at Mr. Jas. Henderson's.

Master Donald Switzer has left to attend the Newburgh High School.

Miss Nettie and Mr. Clarence Weese, Centreville, spent Thursday afternoon at J. N. Switzer's.

Mrs. George Lee, Yarker, spent Monday at her mother's, Mrs. J. Switzer.

Enamel for Floors.

Jamieson's Floor Enamel is far superior to four paints of any kind. It dries as hard as rock with a varnish and will not soap off. It is unsurpassed for floors in the office. Sold only at Wallace's Red Cross Drug Store.

A Friend Told Me About

Bu-Ju

THE GENTLE KIDNEY CURE

Hundreds of people, who have long been afflicted with Kidney Trouble by Bu-Ju, were first induced to try this New Canadian remedy by friends who had themselves been cured. The sales of Bu-Ju are daily increasing because everyone who takes them is benefitted—and those in turn, tell others. So the good news is spread.

Here is what a Picton man says about Bu-Ju :—

"I have used Bu-Ju with great benefit to myself, and cheerfully recommend it to others. I think, also suffering from Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism.

"I think Bu-Ju the best remedy made."

Yours sincerely,

JOHN MILLS.

You have No Reason for Not Using

Zutoo

Some people think that all headache cures are alike—that they all undermine the health, even if not perceived at the time of taking them.

Well, you will find that the drug cures do this, but that is no reason why you should not take Zutoo.

Zutoo is a harmless vegetable remedy. One ingredient is soda—just old-fashioned soda that our grandmothers used to take to settle the stomach, when they had sick headache. And there is nothing better.

The principal ingredient—the one that stops the headache, is a vegetable ingredient, imported for us from Japan. It is what you pay more than will the soda.

There is absolutely no reason why you should not use Zutoo.

If you suffer from headache there is every reason why you should.

Taken in time, two tablets will ward off a headache. Taken later, they will stop it in from 5 minutes, and leave you feeling good every title.

If you are using a drug remedy, why not discard it?

Zutoo will cure just as quickly and will save you the penalty, that will most sometime pay, who take the drugs which these cures contain.

If you will give Zutoo one trial, you will never take any other headache remedy again.

Sold at 25c. at dealers or by mail.

VETERAN METHODIST MINISTER

At the recent Wesleyan Conference held at Northampton, England, at the end of July, 1906, Rev. Gifford Dorey was placed on the list of superannuated ministers after 60 years of work in the ministry, began in Canada in 1846. The record states that he has never been laid aside by sickness. Mr. Dorey was stationed at Newburgh for three years, 1857-8-9. Some of the old timers will doubtless remember him and they may be surprised as well as interested in knowing that he still lives in England, and has just completed sixty years of active work.

FOR FAIR WEEK.

The crowds that have visited the opera house this week have been exceedingly large, standing room being at a premium every evening. Such a splendid bill added to the change of play nightly accounts for the rush and the results made the management feel glad. The performances have given every evidence of fully satisfying the demand for best grade amusement. There is one fact worthy of mention, and that is that all Marks Brothers' plays are clean in theme and treatment. Joe Marks and Grace Marks has not added hundreds of admirers to their long list. The company has proven one of the biggest hits in its line ever put on in Detroit, and would draw big business were it booked for many weeks to come.—Detroit Free Press.

This popular company has been engaged to play here in the Bridge Opera House, three nights next week, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, with, 10th and 11th of Sept. They are up-to-date in every respect, and no word of commendation is necessary from us.

A free show will be given in front of the opera house each evening, when Miss Beatrice Scott will give her thrilling act on the wire, "A Slide for Life."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

The lawn party held by the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Quinn at their residence on Saturday was an immense success, and thoroughly enjoyed by all who entered into the spirit of the evening. The refreshment stand was supplied with soft drinks, ice cream, cake, etc., and the following ladies and gentlemen most kindly acted as waiters, Mrs. Richard Quinn, Mrs. Patrick Quinn, Mrs. John Hannah, Mrs. Simon Shane, Mrs. Robert Misap and Mrs. Hugh Hannah, Miss Robert Misap and Peter Quinn. The Yarker Brass Band enlivened the proceedings with their music and a nice programme was rendered, in which Mrs. Beaman, Miss Gertrude Hannah, Mr. F. G. Hall, Mr. Beaman and Master Adam Hamilton took part most acceptably. There was an ideal platform for the young people to dance on, and they enjoyed themselves immensely. The house and grounds were decorated with flag and Chinese lanterns, the grounds being most suitable for such a society function. The moon shining bright made the evening an ideal one for the occasion. Proceedings terminated at 12 sharp. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Quinn are to be congratulated on the success attending their delightful garden party, and throwing open their grounds so generously for the use of the society. Proceeds, about $56.00. Mr. Charles Dewey acted most efficiently as gate keeper.

FIFTY CENTS

In some conditions the gain from the use of Scott's Emulsion is very rapid. For this reason we put up a fifty-cent size, which is enough in most cases to check a cough or cold or useful as a trial for babies and children. In other conditions the gain is slower—health cannot be built up in a day. In such cases Scott's Emulsion must be taken as nourishment; a food rather than a medicine. It's a food for tired and weak digestions.

SURROGATE COURT.

His Honor Judge Madden presided at a sitting of the Surrogate Court held on Monday, 10th Sept., at the Court House.

The case tried was Newton vs. Clark, and was to test the validity of the will of the late Samuel Benjamin Clark, late of Desoronto, and Township of Richmond, gentleman, deceased. Mr. Clark took out a certificate of insurance for $2,000 in the Orange Mutual Insurance Society of Toronto West, on 1st Aug., 1890. On the 2d Aug., 1905, he died from the benefits under this certificate in his second wife, Esther Alvena Clark, and his two sons, Harry Benjamin and Arthur Benjamin Clark. On the 5th July, 1901, Mr. Clark changed the above will, giving everything under said certificate to his daughter, wife of Peter Hawley Wagar, of Napanee. The action is brought by Dr. John Newton, of Desoronto, the executor, under both wills, to establish the second will in favor of Mrs. Wagar, and Wm. H. Clark is contesting the second will in the interests of himself, his step-mother and his half brother, on the ground that the second will was not duly executed, and that the deceased at the time of its execution was not of sound mind, memory and understanding, and the said will was obtained by the undue influence of the said Edna Jane Wagar.

Twelve witnesses were sworn while the case was adjourned until Tuesday, 25th Sept., at 9 a.m. It was brought out in evidence that the deceased had suffered two paralytic strokes prior to making the last will.

From girlhood to middle life the health and happiness of every woman depends upon the quality of her blood is poor and watery she become weak, languid, pale and nervous. If her blood is rich and red she is full of health and energy. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make rich, red blood which gives help and strength and tone to every organ of the body. Here is a woman just when nature makes the greatest demand upon her blood supply. Mrs. H. Gagne has for twenty years been one of the best known residents of St. Rights, Que., says: "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been a blessing to me. I was weak, worn out and scarcely able to drag myself about. I suffered from headaches and dizziness, my appetite was poor, and to attempt housework left me utterly worn out. I slept badly at night and what sleep I got did not refresh me. For nearly three years I was in this condition, and was constantly taking medicine, but found no benefit from it. One of my neighbors, who had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills with much benefit, advised me to try them. I did so, and the whole story is told in the words I will not say that they cure all ills, but I will say that they cure anaemia, indigestion, neuralgia, rheumatism, lumbago, headaches, backache, heart palpitation and skin diseases like pimples and eczema. That is why they are the greatest help to the world's ever growing girls who need new blood and for women suffering from irregular health. Twenty Minutes Time Enough?

To Cure the Worst Headache From Any Cause—New Reduction Method.

For Headaches

Most headaches and pains yield instantly to the new Reduction Method—Dr. Shoop's Twenty Minute Headache Cure. Whether the pain is from congestion—a rushing of blood to the nerve centers—which distends the veins, nearly bursts the head. Swollen and enlarged, pressure upon the brain, or whether it is from the terrible irritability of nerves and nerve pain, and finally a dull, throbbing, cease ache. This new Reduction Method disperses the blood, distributes the overflow, and directs to the proper channels. It frees the nerve pressure and relieves irritation—the pains and nerve tension disappear because their cause has been removed. You may try a bottle of Dr. Shoop's Headache Cure and not need another dose—you may feel relief in twenty minutes—but the nerves, into submission—but the method is right, a prompt relief and permanent cure will be a revelation. Because it reduces the congestion, it must embody the Reduction Method. Medicine alone cannot do it. Dr. Shoop has found a way—discovered the only way—by which nervousness, pain and headache may be overcome. The effect of Dr. Shoop's Twenty Minute Headache Cure is prompt—perfectly safe to all forms of Headache and entirely positive in every temperament. For sale and recommended by BRITISH SCIENTIST'S IDEA.

Man Is Groping His Way Upwards, Says Sir Oliver Lodge—Reasons For His Conclusion.

God, says the universe is an aspect and expression of God. The universe is always struggling upward to a perfecting not yet attained, writes Sir Oliver Lodge, who continues: I see in the mighty process of evolution an eternal struggle towards more and more self-perception and fuller and more all embracing existence—not only on the part of what is customarily spoken of as creating, but in so far as nature is an aspect and revelation of God, and in so far as time has any ultimate meaning or significance, we must dare to extend the thought of growth and progress and development even up to the borders of all that we can realise of the supernal being. In some parts of the universe perhaps already the ideal condition has been attained. And the region of such attainment, the full blaze of self-consciousness, is too bright for our mortal eyes, utterly is beyond our highest thoughts; but in part the attainment is as yet imperfect; it is in the main true as the material part, which is our present home, it is nascent, or only just beginning; and our own struggles and efforts and disappointments and aspirations, the felt grouning and travail of the whole creation, these are evidence of the effort; indeed, they themselves are part of the effort towards fuller and more complete and more conscious existence. On this planet man is the highest outcome of the forces so far, and is therefore the highest representative of deity that here exists. Terribly imperfect as yet, because so recently evolved, he is nevertheless a being which has at length attained to consciousness and free will, a being unable to be governed on the whole force of the universe against his will; a spark of the divine never to be quenched.

So it must have been elsewhere, amid the chaos of cosmic space, myriads of times over in all the aeons of the past; and thus may have arisen legends of the evolution of a humanity analogous to, called angels, some ascendant in the struggle, others fallen by their own rebellion. Let it not be supposed that these instinctive legends are based on nonsense; they are pictorial travesty, doubtless, but they are not gratuitous inventions; it is doubtful if entirely baseless or purely gratuitous inventions would have any vitality; every living idea surely must be based upon something; these correspond with something innate in the ideas of humanity became imbedded in the structure of the universe of which that humanity is a part.

A question presses on the optimist for answer therefore. Are the rebellious and sinful not also our brothers? Ultimately, and in the last resort, will not they, too, put themselves in time with the harmony of existence? Who is to say? Time is infinite, eternity is before us as well as between us, and life end is as yet not. There is no ultimate in the matter, for there is no end; there is room for an eternity of rebellion and degradation and misery as well as for one of joy and hope and love. We can see that misery and unhappiness must be on the winning side, while crime is a fruit of arrested development or reversion to an ancestral type; we can perceive that vice contains suicidal elements; while every step in an upward direction is a release that lets the energy of the moral universe; yet clearly there is no compulsion; the door of hope is not closed, but if any are free will be entered, and good and evil will be intermingled with us for many seasons yet. The law of progress by struggle and effort is not soon to be abrogated and replaced by Nirvana. The universe is not a "being" but a "becoming," an ancient but light bringing doctrine which is ridiculed. It is a change, in development, in movement, upward and downward, that activity consists.

Such ideas, the ideas of development and progress, extend even up to God himself, according to the Christian conception. So we return to that with which we started, the Christian idea of God is not that of a being outside the universe, above its struggles and advances, looking on and taking part in the process, solely exalted, beneficent, self-determined, and complete; no, it is also that of a God who loves, who yearns, who suffers, who keenly laments the rebellious and misguided activity of the free agents brought into being by himself as part of himself, who enters into the storm and conflict, and is subject to conditions as they arise, all conditions not artificial and transitory, but inherent in the process of producing free and self-determined souls and essential to the full self-development of even deity.

Infinitely patient the universe has been while man has groped his way to this truth; so simple and so soothing in one of its aspects, so inconceivable and incredible in another. Dimly and partially it has been seen by all the prophets, and doubtless by many of the pagan saints. Dimly and partially we see it, now; but in the life blood of Christianity we see its most vital element. It is not likely to be the attribute of any religion alone; it may be the essence of truth in all terrestrial religions, but it is conspicuously Christian.

Red Rose as Rent.

A red rose is the annual rent paid for a valuable bit of land in Southwark, the property of the dean and chapter of London. The 250th payment has just been made to the governors of St. Olave's and St. Saviour's Grammar School, who are the "ground landlords. The quaint custom dates from 1656, when a portion of a field belonging to the school was leased by the parish authorities for the benefit of the poor, at the nominal rental of one pair of red rose. The lease was one of 500 years, so that in the natural course of things the annual red rose will be paid until A. D. 2156. The value of the land will go on increasing, for green fields have now receded miles from Southwark.

Laymen as "Patrons."

The Bishop of Rochester, speaking at the Diocesan Conference at Cambridge Wells, on differences between clergy and congregations, said that in future he would submit all local patronage committees of church people any glis of living of which he was the patron, provided that the committees undertook to see that the incumbent received adequate remuneration.

MRS. NICKLEBY'S GARDEN.

An Estate at Bow Where Dickens Laid One of His Famous Scenes.

Many interesting associations are linked with the Grove Hall estate, at Bow, which recently came under the auctioneer's hammer. It was here that Charles Dickens laid the scheme of the amusing love-making episodes between Mrs. Nicholas Nickleby and the gentleman belonging to the house next door." Here stood the "little cottage at Bow," and the quaint old garden in which Mrs. Nickleby and her daughter Kate received the love offerings of vegetable marrows, cucumbers and onions still in existence.

Until recently the estate was the site of Byas' private lunatic asylum. Just off the Bow Road—the high road to Chigwell, with which the novelist was well acquainted—and about three or four hundred yards down Fairfield Road the visitor come to a large but old brick wall. Passing through the narrow porter's lodge, he at once steps into an Old World garden of quaint and singular beauty. In front of him stretches a long avenue of plane trees, and away in the distance are lovely winding paths and leafy lanes.

It is a strange spot, situated in the heart of London's East End, a spot which few would expect to find in this busy district. And at the end of the avenue and away to the left lies the oldtime garden, in which the eccentric lady and the still more eccentric lover communed in the days of long ago. The old wall, thickly covered with ivy and creepers, over which the "gentleman from next door" conversed with Mrs. Nickleby, is still there, much worn with age. In the centre of the garden is a new large patch of evergreens and marigolds, while sweet-smelling jasmine perfumes the air with its fragrance. One can easily reconstruct the love scene in this old-fashioned garden and see in imagination the lady demurely rejecting the proposals of the madman "from next door."

The little cottage has long since been demolished, and on its site now stand the remains of a laundry. But the landmarks are still left, and it will be a pity if these old associations are allowed to be obliterated by the march of the builder. It is a delightful sylvan retreat, and the many lovers of Dickens will hope that the aggregation of the Dickens Fellowship that the authorities should preserve the place as a public recreation ground will be acted upon. The estate, which is still surrounded by a high wall of Byas' private lunatic asylum, comprises close upon a dozen acres of beautifully wooded land. Such a spot would make an ideal recreation ground.

The asylum itself was closed early in the present year, and the buildings, with the exception of one or two at the extreme north on the grounds have been pulled down.

DAVITT AS A PRINTER.

Famous Irishman Used to Sling Type With a Will.

Here is a story the late Michael Davitt told of himself: "After I had lost my arm I was at the pistoffice of the little town, and we had a little job printing business. One day a man came in. I think he was an auctioneer, and he wanted the bill at once. Our only printer was on the spree. So my master declared that the job that bill in the time requested. He went out to look for the vagrant printer. But I set to work; I stuck to it, and, at last, we pulled a proof of it. My master returned, and the auctioneer came a little later. He asked for the proof. The employer said that it had not been possible to carry out the order. But I produced the proof. The astonishment of my master was unfeigned. He said: 'How could you do it, with the one arm?' I replied that I reckoned to do with one arm what any other man could do with two—except boxing.' This little story was a key to Michael Davitt's extraordinary tenacity of purpose.

Relics of the Armada.

At Christie's (London) there were recently put up for sale four remarkable papers referring to the Spanish Armada. The first is a "Resolution of a Council of War of the English Commanders against the Spanish Armada," four days after the battle of Gravelines, the English being then in pursuit of the Spanish fleet. The document is on one-page foolscap folio, dated Aug. 8, 1588, is signed by Lord Howard of Effingham, the Earl of Cumberland, Lord Thomas Howard, Sir Francis Drake, Sir John Hawkins, Sir Martin Frobisher and Capt. Thomas Fenner. "Forasmuch," runs the minute, "For as much as sundry ships of the navye under the charge of the sayd lord admyrall were not entirely by three dayes, and that a great many of them had spent their powder and shott, resolution was made to and so agreed that we myght recover the frythe so that the navy myght be refreshed of victualle and namelye watery"; and another passage; "It was then thought good that the Lord Admyrall shoulde be tollt at to impeach the landyage of the Spanyards yf they shott attempt any place in the norwarde of Scotland frythe." The second document is another "Resolution of a Council in War," dated Aug. 24, 1588, in which it was determined that "when wind and weather shall nexte serve oure fleete shall remove from Dover roade and that the greatest ships shall ride in the Downes there to releave there abe men," etc. The third document is a marvel of bad spelling, and two pages folio, dated Aug. 25, 1588, when Fenner, captain of the Ad at the battle of Gravelines, and addressed to the Lord High Admiral "at Dover or els whearе give this wt. speed"; in this document Fenner sends news that he has discovered a "Greate Spaniard" at Newhaven, having on board 500 men and much money for the Prince of Parma. The fourth Armada document is a letter signed by Lord Burghley to Lord Howard of Effingham, Aug. 28, 1588, and is endorsed by various hands, a ball struck a sparrow which was darting across the green and killed it. The point has arisen whether the serve is a fault or a net ball.

WESTBROOK.

A very pretty wedding was a happy event of Wednesday, August 29th, when Miss Estella G. Gates was united in marriage to Sperry M. Burt, of Morven. The ceremony was performed in the evening, on the lawn, at 8 o'clock, by the bride's former pastor, Rev. R. S. Bidwell. The bride was attired in a white silk dress and a bridal veil. She carried a bouquet of white moss roses. Her only ornament was a handsome bell pin set with pearls, the gift of the groom. While Wagman's wedding march was being sweetly rendered by the bride's brother, Earl Gates, the bridal party entered an arch on the lawn, through an isle of white satin ribbon formed by four little girls, Misses Vera McDonald, Alice Smith, Augusta Malhoe and Petrisha Burt, who were daintily dressed in white robes, and carried baskets of flowers from which they scattered rose leaves for the bride and her small attendant, Master Willie Rawson, of North Bay, Ont., who carried the ring embedded in a white calla lily. The bride followed her small ring bearer, on the arm of her father, and was met by the groom under the evergreen arch, decorated with autumn leaves and ferns. Here the ceremony was performed and congratulations received from relatives and friends present. Afterwards a sumptuous supper was partaken of and the evening being spent in music and merriment, the bride stole quietly away and slipped on a travelling suit of navy blue with plaited skirt and trimmings of military braid. Her hat was a blue silk trimmed with blue silk ribbon. Such a shower of confetti, and of flowers followed the bridal pair as they escaped to their carriage for Kingston, where they went aboard the train for Boston, Mass., and N. Y. and Rev. Mr. Bidwell gets on to Jupiter Pluvius were quite forgotten and every thing was at merry as if the typical August sunshine was over the land.

STRATHCONA.

A disastrous fire occurred last Friday afternoon, when the magnificent barn of James Wilson was burned with the season's crop. A steam threshing and fire from the engine started the blaze. Two hogs that could not be got out perished. The fire spread so quickly that the workers could not get the cleaner out of the barn, and with little implements of any purpose, were burned. The wind was blowing a gale at the time, carrying the sparks far afield. Frederick McDonald's barn being in line was burned, with the entire crop; also the season's implements and market. Mr. McDonald was at Mr. Wilson's when his building took fire. He's father has been quite ill for a while for years, and the house was on fire for some time, but help arrived in time to save it. Several buildings in the village were on fire, but with work the people saved them. If the wind had changed in almost any other direction the village would have been swept out of existence. Mr. Wilson's barn and contents were insured for $1,382, which would scarcely cover half the loss. Mr. McDonald was insured for $1,000 on barn and contents, which included 600 bushels of barley, all of his implements, two a-bob's cut of hay and sixteen pigs. A straw stack and a stack of unthreshed grain, standing outside, were also burned. The bridge and several near-by houses caught fire, but the flames were subdued after eight damage. Mr. Wilson only removed to the farm in the spring, from Selby. The loss is severe on both sides.

MARLBANK.

A sad drowning accident occurred on Sunday, 9th inst., when one of Sheffield's most promising young men, Mr. Wm. F. Baker, son of Mr. J. B. Baker, met his life. Deceased was in the employ of Mr. W. J. Herrington, of Flatfield, and on Tuesday afternoon went in the Moira River at Poupher's Mills to bathe, accompany with a boy about 8 years old. By some unaccountable means he sank beneath the dark water to rise no more. His remains were brought to Tamworth by his sorrowing parents and laid to rest in the family plot. The friends have the heartfelt sympathy of the whole community.

A WORTHY OBJECT.

Toronto World.

As far as the public is concerned, outside of sportsmen, the general platform upon which Mr. A. Kelly Evans drew up the constitution and bylaws of the Ontario Fish and Game Protective Association is contained in five short paragraphs in Chief Justice Falconbridge's opening address at a convention held in the University Buildings. Possibly the most important of these paragraphs is the second, which reads:

"That the food feed in our waters should be conserved and regulated for the good of the masses of the people, and not wasted or used for the benefit of one small class of the community."

Items have from time to time appeared in the press which tend to show that a small section of the public have the idea that this association is simply working for the favored few who have the time and leisure to fish and shoot.

The quotation above, however, contains what may some day become the political platform of one or other of our parties.

"Cheap food for the people" might prove to be a taking cry sounding the death knell of the great American Fish Trust.

Our Ontario fisheries have undoubtedly been conducted not for the good of the masses of our own people, but rather for the temporary benefit of the commercial fishermen who carry on this industry.

The several royal commissions which have been appointed by both Dominion and provincial parliaments, have reported in no uncertain terms as to the rapid depletion of the waters of our great lakes, and that unless changes were soon made, the fisheries would in a comparatively small number of years become useless.

These reports, however, have not been read by the public generally, and our people have been for the most part too busily engaged to pay much attention to this serious question; the politicians of both parties have realized the indifference of the people, have not published very widely the facts and have for the most part truckled to the votes of the commercial fishermen.

Once, however, the public of the Province of Ontario grasp the situation, and the fact that the food which should be conserved for its uses is being wasted for the temporary benefit of a small class of the community and the citizens of a foreign nation, we feel that both political parties will be allowed no longer to trifle with the question, or consider the vote of the net fishermen as important as they have hitherto held it.

KALADAR.

Divine service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Clapp on Sunday in the school house. Mr. Clapp will hold services at 7 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday evenings next.

We wish the return of the teacher there is a new life to the community.

The band committed their customary concert on the market square Saturday evening, owing to the absence of some of the leading players. It's music was much missed.

Miss Laidlaw, our popular teacher, is again wielding the rod of correction with a stern hand.

Your scribe would suggest that at the next setting of the fathers that they take into their most serious consideration the advisability of providing adequate accommodations in the way of water works, so that the town may be properly supplied and the burdens of the people reduced to a minimum.

Mr. Roche, our genial operator, has returned to our midst after a brief sojourn in other parts, and is much improved in health.

Messrs. Reid and Wright, Kingston, registered at The Algerian on Friday last.

The Misses Parks, of Arden, spent a few days last week at The King Edward, guests of their aunt, Mrs. Godfrey.

Labor Day was celebrated by some of our young people taking a drive to Big Rock. Many sports were indulged in, Mr. P. Morton winning the prize.

The park which has been lately fitted up opposite the Algerian, reflects great credit on the young man who devoted so much time and energy in preparing it. The fountains, the tall and stately pines, the bowling green, pianos, etc., certainly make an attractive spot for the passer by as well as the usual inhabitant.

The first dance of the season was given by Messrs. Campney, Morton and Snider, on the part platform, on Aug. 30th.

BAD FOR THE EYES.

WOMEN'S RAIN COATS

Cut In Price For Fair Day, Wednesday, Sept. 19th.

To say "Rain Coats" is to get but a limited idea of the serviceability of these stylish over-garments. They protect from rough weather. They are a good traveling garment. They are an excellent "throw" for runabout in the evenings. They are wearable late into the fall as an outer wrap, in connection with the fall suit. They protect dressy dresses from the mud and dust of cart or motor. Now as to the price cut. If you are here on Fair Day, Sept. 19th, and say you read this ad., we will allow you a discount off any woman's Rain Coat of 15 per cent. If you want one, this saving on such desirable garments is like getting money from home.

The Styles for Fall and Winter in Women's and Girls' Jackets Is Expressed in Practical, Becoming Garments.

The entire garment trade is realising more and more that the tendency is away from uniformity and into variety. This becomes more and more marked every season. In all our best coats we aim at giving our customers an individual style. We have dozens and dozens of coats just one of a kind and we find our customers appreciate it. There was a time when one style was followed—sheep way—not so now. Now is the time to get your coat picked out. The one most suited to your figure, face and pocket.

We will keep it for you till you need it. A small deposit will show your good faith. Lots of choice.

Baby Coats, $1.75 to 5.00. Girls' Coats, 2.00 to 12.50. Women's Coats, 2.50 to 175.00.

ENTERPRISE.

Mrs. Jas. Pyke passed from our midst on Friday evening last, to meet with a husband and five children who have gone on before her. She had been a resident here for 47 years. Her home was always a place where everyone called. She always had our church's interest at heart. Was a Christian from childhood. She has two sons living in Vancouver, B. C., Samuel and James, who were unable to get home. The Methodist church was full for the service on Sunday and the Rev. R. Allin preached a very able sermon from the text, "The ball has never been told." He referred very feelingly to the good effect of a life such as Mrs. Pyke had lived to any community. Mrs. Pyke's brother-in-law, John Wright, and his daughters, Mrs. O. R. Perry and Miss Mary Wright, alls Mr. O. R. Perry, were up from Kingston to the funeral.

The surveyors for the Canadian Northern Railroad ran the lines through here this week for their road from Toronto to Montreal.

ENTERPRISE.

Mrs. Jas. Pyke passed from our midst on Friday evening last, to meet with a husband and five children who have gone on before her. She had been a resident here for 47 years. Her home was always a place where everyone called. She always had her church's interest at heart. Was a Christian from childhood. She has two sons living in Vancouver, B. C., Samuel and Joseph, who were unable to get home. The Methodist church was full for the service on Sunday and the Rev. R. Allin preached a very able sermon from the text, "The half has never been told." He referred very feelingly to the good effect of a life such as Mrs. Pyke had lived to any community. Mrs. Pyke's brother-in-law, John Wright, and his daughters, Mrs. G. R. Perry and Miss Mary Wright, also Mr. G. R. Perry, were up from Kingston to the funeral.

The surveyors for the Canadian Northern Railroad ran the lines through here this week for their road from Toronto to Montreal.

AN OMNIPRESENT POOR

"THE POOR SHALL NEVER CEASE OUT OF THE LAND."

NOVEL HELP SUGGESTIONS

How Communities and Individuals May Help to Improve the Lot of the Unfortunate—The Marriage of the Unfit Discussed in Strong Fashion—Would Have Law Passed to Prevent Marriage Menace to the State.

Entered according to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1906, by Seybolt Ellis Burleigh, Toronto, at the Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 9.—In this sermon the preacher makes novel suggestions showing how we as communities and as individuals may help to improve the lot of the unfortunate. The text is Deuteronomy xv, 11, "The poor shall never cease out of the land."

Turning to that valuable and suggestive edition of the Bible called the Red Letter Bible, I notice that this passage in Deuteronomy is printed in red, indicating that it was quoted by our Lord. It is astonishing how many of such passages there are, showing how close a student of the Scriptures Christ was. Guided by this reference in the Red Letter Bible, I find the circumstances under which Christ quoted the passage. It was at that feast when Mary broke the alabaster box of spikenard over Christ's feet. Judas said it was wasteful, as the ointment might have been sold and the money given to the poor, but Jesus said there were other opportunities of giving to the poor, for, said he, "The poor ye have always with you."

There were poor people during the Mosaic era. There were poor people among all the wealth and the splendor of the Solomonic reign. There were hovels and rags covered by the shadows of the magnificent Grecian temples. Poverty and gaunt want went begging for bread during the Roman triumphs, when Christ lived. There are poverty and rags and hunger now, and there will be poverty and want upon this old suffering world until the millennial dawn, when the glory of the Lord shall roll over earth as the waters cover the seas. Poverty, haunting poverty, is everywhere.

We have to-day ten poor in Europe, Asia, Africa, South America and in North America. We have them upon every hand as well as in every town, village and city and farming country. We have an omnipresent poor. During all the centuries from the beginning this burden of poverty has been upon the shoulders of a large proportion of the race, calling for our sympathy and our help. How long will it be before the wisdom of our statesmanship, and the commiseration of Christ's church take up the problem and, searching for the cause of the affliction, find out how to remove them and remedy the misery. I know of no duty more urgent, and we find out in studying the problem that in some cases poverty is the result of social evils for us to forward in their efforts to eradicate them. May the Holy Spirit help us to preach an appropriate sermon on the Sabbath following our annual Labor Day.

First among these evils I place the prenatal influences which help crowd our cities with the omnipresent poor. In this matter let us be brave and truthful. Let us not seal our lips and be silent on account of a mock modesty. It is better to have the inflammation opened and the wound drained, no matter how repulsive the odor, than to allow the disease to go on festering and eating its way into the vitals. There is many a danger more horrible than the surgeon's knife.

I was mightily impressed with this fact some time ago. I had always a horror of the surgeon's knife. I felt that a man had better resort to everything and anything rather than lie down upon an operating table. But some time ago the wife of one of my dearest church members telephoned me to come down to the hospital at once, as her husband was about to be operated on. I jumped on the car and went down and arrived just three minutes after the work had been begun. They had carried the patient into the operating room and were then giving him the anaesthetic. I paced up and down the hall, wondering what I should do. I felt that it was a critical and might be a fatal operation. Should I go in or should I not? I had always assumed the sight of the operating table because I feared the spectacle of the flowing blood. But as I walked up and down that hall I said to myself: "In all probability this operation will be fatal. My friend will die within a few hours after he comes out of the anaesthetic. Will it comfort him to know that I stood by his side during his time of trial?" So I said to one of the nurses, "Tell the doctor I should like to come in." He sent out word, "Come in." I have thanked God since that I went in. When that silver was opened, I saw then as I never realized before that a man should not fear a surgeon's knife when the ugly, dangerous abscess nearly as much as he should fear the glucose which is not opened. Our friend's life was saved by the narrowest of margins because he flatly refused to be operated upon until death was literally clutching him by the throat.

Now, as there was a deadly disease eating into the vitals of the church's body, so there is a deadly disease eating into the very heart of our social life. Many children coming into our cradles are infected by prenatal weaknesses and the evil results of ancestral sins. We must remember that the present generation is not responsible for all its poor. For, as most of us have inherited the physical looks of a father and a mother, a grandfather or a grandmother, so there are the seeds of unfortunate children born into the world who from the cradle are doomed to a life of physical incompetency that causes mentally and physically tainted from birth. But though the law of heredity is inexorable, and though our poorhouses and hospitals are crowded with a lot of miserable creatures who are dragging out a suffering, an appalling existence because they were not the offspring of physically and mentally good though thousands of men and women who are not inmates of public institutions of charity are social parasite or dependent upon others for support through the same dire causes, yet the strange fact remains that respectable and refined society forbids its teachers to discuss these vital questions in public lest such a discussion should offend delicate and sensitive ears.

Is the offending or delicate ears to stand in the way of untold agonies that are cursing childhood because of the ignorance of young people who have no business to marry? Are the wards of our public institutions to be boycotted and the intelligent men and women because they do not wish to see suffering in its most repulsive forms? Shall we refuse to look at the idiot children, born with curvature of the spine and with diseased blood and with crushed limbs, with hydrocephalus and distorted and malformed features, see looking at us from hundreds of cots—shall we refuse to look because these little sufferers have inherited from the physical weakness of their parents? What right had the parents of these suffering children to marry? Some time ago in the pulpit of church wedding where the bride hobbled up the aisle on a cane. She had an abscess on her limb and was afflicted with tuberculosis besides. She had been an invalid from birth. Her mother died of consumption only a few months after the girl was born. And yet the minister of that church ended his service with these words, "Whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder." Are we to suppose that God joined such a woman as that to marry and perpetuate misery and suffering in the world?

"Well," some one says, "how can you stop men and women who are physical incompetents from marrying?" By doing what every intelligent physician in the world is advocating—by making it obligatory upon every man and woman to pass a proper physical examination before they can get from the county a license to marry. To old Sparta it used to be the custom for the attendants to kill at birth children that were born crippled or with infirmities. We cannot do that. Such a custom would be abhorrent to our feelings. But we can do what will help prevent feeble children from being born at physically poor stock—we can help by refusing to let physically unsound men and women marry at all. Such a law would help to dry up the source. A strong branch cannot grow from a withered trunk. Neither can a physically and mentally healthy child descend from unhealthy parents.

The first reformation of our social life should be sanitary. It should not be a sweeping diagnosis and should start with a sound physical marriage law. It should extend our immigration laws—namely, the laws which allow little children to come into the world among ourselves, rather than the immigration laws which prevent leprous children and their parents to come from other lands into ours. Prenatal causes may be just as far reaching in their results as those of heredity. A child must be born well in order to live physically well.

Now comes the practical question. Are we as intelligent Americans going to care for our neighbors' children, and for the children of the future, and to give them public parks and public playgrounds and free bathing places and free docks, that they may get a good breath of the sea air in the hot summer months? Are we going to furnish them model tenements, houses properly ventilated and lighted and with healthy sanitary plumbing? These are vital questions which affect the whole people and should solve. These are not luxuries which the poor are demanding, but necessities. And if the poor do not have these physical necessities, then the city will pay for it in our very jails. For filth and darkness and vitiated air breed crime and drunkenness and licentiousness and brutality and all sins of all sorts. As the black plagues of Europe always started from the vile intestinal quarters of the pestiferous cities of the east, so the plagues of debauchery and ignorance and crime thrive best in the filthy quarters of the poor of our large cities, where the sunlight cannot get into the homes and where the children have no parks or playgrounds in which they may develop healthfully, as all children should develop.

Furthermore, I was struck with another fact when reading about the physical necessities of the poor. The poor are not paupers, as we conceive paupers. The poor are willing and able to pay a just return for their necessities. But the trouble is when a man becomes poor then he becomes helpless. Then the capitalist robs him of what little he has, however small that all may be. That is the way the capitalists treat the poor of our large cities. They buy and sell the poor man his coal, he sells it by the shovelful, and he sells it at a usurious price. He charges the poor man three times the price at which he sells it by the ton to the rich man. When he builds the poor man a miserable hovel the capitalist usually gets 30, 40, 50 and even 100 per cent. on his money invested. A dog or a wild beast would not live in some of the filthy dens in which the poor of New York and Chicago be housed. And yet for every one of those dark cellars and back rooms in which the poor are huddled, the capitalist could charge the most astounding rent and, like a modern Shylock, demand his pound of flesh or blood as the victim's heart because the poor man could not help himself. As Solomon said long ago, "The destruction of the poor is their poverty." They are kept poor by being poor.

But right must give our poor more than clean cradles and decent homes and sunlight. We must give the children of our poor neighbors a fair position whereby they shall be able to work intelligently with their friends, to play fairly, to worship in the same churches, to be educated in the same schools, to be treated in the same hospitals, to be buried in the same cemeteries, to be married in the same churches, to have the same chance in the battle of life. Then we shall have a democracy worthy of the name, and not a democracy in name and a plutocracy in fact.

Then we must have a better system of charity. Our present system is a disgrace to civilization. Our charities are largely in the hands of the wrong people. Our charities are largely in the hands of the wrong people. Our charities are largely in the hands of the wrong people

The Pandora Thermometer

The thermometer on the Pandora range oven means precisely in accuracy to the cook what the square and compass mean to the draftsman. Without the square and compass the draftsman would have to work entirely by guess, just as you do without an accurate and reliable thermometer on your oven.

The Pandora thermometer reduces cooking to an exact science. You know precisely how much heat you have and what it will do in a given time. It is one of the small things which makes the Pandora so much different and better than common ranges.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

"Momma, what are twins?" asked little Bobby.

"Oh, I know," chimed in Dorothy, with all the superiority of an elder sister. "Twins is two babies just the same age; three is triplets; four is quadrupeds and five is centipedes."

Signals of Danger—Have you lost your appetite? Have you a coated tongue? Have you an unpleasant taste in the mouth? Does your head ache and have you dizziness? If so your stomach is out of order and you need medicine. But you do not like medicine. He that prefers sickness to medicine must suffer, but under the circumstances the wise man would procure a box of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills and speedily get himself in health and strength to keep so.

Jokley—My wife's sense of smell is so keen that once when I just happened to mention the word whiskey during the day she noticed it on my breath when I got home.

Stanley—Oh, rough on you, now!

Jokley—Fact. I—er—mentioned it to a bartender.

The Most Popular Pill—The pill is the most popular of all forms of medicine, and of pills the most popular are Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, because they do what it is asserted they can do, and are not put forward on any fictitious claims of excellence. They are compact and portable, they are easily taken, they do not nauseate nor gripe, and they give relief in the most stubborn cases.

Dora—Never tell Flora any secrets, Grace—She can't keep them?

Dora—Keep them? Why, that girl tells people her right age.

Cheapest of all Medicines—Considering the curative qualities of Thomas' Eclectric Oil it is the cheapest medicine now offered to the public. The dose required in any ailment is small and a bottle contains many doses. If it were valued at the tenth of its curative power it would be purchased for many times the price asked for it. But increased consumption has simplified and cheapened the manufacture.

"It's strange," said the piano teacher, "that you can't learn to run the scales correctly."

"That is probably one of the traits I inherited from father," replied the young lady pupil. "He made money in the grocery business, you know."

Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is prepared from drugs known to the profession as thoroughly reliable for the cure of dysentery, diarrhoea, cholera, griping pains and summer complaints. It has been used successfully by medical practitioners for a number of years with gratifying results. If suffering from any bowel complaint it is just the medicine that will cure you. Try a bottle. It sells for 25 cents.

"Then," said the reporter, "it was several pretty scenes were rendered by Miss Pocketchange."

Worms derange the whole system. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator removes them from the digestive tract to the sewer. It only costs 25 cents to try it and be convinced.

Mrs. Boggins—Mandy, I hear you have married again.

Mandy—Jes so.

Mrs. Boggins—And is your second husband equal to your first?

Mandy—'Taint in he am fully as equal, if not superior.

(Washington Lady—It must be awfully provoking not to get any rain to make your crops grow.

Western Farmer—It does kinder go ag'in the grain, ma'am, that's a fact.

"Henry," whispered Mrs. Subbubs, shaking her sleepy husband, "I'm sure there's a burglar in the house."

"You go down and see, Mary," said he, "for I wouldn't dare strike a woman."

She, despitingly—O, you dress all this and such deeds. Tell me one single noble action you've done, or even thought of doing.

He—I've prevented you from dying on the gallows, and you ask me, that is a pretty heroic deed.

"All men are cruised free," declared the champion of the sex.

"That's right," assented the sour citizen. "Especially when they're tied to a body. When a fellow gets spliced he does it on his own responsibility."

WHAT WOMEN WILL WEAR THIS WINTER.

Discussing suitable costumes for business women in The New Idea Woman's Magazine for October, the writer of the article remarks: "The reaction to very dark colors which distinguishes this season from its predecessors will leave the fall approval of all those women who have to consider the practical before all else. It may be said, however, that in spite of the profusion of fine and fortuitous lavished on summer styles, there always is an undercurrent of simplicity and practicality that is the corner-stone of every element, to which in great measure the best business women owe their success. Not only deep navy blues, ruby shades of red, and the old-fashioned bottle greens which are now being revived, but black in combination with myrtle green and autumn colors produce effects which are in keeping with the sober color scheme. Among the manish suitings there are many undetermined stripes, which are very attractive, and have almost superseded the checked materials in popularity. The plaids are also very dark, the newest ones showing a combination of myrtle green, brown and black. One characteristic of the novelty plaid materials is a satin stripe, generally in black, which runs regularly with the pattern. The separate plaid skirt, particularly in the shadow plaids, is a feature of the season. It is invariably accompanied by a jacket of the predominating shade in the plaid."

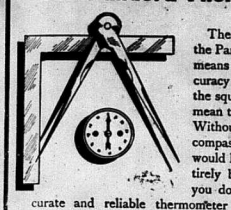
The Pandora Thermometer



The thermometer on the Pandora range oven means precisely in accuracy to the cook what the square and compass mean to the draftsman. Without the square and compass the draftsman would have to work entirely by guess, just as you do without an accurate and reliable thermometer on your oven.

The Pandora thermometer reduces cooking to an exact science. You know precisely how much heat you have and what it will do in a given time. It is one of the small things which makes the Pandora so much different and better than common ranges.

The boy of Samuel Lowe, clerk in Stacey's dry goods house, Kingston, was found at noon in the water near the King street breakwater. Mrs. Elizabeth Wannart, a parsprightly years of age, was killed by rats in her home in Elizabeth, N.J. Mrs. Wannart lived alone. Her daughter-in-law called early to-day and found her dead. The flesh of both feet was much torn by the rodents.

WHAT WOMEN WILL WEAR THIS WINTER.

In discussing suitable costumes for business women in the New Idea Woman's Magazine for October, the fashion writer makes these remarks: "The reaction to very dark colors which distinguishes this season from its predecessors will have its full approval of all those women who have to consider the practical before all else. It may be said, however, that in spite of the progress which has for its motive the blending with myrtle green and autumn colors produce effects which are in keeping with the somber color scheme. Among the manish suitings there are many unobtrusive plaids, which are very attractive, and have almost superseded the checked materials in popularity. The plaids are also very broad, the newest ones showing a combination of black and green. Another characteristic of the novelty plaid materials is a satin stripe, generally in black, which recurs regularly in the pattern. The separate plaid skirts, particularly in the shadow plaids, is a favorite of the season. It is invariably accompanied by a coat of the predominating shade in the plaid."

ABOUT TAILORING

There are two classes of tailoring a man will do well to avoid.

FIRST

The "Cheap John" work that has nothing to commend it except an exceptionally low price—a price so low that the work cannot be made equal to good "ready-to-wear" work.

THEN AGAIN

The other class of tailoring to avoid is the exclusive tailor, who, while doing good work in every way, charges you a good round price for it, and then adds $5 or $10 more for his name.

OUR WAY

We give our patrons the best fabrics, made by the best makers in England, and the patterns we show are exclusive.

We employ nothing but skilled labor, and guarantee satisfaction in every particular, and charge for a suit or overcoat such reasonable prices as $15, $17 or $20.

If your suit is not satisfactory in every respect we will not ask you to keep it.

THE COUNTY EXHIBITION.

Our County Agricultural Society is one of the oldest in the Province, and has always been a great show and well attended. Our agriculturists and their good wives and our merchants are up-to-date in every respect, and it is a day to be smiled anxious that Old Lennox Show loses such a grand reputation. Unlike many other similar societies, it has always been kept up to a high standard, and instead of declining in its advanced age, it has constantly increased in popularity and size. This year promises to eclipse all past exhibitions, and nothing but unfavorable weather will prevent it being a record exhibition. Address all communications to the undersigned, Secretary, Dr. Mag. A. porter, Hall, and do your share to make the show a success. The prizes are good ones and it will be worth your while to try. See list of special prizes on page 2.

A FATAL ACCIDENT.

Deseronto Tribune.—A serious accident marred the close of Labor day. Michael Joyce attempted to board a train running to Mohawk Grove and fell on the track, losing his right leg as a result. He got to the crossing just as a car was backing up on the way to the grove. He attempted to clamber on to the step between the coaches, but missed, striking his head against the side of the car. This threw his leg across the track and the wheels passed over it, crushing and mashing it terribly.

Dr. Newton was hastily summoned. He bound up the severed artery, after which the injured man was conveyed to his home. It was found necessary to amputate the leg above the knee. During Wednesday night the injured man took a turn for the worse. At no time was there much hope of his recovery, but owing to his strong constitution it was thought he might recover. Dr. Newton went to the house Thursday to dress the wound and shortly after this was find had the patient expired.

The Hon. Mr. Dunsmuir, the British Columbia Premier, has promised $10,000 towards a provincial hospital for tuberculosis.

About three miles from Parham, on the Kingston and Pembroke Railway, two lads, William and Charles McGregor, were fooling with a gun. It was in the hands of Charles. By some means he touched the trigger, and the gun was discharged, its contents penetrating the heart of William, who died instantly. He was only 8½ years of age.

A very difficult operation was performed on Engineer Glover, on Wednesday afternoon, in the Medicine Hat, Alta., General Hospital by Dr. C. F. Smith, assisted by Dr. C. K. Smyth and Dr. Goodfellow. In the head-on collision there last Friday night Glover's bank was broken, and the spinal cord mangled. No hopes of his recovery could be entertained unless the cord could be replaced, and the operation was undertaken a few days later, the spinal cord of a dog being used to take the place of the original one for about an inch. The case is being watched with extreme interest by medical practitioners.

POLICE COURT.

His Honor Police Magistrate Rankin had a very busy time of it on Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Fred. Conway created a disturbance at the fair on Tuesday and on Wednesday morning was assessed $9.00 or 30 days in jail. He went to jail.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Boyd, of Toronto, engaged in a family quarrel near the market square, and after an exchange of profane language they were entertained for the evening by Chief Graham.

The Police Magistrate on Wednesday morning sent them up for 30 days as guests of Jailer Van-Luven, in default of a fine of $9.00 each not being paid.

Edward Caton, Belleville, looked too long on the wine when it was red and got jubilant at the fair grounds. He left $6.00 in town as a token of his good will toward the police court officials.

John Jenkins, Montreal, James Wilson, Ottawa, and David Anderson, Ottawa, suspected of being light fingered gentry, were arrested on Wednesday night, charged with vagrancy, and locked up. Yesterday they were arraigned before his honor, Police Magistrate Rankin, and are spending the next eight days at Castle Van-Luven; after which they will have their trial.

John Brown, of the Village of Wales, N.Y., was arrested on Wednesday charged with unlawfully appropriating the sum or $70 from the pocket of Mr. John Carson, of Kingston. There no doubt needed the change and got it. Mr. Carson was jostled by a crowd at the corner of Ledge, and knew a man was picking his pocket, but was helpless. Mr. Jas. Kennie, also in the crowd, saw the thief throw the money to an accomplice, who was arrested. He is also the case of Jailer Vanluven for eight days previous to trial.

On Tuesday morning a stranger named John Morris hired a horse and rig at the livery of Garnet Wilson, Princess street, Kingston, and drive to Odessa. He said he was a telephone foreman and had to drive out there to meet a gang of linemen. In the afternoon Chief Graham arrested Morris in Napanee for being drunk. The stranger had been trying to sell the horse and rig. Chief Graham telephoned to Kingston and in the evening Mr. Wilson came up to the place and identified the horse and rig as being his. A charge of theft was laid against Morris who, it is thought, may be an ex-convict. Yesterday P. M. Rankin sentenced him to one year in central prison. Truly the way of the transgressor is hard.

THE NEW ELECTRIC PLANT.

A few facts and figures about our new corporation electric plant, of which our citizens are so justly proud, may be of interest, enabling them to better appreciate their good fortune. The generators which are giving us our light are furnished by the Robb-Mumford Boiler Co. of Montreal, having each a capacity of 125 kilowatts, normal load, with an overload capacity of about 200 H. P., generated at 2,300 volts. These generators are belted to high speed condensing Corliss engines, furnished as well as the boilers by the Robb Engineering Co., of Amherst, N. S.

The engines running at 150 R. P. M. develope 150 H. P. each, and each H. P. guaranteed overload, and with their 70 ft. fly wheels, drive the Bullock generators at a constant and even speed of 900 R. P. M., and it is this evenness of speed upon which makes these engines so highly prized.

Belted to each generator is its small exciter, also built by Allis-Chalmers-Bullock, which supplies the current to "excite" the field of the big machine and so makes each set a separate unit capable of handling the load alone.

The two switchboard panels, furnished by A. C. B. Ltd., containing the necessary instruments and accessories for the complete control of the generators and circuits, are mounted on a slate tablet and most up-to-date safety devices, one of which is worthy of special mention, the relay-trip-switch. This piece of mechanism is a combination of which no accident can happen to the outside wires which would cause loss of current to rush from the power-house, the machinery connected with the generators to the lockers would be automatically opened, and thereby all the machinery stopping all chance of injury either to the machine or the outside wires.

The apparatus for performing this important service is so daintily and well arranged that we can only applaud its perfection. The two pannels and regulators for controlling the arc lights were designed by A. C. B. Ltd., at their shops in Montreal, and are giving good service in connection with the two variable voltage transformers built by the A. C. B., and supplied to the Rideau Electric Co.

Another instrument on the A. C. B. switchboard worthy of mentions is the Synchroscope, This instrument, put in operation by connecting plugs from potential transformers, enables the operator to put both machines in parallel on the bus-bars, giving him the exact time at which he must put in the switch in order to throw the generators together without jar or surge to the line and enabling him to change over from one set of machines to the other while the load is on, without even a fractional stoppage of power; or with it become necessary he can thus supply not 300 but 400 H. P. from the station.

It is certainly worthy of note that this plant comprising as it does, high speed engines and high voltage generators, has from the very start been absolutely satisfactorily, and without more additional cause for pride, in as much as two well lighted streets can now compete favorably with those of almost any town in Canada.

The obliging foreman of many large cities, while those who see her power house admit that it leaves little to be desired, and gives credit to the firm employed, the Robb Engineering Co. for their boilers and their engines, and the Allis-Chalmers-Bullock Co. for their generators, exciters, switchboards and transformers.

POLICE COURT.

His Honor Police Magistrate Rankin had a very busy time of it on Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Fred. Conway created a disturbance at the fair on Tuesday and on Wednesday morning was assessed $9.00 or 30 days in jail. He went to jail.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Boyd, of Toronto, engaged in a family quarrel near the market square, and the usual amount of profane language they were entertained for the evening by Chief Graham.

The Police Magistrate on Wednesday morning sent them up for 30 days as guests of Jailer VanLaven, in default of a fine of $9.00 each not being paid.

Edward Caton, Belleville, looked too long on the flowing bowl on Sunday and got jubilant on the fair grounds. He left $6.00 in town as a token of his good will toward the police court officials.

John Jenkins, Montreal, James Wilson, Ottawa, and David Anderson, Ottawa, suspected of being light fingered gentry, were arrested on Wednesday night, charged with vagrancy, and fined $10 each. Yesterday they were allowed before his honor, Police Magistrate Rankin, and after spending the next eight days at Castle VanLuven, after which they will have their trial.

John Brew, of the Village of Wales, N.Y., was arrested on Wednesday charged with unlawfully appropriating the sum or 50c from the pocket of Mr. Allan Carson, of Kingston. As no doubt needed the change and got it. Mr. Brewman was jostled by a crowd at the corporation bridge, and knew a man was picking his pocket, and so he helped him. Mr. Jas. Rennie, also followed, saw the thief throw the money to an accomplice, who was arrested. He is also the guest of Jailer VanLuven for eight days previous to trial.

On Tuesday morning a stranger named John Morris hired a horse and rig at the livery of Robert Wilson, Dundas street, Kingston, to drive to Odessa. He said he was a telephone lineman and had to drive out there to meet a gang of linemen. In the afternoon Chief Graham arrested Morris in Napanee for being drunk. The stranger had been trying to sell the horse and rig. Chief Graham telephoned to Kingston and in the evening Mr. Wilson came up to Napanee and identified the horse and rig as being his. A charge of theft was laid against Morris who, it is thought, may be an ex-convict. Yesterday P. M. Rankin sentenced him to one year in central prison. Truly the way of the transgressor is hard.

THE NEW ELECTRIC PLANT.

A few facts and figures about the new corporation electric plant, of which our citizens are to justly proud, may be of interest in enabling them to better appreciate their good fortune.

The generators which are giving us our light and power, are of the Canadian Westinghouse, Ltd., of Montreal, having each a capacity of 125 kilowatts, normal load, and a total capacity of about 200 H. P., generated at 2,300 volts. These generators are belted to high speed condensing Corliss engines, furnished as well as the boilers by the Robb Engineering Co., of Amherst, N. S.

The engines running at 150 R. P. M. develope 150 H. P. under ordinary load. They are built to overload, and with their 80 ft. fly wheels, drive the Bullock generators at a constant and even speed of 900 R. P. M., and it is this evenness of speed which makes these engines so highly prized.

Belted to each generator is its small exciter, also built by the Bullock Company, which supplies the current to "excite" the field of the big machine and so makes each set a separate unit capable of handling the load alone.

The two switchboard panels, furnished by A. C. B., Ltd., containing the necessary instruments and accessories for the complete control of these two generators and their circuits, contain the latest and most up-to-date safety devices, one of which is worthy of special mention, the relay-trip-switch. This piece of mechanism is so arranged that in case any accident happen to the outside wires which would cause a rushing of current to rush from the power house, the main switch connecting the machine to the busbars would be automatically opened, cutting off the power, and thus ensuring the absence of injury either to the machine or the outside wires.

The apparatus for performing this important work has been so ingeniously arranged that we can only applaud its perfection. The two panels and regulators for controlling the arc lights were furnished by the C. G. E. Pringle Co., of Montreal, and are giving good service in connection with the two variable speed motor generators built by the A. C. B., and supplied to the town by the same firm.

Another instrument on the A. C. B. switchboard worthy of mention is the Synchroscope. This instrument, put in operation by connecting plugs from potential transformers, enables the operator to put both machines in parallel on the bus-bars, giving him the exact time at which he must put in the switch in order to throw the generators together without jar or surge to the machines, thus enabling him to change over from one set of machines to the other while the load is on, without, even a fractional stoppage of power; or should it become necessary to run thus supply not 300 but 400 H. P. from the station.

In conclusion we might point out that this plant comprising as it does, high speed engines and high voltage generators, has from the very first run most satisfactorily, and the Napanee one more additional cause for pride, in as much as it will lighten and cheapen compare favorably with those of almost any town in Canada.

The engineer in charge, Mr. Ross, is also visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Dawson.

Engineer Killed.

A serious head-on collision occurred at the station at Selby on Friday morning, at the Belleville crossing, half a mile west of the G. T. R. station, by which Engineer Wm. Blain, of No. 2 express of Montreal, lost his life. A long freight going west was on the "O" line, which was waiting for it, and the engineer cut it in two sections, the rear part on the main line's time. He states he thought No. 2 was O'Neill's Mrs. Blain's and when he pulled on the main line the collision occurred with the express which was coming east. Several passengers in the express were badly bruised, but otherwise the passengers escaped unhurt. The engines were badly smashed up. Blain's body was fearfully mangled, an iron rod running through his left side. He was at the throttle and he would follow, waiting to put on the emergency brakes.

The sections of the Gilmour Hotel fire at Ottawa, number three, namely, Mrs. O'Neill, Mrs. Bennett and Miss Lovejoy, of Peterboro'.

According to the new liquor license act of the Ontario Government, bartenders who serve liquor after hours will be liable in the same as well as the proprietors of the hotels in which the bartenders labor. An Ottawa bartender was fined $5 and costs and his proprietor $20 and costs. As for charges of brutal bullies, penalty, caused Mr. Whitney, etc., showed the capabilities of the new regime. The days of the cruel crimes and evil are capable of.

To the Eastern wing Messrs. Maddock & Sons sent things all to themselves. They had a magnificent display of Morris chairs, hammock, wire, etc., shown to the best advantage by Chas. Bywell.

In the room Mr. S. G. Hawley showed a fine Heintzman piano, handsome parlor organ, gramophone, Sharpies Cream Separator, etc.

In the rear of Mr. Hawley's was a magnificent display of vegetables, pumpkins, squash, roots, etc., demonstrating the productiveness of the past season.

Messrs. H. W. Sager and John Dunnigan had samples of the Magnet Cream separator, for which they are agents. Adjoining this in the north wing was a display of grains, cereals, etc., and opposite it in the centre seating exhibits of Mr. J. W. Courtice of Newburgh, whose various products of tinned goods, leathers, etc., are most creditable.

The display of vegetables, cabbage, citrons, melons, cauliflowers, tomatoes, etc., was even larger and better than that of last year.

In the west wing Mr. P. W. Hart showed a Karn organ and piano, and Singer sewing machines, and Mrs. Alfred Wagar gave a grand display of home and garden plants and flowers, many of them rare and costly. In the south side of the west wing contained the collected classes of fruits by our different growers, and never have we seen finer samples, full grown, full colored, and without spot or sting.

In the centre of the hall was spread over to the display of apples, pears, grapes, plums, etc. Such a display can only be seen here, South Lennox being the garden of the perfect apple, included a Bell Organ and piano, Dominion piano and organ, Gurney heating stove, Gurney & Lalor scales, all of the wares, the whole north side of the room occupied by P. W. Vandeusen, who showed the variety and beauty of his stock, of harness, robes, rugs, etc.

Messrs. Mallil Bros. occupied their old position in the south side of the room with a display which drifts downright from Eaton's, Simpson's, Dominion as represented, and the most of the dry goods, woollens, clothing, Messrs. Meers and Scott. Here were the fine dress goods, woollens, underlines, curtains, carpets, housefurnishings, etc., and the display of tailor stuffs was admired on all hands.

Messrs. Ashley & Crawford were next to A. Gay's fully occupied by Mr. Ashley with his wares, a display of furs, shoes, shoes, trucks, valises, etc., which drew a large crowd of admirers. Rugs, Dolly Varden and Foodorine.

Fred. Campbell, Selby, showed quite a few collection of portraits of prominent Bay of Quinte sawyers.

In the J. J. Shannon House also on the south and south sides of this section. As might be expected, this display was a magnificent one, including their various specialties, the Empress corset and Dorothy Dodd blouses in taffeta, dress suit cases, grips, etc., in the south.

The eastern portion was as usual devoted to the agricultural products, fruits and ornamental, and was arranged with the usual artistic taste. Every section of this interesting department of the exhibition was filled, and most of the work exceptionally good, and the competition keen, had no slumber.

The exhibits under the various committees, and of a high order. The display of cheese from the factories for this and Tweed, and the display of work in the ladies' department was simply grand, and the competition was sharp. The display of fancy work was varied and a number of the exhibitors by disqualified from the prize list, which, however, did not mar to the slightest.

BENJAMIN MULLETT.

One of the oldest and most respected residents of South Fredericksburgh, Hayburn, died on Thursday morning, 20th Sept., in his eighty-eighth year. Deceased was born in Somersetshire, England, and came to Canada with his parents when a boy of seven years of age. For a time his parents resided on Amherst Island and afterwards in Fredericksburgh, where on the Hayburn, where he died, having resided there for the past eighty years. Mr. Mullett was an honored member of the Methodist church.

He was twice married, his second wife, Deborah Hinch, predeceasing him but a month. He leaves two sons, Shepherd Mullett, on the homestead, and Thomas in California. The funeral will take place on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. Service in Hayburn church and thence to Morven cemetery.

ELIZABETH EDGAR, wife of Jno. Close, departed this life Sept. 19th, 1906, after a short illness of nervous prostration. Deceased was a daughter of the late Jas. Edgar, for many years a resident of Napanee, and was a woman of a high christian character. Her life was a blessing to her family and those who were intimately acquainted with her found it a pleasure to see the Christ like principles beautifully exemplified in her quiet christian life—a faithful friend, a painstaking and affectionate sister, a patient worker, and when in trouble or affliction ever an obliging neighbor and a friend to the poor. The funeral services were conducted at the home by Rev. J. K. Henry, pastor of the Presbyterian church of which deceased had been a faithful member. He enlarged upon the sorrow entrusted those present to follow Christ even as she had done while in His steps. The remains were conveyed to Camden 8th burying ground and placed in the family plot. A large cortege of sorrowing relatives and sympathizing friends accompanied the body to its final resting place, thereby paying their last tribute of respect to one who had spent her whole life in their midst. Mrs. Close was a widow of 72 years of age. Seven members are still living. Her sisters, Mrs. Wm. Hinch and Mrs. Campbell, of Camden, Mrs. Callery, Camden, Mrs. Denison, Selby, Mrs. Wilson, Napanee, and Mrs. Wm. Close, Camden. Five brothers reside in the west also. Besides these she leaves a mother, an infants husband, two sons and a daughter to mourn her departure. For many years prior to her death she had been a faithful member of the Methodist church, and was a consistent and self sacrificing worker. Any person wishing to buy a small up to date class business would do well to come and see me at once. This is no humbug. They can see the state of the property, the quantity and quality of clay, facilities for working, drying, burning, etc. Can be purchased on a practical basis. Good reason for selling. Intend going out of business for some season, that understands every detail of the business. Will show the clay to anybody. Apply to THOMAS HOPE, Napanee. 37tf

A Specialist's Prescription
for women
Who Feel Tired and Run Down.

A Remedy that Gives New Life and Vigor and makes Women Feel Good.

Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets for Women are the prescription of a specialist.

We don't say that no other living physician could prescribe so good a remedy for women. But we do say this. The ordinary practising physician cannot prescribe so good a one, and no living physician can prescribe a better one.

Dr. Hugo put into the prescription all the knowledge, experience and skill which he had acquired in forty years' practice as a specialist in women's diseases, and included as well the discoveries of all other great physicians.

All that is latest in medicine—all that has been found useful to women, is contained in them. Nothing useless has been included. Nothing useful has been left out.

The result is, that every requirement of the female system in any possible condition is met by them.

And this fact has been certified to by leading physicians and chemists on this continent, to whom Dr. Hugo's prescription was submitted.

If you are in a run-down condition and don't feel as well as you would like to, or suffer from any menstruation difficulty, or weakness peculiar to your sex, avail yourself at once of the prescription of this great and good physician.

The cost of 72 tablets, enough for an extended treatment, is only 50c.

COMING.

Sbrocca's and his peerless Italian band and concert company will appear here shortly in a programme of music so carefully selected that it cannot fail to please all. Prof. Sbrocca makes his first appearance in the Canadian Provinces this season. He's band will give two afternoon concerts, matinee and one in Brisco's Opera House, on Tuesday, Oct. 2d.

GUY BROTHERS.

The Elmira New York Herald says, "Guy Brothers and their annual appearance at the Opera House last evening, is presented a show that is away above the average. The crowd was unusually large. The programme was also pleasing, and the artists were applauded at every turn. The first part was something of a novelty, and the programme consisted mostly of solo work. The singers with this company carry a good quality among the foremost of the singers to-day. The specialty performance was also up to the standard. They appear at the Opera House, on Monday night, September 24th.

The showing of thoroughbred cattle was fine, and would do credit to any County show.

IF THIS FITS YOU—PUT IT ON.

Fred Curry announces the arrival of the long-looked for Dolly Varden and Floo-lin shoes for which he was fortunate enough to secure the exclusive agency. He is clearing out all his odd lines to make more room for the reception of these two splendid shoes for man and woman, the only shoes of the kind in America and sold at the same price in Canada and the United States. Dolly Varden Bookbinding and Floo-lin backs may be had from Mr. Curry for the asking. He particularly wishes people to come just to see the shoes. They will never be satisfied to leave.

The superintendent of a shoe factory, one of the best factories in America, entered the idea of making a man's shoe which would embody in one shoe all the accepted ideas and advantages claimed by the many individual shoe manufacturers.

For months the superintendent worked on the idea, keeping in mind the one word "Foot-ease" a gentleman's shoe to be made by that name. When the Company's Officers were present in Canada and the United States on the 1906 shoe sight to sold on the countries at the time, they were amazed at $5.00.

The factory only sell this shoe in Canada at $4.00 and $5.00 by having the control of one factory, bringing them from the United States they would be compelled to add the buyer pay the duties, and you know that shoes are higher in the States, and you get more honest make than the average American shoe. For further particulars superintendent. The real honesty in this shoe made it a success from the first day and sell at any kind of a fair price.

The president of the Foot-rite Shoe Company says that they are very particular in their choice of an agent, and after a careful selection of Fred Curry as their Napanee agent, they are sure to send you the right shoe. When only one pair is sold in a town, the agent is important that the dealer selling them should be the right one. They are going to wait always until we get the right man in the right place," he said.

Miller's Kidney and Bladder Pills are sold at 25 cents per box. For sale at Fred Curry's Shoe Store.

Any kinds of heating apparatus, properly installed and satisfaction guaranteed. McDONALD & WILSON.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

The Signs of Heart Trouble

You can Surely Secure Heart Health and Strength through Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

Heart weakness which can be dealt with at all is never weakness. It is no poor heart to look where its nerves are weak when your heart starts to flutter, pound, or skip a beat, or more. Other signs are shortness of breath after slight exercise; fainting spells; pain or distress about the heart caused by nervous heart action; choking sensation as if the heart was in the throat; uneasiness in the chest, showing that the heart isn't working right; pain when you lie on the left side, usually the left side, but frequently the right, painful at times and difficult at others; smothering feeling. There is absolutely no other way to strengthen a weak heart, except by one way to strengthen a weak heart, except by one way to strengthen a weak heart, except by one

The Song of the Hair

There are four verses. Verse 1. Ayer's Hair Vigor stops falling hair. Verse 2. Ayer's Hair Vigor makes the hair grow. Verse 3. Ayer's Hair Vigor cures dandruff. Verse 4. Ayer's Hair Vigor makes the scalp healthy, and keeps it so. It is a regular hair-food; this is the real secret of its wonderful success.

MORE COURTSHIP AFTER MARRIAGE.

Some men seem to consider their marriage certificate as a sort of fully paid-up policy of happiness. They don't see if the courtship days were worth paying a premium of compliments, cheerfulness, courtesy, consideration and chivalry, and that marriage is one of all those premiums of forgetfulness, the easiest way to do it. Like attention guaranteed insurance on matrimony, is to keep paying the premiums. Many first-class matrimonial policies lapse just because of these suspended payments.

There is a tendency to assume that the love is known and recognized, so why speak of it? This is a dangerous taking for granted of what should be made real, pulsing and vital in thought, word and deed. There is little danger of over-telling this story. It is often the wine of life and the inspiration to one hungering and thirsting for the little tendernesses of affection. There are more people on this great, old, rolling earth hungering for sweetness, tenderness, and words of appreciation, encouragement and generous affection than are starving for food. The thoughtful husband and wife these delicate messengers of affection cost so little—sometimes only a thought—but it is the thought that is all.

Continued courtship after marriage preserves the lover in the husband and the sweetheart in the wife. But courtship is not wholly unlike the quarrel, it requires two to make it a success. It is not the wife alone who needs the gracious sweetness of consideration and courtesy. The husband who are built on the right lines have the same hunger for loving kindness and kindly loving.

Courtship is a record of promise that is often wrecked on the shoals of matrimony. Courtship and matrimony without a captain; marriage sometimes becomes two captains without a mate.—From the October Delineator.

LAPUM.

The Misses Hattie and Annie Fields, Napanee, were on Saturday evening guests of Mrs. Clara Lapum.

There was a good turn out at the service here on Wednesday evening of last week. Rev. R. A. Whattam preached an eloquent and appreciative sermon.

William Lapum is spending a week with friends near Napanee.

Many have tried to devise a corn cure equal to Putnam's, but after fifty years nothing has come upon the market that so promptly cures corns and warts. Don't experiment, use the best, and that's "Putnam's."

TAMWORTH.

Norman Green, who broke jail here last spring, was arrested back of Tweed attending camp meeting and brought to Tamworth to stand his trial.

ENTERPRISE.

Real estate is still changing hands around here. Edward Hamilton sold his hotel to John Carroll, jr. this week. He takes possession at once.

F. J. Whalen moved from the brick house owned by J. D. Wagar into his own home this week. Edward Hamilton has rented the brick house and expects to move in at once.

Our millinery are both back to their shops again. We expect to see something doing in their line soon.

Daniel B. Wagar bought Edward Fenwick's house near the mill this week. Mr. Fenwick is moving over his store.

O. C. Jackson's fine house is nearing completion.

J. D. Wagar & Son moved their furniture stock into their old store this week. The furniture store has a very fine appearance now when lit up at night.

Our base ball team and Newburgh team had a very interesting game of base ball at Centreville fair last Saturday. The score was 12 to 11 in favor of Newburgh. We were not just satisfied with some of the umpire's decisions. We thought he might have brought his glasses along. The battery for Enterprise was Teskey, pitcher, and Smith, catcher. Newburgh's battery was Wood and Rose, of Selby. They were both effective and were well supported.

Miss Ida Martin, of Ripley, is visiting Mrs. S. A. Merrill.

Miss Kate Gardner, of Kingston, returned home this week.

Mr. James Evans, of Moscow, and Miss Beatrice Kennedy from here, were married on Wednesday of this week. They left on the evening train for a trip in western Ontario. Both are very popular young people and we join in wishing them all happiness.

Everybody is waiting for the millinery openings at Mr. A. Walker's and Miss L. P. Davey's which will take place Sept. 28th and 29th.

STELLA.

A severe electric storm passed over the island on Thursday of last week. Lighting struck and completely destroyed barns and stables belonging to Arthur Howard, along with about 150 tons of hay, and his season's crop of grain. Some of the grain was still in stack. He also lost a valuable horse, and a hay loader and wagon, with some other artic es. It was just about an hour from the time the barn was struck till it was a mass of glowing embers. The owner himself was knocked down and stunned in the stable while getting a horse out. The light showed rain, which fell just after the fire broke out, kept it from spreading. The dwelling house and a small cottage which the hired man lived in, the drive house and nearly all the implements were saved. The barn was partly covered by insurance. Building operations will likely commence at once.

SCOTS' BRAINS LEAD.

Statistics Go to Show That Anglo-Saxons and Germans as a Whole Are Away Up.

It is interesting to note, from the subjoined table, how the brain-weights of various nationalities differ, according to eminent authorities. It will be noticed that the canny inhabitant of Auld Scotia leads the van, while the representative of the Happy Valley land just beats John Bull by a short head for second place, and the bland and childlike Esquimaux brings up the rear. It may be stated that the average weight of the human brain is given as 49 1-2 ounces for males, and 44 ounces for females.

	Oz.		Oz.
Scotch	50.0	Pawnees	47.1
German	49.6	Italians	46.9
English	49.5	Hindoos	46.1
French	47.9	Gypsies	44.3
Zulu	47.5	Bushmen	44.0
Chinese	47.2	Esquimaux	43.8

Touching the cubic capacity of the brain-case, the Anglo-Saxon and the German run a head-heat for first place, despite the apparently greater stowage-room possessed by the average "at-the-top-of-the-house" head. Here are some relative proportions:

Anglo-Saxon	105 cub. in.
German	105 " "
Negro	96 " "
Ancient Egyptian	93 " "
Hottentot	88 " "
Australian Aborigine	78 " "

It is at once apparent that a really marvelous disparity exists between the first four and the last two, each of which is wildly approaching total extinction. The above figures, of course, apply merely to the shell containing the brains, but even were these brain-cases constructed on a more generous scale, it is doubtful whether these abor-

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

An Anglo-Saxon citizen in New Orleans attended the funeral of a French man's wife. Seeing Mrs. S. afterward, meeting the bereaved husband on Canal street, the latter asked, in playful jauntiness: "Ah, were you at ze funeral?" The American said yes. "How you tink I did?"

"Oh, splendid!" He appeared to be fond of your wife, as it took four men to hold you and control your grief and excite emotion."

"You were only at ze house, eh? You should have gone to ze cemetaire, for there I raise so Camell take ten men to hold me!"

They Are Carefully Prepared.—Pills which disguise themselves in the word act cannot be expected to have much effect upon the intestines, and mucous coolness the medicine administered must, therefore, be of a very different class. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are no mucous; they are effective; they are that the substance in them intended to operate upon the intestines is retarded in action until they pass through the stomach to the bowels.

Sharp—Have you any 5-cent stamps? Drug Clerk, absent-minded—No, but I can offer you something just as good.

Sharp—Ha! ha! force of habit. That's where I caught you! Drug Clerk—Force it is! I am; here are two twos and a one.".

A Small Pill, But Powerful.—They that judge of the powers of a thing by its size, would consider Parmelee's Vegetable Pills to be lacking in a little wonder among pills. What it lacks in size it makes up in wonderful results. It makes up in power for the remedies which it carries are put up in the most concentrated form and are so powerful that only small doses are required. "Small but powerful" is the term to be secured in this form and do their work thoroughly.

Young Wife, during first year—Boo-oo-hoo! They're going home to m-mother

Young Husband—What will she say?

Young Wife—She'll say 'I t-told you so-o!'

Trial Proves Its Excellence; — The best testimonial one can have of the virtue of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in the treatment of bodily pains, coughs, colds and affections of the respiratory organs, is a trial of it. If not found the sovereign remedy it is represented to be, then it may be rejected and forgotten, but if it has been said to its praise pronounced as untruthful.

"We never realize the full value of a thing until we lose it," remarked the philosopher who was fond of moralizing. "That's right," replied the practical man; "especially if the thing lost was insured."

If attacked with cholera or summer complaint of any kind send at once for a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, and use it according to directions. It gets with wonderful rapidity in subduing that dreadful disease that weakens the strongest and often destroys the young and delicate. Those who have used this remedy say it acts promptly and never fails to effect a thorough cure.

"Will you marry me?" he asked bluntly. "Why, George," she said, "that's so sudden; but," she added coyly, "I am not sure that I can answer you now. Put your question properly. Ask me if I will become your wife."

One of the greatest blessings is Parmelee's Medicinal Graves' Worm Exterminator. It effectually expels worms from the system, and is a marvellous remedy in the little one.

Teller—Has Millicent plays wonderfully on the piano, eh?

Gardiner Grewgius—Yes; I don't know much in the family, but I could get to 'ave heard me play 'Ole Dan Tucker.' 'Ole Bob Ridley' or 'Ome Sweet 'Ome when I was a boy!"

Only those who have had experience can tell the torture corns cause. Instant relief to those who use Holloway's Corn Cure.

"I strikes me Mrs. Bragley would make a fine mother-in-law," remarked Mr. Meekley. "Why?" "She's got such a charming daughter."

A member of the Nebraska Legislature was making a speech on some unimportant question, and, he concluded, said:

"In the words of Daniel Webster, who wrote the dictionary, 'Give me liberty or give me death!'"

One of his colleagues pulled at his coat and said:

"Daniel Webster did not write the dictionary; it was Noah Webster."

"Noah built the ark," replied the speaker. "Noah built the ark."

"George," she said, after she had accepted him; "tell me that you love me just as much as ever."

"Why—why—dear," replied the drug clerk, dreamily, "but you are something just as good."

"How much—What's your opinion of the type of girl who never wants to get married?"

"Why, I'm not qualified to express an opinion on the subject. Are you?"

"No, I'm not sure I am."

Bundy—I want the boy a necktie," Shopman, showing some fashionable specimens; "here is a tie that is very much worn."

Bundy—Guess not; that's very much worn. I've plenty of them at home.

RICHMOND OBJECTS.

The petition of the municipal council of the County of Lennox and Addington, to the council of the corporation of the County of Richmond humbly showeth, that where as by legislative enactment the Boards of Trade of the Province of Ontario did at its last session pass an Act amending the Public Schools Act some of the provisions of which we do not consider fair or reasonable, but on the contrary a class of legislative of the most violent type. DIAMOND DYES.

—VERSUS—

Common Imitation Dyes

The DIAMOND DYES are the only package dyes admitted to the homes of wise and economical women. Why? because they have every quality which home dyes should possess. DIAMOND DYES are, to-day, the only dyes that can be guaranteed to give fast colors and successes. All druggists and general dealers are ready to draw to you the convictions, sell only the DIAMOND DYES. Buy only the simple DIAMOND DYES, they always give complete satisfaction.

Common and adulterated package dyes are sold by some merchants because DIAMOND DYES are sold by some merchants because of the extra cash profit on the dyes. These deceptive dyes are, in many cases, cheap in price, but poor in quality. They produce weak and blotchy colors and ruin many beautiful garments and materials. Their use has caused great loss to many families.

Always use the reliable and popular DIAMOND DYES and you will make the old and faded things look like new. Send for Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, 200 Mountain St., Montreal, P.Q., for Free Directions How to Use Diamond Dye Cook Book and Illustrated Booklet of Dainty Pictures, "Little Longchaps" Winter and Summer Sports" all sent free to any address.

GREAT ENGINEERING FEAT.

New York, Sept. 17—After two years and a half of continuous work the eastbound and westbound shields in one of the tubes of the Hudson, which the Pennsylvania Railroad has been driving under the Hudson River to connect New York and New Jersey, have met. Now men may walk through from one State to the other. The second tube, a few feet to the southward, is to join about Oct. 7th. The meeting of the shields in the beginning of the week is the completion of one of the most astonishing engineering feats on record. Probably no feat of railway strategy in the history of the United States has attracted more attention throughout the world than the tunnel. Its completion will mark a triumph over difficulties of tremendous magnitude, as this will be the longest tunnel ever bored entirely under water.

Charles J. Crowley, C.E., at one time resident engineer on the Grand Trunk Railway, Toronto, and whom progress have recorded from time to time in these columns, was superintending engineer for Mott Haven, Contractor C. M. Jacobs, the most eminent consulting engineer in the world, announced Mr. Crowley's tunnel the finest he has ever seen. Mr. Crowley's work has been doubled in consequence. Mr. Crowley was married to Miss Hayden, daughter of Mr. J. S. Hayden, Camden East, one of the most successful and highly respected business men of the County of Lennox and Addington.

The young couple were unattended. The bride received in a tasteful suit of blue cloth with white silk blouse and hat to match. After the ceremony they drove to the home of the bride's parents, where were assembled about thirty guests, intimate friends and relatives. After congratulations a sumptuous supper was partaken of, and the evening spent in merriment. The bride was the recipient of many valuable and useful presents. They will make their home with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Oliver, Deseronto Road.

A SEPTEMBER BRIDE.

A quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lane, Napanee, on Tuesday morning, when their second daughter, Miss Annie Lane, was united in marriage to Mr. Arthur Reginald Russell, of Calgary, Alberta. Rev. J. R. Cline, M.A., officiated, in the presence of only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. After the ceremony and breakfast and the congratulations of friends, the happy couple left on the 1.08 train to spend a few weeks in Western Ontario, before leaving for their new home at Calgary. The bride, one of our most popular young ladies, was dressed in a travelling suit of white and grey check, with white silk blouse and pale blue hat, and was given a royal send-off by her many friends at the railway station. The groom is the eldest son of Mr. Russell, our town constable. The Beaver joins their host of friends in wishing them every happiness.

SIR WILLIAM VAN HORNE

The Builder of the Canadian Pacific.

Sir William Van Horne, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Canadian Pacific R. R., is the most versatile man in Canada. He is a railroad builder who defies obstacles that would have daunted most able men; he is a collector of paintings and a painter of ability; he is a deep student and a pleasing talker, he is a successful amateur farmer; he is the head and prime mover in dozens of big enterprises which he handles simultaneously with the ease of a juggler tossing balls into the air; and he is invading Cuba and Guatemala with the great advance agent of civilization—railways.

He was born in New York City, in 1843, a lineal descendant of one of the Dutch founders of New Amsterdam, the germ from which the great city of New York has evolved. At fourteen the death of his father made it necessary for him to secure the living the world owes everyone who would win success in the battle of life. He was first telegraph operator on the Illinois Central, then went into the service of the Michigan Central where he remained six years, leaving to be train dispatcher of the Alton, there rising successively to the position of superintendent of telegraph and divisional superintendent. He afterward occupied managing positions on the St. Louis, Kansas City and Northern, Southern Minnesota, Chicago and Alton, and Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railways, going from the latter to the Canadian Pacific as general manager.

The inception of this, one of the world's greatest railway systems, was due to the patriotism, courage and enterprise of Canada's Grand Old Statesman, Sir John Macdonald, backed by other capitalists; but the virtual building of the road and putting into the completed work the soul of a mighty purpose, the boundless energy, vitality and faith that have made it a world power, is the work of Sir William Van Horne. In 1884 he became vice-president of the road and four years later was made president. His splendid organizing ability, his mastery of detail, his infinite resourcefulness, his conquest of obstacles—all find their lasting monument in this splendid work. He has the visions into the future that distinguish all great leaders; he sees the oak in the acorn, he sees in imagination the busy town with its teeming population, where other men see only a possible good site for a town. For him to see a need, is to plan; for him to plan, is to execute.

In 1894, Queen Victoria, recognizing the marvelous impetus he had given to Canada, conferred upon him the honorary knighthood, which he modestly accepted as a tribute to his railroad, and has since carried his honors with the simplicity, grace and dignity of a large-minded, broad-gauge man.

Entered according to Act of the Parliament of Canada, in the year 1906, by W. G. Mack, at the Department of Agriculture.

FALL ASSIZES.

The Fall Assizes for the County of Lennox and Addington will open on Monday next, Oct. 1st, before His Lordship, Mr. Justice Britton.

The following cases have been entered with Mr. W. P. Deroche, Clerk of the Crown:

JURY, CASE.

Madden Bros. vs. J. F. Smith & Son. This is an action brought by the plaintiffs against the defendants for the loss sustained by them on the 24th day of July last by reason of a fire destroying their slaughter house and offal. The plaintiffs claim damages to the amount of $1,200 damages and the defendants have paid into Court $600 in full satisfaction of the plaintiff's claim. John English, for plaintiffs; Herrington, Warner & Grange, for defendants.

NON-JURY CASE.

Baker vs. Amey—This is an action brought by John F. Baker, of Bloomfield, against Thomas Amey, of the same place, farmer and servant, for damages for alleged tax collector for the year 1905, by the defendant in the first place some discrepancies, also found that there were collectable taxes which were not on his roll. Also saw the general secretary of the members of the Council in regard to the matter, and he (Hoyle) plainly showed disappointment at the way the deal was worked by Mr. Barlow, and thought it strange that a ten per cent. dividend should have to be forthcoming. About twelve witnesses were sworn. The jury gave a verdict of $1 and costs, not allow the ten per cent. on the sum of $1,250.50. It was plainly the fault of Mr. Rutan, as collector, to collect the sum. Bird & Bird, for plaintiff; Herrington, Warner & Grange for plaintiffs; G. F. Rutan for defendant.

ROBERT W. DENISON.

In the passing away of the above gentleman Napanee has perhaps one of its most prominent citizens. Deceased had been ill but a week, still, on account of his advanced years, but little hope was entertained for his recovery, and he quietly passed away on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 22d. Robert Denison was born in Toronto in 1820, and was the warden of the County. About twenty-five years ago he established the present extensive business in Napanee, which he successfully conducted up to the time of his death. Deceased was a man who was nearly 85 years of age, was a life-long member of the Church of England, and was a liberal supporter of the beautiful church, and will be greatly missed by the congregation. He was also honored him highly for his honest and upright business dealings. His wife predeceased him about twenty-one years ago, and his brother, John Denison, Bloomfield, survives him. The funeral took place on Monday afternoon, service being held in the Western church, by Rev. G. S. White, and the remains were placed in the family plot in the Western cemetery.

EVANS—KENNEDY.

The marriage of Miss Beatrice Pauline Kennedy, of Enterprise, and Mr. James B. Evans, of Moscow, took place on Wednesday, Sept. 19th, at 10 o'clock, at the Church of the Annunciation, in the presence of a large number of friends and spectators, the Rev. Father McCarthy officiating. The bride's maid was Miss Lily Kennedy, sister of the bride, while the groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Albert Evans. Mrs. Curtin presided at the organ rendering the wedding march as the bridal party entered. The bride was prettily gowned in white silk with chiffon trimmings and carried a beautiful bridal bouquet of white chrysanthemums and a white prayer book, the gifts of the groom. After the wedding ceremony the guests repaired to the home of the bride's parents, where a beautiful wedding dinner was served. The bride was the recipient of many handsome and useful presents, testifying to the high esteem in which she is held by her many friends. The happy couple left on the fast train yesterday morning for their future home in Fernie, B.C., where Mr. Evans is engaged in the business of lumber, in which many friends in Ontario will wish them a happy and prosperous journey through life.

MAPLE GROVE SHORTHORNS.

Farmer's Advocate.

Maple Grove Stock Farm lies in Addington County, Ont., a short distance from Enterprise station, on the Bay of Quinte Railway, running north from Napanee. It is the property of Mr. C. D. Wagar, one of Addington's most enterprising farmers, whose splendid herd of Shorthorns now numbers 35 head, several of which are imported, among the latter being Belladonna and (imp.), by Baron of Baley, dam by Sittyton Vet; Airy Duchess 3rd (imp.), by Pride of All, dam by Airy Monarch (she is a Broadhooks); Silver Belle (imp.), by Caledon Chief, a champion (she is a Village Maid); Winnifred 3rd (imp.), by Spicy King; Byres Orange Blossom (imp.), by Fitzalan, dam by Brave Archer, is an Orange Blossom; and Robina and (imp.), by Lovat's Champion. These compose the imported females of the herd, and are as nice a bunch of thick-fleshed, up-to-date type cattle as can be found together in this country—all extra good individuals, and all breeders. The Canadian-bred ones represent the Meadowflower, Jilt and Lady Eden families. The younger ones, by the stock bull, are a splendid lot, and reflect great credit on their enterprising owner. The stock bull is Lord Banff's Conqueror, bred by W. D. Flatt, sired by the $5,100 bull, Lord Banff (imp.), dam Daisy Lee—33090—by Ivanhoe—12044—. He is an exceptionally well-put-up bull, mellow, and a wonderfully good sire, as his get are a grand lot of thick, even, good doers. In the herd are a number of young things, and anything is for sale. Enterprise is the P. O. address.

Bu-Ju cures Rheumatism, because it cures the Kidneys. Every drop of blood in the body passes through the kidneys, to be filtered. If the kidneys are sick—tired—inflammed—they don't filter out the uric acid. It is this acid, deposited in the joints—on the nerves—that causes Rheumatism.

MILLINERY OPENINGS.

The fall millinery openings were a great success this year, last Saturday being the day on which all our millinery establishments put their best foot forward. All day and evening the stores were thronged, and the ladies seemed delighted with the season's broad gear. Napanee is noted for the taste of its milliners, and their trade is not confined to the town and vicinity, many beautiful creations going yearly to all parts of the province, as far west as Victoria and Vancouver, B.C.

MISS BRUTON'S PARLORS

were crowded to their utmost capacity, and her beautiful display was greatly admired. To describe the many varied styles would be impossible. Ostrich feathers have a prominent place, life, they are more shown than in former years. The uncurled feather and vulture are both novelties. Wings, osprey and flowers are also much used. Little bower hats, as well as feathers and fur hats, are decidedly new. Many of the felt hats are two tone and exceedingly pretty. The colors most used are browns, Hungary greens, wine to burgundy, rose to pink, bue, London smoke, grays, black and white.

DOXSEE & CO.

A wealth of beauty and elegance in millinery and superb fall goods greeted a view marked the display of Doxsee & Co., at their fall millinery opening, which commenced Saturday, Sept. 22d. The display was striking and many innovations and changes in the fall styles for 1906, noticeable. One which is a predominance of light colors and smart effects, making a style for this autumn bright and attractive.

Our attention was drawn to a very pretty hat, the Gainsborough in Burgundy silk, trimmed with velvet and plumes, in the same shades. Another very handsome and dainty hat was that called the Rob-Roy, in tan felt, trimmed around the brim with folds of brown velvet caught on the left side with a bird and vulture band.

One on the melon shape was very much admired, made in tan felt, trimmed with velvet and tulle, finished in the back with a long feather.

The leading shades are taupe, Burgundy, sage, rue, tan, pearl grey. A few of the new ami popular shades are the Rob-Roy, belgrad mushroom and the Jocky hat. Feathers promise to be very popular the fall for winter hats; also breasts, wings, cock feathers, capprys, and last, but not least, velvet roses and foliage combined with grapes.

MADILL BROS.

Many notable openings have been celebrated, but the Fall opening of Messrs. Madill Bros., which was held on Saturday evening last, stands out pre-eminent. This notable establishment was the scene of an imposing and dignified display, which for its authorative and definite seal on the season's modes. Filled with the richest and most exclusive importations in ready-to-wear lines and millinery, the vous of the fashionable elect. The ladies' dress goods and silk department, exquisitely arrayed with fabrics of the most fashionable nature, so carefully arranged that each and every piece was appreciated by all. The linen department was one of elegance, the showing of the Real Irish Linens, the Barnsley brand, and kindred lines of work. The prestige accorded this department this season denotes a patient and demand for the finest qualities of linens known to be stocked by this reliable firm.

The ready-to-wear department, the department which is so prominent this season on account of the showing of the New York garments, the ladies' coats being very much in evidence, which are of the most fashionable nature. The dress skirts, the silk and lace waists were also shown to good advantage. The millinery department, as usual a centre of attraction, with its extensive glass show counters arranged so that the many lines carried in this modern department, could be seen to good advantage.

The carpet, housefurnishing and fur departments were very elaborate in their firm of display. The carpets, the rugs, and the curtains were arranged by talented artists and shown to excellent advantage. The furs as usual cause a commotion amongst the lady patrons on account of the high class nature of stock carried by this firm. Many more commonts could be made in detail of the display, but the choice quality and select character instinctively enthrall those who are quick to recognize the cachet of exclusive elegance.

THE ROBINSON CO., LIMITED.

The Robinson Co. Millinery Opening on Saturday was the signal for all the departments in the house to wake up. At 7.30 in the evening everything was ready for the reception of eagle-eyed scorers. The new electric light system was used for the windows, show-cases and first floor, making a very brilliant and pleasing effect. Later in the evening when the crowd had commenced to thin out a flashlight picture was taken of the millinery store display. Several friends of the store have ordered copies to send away as souvenirs of the day, and before long they are proud to show

The handsome tables and dress goods counters were draped with the newest waves of dress goods and silks with correct trimming on each. Last but not least in passing that The Robinson Company have the finest service for turning out real swell dresses that you will find in any town in Canada. A dress second, silk and trimming stock such as they carry, combined with a modiste like Miss Barrett for the making of garments, is a combination for swell service and good dress making that you find hard to equal. The electric lighted show cases on the right were dressed with the season's most novelties in neckwear, belts, gloves, handkerchiefs, etc. The staple department section was devoted entirely to display of Irish linens, Parisian laces, ladies' collets and fancy goods,

Whitewater had quite a sensation a few days ago, when a two-year-old son of Mr. Blake, a farmer living about six miles from here, strayed from home one afternoon, and was not found till nine o'clock next night. The night was very cold and the boy thinly dressed. Although he was about three-two hours without food, he seemed to be none the worse. When found he was nine miles from home, had crossed a tree, swamp and was standing in a clump of bushes. Forty men searched all night, but without success. The next night a man was found home from threshing he heard him crying, and took him home. The next day Mr. Blake's brother, who is blind, joined the searching party, trying by calling and feeling the ground with his cane to find the little fellow.

Growing Boys and Girls

While it is very gratifying to parents to see their boys and girls grow rapidly, it should also be forgotten that this is a very critical period. There is danger that they may outgrow their strength; there is also danger that the development may not be uniform, that one part of the system is being built up at the expense of the rest, that the bone may not be developing properly, that nerve and brain may lack tone or the muscle may be soft and flabby.

To ensure proper, all round development it is absolutely necessary that the food should be entirely suitable and contain the elements necessary to develop every part of the system.

The ideal food for this purpose is which contains, in proper proportions, the very essentials of life and development, viz: Fat, Iron and Phosphorus. Fat to develop flesh and muscle; Iron for the blood; Phosphorus for the bone, nerve and brain.

If you want your boys and girls to have strong lungs, robust frames, well developed muscles, strong nerves, vigorous brains and rosy cheeks give them FERROL. They will like it, and FERROL never fails.

The Mooney Way

There's nothing too good to go into MOONEY'S CRACKERS. The best flour that Canada mills, the best butter and cream that Canada's famous dairies can produce, and the best equipped bakery in Canada, to convert them into the best crackers you ever ate—

Mooney's Perfection Cream Sodas

They are good eating any time and all the time.

WANTS THEM TURNED OUT.

Mr. Editor,—Will you kindly allow me the space in your valuable paper for a few remarks that I wish to make. It is in regard to the workings of our Ontario Government.

We as conservatives will remember the last election and one of the questions we dealt with was corruption. Now, Sir, I will ask the Conservative M. P.P.s what are they going to say to the people at the next election? Once again! I do not believe in "salary grab" as they call it, but I ask the Whitney government to turn out the corrupt officials and give us cleanhanded officials. Which, Sir, is the worst, the Ross government that does not know its officials are corrupt or the Whitney government that condemned these officials when out of power and yet retained them when accepting the reins of our government? Can it be possible that they have classed them? Not much, we as Conservatives know too much about them in this county. Is it possible that we have no honest Conservatives in Lennox and Addington to fill the offices now held by Reform ex M. P.'s and men that have left the British Grit machine to defeat the men we worked hard to put in power?

Hoping to see a change at an early date.

I am yours respectfully,
A CONSERVATIVE.

Tamworth, 24th Sept. '06

Dr. Wagar, Dentist, Napanee, will be at the Benson House, Marlbank, on Friday, Oct. 5th.

WANTS THEM TURNED OUT.

Mr. Editor,—Will you kindly allow me the space in your valuable paper for a few remarks that I wish to make. It is in regard to the workings of our Ontario Government.

We as conservatives will remember the last election and one of the questions we dealt with was corruption. Now, Sir, I will ask the Conservative M. P.P.s what are they going to say to the people at the next election? Once again! I do not believe in "salary grab" as they call it, but I ask the Whitney government to turn out the corrupt officials and give us cleanhanded officials. Which, Sir, is the worst, the Ross government that does not know its officials are corrupt or the Whitney government that condemned these officials when out of power and yet retained them when accepting the reins of our government? Can it be possible that they have classed them? Not much, we as Conservatives know too much about them in this county. Is it possible that we have no honest Conservatives in Lennox and Addington to fill the offices now held by Reform ex M. P.'s and men that have left the British Grit machine to defeat the men we worked hard to put in power?

Hoping to see a change at an early date.

I am yours respectfully,
A CONSERVATIVE.

Women's and Children's Underwear.

We have several new features to offer in connection with our underwear for women and children. Our mill men have thrown out all old machinery wherever they could improve on it. For instance, our Shirts or Vests as generally called, are all whipped with a much improved process making them stronger and neater. They have also adopted a "no shrink" process by which we can even guarantee our vests and drawers at 50 cents not to shrink. With all the improvements and all the advances in wool there are very few garments that show an advance price. There is very little hope of repeating present stocks at old prices. If you take our advise you will lay in your fall and winter supply at present values.

Women's Vests and Drawers.

Our Vests have the patent under-arm gusset.

Pandora Range

SAVES FUEL AND HELPS TO PAY FOR ITSELF.

It is not the price you pay for a range which makes it cheap or expensive, but the fuel it consumes after you get it.

If you buy a range which costs $5 to $7 less than a "Pandora" and it burns a ton, or only half a ton of coal more in a year, what do your gain? Nothing, but you actually lose money, besides putting up with all the inconveniences, troubles and extra work which are a certainty with a poor range.

The "Pandora" is equipped with many fuel-saving features which are not found on any other range. Hot-air flues are constructed so that all the heat from the fire-box travels directly under every pot-hole and around the oven twice—every atom of heat is used, and only the smoke goes up the chimney.

Sold by all enterprising dealers. Booklet free.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

91—Well, if you're never going to speak to me again, what are you here for?

She, tearfully—I—I didn't know but what you might want to speak to me.

Not a Nauseating Pill—The excipient of a pill is the substance which enfolds the ingredients and makes up the pill mass. That of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills is so compounded as to preserve their emulsture, and they can be warmed into any latitude without impairing their strength. Mere pills, in order to keep them from adhering, are rolled in powders, which prove nauseating to the taste. Parmelee's Pills are so perfectly prepared that they are agreeable to the most delicate.

"I saw a cowslip by the river's rim," murmured the long-haired boarder, who had just returned from a stroll.

I hope 'twasn't one of my cows," said the practical farmer. "Did she slip clear under?"

"She would have, but I saw the bull-rush to her assistance.

Slow to Cleanse the System— Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are the result of scientific study of the effects of extracts of certain roots and herbs upon the digestive organs. Their use has demonstrated in many instances that they regulate the action of the liver and kidneys, purify the blood, and carry off all morbid accumulations from the system. They are easy to take, and their action is mild and beneficial.

Said mother as a hen comes cackling out of a shed, "I expect that hen has laid an egg. Just then a cow came out of another shed, whereupon Tommy shouted, "And I spies that cow has laid some butter!"

A Medicine for the Miner's Pack.—Prospectors and others going into the mining regions where doctors are few and drug stores not at all, should provide themselves with a supply of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It will offset the effects of exposure, relieve sprains, and when taken internally will prevent many sore colds and sore throat, and as a lubricant will keep the muscles in a good condition.

"Why have you been absent from school?" demanded the teacher.

"Why," replied the boy, "Mom broke 'er arm Monday."

"But that is Wednesday. Why did you stay away two days?"

"Why—er—I was broke in two places."

No person should go from home without a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentry Cordial in their possession, any change of water, cooking, climate, etc., frequently bring on summer complaints, and there is nothing like being ready with a sure remedy at hand, which oftentimes saves great suffering and frequently valuable lives. This Cordial has gained for itself a widespread reputation for affording prompt relief from all summer complaints.

A small girl recently entered a grocer's shop in the suburbs of Whitechapel and said with the shopman in a shrill, piping voice, "Please, sir, I wants 'arf a pound of butter and a pon'orth of cheese, and murver ass sis will send a shilling in when farver comms home."

"All right," replied the man.

"But," continued the child, "murver wants the change, 'cos she's got to pay a penny in the gas meter."

Much distress and sickness in children is caused by worms. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator gives relief by removing the cause. Give it a trial and be convinced.

He had been to a children's party, and had been treated to the numerous good things provided; but on his return home, when asked by his father if such an awful pair in the front of my duds I've got on."

"What makes baby cry so?" is another of the questions a mother is calling his teeth, poor little darling. "Will give a teething powder and then she'll be quiet in a jiffy."

Holloway's Corn Cure destroys all kinds of corns, warts, root and branch. Who, then would endure them with such a cheap and effectual remedy within reach?

It was at a class in arithmetic that the following household problem was exactly worked:

"Suppose that in a family of five there are four children, and they consume, and the mother wants to save enough to purchase an equal share—how is she going to do it?"

For a few moments the whole class was in a room while everybody calculated hard. Finally one of the little boys rose from his feet and, after getting the schoolmaster's attention, gave the following answer:

"Mash the potatoes, sir."

Take one small trouble, add a little worry, season with a dash of spite, dark side and keep till it ripens.

You will never find this to fail in making a home.

Once at breakfast, at a friend's, Phillips Brooks noticed at dinner five of a strangely dissimilar daughter of the house having constant trouble with the fifth. The fifth was evidently trying to handle properly with her tiny fingers the fruit knife, and Brooks, mingled with mischief, the sympathy:

"Why, don't you grow up the fork, my dear, and use your fingers? You know fingers were made before forks."

Looking as a flash came the crushing retort, "Mine weren't."

The laxative effect of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets is so agreeable and so natural you can hardly realize that it is produced by a medicine. These tablets also cure indigestion and biliousness. Price 25 cents. Samples free at The Red Cross Drug Store.

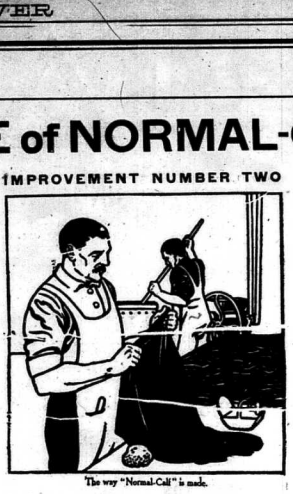
MADE of NORMAL-CALF

IMPROVEMENT NUMBER TWO



The way "Normal-Calf" is made.

The foot is one of the tenderest members of the body. Of course the ball and heel are tough,-but no human part, excepting the eye, is made delicate for the top and pit of the foot.

If you subject that tender top to the rough ravages of hard, stiff, lifeless calfskin, you're sending a helpless, tender weakling to ignominious defeat at the hands of a rubbing, pinching, blistering foe whose battle scalp can be seen on nine feet out of every ten.

"Normal-Calf" is a new leather invention, devised, patented and exclusively controlled by the Foot-rite makers. No matter what retailers may tell you, "Normal-Calf" can be found only in Foot-rite Shoes. This leather is tanned and curried by a new process which preserves nearly all of the soft, clothy suppleness of the live calf's skin.

We'll explain:

Tanning is merely rendering animal skin undecayable. This is accomplished by soaking the skin in tannic acid. The tannic acid chemically combines with the skin's chief component part—gelatine—forming tanno-gelatin, or leather which is insoluble and unputrefiable. The tannic acid is secured from various tree barks. Hemlock is used principally because it's cheapest, but it fills up the pores, destroys the fibre and deadens the skin, forming leather as stiff and hard as tin. This is the foot-rubbing, foot-pinching, foot-blistering calfskin used in nearly all shoes. It's not worthy the name "leather." It's merely pickled calf hide, more suitable for sandpaper than for shoes.

"Normal-Calf" is rendered undecayable with scarce and expensive tannic acid extracted from oaktree bark, so accurately and scientifically administered that the pores and fibre remain natural; stiffening of the skin is avoided; and almost the original, soft, clothy suppleness of the live calf's hide is retained.

Then it's put through a new and special Foot-rite process of shaving, scraping, drying, oiling and annealing, which further enhances its suppleness.

What are you going to do about it? There's a Foot-rite retailer in your town. See him below. You'll find his door swinging inward but never outward to find a more welcome store.

Anywhere in America, Canada or Great Britain—$4.00 and $5.00. Every pair Goodyear Welted.

AN IRISH FOLK TALE

There is no humor in the world so wonderful as Irish humor—it's like the little flexible flageolet of Svengali, which could transform the humblest songs into the rarest beauty without altering a note. "Killoghan and Killboggan" by Hermoine Templeton's story in the October McClure's, is the tale of some Irish peasants and their pig. So human are all the characters—even the pig—and so seductive is the absurd, nonsensical, delicious merriment of it all, that one would recognise the inimitable Celtic touch in it if one had never seen a shamrock leaf. It is one of the best expressions of folk life that McClure's has ever published—equal of its kind to the best songs and legends of Yeats.

THE RED FEATHER.

'Red Feather,' the romantic comic opera in two acts by Reginald DeKoven, with libretto by Charles Klein, of 'Music Master' and 'Lion and the Mouse' fame, and lyrics by Charles Emerson Cook, will be presented at the Grand in Kingston, on Thursday Oct. 4th. The scenic, costumed and special effects cost Florenz Ziegfeld about $75,000; therefore its splendor is unquestioned. Jos. M. Gaites has furnished a strong company, with the well known prima donna, Cheridah Simpson, at the head of it and a big and attractive chorus to support her. The tremendous vogue that the opera has attained however is said to be due, in a large measure, to the musical score, which is in Mr. DeKoven's familiar and most pleasing vein.

SURPRISE PARTY.

A very pleasant time was spent at the Methodist parsonage Varker, on Tuesday evening Sept. 25th, when about forty of the friends of the Methodist church, Colebrook, came bounding into the parsonage with baskets filled with the good things of life. They immediately took possession of the home and every one was made to feel at home by the kind welcome from the host and hostess. The tables were soon drawn and the ladies set 1 sfore them an excellent tea. Twenty-nine sat down at the first table and did justice to the good things set before them. The evening was spent in social conversation, singing and music. The ladies presented Mrs. Farnsworth with a beautiful quilt which they had made for the occasion. The party was startled when they learned, that the time had flown so swiftly that they must bid adieu, but all expressed themselves as having enjoyed themselves immensely. The Methodists of Colebrook are a very loyal people and true to their church.

COLONIAL POETRY.

A discussion is now occurring between English and some Canadian papers as to the quality of colonial poetry as compared with that of the mother country. Some London critics are inclined to poo-hoo colonial poetry, as lacking in originality and grace, but the October Canadian Magazine there are some excellent poetical contributions. Three of these are by women who have already published volumes—Mrs. Elizabeth R. Macdonald, who is a sister of Charles G. D. Roberts; Mrs. Isabel E. Mackay and Mrs. Evelyn Gunne. The latter's first volume has just appeared. The fourth is by a new British Columbia poet, George H. Wilder. All four poems are worthy of note, because which the editor of The Magazine has paid them. This publication makes a specialty of native verse, and the quality of the material which it uses is an indication that the crop of meritorious colonial verse has not yet been entirely harvested.

Neil Cochrane, Alberta, two ranchers, Edward Cull and H. E. Rivers, were stabbed to death by a gang of drunken Italians.

Verdict of the Coroner's jury in the Goderich collision was that the death of the servant was negligence on the part of Engineer Reid and Conductor Thompson of the fruit special.

MRS. LILLIAN MASSEY TREBLE

A Life of Consecration to Humanity.

In Leigh Hunt's beautiful poem "Abou Ben Adhem," where the angel wrote on the tablet the names of the world's great ones, because Abou Ben Adhem loved his fellow-men, his name led all the rest. On the tablet of the world's remembrance, surely high place belongs to those who have consecrated their lives to the betterment of humanity; who were great not for what they possessed but for what they gave, not for what they acquired but for what they radiated, not for what they received but for what they helped others to become.

Among the Canadian women who have made philanthropy a living, vital atmosphere of helpfulness rather than a mere theory of living, the name of Lillian Massey Treble deserves high praise. Born in 1854, in Newcastle, Ont., the only daughter of the late Hart A. Massey of Toronto, who was the inspiration and impetus to some of the Dominion's most important industries and institutions, from her mother's home she has lived in the atmosphere of wealth. Her fine mind was given additional strengthening and refining under the best instructors, and later in that best of schools—travel—where observation is the teacher. She has visited many new cities and countries but new school-rooms. The heiress of great estates, she consecrated herself and her wealth to the good of the world.

Her earliest work in the Fred Victor Mission in one of Toronto's neglected quarters, soon convinced her that the primary source of good or evil in most instances is the home; that the greatest good to humanity must come from preventing evils, not from curing them, and from building up higher ideals of life and living. Her first step in this work of regeneration was in the organization of domestic science classes in connection with the missions. Then came the demand for a higher grade of teachers, alive to their duties and their privileges; this led to the founding of the Lillian Massey School of Household Science and Art. In this institution the practical work of training women for the home, so that they may make home better for themselves and others, is the supreme aim of all the teaching. The education—literary, scientific, moral, practical—is all centered in making woman more fitted for the responsibilities and privileges of woman's sphere.

In 1897 Miss Massey was married to John M. Treble of Toronto, but this made no difference in the intensity of purpose and helpfulness of her philanthropic life, constantly broadening into wider channels of usefulness. Her work as trustee of the Fred Victor Mission, honorary president of the Canadian Household Economic Association, vice-president of the Women's Council of Toronto and an executrix of her father's estate are but a few phases of her busy career.

NEWBURGH.

The Sunday School rally held in the Methodist church on Sunday morning, was one of the finest services of the kind ever held in Newburgh. Switzerville and Strathcona joined the Newburgh school each over 200 Sunday School scholars took part in the service. The 17 years of the service was assisted by D. A. Nesbit, B.A., C. W. Neville, A. N. Price, Byron Rose and Wm. Paul.

W. P. Deroche, Napanee, was in town on Thursday, one day of last week.

The announcement last week that Dr. M. I. Beemun had been appointed to the Provincial Board of Health, was hailed with pleasure by all classes of citizens. The Government made an excellent choice in appointing our local physician, whose sterling worth as a man and practitioner, is recognized in the circle of people in his vicinity. The Doctor's wide experience and his exceptional ability to get on with people will enable him to discharge his duties faithfully, and the village feels complimented that one of its most trusted and prominent citizens has been given the honor of connection with the appointment when the Government of the whole Province of Ontario is chosen from.

Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Shorey and children, of Mrs. Clara Shorey spent Sunday in Camden.

Miss Ida Napanee, is visiting Mrs. A. Madden.

Mrs. Hooper and Miss Hooper, Napanee are visiting at G. H. Thomson's.

Mrs. Perry, of California, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Hope.

Mrs. Hope returned on Saturday, after spending a delightful visit with her daughters in Brockville and Oxford Mills.

The Sunday School Concert was held in St. John's church, on Wednesday evening.

Messrs. J. J. Shorey and Jas. Parks were in Kingston on Monday on Jurymen at the Assizes.

Miss McKechnie, Toronto, is visiting her mother.

There have been concerts and concerts here, but none just exactly like the Public Library concert to be held in Pinkle's Hall on Friday evening, next. Those who have been present at all that have never been heard in the village before. Some of the gems of the programme, "Pass out of Water" is a funny one as the whole audience were engaged as a cook and a cook as secret agents, "Mr. Bones" and his wonderful new stunts, and there is no end of fun before the curtain is unrolled. Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets for Women
Make Healthy Women.

Upon being taken into the stomach, the various ingredients are absorbed by the blood, and then find their way to every organ and tissue.

Some reach the uterine system. These allay inflammation, stop all drains on the system and make women regular.

Some strengthen the stomach. They help digestion and increase the appetite.

Others act on the bowels. They cure constipation.

Other ingredients stimulate the liver and kidneys in carrying off impurities from the system.

Others reach the nerves. These tone up the nervous system and supply vital energy, thereby curing the nervousness, irritability, and melancholy, to which so many women are subject.

The full effect of all the medicaments in the tablets is to arouse the entire female system to renewed life and vigor.

Improvement is noticed the first week.

OF INTEREST TO SCHOOL TEACHERS.

An Important Announcement Made to the Regulations.

An important announcement has been made from Toronto in regard to the senior teachers' examinations, for present these are divided into two parts, with a total of twelve papers. Public school teachers with second class certificates must pass at least one while they are teaching, because they would not need to go to high school to prepare. In order to remove this difficulty as far as possible and to encourage such teachers to prepare for a higher grade certificate, and in justice to those who want to make public school teaching their life work, it has been decided to divide the work into four parts, and to arrange that candidates who obtained junior leaving standing not later than 1900 may obtain a course of English literature for 1907, 1908 and 1909, which course they have elected to study. Candidates will not take Latin when qualifying. Candidates who did not have both and others who did, and have been teaching for the last five years, have gotten most of their Latin.

The change has been decided upon after a conference held in Toronto on representative deputation from the public school section of the Ontario Educational Association.

Plant quickly and positively cured with Dr. Agnew's Ointment. It's the remedy for Piles alone—and it does the work surely and with satisfaction. Itching, painful, protruding or blind piles disappear like magic. Relief is instant. Large, nickel capped brass box, 50 cents. Sold and recommended by D. Wallace. 403

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

AMHERST ISLAND FAIR.

The annual fall fair of the Amherst Island Agricultural Society was held on Tuesday, Oct. 2d, at Stella. The weather being all that could possibly be wished for. Considering the fact that the islanders are greatly handicapped in not having direct access from the centres were very creditable.

The exhibit of horses was fine, and a large number of entries as well. Grain cattle were there in abundance, but thoroughbred cattle were rather scarce. Sheep are not very numerous on the island, but the exhibit was splendid in quality. The other classes were well filled.

ADJOURNED INQUEST.

Coroner Cowan continued the inquest at Frankford on and it was again adjourned until Wednesday evening at the same hour. The first mentioned investigation David Young, of Thurlow, was charged with stating that he was three car lengths on the tramp line when the accident occurred and had not reached the ground after jumping off the car platform. A question was asked him by the jury as to how long a distance that was and he replied thirteen hours. Mr. Young's counsel objected to him as to whether it was his wish to be sworn and he answered that it was not.

Conductor U. Empey, of the eastbound express, was next examined. He said he was twenty minutes late leaving Belleville, and had no other information more than his engineer gave him. He was awake when the engineer applied the air brakes, and was about ten seconds after the brake was applied when the steam shut off that did crush cans. He was running close to forty miles an hour on descending the hill.

Mr. Miron, fireman of express No. 2, east bound, related the following: No. 2 was running about forty miles an hour. The explanation he had of trouble was the three cars which jumped the track, which indicates trouble. He felt, or as he put it, rested off the platform, but was not seriously hurt only slunned. Mr. Pope and Mr. Coyle, of Frankford, from Montreal, were present, and gave detailed evidence of the length of the siding and length of the train showing that there was ample room on this siding and twenty-four inches to spare, also accommodating the fifty-three cars, with an allowance of 150 feet on both ends.

Does Your Stomach Bother You?

Dr. Shoop's Restorative Cures All Distressing Stomach Troubles Through the Inside Nerves.

As you value your health and happiness don't neglect to care for the slightest symptom of stomach ills. At the first sign of distress use Dr. Shoop's Restorative and end all these troubles. These aches are signals—they are messages of cosmic disharmony in the nerves you ought to know. You never can be really happy, well and strong if you have a sick stomach. You never can have perfect health and a sense of fullness, followed by a period of lassitude or drowsiness—bewaring. Neglect these conditions and you surely invite distressing indigestion—you'll become a nailing, miserable dyspeptic. Do you experience any of these symptoms—distressing, eating, rumbling of food, sour risings, belching, gnawing at the pit of stom ach, or flatulent fullness of gas, ignore the warning, for a dull pain in the head, nausea, biliousness, heartburn, sleeplessness, or nervous irritability in other words, you've got Stomach Trouble in other words, your digestion is out of order. Now, there is but one way to get well, and that is to set at once to work to restore the stomach to normal health and strength. Don't make the mistake of doctoring your effects instead of the cause. Does Your Heart Beat

Yes. 100,000 times each day. Does it send our good blood or bad blood? You know, for good blood is good health; bad blood, bad health. And you know precisely what to take for bad blood—Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Doctors have endorsed it for 60 years.

One frequent cause of bad blood is sluggish liver. This produces constipation. Poisonous substances are then absorbed into the blood. Keep the bowels open with Ayer's Pills.

VENERABLE GUESTS.

Mr. Jacob S. Foster, of Northport, on September 20th entertained at dinner and till the following morning five guests who had combined ages amounted to 402 years. One of the ladies, Mrs. Richard Wagar, was a very interesting string of glass and gems. She had on her dress 100 years. Usually for the past seventy years and which were and her mother by her great grandmother, Mary Brown, wife of Richard Wagar, niece of the American General, David Wooster, who fell at the battle of Danbury. Mr. Foster entertained Warden McD. Bogart, and wife, of Lennox and Addington, for the 16th following; Mr. Foster is the son of the late Isaac Huffman, who is in his 87th year, all of the town ship of Richmond, Carleton county, also during the week from Monday, September 24 to September 29, we guess that were over 80 years on, not counting those of this county.

The Rev. Edward A. Horton of Boston told this story at a recent banquet of the Advertising and Honorable Article Company:—

"Hannah went marketing in Pawtucket Hill," said the minister. "She stopped before a stall where were displayed fowl so aged as to seem almost antediluvian.

"What do you sell those for?" inquired Hannah, wondering if the old rooster would dare call them chickens.

"Them's usually sell them for profits, ma'am," was the cool response.

"Land sakes alive, woman!" thought they were patriarchs."

HINTS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

In washing cotton goods, to remove grease, set by dissolving three gills of salt in four quarts of the water used. Let the articles stand in the water all cold. In this way the colors will not fade. Those garments should be rinsed on the wrong side; this gives so much reward to the colors of prints, etc. Use nothing that will impart color, as that is to be avoided.

Another way to wash delicately-colored calico and muslins is to dissolve two quarts of wheat bran an hour and a half before using, and then use in place of soap. Wash as usual and rinse twice in cold water.

There are few houses that are not familiar with some of the numerous uses of turpentine, and as its odor is clean and wholesome, it has the advantage over the many remedies whose odors are offensive.

Furniture and soap will remove ink stains from marble.

A few drops added to the water in which clothes are boiled will whiten them.

It will ex erminate cockroaches if sprinkled in their haunts.

Moths will leave if it is sprinkled about in their haunts.

Pitch, wheel grease, and tar stains can be quickly removed if the spot is first covered with lard, then soaked with turpentine and washed in cold soap suds. Surface dirt, sponge clean with turpentine and rub gently till dry.

A few drops of turpentine on a woolen cloth will destroy the moth in a very short time.

Clean gilt frames with a sponge moistened with turpentine.

Chairs and cushions tainted and the colors restored by going over occasionally with a brush dipped into warm water in which has been added a little turpentine.

An equal mixture of turpentine and linseed will remove white marks on furniture caused by water.

Clean out closets and bureaus with strong turpentine water. It is a good preventive against moths.

For cramps apply cloths wrung out of hot turpentine water.

When threatened with pneumonia rub the lungs with turpentine and apply hot flannels.

Powder should never be used to clean rough or chased brass. Wash the articles well first and dry them. Then rub over the surface with half a freshly cut lemon. When quite clean rinse thoroughly in warm water, let it dry and polish with a chamois leather.

WASHING MACHINES.

A number of leading kinds to choose from. Sold on approval.

TREAT OR NOT TREAT?

Mr. W. K. McNaught, M.P.P., in his annual report, would prevent the sale or supply of any malt or spirituous liquor in any hotel at another pays. He excepts the cases where a person attends a funeral or takes a meal other meals. The penalty is a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $100, or, in default, one year's imprisonment, or both, for each offence. Anyone apparently in charge of hotels will be liable, as will all others attending at the bar-room, as well as the treater and the treated. No licenses will be granted, if the bill passes, to display large type notices of the act in every public part of their hotels, and ignorance will not be accepted as a plea.

TOO SENSITIVE

One great source of unhappiness is an extremely sensitive nature. If people would only learn that they may be pleased up almost at every point in life, there will be constant joy and unhappiness. Do not accustom yourself to look for injuries, slights, acts of disrespect. In nine cases out of ten you will be mistaken. Trifles light as air will be magnified into importance by noting when, ordinarily, they would pass by, or only remember with extreme selfishness. If indulged in, it tends to a sore and semi-insanity, as one who is in perpetual fear that some one seeks to do him injury. If you have the slightest suspicion or evidence of having fallen into this deplorable condition, apply the remedy at once. Look away from yourself, think of the work to be done, see the needs of your fellowmen. Go about doing good, and forget yourself. In this way you will enhance your own happiness, increase the respect and others for you, and win the favor of God.—Christian Herald.

THE PERILS OF MARRIAGE.

From the Birmingham Daily Post.

"I married a widow, who had a grown-up daughter, my father visited our house very often, fell in love with my step-daughter, and married her; so my father became my son-in-law and my daughter my mother, because she was my father's wife. Some time after my wife had a son. He was my father's brother by virtue of the fact that he was my step-mother. He was also my father's grandson, for father's wife, i.e., my step-daughter, had given birth to a son. He was, moreover, also my grandchild, for the children of my children are my grandchildren. My wife was my grandmother, because she was my father's mother. So I am at the same time the husband, father, grandchild of my wife, and as the husband of a person's grandmother is his grandfather, I become my own grandfather.

Because The Beaver has a sworn average circulation of 5,400 copies each week.

Because the territory it covers is a wealthy farming community.

Because you cannot cover the County of Lennox and Addington half as well with any other newspaper.

Because an adv. in the want column brings good results.

Because the "Farm for Sale" column is a special feature of The Beaver.

J. W. PATTERSON.

PRESSURE ON THE SON.

From the Weekly Telegraph.

While Archbishop French was dean of Westminster, he delegated Canon Duncan to preach at the abbey on a certain saint's day. On such days the boys of Westminster school attended service and afterward had the rest of the day as a holiday. While Mr. Curston, on the morning of the day he was to officiate, was looking over the sermon at the breakfast table, his son asked, in a tone verging on pathos, lately, "Father, is yours a long sermon to-day?"

"No, Jimmy, not very."

"But how long? Please tell me."

"Well, about twenty minutes, I should say. But why are you so anxious to know?"

"Because, father, the boys say they will thrash any fellow if you are more than half an hour."

WRONG WAYS OF SAVING.

Don't save money by—

Using cheap soap. You will ruin your complexion and have to buy cold cream if you do.

Sewing in the dusk. Gaslight is cheaper than oculists' bills.

Wearing thin clothing. Flannel is cheaper and better than medicine.

Going without luncheon. You will injure your health and digestion if you do.

Walking when over-tired to avoid car fares. You lose in money but unknown to your constitution.

Overworking. Nobody thanks you. You will be cross and irritable and your husband will wish you were not so zealous.

Call Oil Heaters, Gas Heaters, Lanterns, Lamps, Glass, Coal Oil Stoves, or anything but the best at BOYLE & SON'S.

Napanee's Greatest Store

NOW FOR—

A One Week Sale

Of Carpets and House Furnishings, Starting Monday Morning, Oct. 8th, Ending Oct. 13th.

Come to us Monday morning, Oct. 8th, at nine o'clock, and we can show you any of the following bargains, that are real money savers for all who need Carpets and House Furnishings. We have aimed at making the range of bargains so large that there will be something at least for all sized purses and all depths of pockets. The same prices and discounts hold good for all the week as long as goods advertised hold out. Honestly there isn't any nonsense about this sale. It means just what it says. And it comes at the very best time in fall season to suit the greatest number. Bring along your measurements as early in week as you can. If you are not just ready to take advantage of this sale we will be pleased to lay aside anything you wish by making a small deposit. In no recent year have good carpets been offered so much under price at the very start of a season. Full rolls of many sorts, full and plenty.

Here is the list of specials in detail:

ENGLISH 5 FRAME BRUSSELS, $1.25 for 98c. An English maker substituted a pattern ordered for another. We made a claim, got it. You may have the benefit of his error if you need Brussels carpet. Design is "a one." Colors two tones, fawn with dark wine. 100 yds body, 50 yds border. Regular marked price, 1.25, sale price, 98c yd. Made without extra charge.

HEAVY ENGLISH VELVET, 1.25 for 95c. About one hundred yards body and fifty border. Colors in dark green ground with floral design in rose and cream. Quality is that extra heavy rich looking, such as you only get in the English Velvets. Our regular marked price is 1.25, sale price 95c. Made ready for you without charge.

We handle only guaranteed standard makes, the sorts that endure. A store pretending to sell cheaper would be offering irregular and unknown makes, as a rule "skimped" in material.

VELVET BODY ONLY 1.25 for 95c. We have about 30 yds fawn ground, pineapple design, and about 35 yds green and fawn. Borders are sold out. Call them remnants if you like, but they are long ones. Regular marked regular price, 1.25, sale price 95c. Made without charge by an expert hand sewer.

THE GENUINE REGISTERED BALMORAL 95c for 78c. These genuine registered Balmorals will equal in wear any regular dollar carpet made to-day. For this sale we will let go two different setts, body and border to match, one a green and the other tan shades, about 270 yards in all. Sale price, 78c. Bring your measure and we will make rug for nothing.

We believe that we have right here in our four carpet rooms to-day more floor coverings than you will find in any other store the size of Napanee, in Canada. Think how poorly a person is served who goes to a store showing only a limited variety.

HEAVY BRUSSELS, 1.25 for 1.00. Just enough to make a rug about 3 1-2 x 4 1-4 yds. Block with border to match. Crushed butternut shade with crysanthemum floral design. Making free Present marked price, 1.25. Sale price, 1.00 yd.

GOOD TAPESTRY 30c yd. You cannot afford to worry with rag carpets when this sale price gives you a chance to get 100 yards, olive, green and terra cotta Tapestry, regular mar ked price 55c for 30c yd.

Government Inspectors' report this week shows seventy four on our staff. Can you think of a town store in Canada with as many? Guess not!

GOOD TAPESTRY 42 1-2c for 30c. For the purpose of this sale about 65 yds. of a fawn ground Tapestry will receive cut in price from regular 42 1-2c to 30c yard.

INGRAIN 42 1-2c for 34c. About 75 yards each of two patterns. Pre sent price 42 1-2c, sale price 34c yd.

ALL REMNANTS SALE PRICED. All the remnants have been measured up and price marked in figures. We want them out of the way. We've made the price worth your while to buy.

ALL JAPANESE MATTINGS 25 per cent. off. During this sale we will allow the unusual discount of 25 per cent. off all Japanese Mattings. Even if you did not need for six months you would be ahead of the game, for all 40c kinds will be 30c, 30c for 22 1-2c, 25c for 18 3-4c, 20c for 15c, 15c for 11 1-4c, 12 1-2c for 10c.

FRINGED JUTE MATS 16c. During this sale we will sell a Fringed Jute Matt. 18x30 inches, sale price, 10 cts. each. They will help keep mud out of the house.

ALL TAPESTRY AND CHENILLE CURTAINS 15 per cent. off. Every Tapestry and Chenille Curtain in the house will be subject to a sale price discount of 15 per cent off.

ALL CURTAIN MATERIALS by the yard, 15 per cent. off. By that we mean such lines in carpet section as colored madras, all white sash and panel nets, bobbinets, coin spot muslins, lace edge scrims, swiss nets.

ALL LACE CURTAINS, Sale Week, 10 per cent. off. We don't think we ever started a fall season with a nicer stock of Lace Curtains. There is scarcely a number that can be repeated at pre ent price, and right in the face of that we will for the good of this sale allow 10 per cent. off all Lace Curtains.

ENGLISH OIL CLOTH, 4 yds. wide, 98c yd. This is a thoroughly seasoned, hard finished, bright, glossy, English Oil Cloth, sold regularly by us and good value at 85c yd., sale price 98c square yard. Remember four yards wide.

WINDOW SHADES and POLE TRIMMINGS 10 per cent. off. Altho we handle these lines in regular way, exceedingly close, they too will be subject to a trade discount of 10 per cent.

ABOUT 36 WINDOW SHADES 58c for 39c. As an extra special for sale week we will sell a regular lace trimmed blind, our regular 50c quality, green shade, sale price, 39c each. Brackets and pulls complete.

The above are reckless prices for Carpets and Housefurnishings to early in season, but if you are satisfied, we will be. There is almost as much newness this season in carpets, etc., as there is in Women's dress. We invite all to see.

NEWS FROM THE FUR DEPARTMENT.

In selecting our Fur stock for the present season we would have our customers know that it takes us from seven to eight months to get together a stock to suit our requirements. Our stock this season is by far the largest we have ever shown, and we have taken more than ordinary precautions in its selection. From past experience we find that in buying and selecting a fur stock, we have to use every precaution to protect ourselves and our customers from being defrauded.

We have tried to combine quality and style in our fur garments at the least possible cost to our customers, and we know you agree with us, that we have succeeded in a very successful manner. The unbreaking September sales were by far the largest we ever experienced, and good buyers are getting onto the fact that it pays to buy early, when the range is complete. We would strongly urge our friends to make their selections now, and we will keep them until such time as you need them.

Saturday is always a busy day, and where it is convenient we would advise our customers to call on some other day, as we like to be at our best to show them to advantage as they should be seen.

Just to give you an idea of the extensive range we are showing, let us mention the following lines:

Ladies' Furs—Ruffs, Stoles and Scarfs are shown in an endless variety of shapes, made from Alaska Sable, Coon Sable, Jap. Martin, Lynx, American Opposum, Isabella Fox, Marmot, and Mink. Prices from $4.00 to $65.00.

—At the adjourned inquest into the death of Engineer Blain, on Wednesday night, William Light was sworn, as to the length of the siding. He knew that he measured it with a steel tape and allowed 150 feet at both ends and found only 2,000 feet on the siding, whereas Mr. Coyle's evidence at the former meeting was the length of the train of fifty-three cars as 2,016 feet. In view of this difference, H. M. Deroche, K.C., who is watching the case for the crew, thought best to adjourn the inquest so as to have the G.T.R. officials present if they wished to cross-question the witnesses. The inquest was then adjourned until next Wednesday evening, 10th Oct.

GRAND CONCERT.

A sacred concert will be given in the Presbyterian Church, Napanee, on Tuesday, 9th Oct., under the auspices of the choir. KEARNS—McKEOWN.

On Tuesday morning, Sept. 18th, a very pretty wedding was solemnized at the Church of the Assumption, Erinsville, when Miss Cicely Ann Kearns, eldest daughter of Mr. John Kearns, was united in marriage to Mr. Joseph McKeown, of Erinsville. A large number of friends and relatives of the contracting parties were present to witness the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Father Carey. The bride, carrying a large bouquet of white roses and ferns, looked very charming in a simple and effective gown of ivory Liberty silk, the deep shirred flounce of the skirt, white yoke bodice was made with a deep yoke of valenciennes insertion, the sleeves ended to the elbow and edged with lace. The bridesmaid, Miss Katie McKeown, sister of the groom, wore a gown of white organdy, and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. Mr. James Kearns, brother of the bride ably performed the duties of groomsman. After the ceremony the contracting party, with about one hundred and fifty guests, repaired to the residence of the bride's parents, where a sumptuous wedding repast was partaken of. The house was beautifully decorated with ferns and sweet peas, and a very pleasant time was spent by all present during both day and evening. Before being the recipient of a beautiful array of cut glass, silver, china and other costly presents, the bride also received the handsome sum of fifty dollars, twenty of which was given by the bride's parents, and ten by the groom, all of which greatly testify to the esteem in which she was held. In a few weeks Mr. and Mrs. McKeown will depart to take up their residence near Belleville.

BATH.

Quite a number of our citizens went to Stella fair and they report it as being a very successful one.

Mr. Thos. Barrage, lately in the employ of Mr. W. W. Redden, butcher, has left Mr. Redden and has established a butcher shop on Main st., near the town hall.

The village is to be improved and beautified by the opening of a branch of the Crown bank in our midst. The bank will occupy the building where the Bath library was, the library being moved into the corner store formerly occupied by M. H. Covert. Mr. Covert has moved into Mr. Topliff's store. The bank expect to move here next week.

Miss G. Reynolds, who has been visiting friends in Muskoka for the past month, has returned to the village.

THREE GOOD DEEDS.

"My good man," said the professor of psychology, "you seem to be happy. Would you mind telling me the reason for your happiness?"

"O' wot not, sor," said the Irishman. "I bor just done three good deeds, and any man who has performed three good deeds has reason to be happy."

"Indeed he has," said the professor, "and may I ask what three good deeds you have performed?"

"Well, sir, O' was comin' past the cu'hadral this morning, I saw a little man what was for killin' a little bird, crying that hard it would split me heart in two, so I shlapped him so he could lie the smither. She answered that for the want of three dollars to pay the fees she could not get the child baptized, an' I felt that had for her I pulled out the only tin dollars I had, and tould her to go and get the child baptized and bring me the change. She went inside an' came out soon returned wid her face all smiles, for, says she, 'Mary, sure, we will be baptin' bless'n's on my head. How's that good enough for you?'

"That's good," said the professor; "now what were the others?"

"Others?" said the Irishman; "that is all."

I understood you to say you had performed three good deeds. Only two, as I can see. I did, don't you see? I dried a widow's tears—that's wan; I saved a soul from purgatory—that's two; and lastly, I got sivin good dollars for a bad lin, and if that would not make you happy thin you are hard to please."—Lippincott's Magazine.

THE VALUE OF RETIREMENT

Far Away From the Ordinary Haunts of Men the Weary Can Get Away For a Little While From the Selfishnesses and the Meannesses and the Sordidness Surrounding Us—An Inspiring Nature Sermon.

Entered according to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1906, by Frederick Fliver, Toronto, at the Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 22.—In this sermon the preacher finds a lesson amid the mountain peaks and valleys, the breeding places of storm and tempest. From a text in Exodus, xx., 1, "I answered thee in the secret place of thunder."

I wonder where the sweet singer of Israel caught his inspiration for his text? Was he herding his sheep one day in the valley or the lowlands, where the shepherds, a thousand years later, watched their flocks by night and heard the angel of the nativity say, "Fear not, for behold I bring you tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people, for unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour which is Christ the Lord?" While he was sitting upon a rock in the fields did he not look up and see the storm clouds gathering over the surrounding hills? Then away off in the distance did he hear the mutterings of the thunder and while the valleys remained dry did he see the rain falling in torrents upon the mountain heights? Then did he see a beautiful rainbow in a great arch lift itself above those mountain tops? And then did he remember the words which God spake unto Noah a thousand years before the Psalmist was born, "I do set my bow in the clouds, and it shall be for a token of a covenant between me and the earth, and I will remember my covenant which is between me and you and every living creature of all flesh, and the waters shall no more become a flood to destroy all flesh?" Then when David saw the rainbow and witnessed the storm clouds disappear did he feel that God was his protector and never failing friend. Was he filled with the divine peace which passeth all understanding?

Or it may be different scenes that suggested to the sweet singer of Israel the image of my text. Perhaps it was on a day when one of his sheep went astray. He counted the flock over and over again, and he found that one was surely lost. So he started up the mountain side to hunt it. Higher and higher he went. He plunged through this thicket and that. Then at last he found it. But in the meantime the night settled in. Then the stars of the heavens were shut out by the dark clouds. Then the thunder began to growl. Then, with his bleating sheep following close at his heels, he saw the lightning flash and shatter a huge tree just a short distance off. Then he said: "Oh, that mount has been the way God's voice responded to Moses when he spoke to him among the caverns and the deep ravines of Mount Sinai. This is truly one of the secret places of thunder." I personally believe that the Psalmist did not catch the meaning of my text when he was tending his sheep down in the valleys, but when he was hunting for a lost lamb in one of the secret places of thunder, upon one of the highest peaks of the Judean mountains overlooking the little village of Bethlehem, where he was born and where his family at that time dwelt.

We do not know what were the scenes that caused these words to spring from the lips of the ancient poet, but since his time the child of God has often been reminded of them in times of trouble and crisis. It is well to know that there are secret places in which God's voice may be heard by the discouraged soul. There are times when the heart of the faithful is depressed by the voices wrangling around him; when his ears are filled with the loud babble of the world's disputings, with the fierce cries of contention, with the silly utterances of society's frivolity, with the vain and foolish sophistry of modern philosophers proclaiming that there is no God. Then happy is he if he can retire into his closet or some other secret place and hear the voice of God answering his perturbed spirit in thunder tones.

The words suggest that God's secret places of thunder are far away from the ordinary haunts of man. They are so far away that if the child of God is at least we can get away from the selfishnesses and meannesses and sordidness surrounding us. We can live upon a higher plane. We can be, as I was some time ago, when I climbed the San Bernadino mountains to camp in the noted Little Bear Valley of southern California. After we had gone up 1,000, 2,000, 3,000, 4,000, 5,000 feet suddenly we came to the summit. There we were able to stand upon the rocks and with sweep of eye take in the hot plains dotted with cities and villages and ranches. There we could see where men and women were toiling and struggling in the work of everyday life, but we were above them all and above their turmoil. We were in the land of peace. We were so far away that the mists began to gather they shut out the whole world beneath us. These mists looked like a great sea, with the sun and there a mountain peak pushing itself up, reminding us of the world beneath us as the Azores rising above the Atlantic remind us of the continent of Atlantis sunk beneath the waves. It was a strange experience—that of withdrawal from the world and all its contentions. Down there in the valley are our vision is clouded and our spirits warped by the world's principles and maxims, so climb beyond it to reach into the upper air of God's presence, where in the secret place of thunder we may hear his voice. Thus in order to reach God's secret place of thunder we must get out of the world. We must lift ourselves above its meannesses and sins. We must lift ourselves from earth and walk with God and commune with God upon the mountain tops of love and gentleness and kindness. We must learn upon these mountain tops of spirituality to breathe the pure air of the purposes for which we were born and for which we can live through all eternity.

My friends, I would like to ask you a blunt question: Have you ever tried to seek God far away from the haunts of man? Have you ever tried to commune with God in the secret places of the thunder? In order to do this you do not have to climb the Matterhorn or Mount Shasta or Mount Rainier or Baldy Peak of New Mexico. You do not have to leave the city even to withdraw yourself to the hills and listen to the songs of the thrushes and the woodings of the brooks. A man can live in the city and yet not be in the city. We should do so if we were really absorbed in spiritual things. Years ago Prof. Curie, the great discoverer of the element radium, was walking through the streets of Paris while his mind so concentrated upon his scientific problems that he was utterly unconscious of his surroundings. Then when a heavy truck rumbled down the street his ears were dead to the noise and to the warning calls of the driver, and he was crushed to death in an instant, as the car of the Psalmist suggests that would crush out the lives of the devotees who flung themselves under the wheels of Juggernaut. My friends, many times during the week do you withdraw yourselves from man to communune with God? How many times do you seek him in prayer and in holy communion? How many times a week do you get away from your surroundings, let us go and talk with God for a little while in the secret places of thunder, as the Jews talked with him upon Sinai's heights?

But I find that God's secret places of thunder are not upon the mountain tops of difficulties, as well as in the quiet places removed from the ordinary habitations of man. They are to be found not only among the steep heights where the eagles build their eyries and where only the most persistent of rock climbers is willing to go. Do you suppose for one instant that the Psalmist had an easy time finding his lost sheep in the secret place of the thunder? Nay, nay, verily nay. He and his faithful shepherds at first went forth with him to hunt the lost sheep. David said to them: "Let us climb this hill and go down the valley in this direction, and I will travel in that direction. You keep a sharp lookout for the lost sheep, and we shall meet at the foot of yonder hills. Then if we do not find the sheep in the valley, why, we will meet and look in the hills." Thus they do, and the lost sheep is not found. Then up the rocks they begin to climb and higher and higher. Now the darkness settles. Now is heard the blood curdling scream of the wildcat. Now comes the roar of the mountain lion hunting his prey. They flash on their flesh is lacerated. Their clothing is torn. They are weary. They fall. Now they have to go over a narrow ledge by which to get a steep precipice. Ephraim grows tired. He trembles with fear. He says: "David, I am going back." David goes on and on and that lost sheep. She has either been dashed to death upon the rocks or else she has been eaten by one of the wildcats. But David keeps on. He keeps on climbing and slipping, but higher and higher he goes, as he calls: "Here comes Oh, lost sheep, Yoohee! Yoohee!" At last—yes, at last, he finds her in the secret place of the thunder.

Ah, yes; the secret place of the thunder is always to be found upon the mountain tops of difficulty. It is no easy matter to be a real Christian. It is no small task to listen to the voice of God in the secret place of thunder and hear aright and obey aright. My friends, the great trouble is with most of us is we want to be Christians, but we want to be low valley Christians. We want to be Christians not of the crags and cliffs, but of the low meadows and the harvest fields and of the flowery gardens. We want to be the lazy Christians, lying upon beds of ease, where the bees will bring to us their honey and the sun will upon us with a continual benediction, and the tossing, tumbling fountains will stake our thirst, and where the birds will not cease to sing for us their sweetest lullabies. Ah, no, that is not where we will hear God's voice. We must be up in the secret place of the thunder, It is not in the lowlands, but upon the mountain tops. It is here that we lie down upon a bed of roses and close our eyes in indolent somnolence, but only upon the mountain heights of difficulty to scale which we will have to do as Paul did when he described himself, in the twelfth chapter of Hebrews, as running a gospel race: "Wherefore seeing we are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight and the sin which doth beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us." When you read those words, dare you for one moment assume that Paul had an easy time when he gave himself up for consecrated service to Jesus Christ?

It is only when we are able to press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus that we are able to hear the voice of God. It is only when we are willing to climb the highest mountains of difficulty that we are able to hear God speaking to us in tones of love as he spoke to Moses in the secret places of thunder. There is a beautiful story told about in olden times a heathen king lay dying. His was mortally wounded on the field of battle. No surgeon did he receive the fatal thrust that he sent for his most trusted servant and said, "Bring the dead that I come." At once the servant drew the king's sword and drove it into his own breast, and as his spirit was about to speed away the servant said, "Master, I will go and tell the dead that thou wilt soon be in their midst." "Oh," you say, "that was a beautiful devotion. That servant was willing to give up all for his king." So must we sacrifice if we are to hear our divine king speak to us in the secret place of thunder. We must be willing to give up all for him. We must be ready to climb every mountain of difficulty for his honor and glory. "So likewise whosoever he be of you that forsaketh not all that he hath he cannot be my disciple."

But how shall we be willing to forsake all for God's glory and honor? You say: "That is not in my nature to do. A man cannot rise above his own nature. He may try to do so, but if a man is born with the instincts of a coyote sneaking and deceptive he will be no matter how hard he may fight against that disposition. If he is born selfish he will be selfish. If he is born generous he will be generous." "I was born selfish," he says, "and I do not want to give up all for God's glory and honor. I want a little of the glory of God to abide by my own doorstep and not all to be placed at the throne of God." Ah, my friend, I am glad you mentioned that fact. You have spoken well. With your own nature born in you you cannot give up all for Christ. But remember this—when you get to God's secret place of thunder you are going to have your whole nature changed. You are not going to be as you are now. You are going to have your sinful nature recreated by Christ. You have mentioned that fact. You have spoken well. With your own nature born in you you cannot give up all for Christ. But remember this—when you get to God's secret place of thunder you are going to have your whole nature changed. You are not going to be as you are now. You are going to have your sinful nature recreated by Christ. You have you love now you will hate then. What you hate now you will love then. You will not then be a wolf going around in sheep's wool. Your lionlike nature will be changed into the loving nature of the lamb. Let me find this fact-in the simile of my text.

The Psalmist in all probability cared but little for the scientific causes of the thunderstorm. In his time the national and international mysterious weather bureaus had not been established. There were not then, as now, weather outposts or observatories established all around the world connected with telegraph wires. In our day no sooner does a storm start south from Alaska than the great ganglion or nerve centre at Washington is made cognizant of the fact, and the danger signals are lifted along the coast to warn American shipping. In all probability David knew nothing about the different strata of air overhead. He did not know that, just as the scientist to-day drops a fish hook into the ocean and finds different currents of water in a straight line flowing above or underneath each other in different directions, so the aeronaut in his balloon finds different currents of air in the atmosphere overhead blowing in different directions. But this one fact the Psalmist knew about a thunderstorm — it represented an atmospheric change. Before the storm came the hot valleys would be stifling. Then all nature began to yearn and to smile and to hum and to sing with life. So in the secret place of thunder, when God speaks to us, our natures will be changed. Being sinful, we shall become pure. Being naturally crooked, we shall become straight. Being spiritually dead, we shall become spiritually regenerated. Though our sins be as scarlet they shall be white as snow. Though they be red like crimson they shall be as wool.

But in the secret place of thunder man is not only brought into right harmony with God, but also into right harmony with man. There we are taught to love the Lord our God with all our heart and soul and mind. But we are also taught there to love our neighbor as ourselves. And in no place on earth does a man try more to help his neighbor than when he is in the mountains. The valleys are the places where man too often lives for himself. The wild mountains are the places where man lives for others. If you are in trouble in the high hills you can always go to the first man you meet and he will help you out of your difficulty if it is possible for him so to do. There everybody is honest. There everybody tries to help every other.

But there is still another fact about these mountains that I would like you bear well in mind. God's secret place of thunder is not circumscribed. There are many secret places of thunder. Just as mountains seem to overtop mountains, so for man there should always be higher secret places of thunder, to which he should always be striving to go. This fact also is most beautifully illustrated among the hills. But the Christian who stays in one secret place of thunder must surely die in a spiritual sense. Higher than his present spiritual life he must see visions. God keeps saying to him always this one sentence: "Child, climb, keep climbing higher and higher into the spiritual realms. Way off among the cloudlands of the mountains I have for these other secret places of thunder, where thou canst commune with me. Thou must climb and keep on climbing and never be satisfied to dwell with me in the eternal secret places of heaven." As one of God's chosen ones are you continuing to climb higher and higher into his spiritual realms?

And oh, how beautiful the valleys look after we have dwelt for a little while among the hills. A man as a rule cannot appreciate the lowlands and the valleys when he is climbing up the mountain sides. Then his breast comes quick and short. Then he, like Bunyan's hero, Christian, is tugging at his load. He stops every little while to put his mouth to the waters to quench his thirst, for his lips are feverish and his brow is an overheated forehead. But after he has climbed the mountains and rested his tired limbs among the cool shades of the trees and slept for a little while upon the softest of couches made up of pine needles, everything is changed. Then when he starts down into the valleys the world looks so different. Every brook sings to him. Every tree rustles with gladness. Every step seems buoyant with perpetual youth. A supernatural strength and a supernatural joy are his.

Oh, tired and weary soul, working in life's lowlands, would you enjoy your life? Would you feel that every deed that you do is a joyful deed of gospel consecration? Then go up into the secret place of thunder and hear the deep valleys of selfishness. Climb. Keep on climbing above the mists of sin and above the murder and listen to God's voice talking to you. Then God will send you back to your work strengthened in a physical, mental and spiritual sense. Then he will make you say, "Next to the blessedness of singing the song of Moses and the Lamb before the great white throne of God is the blessedness of coming for him to his vineyards in the lowlands of earth."

O God, may we hear thee speaking to us to-day in the secret places of thunder, that we may go forth as joyful reapers to gather thy sheaves from the great harvest fields of the world into the gospel granaries. Dost thou not hear God speaking to thee in the secret place of thunder?

FISH AND GAME PROTECTION.

From Hardware and Metal, Toronto.

A valuable and public spirited work is being done for all sections of the community by the Ontario Fish and Game Protective Association, of which Sir. A. Kelly Evans, of Toronto, is founder and secretary. The hardware and grocery trades, however, the work is of particular interest, and where local associations are formed merchants can well afford to help along the movement to the extent of active membership at least. The platform of the association deals with many important interests and is worthy of considerable study.

(a) That game, fish and game, through the attraction they form to tourists are a most valuable financial asset to the province and that therefore their protection should be encouraged.

(b) That the food fish in our waters should be conserved and regulated for the good of the masses of the people and not wasted or used for the benefit of one small class of the community.

(c) That certain game birds and song and insectivorous birds are enormously valuable friend to the farmer in destroying harmful insects, weed seeds, rodents, etc., and the lack of knowledge by the public as such subjects should be combatted steadily.

(d) That the wild lands of the province suitable to game and the waters suitable to game fish should be ever kept the property of the public and that the association must always endeavor to prevent the acquisition by individuals or groups of individuals of large tracts of territory for the purpose of forming private game preserves.

(e) That the association should have no connection with politics or any political party.

Canada is favored in having splendid hunting grounds and fishing waters, and by wise regulation the supply of game and fish can be kept and the tourist trade developed to a much greater extent than at present. In this tourist trade there is profit not only for the supply merchants in larger cities, but also for the local merchants in the lake districts. One Toronto grocery firm has an attractive catalogue and makes a large annual business with sportsmen. There are ready to hand many other lines of business which could be developed and extended with profit to the dealers and benefit to the community. The development and organization of fish and game means an increased supply of game and fish which in many remote districts where sport is most found. This means an increased consumption of canned goods, ammunition and other supplies, as well as additional hardware for the cabins and cottages erected. Extra help will be required to erect these buildings and manufacture and supply the goods. Room for use in the rivers and lakes above the farmers' mill dams will be provided for the products of the farms and factories.

The development of the taking of food fish in our lakes by fishermen is another of the many interesting and interesting possibilities, and the association does well by taking up such protective wing commercial fish and game. The association must work in the possible pointing out the dangers of destroying such valuable assets to mankind, and the information given on this subject by our publications might be extended considerably to the benefit of the fish and game and the interests.

In declaring for non-political action and in favor of conserving the public good part of which belongs to the people, the association will be more likely to get bring used by political wire-pullers, in addition to maintaining a high standard it will gain appreciation of all citizens desiring to see fish and game laws well and fairly enforced, a prospect upon which to enjoy life to the fullest on the world's map.

SALT TO LAY DUST.

From the London "Globe."

Salt is the latest device for laying dust on roads in the country. The author of this new departure is M. Trinitas, city surveyor of Rouen, who has published it as the result of a long series of experiments. The list of the whole bringing out the west side of the new system, possesses considerable interest as showing it to possess real possibilities of utility. A long stretch of road was first watered and then sprinkled with salt. The next day the surface of the road was covered with a thin glazed crust. Rain removed this in parts, but where the crust remained there was no dust for five days.

FIFTY YEARS OF SUNDAY SCHOOL PROGRESS.

The initial steps looking to the beginning of Interdenominational Sunday School work in Canada were taken in 1856. The convention which was the outcome was held in King's Square, Toronto, February 11th, 12th and 13th, 1857 and several conventions were held until 1865, but ever since that date the work which has come to be regarded as that from which the Ontario Sunday School Association dates its birth. NORMAN DUNCAN

A Successful Canadian Writer.

Copyright, 1906, F. J. Newell, Chicago.

One of the brilliant young writers of Canada who has won recognition by his splendid work which has appeared in magazines and newspapers, is Norman Duncan, of whom the "London Spectator" which is usually chary of praise, said: "It is a pleasure to know that there is a writer in the world from whom we may hope for greater things."

He was born in the City of Brantford, in 1871, and spent eight years at Mitchell, Ont., and from there entered the University of Toronto. He took almost the full course, but left without attaining a degree, as the scientific course did not prove congenial, and the further he progressed the more distasteful it became. His first work as journalism was at Auburn, N.Y., in 1895 and two years later he joined the staff of the "New York Evening Post." In this literary atmosphere, which harmonized with his tastes and needs, he began to develop, and his first stories—tales of life in the Syrian quarter of New York—appeared daily. They were simple, natural, heart-stories, told with sympathy, poetic insight and dramatic power, and had that subtle quality of refinement and artistic finish that invests the commonplace with a fine mind radiating itself in print. When Mr. Duncan was created, and he felt with them the little joys and sorrows that make up that daily life, in all his stories—vivid and pulsing with human energy—the work always seems like that of one who thinks in poetry and writes in prose, —the work of one, who, knowing life and its struggles at close range, never permits an artificial barrier to dull the edge of his optimism or of his humanity. Mr. Duncan is now professor of rhetoric in Washington and Jefferson College, Washington, Penn.

Entered according to Act of the Parliament of Canada, in the year 1905, by W. C. Ely & A. S. Pinkham, at the Department of Agriculture.

NEWBURGH.

The heavy wind of Monday evening blew down several trees in the village but otherwise did no damage.

The Misses Ethel Sparrow and the High School team played a friendly game of football on the grounds here on Wednesday evening of last week. The game was a fair one, considering the early season, the visitors winning by 1-0. The local team have no kick coming, the visitors evidently are hard to please. They put up such a mournful howl in last week's Beaver that Shorie was not a member of the High School. We are sorry to take it from the Middletites to say anything in that respect, considering the fact that they had three of the Senior end one of the Junior teams of the Collegiate Institute on their line up and without the services of these the locals would probably have had been scoring goals yet. Nesbitt, the New Hope captain, got an eye knock in the jaw which put him out of business for a few minutes, but he soon was all right and did the would-be reformers do, but say that it was a fair game, and that is all past. The local forward line was terribly weak, Daly, Daly, Barshaw, Cliff, F. Fairbairn, Smith.

FREEZING OUT THE FEVER.

The very latest thing in cures for hay fever is said to have come to us from across the Atlantic. A gentleman who suffers from this complaint every summer to spend two hours in the refrigerating hold of a steamer. The cold checked him and he had no further trouble the summer following. Moreover, when ever an attack threatened, he was able to retire to a refrigerator chamber and was cured. The idea is simple and pretty obvious. It is quite likely to be a success, as the cold would check the congestion which is the cause of a sore throat. This fever kills

As the result of a joke on his wife, Charles Hoffman, Mayor of the little town of Brooklyn, West Virginia, is believed to be dying, and Mrs. Smith is probably fatally wounded. Smith had Elbert Medley dress up as a woman and call him out to the gate. Mrs. Smith, maddened by jealousy, shot her husband through the stomach and lung and then shot herself.

The Paris Matin announces that Mary Baker has discovered a new method of sterilizing milk, thus rendering it or destroying any of its essential properties. The discovery is based on the qualities of pernydrol, simply oxygenated water. This destroys three dirty-grays all noxious germs. Milk thus sterilized will keep for a long time, while it is not injured by treating. Experiments have been made proved that light has a very harmful effect on milk, whether it is sterilized or not. He recommends that it be kept in the dark, or in red or green bottles.

Frederick Cowan and his seventeen-year-old bride were cured in the hay by a bull in a meadow near Martinburg, Ont., on Sunday. The young couple had just left the home of the preacher who had married them after a sensational elopement, when the bride's red dress attracted the bull. The young husband fought the animal desperately, but was finally driven into a pond. His wife and he was trampled to death. The bull then turned upon the girl, tossed her into the air, caught her again on his horns and finally threw her far over a fence into an adjoining field. The young woman was so badly injured that she died within a few hours.

CANNED WHITE MAN.

A missionary bishop of the Episcopal church was in the habit of introducing among the Eskimos many things to amuse them in order to gain their attention to his preaching. But these were of the earth, earthy. He was impressed by the white man's canned food more than by anything else he brought. One day the bishop decided to send a genuine specimen of the nation. He had with him a talking machine, with records of the Eskimo tongue. He gathered his cottage full around him in the little meeting house, and started the machine. Naturally they were puzzled. At last a smile broke out upon the face of one. "Canned white man," he said in glee.

The Strong Testimony of a Toronto Man.

The wearing pain of Kidney Disorder need no longer be endured as a necessary evil—for science has at last succeeded in compounding a remedy, in Bu-Ju, that cures quickly and surely the worst Kidney Troubles.

Bu-Ju is every day earning for itself the lasting gratitude of sufferers all over the Province—and all we can say in praise of it is more than endorsed by those who have been relieved and cured by it. Read this letter:

The Claflin Chemical Co., Windsor, Ont.

I am anxious that you should know the relief and benefit I have derived from taking your Bu-Ju Pills.

I first got a sample from Geo. Marshall, Druggist, 510 Queen St. E., and was so much benefited that I decided to take more.

The first has been marvelous.

I had suffered excruciating pain with pain in the back and kidneys for about six months, and I am pleased to say that the pain has completely disappeared. Before using Bu-Ju I tried every remedy I heard of for Kidney Troubles without success. I tried

I strongly advise anyone suffering from Kidney Trouble to take Bu-Ju without delay.

Yours truly, (signed) CHAS. E. LUSTY,

3 Taylor St., Toronto, Ont., May 15, 1906.

"What were the details of the affair?" asked the lawyer.

"Well," said the witness, "the Colonel and the doctor had words at first, and it seems the Colonel wanted to back out because he thought he had cheated in the game."

"You don't suppose you can make the jury believe that Col. Sharples was out to back out of a horse trade on any such grounds as that, do you?" interrupted the lawyer.

"No, sir; what I said was that it seems he did."

The champion absent-minded man lives at Balham. On one occasion he called upon a old friend, the family physician. After a chat of a couple of hours the doctor rose to the door and bade him good night, saying, "Now, sir, remember, if you are troubled with sleeplessness, exercise!" The absent-minded beggar, that reminds me of my errand. My wife is in a fit!"

One Cold and Another

The season's first cold may be slight—may yield to early treatment, but the next cold will hang on longer; it will be more troublesome, too. Unnecessary to take chances on that second one. Scott's Emulsion is a preventive as well as a cure. Take when colds abound and you'll have no cold. Take it when the cold is contracted and it checks inflammation, heals the membranes of the throat and lungs and drives the cold out.

ERNESTTOWN SHOW.

For the past fifteen years the Ernestown Agricultural Society has been favored with fine weather for its annual show. This year it had a close shave in this respect. On Thursday night it rained hard, on Friday morning, show day, it rained a little, and the prospects were most anxious ones. However, about 11 o'clock the sky cleared, and although the roads were muddy, the afternoon proved fine. It takes a good deal of bad weather to keep people away from the "World's Fair" at Odessa, and last Friday was no exception. We have never seen a larger crowd at the show.

The exhibits were all excellent, especially so in the drill shed. The ladies' exhibits were exactly all first-class, and artistically arranged. The display of fruits, vegetables, roots, grains, etc., were of high class, evidencing a bountiful yield and prosperous times for the farmers.

Though some error a special prize of $5.00, given by Rigney & Hickey, was omitted from the list.

SAVED BABY'S LIFE.

There are thousands of mothers throughout Canada who have no hesitation in saying that the good health enjoyed by their little ones is entirely due to the judicious use of Baby's Own Tablets. And there are many mothers who do not hesitate to say that at critical periods the Tablets have saved a baby's life. Mrs. Wm. Fortin, St. Genevieve, Que., says: "I feel sure that Baby's Own Tablets saved my baby's life. When I first began giving them to him he was so badly constipated that the bowels could only be moved by an action, and he suffered terribly. After the first dose was marked change, and in less than a week the trouble was entirely removed, and he has since enjoyed the best of health. You can get Baby's Own Tablets from your druggist or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Successful Former Napaneean.

A THUMPHANT CAREER AND THE ACHIEVEMENT OF SUCCESS.

Pan-American Magazine, Mexico.

An interesting career in the financial life of Mexico is that of Mr. George Lee Hunt, President of the United States Banking Company.

Mr. Hunt is a native of Canada having first seen the light of day in the small town of Napanee, Ontario.

From time immemorial young men have, urged by healthful ambition, left their homes and parents to seek their fortunes in foreign lands. In her indeed all developmental success has received many such and has given to many of the most daring young pioneers the opportunities, which unto brokers their opportunities, which grasped, have resulted in the building up of the conditions. Mr. Hunt may be counted among the successful Mexico is his chosen field in which he has risen to prominence; that he started at the bottom of the ladder in an industrial field and by steps to the top of the ladder in financial field, speaks all the more highly of his sterling worth and natural ability. He came to Mexico in 1890 with practically no capital save his trained employment with the Mexican Central Railway.

His steady habits and devotion to duty soon gave him standing with his superiors and after a reasonable period of service he was promoted. For six years he remained in the service of the railway, a trusted employee.

Instead of loitering and squandering his earnings as so many railroad men are wont to do in their leisure hours, he saved his money, and when he had accumulated enough to put his interest and from year to year added to his capital thus from his salary and from the interest which his money brought him.

The real estate activity connected with the expansion of Mexico City attracted his attention and he engaged in such operations on a modest scale as his limited capital would permit. These proved so profitable and acquired such proportions that he resigned his employment to engage in the brokerage business. There was nothing specular-tive in his dealings, just shrewd and careful business operations.

Mr. Hunt was only a young Napanee of twenty-four as a careful operator in money and real estate transactions, a year in the brokerage business revealed to him a field for a fully covered banking and trust business. He associated himself with the United States Banking Co. with a small capital, which he paid up to $250,000.00.

The institution was a success from the start and under Mr. Hunt's careful management soon became the attention of the late millionaire mining magnate Tom Rickard, who was a man who entered its organization and greatly increased its capital.

As business soon required larger quarters and the institution was removed to its present splendid home on the corner of 1st San Juan de Letran. Its capital is now $2,000,000, and it has $700,000 on deposit.

The success of the United States Banking Co. is a monument to the financial ability of Mr. Hunt and those associated with him in the enterprise, great enough to stamp him as one of the eminent financiers of the Republic.

His private operations in real estate have kept pace with his success in the financial world, and his flats and other buildings are among the best in the American colony or Colonia Juarez.

One of his most recent operations was the purchase of the valuable property occupied by the American club, for which he paid $250,000.00.

Mr. Hunt is to-day rated a very wealthy man, and has certainly had his success required through careful attention to business added by natural ability.

No spectacular appeal to fortune through a lucky stroke in mining or speculation in stocks, but shrewd, careful business which began in the saving of his means and has continued to grow as opportunity offered.

He is still a young man and it is safe to predict that his fortune will increase manifold before he will retire from active business to enjoy the fruits of his success which he has well deserved.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Zutoo

Regarding your Zutoo Tablets I beg to say: I have been a sufferer from headache since childhood and have used all or nearly all, of the so-called "cures" on the market, till warned by my physician to discontinue their use on account of their bad effects on the heart. Some months since my attention was called to your Zutoo Tablets and I have been using them ever since with the most gratifying results. I find they cure a "sick" or "nervous" headache in a few minutes and leave no bad effect. My family use them when needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from headache and they never fail to give quick relief. I find them a good remedy for "sour" stomach as well as headache. I always carry them in my grip on the road and would not be without them at any cost.

Printing Ink.

Printing ink is made of linseed oil, resin, soap and lampblack or other coloring matter.

The Woodpecker.

The first wood borer was the woodpecker, and so accurate is his work that the hole he bores in the tree is as exactly circular as though measured by a pair of compasses.

Fruit Skins.

The skins of fruit should never be eaten, not because they are not palatable or digestible or are unhealthful in themselves, but on account of the danger arising from microbes, which may have penetrated into the covering of the fruit.

The Otter's Tail.

The tail of the otter serves not only as a rudder, but also as a means of propulsion, its movements closely resembling those of a screw propeller.

Sympathetic Ink.

A good sympathetic ink is made with the chlorids of copper. Writing or drawing on paper with this ink is invisible at ordinary temperatures, but when the paper or parchment is heated the writing or drawing at once appears of a beautiful yellowish color.

The Maori Language.

The Maori language is a Polynesian dialect. It closely approaches that of the Sandwich islands, of the Navigator's group and of Tonga, Natives of these mutually understand one another.

Rubrics.

Most of the mediaeval manuscripts have the important initials in red ink; hence arose the term rubrics from rubrica—red.

The Codex Upsal.

The Codex Upsal differs from every other known manuscript in the fact that it was written with silver ink on violet parchment in Gothic lettering of gold. The secret of the manufacture of this silver ink is not definitely known, though it is suspected that some solution of the metal was employed in the writing and then subsequently treated with chemicals to give the metallic luster and effect.

The Vellala.

The vellala, a species of jellyfish, is a natural raft, having a membrane which, when erected and spread, serves as a sail.

Hoarseness.

A bit of borax the size of a small pea allowed to dissolve in the mouth will remove hoarseness for a considerable time and is very useful for those who have to sing or speak in public.

Ancient Wisdom.

Anaxagoras, an Athenian philosopher who lived in the fifth century before Christ, taught that wind was the result of rarefaction; that the rainbow was the result of refraction; that the moon's light was all borrowed from the sun, and that the fixed stars were of immense size and far beyond the sun.

Graphite.

Inexhaustible supplies of superior graphite, almost pure and eminently suited for pencils, are found in Siberia.

Dante's Wife.

Gemma Donati, Dante's wife, was a dame of portentous corpulency and a deep, tragic voice. She henpecked him severely, a fact which perhaps explains the absence of her name from his writings.

Pen Slitting.

The center slit in a pen is cut by a machine which seems almost too thick. It consists of two chisels which barely pass each other when the slit is made, and the exact way in which the pen is poised so as to place the chisels in the proper position for cutting is one of the marvels of penmaking.

The Greeks' Falling.

The Greeks, notwithstanding their genius in other matters, having only a glimmering of the use of the arch, could not construct bridges of any size.

The Magna Charta.

The Magna Charta was written with ordinary black ink on very heavy parchment. It is a curious fact, as stated by an eminent English historian, that of all the barons who signed that most important document not one could write other than his signature and only two were able to write even that.

The Roman Styles.

The Roman stylus was often made heavy that it might be used as a weapon. It was with such a stylus as this Caesar defended himself when attacked by the conspirators.

It is claimed that the perfume of flowers disappears as soon as the starch in the petals is extracted, and it may, it is said, be restored by placing the flower in a solution of sugar, when the formation of starch and the emission of fragrance will be at once resumed.

The Civil War.

During the civil war the federal government enlisted a grand total of 2,772,408 men.

The Reason Why?

If you are not well there is a reason. If you do not get well there is a reason. The reason is probably the same in both instances, namely, that your system is so run down, that it is in no shape to either resist or throw-off disease.

The remedy is obvious:—Build up the constitution and nature will do the rest. As a system builder

The best way to relieve earache is to heat an iron or brick, wrap it in two or three thicknesses of flannel, pour warm water on the top, when steam will at once rise. If the ear is placed close to the flannel the steam will permeate every part of it.

MAKES NEW BLOOD.

THAT IS HOW DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS CURE THE COMMON AILMENTS OF LIFE.

Making new blood. That is just what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are always doing—actually making new blood. This new blood strengthens every organ in the body and sets it right at the root of anaemia, and kindred troubles. A man or woman who have their origin in poor, watery blood. Mrs. A. B. Hefferly, of Stirling, Ont., tells what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for her fourteen year old sister Miss Annie Hefferly, after other treatment failed. She says: "For some years Miss Annie has been very subject to little spells of dizziness and headache—that would last for several days, and her whole body would become so weak she had to give up her morning up with fever. Her lips would swell until near the end of the attack when the fever would leave her the color of a corpse, and would peel off. She doctored with two different doctors, but they did not succeed in curing her, and the trouble seemed gradually to be growing worse. Then we began giving her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and in a few weeks' treatment she recovered her health. The headaches and dizziness have gone; her color is improved; her appetite better, and she has had no further attacks of the fever which baffled the doctors. We are greatly pleased with what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for her and recommend them to other sufferers."

It was the rich red blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make which cured Miss Hefferly. That is why these pills cure all common ailments like anaemia and dizziness, headaches and backaches, indigestion, rheumatism, neuralgia, St. Vitus' dance and the special ailments that prey on the health and happiness of girls and women. All genuine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, with the full name on the wrapper around each box. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Printing Ink.

Printing ink is made of linseed oil, resin, soap and lampblack or other coloring matter.

The Woodpecker.

The first wood borer was the woodpecker, and so accurate is his work that the hole he bores in the tree is as exactly circular as though measured by a pair of compasses.

Fruit Skins.

The skins of fruit should never be eaten, not because they are not palatable or digestible or are unhealthful in themselves, but on account of the danger arising from microbes, which may have penetrated into the covering of the fruit.

The Otter's Tail.

The tail of the otter serves not only as a rudder, but also as a means of propulsion, its movements closely resembling those of a screw propeller.

Sympathetic Ink.

A good sympathetic ink is made with the chloride of copper. Writing or drawing on paper with this ink is invisible at ordinary temperatures, but when the paper or parchment is heated the writing or drawing at once appears of a beautiful yellowish color.

The Maori Language.

The Maori language is a Polynesian dialect. It closely approaches that of the Sandwich Islands, of the Navigators group and of Rarotonga. Natives of these mutually understand one another.

Rubrics.

Most of the mediaeval manuscripts have the important initials in red ink; hence arose the term rubrics from rubrica—red.

The Codex Upsal.

The Codex Upsal differs from every other known manuscript in the fact that it was written in letters of gold, violet parchment, the initials being of gold. The secret of the manufacture of this silver ink is not definitely known, though it is suspected that some solution of the metal was employed in the writing and then subsequently treated with chemicals to give the metallic luster and effect.

The Vellala.

Hoarseness.

A bit of borax the size of a small pea allowed to dissolve in the mouth will remove hoarseness for a considerable time and is very useful for those who have to sing or speak in public.

Ancient Wisdom.

Anaxagoras, an Athenian philosopher who lived in the fifth century before Christ, taught that wind was the result of rarefaction; that the rainbow was the result of reflection and refraction; that the moon's light was all borrowed from the sun, and that the fixed stars were of immense size and far beyond the sun.

Graphite.

Inexhaustible supplies of superior graphite, almost pure and eminently suited for pencils, are found in Siberia.

Dante's Wife.

Gemma Donati, Dante's wife, was a dame of portentous physiognomy and a deep, tragic voice. She henpecked him severely, a fact which perhaps explains the absence of her name from his writings.

Pen Slitting.

The center slit in the pen is cut by a machine which seems almost too thick. It consists of two chisels which barely pass each other when the slit is made, and the exact way in which the pen is poised so as to place the chisels in the proper position for cutting is one of the marvels of penmaking.

The Greeks' Tailing.

The Magna Charta.

The Magna Charta was written with ordinary black ink on very heavy parchment. It is a curious fact, as stated by an eminent English historian, that it was the writers who signed the most important document not one could write other than his signature and only two were able to write even that.

The Roman Styles.

The Roman stylus was often made hexagonal, that it might be used as a weapon. It was with such a stylus as this Caesar defended himself when attacked by the conspirators.

To Restore the Perfume.

It is claimed that the perfume of flowers disappears as soon as the starch in the petals is exhausted, and it may, it is said, be restored by placing the flower in a solution of sugar, when the formation of starch and the emission of fragrance will be at once resumed.

The Civil War.

During the civil war the federal government enlisted a grand total of 2,772,408 men.

Patents In Canada.

During the first year of a patent granted in Canada the patentee may import the article into the Dominion ready made. Within two years he must either begin the manufacture of his device in Canada or arrange that Canadian importers may bring in the article on terms as advantageously as though it were made there.

The Reason Why?

If you are not well there is a reason. If you do not get well there is a reason. The reason is probably the same in both instances, namely, that your system is so run down, that it is in no shape to either resist or throw-off disease.

The remedy is obvious:—Build up the constitution and nature will do the rest. As a system builder

"Hush!" she exclaimed as she surveyed her new gown in a mirror. "It looks like I'd have to fall in a misfit tonight."

And the villain still pursued her.—Chicago News.

Japanese Tea.

The Japanese will not drink tea that has been standing over a minute. They pour the boiling water on the leaves and then pour off and drink the infusion immediately. Such tea is very delicate and fragrant and does not affect the nerves.

The First Silk Stockings.

Henry II. of France was the first man to wear a pair of silk stockings, though others had been worn for some time. Silk stockings originally came from Spain, and it is said that Henry VIII. considered a pair of silk Spanish stockings a great luxury and wore them on state occasions.

The Title M. D.

William Gardeuio was the first person on whom the title of doctor of medicine was bestowed. He received it from the College of Asto, in Italy, in 1329.

Peanuts.

At the present time the peanut crop amounts to about 11,000,000 bushels annually. Virginia and North Carolina still maintain their lead, but Tennessee now raises about 800,000 bushels, though of an inferior quality. Of the ordinary variety about twenty-two pounds make a bushel.

Indian Soldiers.

Only the Indians from the hills, where the air is pure and exhilarating, make good soldiers. The plainsmen, too weak physically and as gentle mentally as women, have neither the strength nor the desire to fight.

Earache.

In case of earache do not put anything into the ear except by direction of a physician. The best way to relieve earache is to heat an iron or brick, wrap it in two or three thicknesses of flannel, pour warm water on the top, when steam will at once rise. If the ear is placed close to the flannel the steam will permeate every part of it.

A Japanese Punishment.

In Japan it is the custom to punish an unruly child by burning holes in the skin with an instrument called the "moxa" or "moguse."

MAKES NEW BLOOD.

THAT IS HOW DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS CURE THE COMMON AILMENTS OF LIFE.

"Making new blood. That is just what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are always doing—actually making new blood. The new blood strengthens every organ in the body, and strikes at the root of anaemia, and the common ailments of life which have their origin in poor, weak, watery blood. Mrs. A. H. Breley, of Milton, Ont., is one of the many women Pink Pills did for her fourteen years' cold water blues. Her lips faded. She says: "For some years I had not been well. She would take spells of dizziness and headache that would last for days and days, and her whole body would become so weak that it seemed like burning up with fever. Her lips were as well until near the last point, and then when the fever would leave her the outer skin of the lips would peel off. She doctored with two different doctors, but they did not succeed in curing her, and the trouble seemed gradually to be growing worse. Then we began giving Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and under this treatment she has recovered her health and strength, and for years have gone; her color is improved; her appetite better, and she never has another attacks of the fever which baffled the doctors. I am greatly pleased with what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me, and recommend them to all sufferers."

It was the rich red blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make which cured Mrs. Sgeer. That is why these pills cure all common ailments, like anaemia and debility, headaches and backaches, and gnawing, stomach, neuralgia, St. Vitus' dance and the special ailments of girls and women of all ages. Get the genuine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, with the full name on the wrapper around each box. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE ORIGINAL CORN CURE.

No substitute has ever been devised that stands the test of time like that of Putnam's Corn Extractor. For fifty years it's success has been unequalled. For safety and thorough cure use "Putnam's" only.

HATBURN.

One of the worst wind storms of the year visited Hatburn on Monday night. It stopped the ferry service and the boat had to be kept up on the north side of the bay. The peaps and Figs had to stop over night on either side of the bay. The ferry has proved a great convenience to the people of Adolphustown and South Fredericksburgh, and its success is unequalled. It is also a benefit to the Town of Napanee. As at present, financially $150 short of funds, we trust the Town Council of Napanee will take it up and clear the debt. If the weather and ice are clear the boat will run till the 15th Nov. Mr. B. Lloyd will return to his store for the winter's business.

—Mrs. Edger, a respected resident of Selby, died on Wednesday night, aged 79 years and 8 months.

REGARDED NERVE AND VITAL MENTION.

From Walton P.O., Que., comes the following from Mr. Kamble Begin—"If anyone had told me any remedy could build up my nervous system so well, I would not have believed them. But before using Ferrozone I was run down in nerve and vital energy, and in very weak health. I didn't get enough sleep at night, felt poorly in the day time. Ferrozone has filled me with energy and vim, increased my weight and made a new man of me."

Hundreds tell the same story of weak and Debilitated, everything going wrong, unable to catch any proper rest. Ferrozone and all was changed to health and security. Price 50c. per box, at all dealers.

REGARDED AT REHEARSAL.

An interesting bit of repartee occurred when Paul Armstrong, author of "The Heir to the Hoorah" was staging one of his plays. He had a rather disagreeable scene in the company whose close association with repeated wearing tapped had given him a rather inordinate idea of what he knew about society. In the course of the rehearsal, Mr. Armstrong told the young actor to carry his gloves in a certain way.

"But, Mr. Armstrong," protested the young actor, "a gentleman would never do that."

"Don't take too much on hearsay," the Leather retorted, to the actor's chagrin.

Unlike most managers whose manners at rehearsal are notoriously bad, Mr. Frohman is always polite and never loses his temper. On one occasion, a young actress, who had a very small part, felt that Mr. Frohman was not paying sufficient attention to her. She went to him during the rehearsal and said:

"I don't think, Mr. Frohman, that this line of mine is very important or means anything."

"Quite right," said Mr. Frohman, and turning to the stage manager he called out, "Cut out that line of Miss Simpkins."

The girl reddened and was about to burst into tears.

But, Mr. Frohman, if you cut out that line you cut out my part. It is the only thing that I have to say in the entire piece."

"I was simply following your suggestion," said Mr. Frohman, politely, and again calling to the stage manager, "Put back that line of Miss Simpkins."—George Henry Payne in the November Bellman.

EASY TO RETAIN HEALTH.

Most important of all is proper attention to the bowels. Avoid constipation and the breath-defiler of today. Harsh, griping medicine is pernicious. Instead use Ideal. It results follow a truly vegetable remedy like Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut which not only relieves constipation in one night but cures the cause of the trouble and prevents its return. No distress or inconvenience attends the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills which are worth a dozen times their mildness and efficiency. Sold everywhere 25c per box.

Sir—Is there any difference between a fort and a fortress?

Ans.—Certainly—otherwise I should think that a fortress would be harder to silence.

Acres of New Carpets, Rugs, Linoleums, Oilcloths.

We've made lots of people happy during the week with bargains in Carpets and House Furnishings. Surplus stocks were cleared to give us room for proper display. There is so much newness in carpets this fall that we want you to come and see how well we have provided for you.

Carefulness and strength gives us the leadership in carpet business. We've never yielded to the temptation to buy supposedly good carpets. We buy only the known good sorts. That's the carefulness. We get first pick of most of the samples that come to Napanee. That's strength.

Now for details of special values that will stand the comparison test from any quarter.

OUR PATENT BRUSSELS 75c yard. This grade of carpets we are still doing at the old price, 75c yd. We have sold them time and again to people who expected to pay dollar a yard. They look dollar a yard from design and quality test. Rich looking borders to match all designs shown. Bring your measurements and select now while price is only 75c yd.

DOUBLE FOLD TAPESTRY CARPETS, $1.00 and $1.20 running yd. No trouble to sell our double fold Tapestries when price willing to pay is 50 or 60 cents yd. If you have never seen a double fold carpet ask to see them next time in. We have 27 inch carpets to match any design shown in double fold.

RUGS IN STOCK AND TO YOUR ORDER. From a sanitary standpoint all admit the advisability of using Rugs. We notice a growing demand for them. Not only for drawing rooms but for every room in the house. If you are interested let us quote you prices. We are agents for Templetons of Glasgow, and can have woven to your order any size required. If you have a color scheme to carry out we can help you do it.

HIGH GRADE CARPETS. Aristocratic designs, superb quality, suitable for the finest homes in our county. Wiltons, Axminsters, Velvets, $1.25, 1.50, 1.75 and 2.00 yard.

BRUSSELS. Our old friend for long life and satisfaction. We advise the taking of qualities at dollar yard up.

REMNANTS. If you have a small room that needs a carpet, the chances are some of our ends will please and save you money.

OIL CLOTHS AND LINOLEUMS. Putting up stove time is with us again. Better think of us when you want a new square of oilcloth in front or under stove.

THE FALL MILLINERY.

Is so very different this year that no woman is satisfied with a has-been. We try not to turn out even two hats alike. Every few days we receive novelties that are right up-to-date. Our assortment of styles is large enough to give you Hats at within the reach of all prices.

RIBBONS. Don't forget that we handle ribbons in a large way. We do our own importing and can sell you ribbons at dry goods price not fancy goods price.

Mounted Back and Side Combs

THE VERY NEWEST.

We cut out the middleman whenever we can. We have just secured the agency for one of the best American makers of Women's Side and Back Combs. They have just sent us a complete sample shipment of their latest novelties. Mounted beauties running from 40 cents to $4.00. The best part of it is there are not two alike. On display now in first-show case to the right—main aisle.

Men's Collars To Clear 5 Cts. Each.

We have about three hundred Men's Collars of almost all shapes and sizes, some slightly soiled, others are lines which we have quit buying. They are worth 15c and 20c each. They are all out on the counter going at 5 cts. each. Your size is in the lot.

Men's Soft Hats

Values $1.00 to $2.50
For 25c to $1.00.

One hundred Men's Soft Hats to be sold at a half to a tenth of their original prices. Almost all styles and shadings, including some blacks. All sizes in the lot.

Men's and Boy's Caps at Half Price and Less.

We have about one hundred and fifty caps that are odd lines or perhaps we might call them remnants. Their space is worth more than they are to us. You can have them at less than half. 25c and 40c caps for 10c. 50c caps for 25c.

Bargains in Boys Sweaters.

These are all-wool Sweaters worth in the regular way 50c, 75c, 1.00 and 1.25. We purchased an immense quantity of them—the price tempted us and we really bought too many. Now it's up to us to get rid of them and the way we have marked them we are in danger of loosing all the profit we gained by our good buying. Prices now are 39c, 39c, 49c, 59c.

Men's Unlined Raincoats at Half Price.

These are all well made English Tweed Tourist coats, the samples of one of the largest wholesale houses in Canada. We bought them at half price and pass them on to you at the same. Prices range from $7.50 to $12, and you buy them at from $3.75 to $6, really less than the makers price in England. They are very serviceable, will resist moderately well and will soon save the price of themselves in keeping the mud off your clothing.

Ellis Spring Needle Ribbed Underwear.

Is positively the best Underwear on the market to-day for comfort. There is a springy rebounding strength to every garment, that is of such consistency that it instantly returns to normal shape as soon as the pressure ceases. It is as much like a rubber band as possible.

Reliable Stylish Clothing.

MEN'S AND YOUTH'S AND CHILDREN'S.

It seems to be a fact that this is the one store where a man, youth or boy can buy clothing with the absolute assurance of getting it at just as low a price as anyone else. This is a one price store, it's a store where if you are told a thing is all wool, it is all wool. It's a store where a child is as safe to buy as a grown person.

It isn't wrong to have clothing with cotton in it, but it is wrong to lie about it. Clothing with cotton in it is never as sightly as without, but in the cheaper grades it gives clothing an enduring quality that cannot be gotten in all wool.

We sell much cotton—mixed clothing—and say so. That's cotton for strength, but in the more expensive grades you must have all wool for enduring sightliness. Sales are passing all records, and the larger demand is for the higher priced suits. That shows that men who think, and can figure, are leaning on this store.

Men's Suits, single and double breasted, 5.00 to 17.50.
Men's Showerproof Overcoats, 7.50 to 13.50.
Men's Fall and Winter Overcoats, 5 00 to 18.50.
Men's and Youth's Trousers, 1.25 to 3.50.
Men's Ulsters, 5.00 to 9.00. Boy's Ulsters, 3.50 to 5.00.
Men's Reefers, 3.50 to 5 00. Boy's Reefers, 2.00 to 4 00.
Children's Buster Brown Suits, 3.00 to 6.00.
Boy's Norfolk Suits, 2.50 to 6.00.
Boy's Three Piece Suits, knee trousers, 3.00 to 8.50.

Opening of Fall and Winter Stocks of Men's Shirts, Underwear, Night Wear, Hats.

Some things can only be spoken of with superlatives. "Good" is too tame, "better" is not strong enough, and only "best" and "finest" and "handsomest" are fitty descriptive. It's so with our showing of men's new fall and winter stock of haberdashery.

We never had such a superb showing of Shirts, either in quantity or variety. There's no good style lacking. The assortment of shirts here leaves nothing to be desired.

Crescent Shirts, stiff bosom and soft, 50c to 1.50.
Night Robes—three specials—Domet heavy flannel at 50c, 75c and $1.
House Coats and Smoke Robes up to 10.00.
Men's Collars, 2 for 25c and 3 for 50c.
Men's Suspenders, 10c to 75c.

We are proving to more and more thoughtful dressers every year that CORRECT STYLE NEED NOT HINGE ON EXORBITANT PRICE. Take our two dollar hat for instance and compare it with anything you can buy elsewhere at $2.50 and 3.00. ODESSA.

Wasn't the morning of the "world's fair" a despondent one—rain, rain, nothing but rain, but providentially it ceased after a time, and although not as great a number turned out as in former years, still the fair was quite a success. During the evening a concert and dance were in progress. In the town hall Miss Irons and Miss Tandy had a good crowd who fully appreciated their efforts and felt well repaid in attending. Those who wended their way to the Toomey hall to trip the light fantastic no doubt appreciated it to the utmost. At any rate they went to their homes at a very early hour (next morning). By the way we forgot to mention that the Rev. G. McColl acted most acceptably as chairman at the concert. All were most pleased to see his pleasant smile and hearty greeting to his former parishioners, and sorry to see him go so soon. Hope to see him return at some future time.

On Monday evening D. D. G. Jackson, of Kingston, made his official visit to Prince Arthur Lodge, A.F.A.M., in Bond's hall, where the usual proceedings were conducted. Sproule, attended to their physical needs by placing before them a most substantial and appetizing repast, of which justice was done. WHOLESOME WARNING

TO PREVENT THE MISSING OF THE GREAT BLESSING.

UNCHARITABLE JUDGMENT

Common Sin Which Takes Much Out of the Life of Those Who Indulge In It—Lesson to Be Learned In "Entertaining Angels Unawares"—Three Messengers of God Who Brought Joy to Abraham's Household.

Entered according to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1901, by Frederick Dyer, Toronto, at the Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 7—In this sermon the preacher utters a wholesome warning against the common sin of uncharitable judgment of others, lest we, by such means, miss the blessing that comes of "entertaining angels unawares." The text is Genesis xviii, 2, "And, lo, three men stood by him."

When a gentleman travels in the far east he does not stop at a public inn, but lodges with the people he meets on the way. Thus one day Abraham was sitting at the door of his tent. Off in the distance he sees three travel stained men approaching. At once, according to the social customs then practiced and with the cordial hospitality of the east, Abraham runs toward these three travelers and kneels at their feet and says: "Come and lodge with me. Tarry and rest yourselves, and eat of my bread. After refreshing yourselves you can continue on your journey." The three travelers accepted this kind invitation. Abraham spread before his guests the best he had. He killed a calf. His wife baked for them some hot bread. After the meal was over one of the strangers said, "Where is thy wife?" Abraham went and called Sarah. Then, as the three men were about to go, they said practically these words: "Oh, ye aged and childless ones, the dearest wish of your hearts is about to be fulfilled. In your old age you shall have a son." To make a long story short, Abraham and Sarah found out that their guests in human form were, not simply three men, but three angelic messengers of God. What an inconceivable privilege that was! Let us think about it this morning, remembering that we, too, can entertain angelic messengers almost every day if we will. We can entertain them, be did Abraham, when strange travelers approach our dwelling and perhaps knock at the door for assistance. You may think these strangers are men, as did Abraham, but they are not. They are messengers of God. Thus the questions which your confront us all are: "Will we let in these angelic visitors? Will we receive from them the spiritual blessings which God intends us to get?"

Shall we, in the first place, receive the angelic visitor who comes from God dressed in the rough garments of poor men? These messengers come to Abraham daily, as they always have come to Abraham in olden time. As we approach the Hebrew patriarch's home we see him sitting under the shadow. It is almost noon. Like a wise master he had seen that his herdsmen and shepherds had eaten and fed his stock. Then when the hot sun begins to beat down he goes back to his tent to prepare for dinner and take a rest and have a quiet chat with his dear wife, Sarah, for, though Abraham at this time was over ninety years of age and Sarah had passed her threescore years and ten, yet they were still lovers and when in their youth they had taken a journey into faroff Egypt and the king's messenger had come to select Sarah for Pharaoh's bride.

While the busy Sarah is preparing the midnoon meal Abraham, sitting by his tent, suddenly puts his hand over his brow and begins to look. He seems to be watching something afar off. "What is it, Abraham?" says his wife. "Do you see any one coming?" "Yes," answers the aged lover. "I think I see three travelers. They are strangers to us. They must be poor men. They are coming afoot. In this country horses are so cheap that all except the poorest can own one. These men have not even a donkey with them. They must truly be very poor. I wonder if they have enough food along. Poor fellows! See how tired and hungry they look, Sarah. We have so much, let us give them a good meal and start them on their journey afresh. No man ought to be traveling in this awful heat." "All right. You go and ask them if they will tarry. I will hurry and prepare some meal, and you send and kill a calf, and we will give them a feast fit for a prince." Then Abraham runs and salutes these strangers who are traveling afoot. He says, "Strangers, will you come and lodge with me?" Lesson the first. These three angelic messengers came to Abraham's tent when they came as poor men. They came as God's messengers often come to us, when they look up into our faces and plead, "Will you feed me? Will thou clothe me? I am God's poor. Will thou care for me?"

"Oh, no," you answer, "that cannot be. You are only making a pretty figure of speech. An angelic messenger never comes clothed in rags. He may have come to an Abrahamic tent afoot, but he certainly never comes to me as one of those dirty, filthy beggars who come to the door." But Abraham became as the poor man with that sick wife and a large brood of children who lives in the next block. That poor and his wife do not believe in God. They never read the Bible. They pray or go to church. And God never comes as a tramp or a pauper. Does he not, my brethren? Does he not? Do not speak too quickly. What says Christ in the twenty-fifth chapter of Matthew? Does he not say: "If you would find my messengers, you should seek them among the palaces and in the temples of wealth. You should seek them clothed in purple and fine linen?" Nay, that is not Christ's command. He says, "If you would find my messengers, you shall find them clothed in rags and with the plaintive cheeks of want and wandering around from street to street as did John Howard Payne, piteously looking at the faces of happy homes and yet with no homes of their own." Have you not read the parable: "When saw we thee an hungered and fed thee or thirsty and gave thee drink? When saw we thee a stranger and took thee in or naked and clothed thee?" And the King shall answer and say unto you, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto me." Does not Christ harass by these words that when you look after the poor you are looking after his messengers and caring for him?

But when this noble Hebrew herdsman was running forward to greet himself at the feet of the three strangers I see him sharply scrutinize their faces. He not only sees that they are the travel-stained garments of poor men, but methinks I hear him mutter: "Poor fellows! Poor fellows! I suppose they are exiles from their own country. Perhaps on account of a king's hatred or the cruelty of the rich. Perhaps they once had sheep and oxen and horses and possessions, but they have been robbed, on account of bitter persecution, they have lost all. I must be especially kind to these poor fellows who are fleeing for their lives." Cannot you imagine such thought passing through Abraham's mind as he ran forward to greet the three strangers? I can. And I firmly believe that when any man sees in the face of the destitute and the unjustly treated he is welcoming to his home "angelic visitors" who will always bring to him a spiritual blessing from God.

How many people there are who are being unjustly persecuted! How many there are who are being lied about and misrepresented! Like the poor Hebrew tortoring the poor maniac's body, who was running naked among the tombs of the Gadarene, all their names seem to be legion. Many of these poor fellows who are being unjustly treated are dying of broken hearts, as did the late Daniel D. Tompkins, who was one of the most pathetic characters in American history. In his prime no name was more powerful in the political world than his. He was governor of New York State and then vice-president of the United States. The White House was almost his. But suddenly his enemies were able to bring to him a charge of misappropriation of funds under his care. He stood for honesty and purity and truth, his political foes charged him with misappropriation of public funds. Broken under when he was chief executive of New York State. His indignantly denied the charge, but he could not find the evidence to vindicate himself. His enemies had stolen it. His friends were afraid of Clay's wrath. A black mark of guilt placed upon it, and he was shunned by his fellow men as an embezzler. In this time was over ninety years of age and Sarah had passed her threescore years and ten, yet they were still lovers and when in their youth they had taken a journey into faroff Egypt and the king's messenger had come to select Sarah for Pharaoh's bride.

While the busy Sarah is preparing the midnoon meal Abraham, sitting by his tent, suddenly puts his hand over his brow and begins to look. He seems to be watching something afar off. "What is it, Abraham?" says his wife. "Do you see any one coming?" "Yes," answers the aged lover. "I think I see three travelers. They are strangers to us. They must be poor men. They are coming afoot. In this country horses are so cheap that all except the poorest can own one. These men have not even a donkey with them. They must truly be very poor. I wonder if they have enough food along. Poor fellows! See how tired and hungry they look, Sarah. We have so much, let us give them a good meal and start them on their journey afresh. No man ought to be traveling in this awful heat." "All right. You go and ask them if they will tarry. I will hurry and prepare some meal, and you send and kill a calf, and we will give them a feast fit for a prince." Then Abraham runs and salutes these strangers who are traveling afoot. "Gelic messengers can approach our homes with the scowling visage of hate and with the clinched fist of anger, as well as in the flattering rags of the pauper and the distorted, terror-stricken countenances of the persecuted. "Oh, no," you answer; "that cannot be. An angel is not a demon. An angel is one who would lead us to the higher life. How can the sullen brow of an enemy do this?" Well, my friend, let us turn again to the Bible. Study then the most powerful and the most fantastic sermon ever delivered—namely, the sermon on the mount, spoken a short distance from Lake Galilee. What did Christ say? Did he lay down the doctrine that we should be kind to others just in proportion as others are kind to us? Did he say: "Men, be just before you are generous. Never forget a kindness which a neighbor does you and never forget the injury of a treachery?" Did he say, "Build a walled-in castle. Have the moat deep and wide. Have watch-towers on the walls, where you can always keep a lookout to lower the drawbridge for your allies, and have spears and swords and bows and arrows and slings with which to drive back those who have betrayed your trust?" No. That is not Christ's command. Listen how he describes the way in which you should welcome some of his angelic visitors. These are Christ's words, not mine: "Love your enemies." That means give them the best places at your table and your warmest welcome. "Bless them that curse you." That means go out of your way to speak a kind word for those who are denouncing you and trying to undermine your character. "Do good to them who hate you and pray for them which despitefully use you." Do you hear it? My Lord and Master have we read thy words aright? How few, how very few of us have welcomed at our doors those who have reviled us and persecuted us and have said all manner of evil things against us!

Now, you have read many essays and heard many sermons upon the theme, "The Blessings of Having an Enemy," but I want to tell you that the greatest blessing of all is one that all I is to teach us to forgive those people who have trespassed against us as we expect God to forgive our trespasses. Unless we can learn this lesson of forgiveness we can never learn to be like Christ. Are you willing to do it? The famous Irishman lived who recently passed away? Did you read the last will and testament of Michael Davitt? He did not have any money to give, for he spent most of his life in the struggle of home rule for the Emerald Island. So he made up his last will and testament thus—that is, I do wish I had it verbatim. He said in part: "This is my last will and testament. I have not any money to give, but I leave my bless ing to all mankind. I first ask forgiveness from all those whom I may have injured in any way, and ward whom I have acted unjustly. Then I leave my forgiveness to all those who have done me any injury. Then I ask that when my literary executor publishes hereafter any of my works he will cull from them any bitter words which might wound the heart of any living man or the heart of the loved ones of any of my political foes." Did you ever read a sentiment more beautiful and Christlike than that? My brother, you have greeted many friends in your home. They have dined with you and slept with them. But have you ever spoken the words of a Davitt? Alas, if not, then I fear you have shut out "angelic visitors," who, if they should enter your home, would bring to you the greatest of spiritual blessings. These angelic messengers may be men who have spitefully used you. Cannot you give them a loving welcome for Christ's sake, as Abraham asked the three strangers to rest with him under the shadow of his eastern tent?

But should our hospitality end here? Oh, no. If you turn to the fourteenth chapter of Luke you find these words: "When thou makest a feast or a supper, call not thy friends nor thy brethren, neither thy kinsmen nor thy rich neighbors, lest they also bid thee again and a recompense be made thee. But when thou makest a feast call the poor, the maimed, the lame, the blind, and thou shalt be blessed because the lame and the blind? Are they simply the poor who go around on crutches or feel their way with a cane? I think not. Christ would not here say "the poor and the maimed and the halt and the blind" if that was the case. "I think the maimed and the halt and the blind mean the moral cripples. I think these words to a great extent mean the spiritual outcasts. I think they mean those who are like the seven-devlied Mary and Zacchaeus, whom honest people shun as the healthy physical man would run from a leper or a loathsome plague. Yes, we are to give a cordial welcome even to the vilest of sinners, such a welcome as our Lord gave the three strangers at his home.

And, my friends, a sinner can never sink so low but in that sinful degradation the true Christian may see the infinite possibilities of glory that will attend Christ if his redemption could only enter that sinful soul. It is said that when the great French painter, Jean Francois du Bois, was about to undergo a serious operation he said to the noted surgeon, Dr. Boudon: "Please be careful and don't treat me as you would one of those poor wretches who stretches at your hospital of Hotel Dieu." With that the famous surgeon proudly lifted his head as he replied, "Sir, I would spend a whole night in the most miserable wretches, as your eminence is pleased to call them, in a prime minister in my house." Oh, could we act so in our Christian work? Even among the lowest and the most unlovely we see a possible light of heaven saved by grace? If we do this every immoral and sinful leper with whom we come in contact will be an angelic visitor, bringing us a spiritual message from Christ.

"But," some one says, "I never have the poor and the maimed and the halt and the blind coming to my door. Why, I live in the most secluded life. Once in awhile the doorbell rings and the maid brings me a card, but that is all—brings me a card, but that is all—now it's a friend, then another. I do my full social duty. I am very particular about returning those calls, but I am not big my friends much. Most of them seem to have everything they want and much more than I do." I am not sure? Well, I am not surprised at your answer. Of course you do not have any angelic visitors coming to your house, as Abraham did.

Friend, how is it with thy Christian life? Art thou looking for the coming of Art thou looking for the coming angel messengers? Art thou trying to get out these visitors from God when they are in the far distance? Art thou willing to run to them and greet them? Is that how you act with them? There they are in that dark alley. There they come down the street. Do you see them? Why, they are by your door now. Will you greet them and go after them in the name of Christ?

IMP OF INDIGESTION.

HOW TO GET THE BETTER OF THIS CAUSE OF MISERY.

A scientific writer upon stomach troubles, says: "If you have ever suffered from indigestion and have not, as not 7—your imagination has probably conjured up dozen other little ailments in the pit of your stomach, that organ is neglected of its duties, with a result that is not only painful, but fills you with misery from day to day." This writer certainly had suffered from indigestion, for there is no more disagreeable, nerve-racking and fiendish ailment than indigestion. A great many people who have been treated for all kinds of diseases of the heart, liver or kidneys, when they used Mother Seigel's Syrup to put the stomach right, found that their troubles were also cured. If you suffer with nervousness, dyspepsia, indigestion, sick or nervous headache, pains in the back, Mother Seigel's Syrup is the remedy to take one of the little tablets before each meal. You will feel all very good and you will soon be well and free from indigestion and the symptoms.

The Best Flour, Dafoe's Nonesuch, Dafoe's Manitoba Patent

By name are best flours made by bakers the above mentioned grades have proved to be the best flours in the market.

When buying flour, ask for Dafoe's, and insist on your home mill, thereby producing Bran and Shorts that can be depended upon, and not the product of the Western mills, which has to be transported thousands of miles away, at great expense and usually, when it reaches you, is of inferior quality.

The grocer complains if the farmer or his wife purchases flour left over to outside points for as article he can get it at the home store just as good, but he does not hesitate to buy flour from mills hundreds of miles away, and sell you an inferior flour for more money than you can purchase the home product for, every bag of which is guaranteed.

Choice timothy and buckwheat flour always on hand. Feed grinding a specialty. Bring in the feed and mills known to the trade.

Coal—We have the best Anthracite coal; also in the market for the different grades of soft coal.

Ask for prices at the Big Mill, before purchasing your Flour, Feed or Coal.

WOUNDS, BRUISES AND BURNS.

By applying an antiseptic dressing to wounds, bruises and like injuries before inflammation sets in, they may be healed without maturating, in about one-third the time required by the old treatment. This is the greatest discovery and triumph of modern surgery. Chamberlain's Pain Balm acts on this same principle. It is an antiseptic and when applied to such injuries causes them to heal very quickly. It also allays the pain and prevents any danger of blood poisoning. Keep a bottle of Pain Balm in your home and it will save you time and money, not to mention the inconvenience and suffering such injuries entail. For sale at The Red Cross Drug Store. 4003

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

Tommy—Oh, ma! here's a little green snake!

Mamma—Keep away from it, dear. It may be just as dangerous as a ripe one.

A Cure for Costiveness.—Costiveness arises from a failure of the excretory organs to perform their duties regularly from whatever cause, and the usually disordered digestion. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, skilfully and scientific principles, are so compounded that certain ingredients in them pass through the stomach and act upon the bowels so as to remove the cause and restore them to proper action. Many thousands are prepared to bear testimony to the truth of this report.

"Yes, dear, I was married last month." "Glad to see you call on me and see the pretty little flat I have." "I've seen him, my dear."

In Nature's Storehouse There are Cures.—Medical experiments have shown conclusively that there are medicinal virtues in even ordinary plants growing around us which give them a value that cannot be estimated. Each field by nature that Nature produces a cure for every disease which neglect and ignorance have wished upon man. However, this may be, it is well known that Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, distilled from roots and herbs, are a sovereign remedy for curing all disorders of the digestive organs.

Father—Is he incredible what a lot of money you need.

Daughter—I don't mind any, father; it's the other people who are always wasting some from me!"

Pains Disappear Before It.—No one need suffer pain when they have available Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. If put in the house when required it can be depended on for use at once, as all merchants keep it for sale. Rheumatism and all kindred ailments disappear when it is applied, and should they at any time return, experience has taught us that the oil has to be dealt with them.

Six-year-old Willie was visiting at his aunt's house. He said—

"Auntie, I hate a boy named Jack. He has a new coat and pants and a new scarf. What has your mother that is new?" his aunt asked.

She has neuralgia."

No one need fear cholera or any summer complaint if they have a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial ready for use. It corrects all disorders of the bowels promptly and causes a healthy and natural action. This is a medicine adapted for the young and old, rich and poor and is rapidly becoming the most popular medicine for cholera, dysentery, etc., in the market.

Gladys—Mamma can't see anybody to day; she's upstairs with the new baby. You see, they sent her a boy, and as she ordered a boy, and as she disappointed she's sick.

If your children snore and are restless during sleep, troubled with sour stomach, with a loss of appetite, pale countenance, picking at the nose, you may depend upon it that the primary cause of the trouble is worms. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator effectually removes these pests at once relieving the little sufferers.

The gentleman farmer, anxiously—"What in the world, Uncle Fotterly, do you suppose is the matter with my hogs?" Uncle—"Why, this morning, I found six of them lying on their backs, cold and stiff, with their feet sticking up in the air."

The ancient man, after a suitable season of reflection—"Yer hens is dead, Mr. Cuttly."

Nothing looks more ugly than to see a person with sores or blotches over with warts. Why have these disfigurements on your person? To insure rumover of all warts, corns, etc., use Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. It never fails.

"It's dreadful quiet," said the housewife, "that the potatoes you bring me should be so much bigger at the top of the sack than underneath."

"Not at all, mum," said the honest farmer; "it's just this a-way. Potatoes is growin' so fast now that by the time I dig a sackful the last ones dug is ever so much bigger in the sack mum."

"I care not who rules the motors of the nation," said Otto, who had just received a cheque, "provided I make the repairs."

Little Alice—I'll let you kiss me if you won't tell mother.

Little Willie—I promise not to tell it, but I won't promise not to repeat it.

GIVES TOE FREEDOM

IMPROVEMENT NUMBER FOUR

Squeezing, Pinching, Toe-Deforming Splint

Foot-rite Toe Freedom Toes

Squeezing, Pinching, Toe-Deforming Splint

Foot-rite Toe Freedom Toes

"That's where the shoe pinches." Where? Everywhere in the ordinary shoe, which is merely a foot straitjacket, but principally in the toes.

The toes in nearly all shoes are not made wide enough, nor high enough, nor long enough, neither are they shaped like the toes. They're simply leather spines, straight and stiff on the bottom, soft, collapsable and round on the top, and tapering V-shaped to the front point of the shoe.

Into this low, stubby, narrow, tapering, squeezing, pinching, toe-deforming splint, man jams his toes either thoughtlessly or with vanity. What happens to those toes Corns, unions, ingrown nails, twisted toes, and a few other choice pain-producers. Foolish shoe toes cause one half of all foot troubles. Ask your doctor.

The Foot-rite Shoe is a radical reform in shoe toe construction. Their toes are built long, wide and high and are formed precisely like the shape of the foot's fore-part. The toes which inhabit them never touch the sides, nor the top nor the end except by voluntary muscular action. They touch only the bottom on which they lie flat, and free to move at will in any direction. And the arched roof over them is not made of paste and cloth as in other shoes, which quickly collapses into a corpse-like, pulp mass and presses the toes. It's a canopy of pliable leather which sustains its arched form stubbornly, relieving the toes from roof pressure and abrasion and maintaining the shoe's box toe handsomeness. If crushed in a crowded street car—no matter—they'll rebound into shape.

Ask the Foot-rite retailer in your town to show you Foot-rite Toe Freedom Toes. His name's below. You'll find his door swinging inward but never outward to find a more welcome store.

Anywhere in America, Canada or Great Britain—$4.00 and $5.00. Every pair Goodyear Welted.

FREE ROADS A FAILURE.

Kingston Whig.

Frontenac is rejoicing over free roads, as inaugurated on the Kingston and Napanee road, but if the cost be like that of Lennox on this thoroughfare, it will be an evil change for the traveller. The Kingstonians who drove to Odessa fair had an object lesson. The same profuse rain had fallen on the Frontenac and, in West Portka, as on the Lennox and westward. To Westbrooke they drove along an almost dry roadbed, smooth and well-drained. Beyond that was a continuation of mud, ruts and attempts at macadamizing a little bit of the road, poor attempts at that. This was the climax of thirty years of free roads in Lennox. And it is not a poor county to say way.

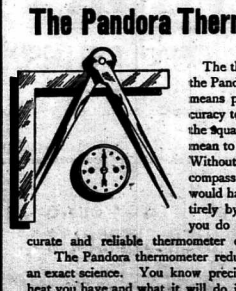
The Pandora Thermometer



The thermometer on the Pandora range oven means precisely in accuracy to the cook what the square and compass mean to the draftsman. Without the square and compass the draftsman would have to work entirely by guess, just as you do without an accurate and reliable thermometer on your oven.

The Pandora thermometer reduces cooking to an exact science. You know precisely how much heat you have and what it will do in a given time. It is one of the small things which makes the Pandora so much different and better than common ranges.

FROM NORWAY TO NAPANEE.

It is not generally known that the highest grade of Cod Liver Oil is extracted from the fresh and healthy livers of the codfish native to the waters of the Lofoten Islands off the coast of Norway. Having received this week a consignment of this superior oil, we are pleased to be in a position to supply our customers with any quantity they may desire, at the right price. The Medical Hall.—Fred. L. Hooper.

ARE YOU IN ARREARS?

We are this week sending out a statement of account to all subscribers in arrears for The Beaver, and to many of them whose time will expire this month. We will esteem it a great favor if all respond promptly. The amount in any case is not large, and it should not cause inconvenience anyone to send it along at once. These small sums taken collectively, however, amount to considerable, and mean much to the publisher. Don't forget to pay The Beaver at once.

HAY BAY FERRY.

The new ferry at Hay Bay has proved a great convenience to the public since it commenced running last spring, and on all hands it is acknowledged that it is well and courteously managed. There was not sufficient money raised to put the scheme on a sound financial basis, and this important matter should be attended to at once. The outstanding debt is $130, which should be forthcoming soon. As the ferry benefits the whole town, the Town Council should grant a portion of this amount, if not the whole sum, and not leave the burden to a few enterprising citizens who have already given liberally of their time and means.

POULTRY SHOW.

The Napanee Poultry Association will hold their second annual poultry show January 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th, 1907. Jarvis, the competent poultry judge of Montreal, whose judging at our first annual show was most satisfactory to all, has been re-engaged as judge. The officers for the coming year will be elected at the next meeting of the association to be held in their rooms, Cartwright block, Wednesday, Oct. 17th, at 8 p.m. Everyone interested is requested to attend.

W. M. S. CONVENTION.

The twelfth annual convention of the Woman's Missionary Society for the Napanee District, was held at Napanee, Oct. 4th. Mrs. Rose, Organizer of the Tamworth District, presided, in the absence of Mrs. Gibson, who was detained at home because of illness in her family. A large number of delegates and visitors were present, nearly every Auxiliary in the District being represented. The morning session was opened by Mrs. Dyer, of Hay Bay Auxiliary. Reports from Auxiliaries, Circles and Bands were most encouraging, showing a large increase in membership, both Adult and Life, as well as finances. A paper on "Best Methods of Promoting Systematic and Proportionate Giving," brought out many points well worthy of note. An impressive memorial service was conducted by Mrs. Granger, and loving tributes were paid to the departed members. "A Study of Work," Constitution and By-laws, was both stimulating and instructive. Another paper on "The Relation of Auxiliaries to Mission Bands" was much appreciated for its practical worth. A question drawer conducted by the Secretary was also very helpful. The spirit of the convention was missionary throughout, and the outlook for the future bright and prosperous.

"A TUG OF WAR."

The above is the title of one of the most pleasing pictures we have ever seen. It is a beautiful gem in every sense, by the celebrated artist, Fred Morgan, and has been selected by the publishers of the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal as their premium for subscribers this season. The picture is equally superior to anything ever offered by that weekly, and that is saying a good deal. The Family Herald's subscription list is increasing rapidly, and no wonder, when one considers the immense value the subscriber receives for one dollar. That the Family Herald is going to have another big year goes without saying, and it is a question if their big modern plant will be able to accommodate the rush of new subscribers they are sure to have. Any of our readers who want a big dollar's worth should not overlook the Family Herald and Weekly Star this fall. Every yearly subscriber receives the picture, "A Tug of War."

Mrs. John Gracey found wild raspberries growing in the bush, and brought a large basket to the festival. The berries were well developed and ripe.

A young daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Mart'n Kenoo on Sept. 30th.

Miss Ida Lazier is visiting in Deseronto.

Miss McNeil, of Deseronto, was the guest of Miss Lott last week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Shetler attended the fair at Shannonville.

A Belleville firm has purchased the Cement Co.'s smoke stack. It is to be taken down on Thanksgiving day, which will be quite a sight.

The wind storm did some damage here. Mr. John Madden had a large stack blown over. Shingles were stripped off, and doors and shutters shattered.

Miss Alexie Finley, who was so miraculously cured, still continues to improve in health and strength.

CLARK'S CORNED BEEF.

Selected Canadian beef, carefully cooked. It has a fine beefy flavour. Never fails to satisfy. 41

The concert given in the Presbyterian Church last Tuesday night was well attended and was a fine musical entertainment. Miss Tandy, Miss Pinkney and Mr. Gray were in fine voice and sustained their former popularity with a Napanee audience. Miss Mirses Toynbee's truly musical prodigies, delighted everybody. The former has marvellous power for such a small hand, and the rapid passages and double stopping, harmonics, etc., were wonderful for so young a player. Her sister's singing and acting were also very pleasing. Miss Mirses Toynbee are to be congratulated on the success of their concert and have many friends.

FURS OF QUALITY.

In the gowning of women, the method of development, in so far as concerns the individual, is in truth secondary to the selection of Furs. Nothing worth having, either of style or quality, has escaped us, and we may say with assurance that this great display represent the last word of fashion as regards Furs for this fall and winter. RIDING A CAMEL.

Dr. Nachtigal, the celebrated African explorer, once said to a youth who expressed a desire to cross the Sahara on camel back, "Young man, I'll tell you how you can get a partial idea of what riding a camel in an African desert is like. Take an office stool, screw it up as high as possible, and put it along with a savage dog into a wagon without any springs. Then rest yourself on the stool and have it driven over uneven and rocky ground during the hottest parts of July and August, being careful not to eat or drink more than once every two days and letting the dog bite you every four hours. This will give you a faint idea of the peculiarity of camel riding in the Sahara."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

LAND LOBSTERS.

The demand recently made for the protection of the lobster of the sea may be contrasted with the loud wagged by Kate Argilar farmers throughout centuries against the "lobster of the land," in the "Passion Letters" where are classed with weasels and polecats. This complaint was still heard that lobsters suck hen's eggs and devour young chickens. This 'lobster' is the stoat, and there are few country houses in the shades of the way in which two words of totally different origin can be used indifferently. The marine lobster is, syntactically, the same as a locust, and the mountain lobster, meaning originally meant a quadrupedal, is properly a 'lob-star,' a creature with a 'lobbing' tail (starlub)

THE BIGGEST FLOWER ON EARTH.

All our native parasitical plants, which grow in the shade by the side of tropical trees, have become dwarfed, as a consequence when they produce the largest and that is probably the best known flowers. This vegetable wonder was discovered by Dr. Arnold in Sumatra about eighty years ago. Its quality that held the attention of the reader throughout, and more than satisfied it in the ending. So uniformly good is her work that it is difficult to say which is best, many of her admirers, however, claim it is "The Madonna of a Day," in which the heroine, Mary Howard, a selfish young journalist, traveling along the Canadian Pacific Railway, is lost among the vast snowy solitudes of the mountains, and wanders into a lawless mining camp. The story is original throughout, and, though witty and cynical at times, there runs through it the thread of a mighty purpose, worked out with rare force and effectiveness.

The Rafflesia Arnoldi. Each of the dramatic company will be the standard of excellence. Its flowers are produced at the base of the trunk, and are of a reddish color, and have a diameter of from three to four feet. The petals are nearly an inch thick, and the entire flower, when in full bloom, weighs from fifteen to twenty pounds. The odor of the bloom was strongly suggestive of roast beef. This strange parasite has little else besides the size and color of the flower, except a certain coarse-like mycelium.

LILY DOUGALL
The Novelist and Her Work.

In the old homestead, "Ivy Cottage," nestling under the shadow of Mount Royal, Montreal, Lily Dougall* one of Canada's most gifted novelists, was born in 1858. In addition to the drop of ink that seems part of the chemistry of the Dougall blood, she inherited the strength of character, the love for humanity and the earnestness of purpose of her father, John Dougall, the founder of the "Montreal Witness." Miss Dougall's brother and sister show the same characteristics in their good work in journalism and philanthropy.

Miss Dougall spent her childhood in Montreal, and since then, because her health was not robust enough to stand the bracing rigor of Canadian winters, has spent much of her time abroad. The education she received under private tutors was supplemented by her study at Abbot Academy, Andover, Mass., and a course at Cheltenham and later at Edinburgh University, where she was honored with the degree of L.L.A. She has lived much of her time in England and Scotland and confesses to cycling and traveling in out-of-the-way places unknown to Cook's tourists, as her pet recreations. In 1891 her first book, "Beggars All," appeared and, winning instant acceptance as the strongest and most original romance of the year, was ranked a masterpiece of restrained and legitimate dramatic fiction. Two years later her novel "What Necessity knows," received high praise.

In 1895 her two books "The Mermaid" and "The Zeitgeist" won the appreciative approval of the critics and public by the boldness of their conception, the strength of treatment, mastery in the delineation of character, beauty in description, the broadness of view and sympathy they manifested, and the dramatic quality that held the attention of the reader throughout, and more than satisfied it in the ending. So uniformly good is her work that it is difficult to say which is best, many of her admirers, however, claim it is "The Madonna of a Day," in which the heroine, Mary Howard, a selfish young journalist, traveling along the Canadian Pacific Railway, is lost among the vast snowy solitudes of the mountains, and wanders into a lawless mining camp. The story is original throughout, and, though witty and cynical at times, there runs through it the thread of a mighty purpose, worked out with rare force and effectiveness.

Miss Dougall is a contemporary novelists one feels that having read one story one can predict just how the others will turn out; they seem literary stock companies where the characters may change their dress and their lines, but are essentially ever the same old characters in new masquerade. But Miss Dougall has that rare gift of continuous originality, each story having the charm of individuality and novelty.

The Bridal Eve

MRS. E. D. E. N. — A NOVEL — SOUTHWORTH

Author of "Self-Raised," "The Deserted Wife," "The Bride's Fate," "Retribution," "Ishmael," "The Wife's Victory," Etc., Etc.

CHAPTER I.

It was the first year of the nineteenth century—ere yet steamships, railways, gaslight, insurance companies, paper-backs, and detective policemen had expelled nearly all possibility of vicissitude, peril and adventure from civilized society.

It was while clumsy sailing vessels were the only means of ocean travel, and heavy stagecoaches lumbered slowly along every public road in the country; it was while footpads still lurked in the shadows of the city streets, to start forth upon the belated pedestrian, and highwaymen, under the veil of night, sprang out to commit their lawless depredations upon the unguarded traveler; while the spirit of romance hovered around old buildings, and superstition lingered in secluded neighborhoods, that the strangest events of our story transpired.

It was early in the morning of a lovely day in June that a rather large group of idlers gathered in front of the Etheridge Arms, a quaint old tavern in the ancient little town of Swinburne, situated in one of the most picturesque and beautiful counties in the West of England.

They were standing within the archway of the tavern, conversing more or less excitedly together, when suddenly the solid masonry of the side walls, that lent strong though and old enough to look as if they had been built piece by piece, which, in fact, had done good service as defenses in the olden time, trembled with the heavy roll of every man's house was indeed his castle.

By their looks and conversation it was evident that some event of unusual importance was expected to occur.

"The coach will be late; what will be keeping her?" asked the landlord of the village smith, as he returned, disappointed, from one of these surveys.

"What can be keeping her? The ground be down for sure!" he asked, turning to an ostler, who had left the stable yard for the same purpose.

"Well the young squire be down? Of course he will! Dunnot he send down his own lady, and let's over our own? When wur it ever known that a Lord Etheridge, or his successor, failed to come down? Why, we've heard tell that a house is done for when it fails to the distant sight an old hollow from Holborne Chase.

"I'll tell'ee all what and about it. Old Hastings, the brother of this young man, was his late landship's friend, and were left guardeen by his late lordship to the young lady. Well, old Hastings was a knowing 'un, and made the match. There's where it lie; and so they've to be married to-morrow."

"Hoigh! Harken! Coome along wi' I; here's the coach," suddenly interrupted the smith, starting from the archway and into the street, just as the horn was heard signaling the approach of the Bristol coach, that presently rumbled down the street, and drew up with great noise before the tavern gate.

First came from the interior of the coach an elderly gentleman, whose appearance was remarkable. He was clothed in a suit of clerical black, and whose pale, thin, long face was surrounded by hair and whiskers prematurely gray. He was closely attended by a young man, whose Roman features, olive complexion, jet-black hair, and deep, dark eyes, bespoke him of the Celtic race, while his plain dress and subdued manner could not disguise the grace and dignity of his air and manner. He, too, was such a contrast to his employer that he might have been taken for a prince of the blood, attended by an old gentleman in waiting.

"I say, Bostley, you's old Hastings and his secretary. I've seen 'em afore, and his secretary's the old laborer, addressing the smith, as these two travelers passed from the coach, and entered the bowing and smirking host into the house.

Next forth a young gentleman, whose handsome person and haughty manner at once attracted general attention. He was tall and finely proportioned, grown of a haughty mien and carriage, with dark hair and features, fair and fresh complexion, light blue eyes, and very light flaxen hair. His manner was that of one who is thoroughly with his whole manner, was sworn among to repellent severity. His dress was rich and elegant, the quality of material, forms a combination very attractive to the young women, who were gathered to see the arrival of the young heiress of Swinburne Castle, for this was Albert Hastings, the nephew and heir of the late lord. He followed the two travelers immediately into the house by his valet bearing his dressing-case.

Colonel Hastings was immediately shown into his private parlor, where he was soon joined by his son.

The latter stood before the fire, hat in hand, waiting for orders.

"Sit down, Bertie," said the elder, kindly, "and tell me all about yourself. I have not seen you since you were a boy. Are you married?"

"No, sir," replied the young man, seating himself.

"Engaged?"

"No, sir."

"Have you any profession?"

"No, sir."

"Then what do you do with yourself?"

"Nothing, sir."

"Nothing! Why, how do you live?"

"Upon my allowance, sir."

"Your allowance! Why, how much is that?"

"Two hundred pounds a year, sir."

"Two hundred pounds a year! Why, that is not enough to keep you in gloves and cravats! How do you manage to live upon it?"

"I don't manage, sir. I live in debt."

"Live in debt! Why, how much do you owe?"

"Between two and three thousand pounds, sir."

"Two or three thousand pounds! Why, you are a fool, sir! Why don't you live within your means?"

"I don't know, sir."

F. CHENNECK'S

Unsolicited Testimony.

Here is the unsolicited testimony of Mrs. C. A. Martin, of Granville, N.Y., concerning Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets for Women. We have her consent to publish her letter. It reads as follows:

I feel that I should tell you what wonders Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets have done for me. I had been running down, getting thin in flesh, and losing appetite for the past year, and though doctor's advice was sought and different remedies were used, there seemed to be no improvement. At length a friend who had received great benefit from Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets, advised me to try this remedy. I did so. In less than a week I began to see good effects. My appetite returned, my nerves began to get steady, my aches and pains began to leave me, I commenced to take on flesh, and I felt that I was being rapidly restored to health. At this moment I feel I am a new woman.

We want you to notice that the above letter proves our claims for Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets in two particulars.

First, that they will restore health after other remedies and even physicians have failed. Mrs. Martin had tried both.

Second, that improvement begins at once. Mrs. Martin saw good effects within a week.

If you are suffering from a run-down condition, or any weakness peculiar to your sex, you, too, can be made well and strong by these tablets.

Take them one week and note the improvement in your feelings and general health.

Weak Kidneys Bright's Disease and Diabetes

Use Dr. Shoop's Restorative to Cure the Cause, If You Suffer From These Symptoms.

Here are the symptoms of Kidney complaints: Urine laden with sediment, brick dust in urine, highly colored urine, greasy froth or blood in it, stringy mucous its urine, unusual desire to urinate, rain in passing water, pain in the back and over the kidneys, hot, dry and itching skin, hair dry and brittle, pain in joints, legs feel heavy, sleeplessness, dullness, loss of weight, chilly sensations, loss of hope, courage, grouchy condition, irregularity, stomach disorders of stomach, weak eyes, trouble with hearing, warts on skin, fever, shooting pains, one foot so much cooler than the other in standing. An unusual desire or aversion to sleep or worse than none. Most any one of these symptoms get their start from kidney maladies, and the use of pain relieving and diuretic remedies only aggravates and makes worse than ever. Dr. Shoop's Restorative offers, for the first time, relief from results of kidney physics, acting as a tonic and strengthener to the kidneys, not as an act on the bowels. They excite the kidneys to unusual action, they cause overwork, then comes a stoppage. These diuretic remedies are then powerless. They relieve the frequent desire of serious kidney ailments, but they do not restore the kidneys themselves, for you will only harm them. Their only strength is nerve power. Dr. Shoop's Restorative vitalizes the nerves that make the kidneys do their work.

Miggles—There's a wonderful difference between my two nephews. One of them is a born hustler and the other is too lazy to work.

Wiggles—How does the lazy one manage to exist?

Miggles—Oh, he has a job in a store that doesn't advertise.

REMARKS FROM THE PUP.

She's taught me that I mustn't bark
At little pushes before dark,
But just refrain from any fuss
Until I'm sure they're dangerous.
This would be easier, I've felt,
If noises could be seen or smelt.

She'd very wise, I have no doubt,
And plans ahead what she's about,
Yet after eating every day
She throws her nicest bones away.
If she were really her mistress
She'd bury them for future use.

But that which makes me doubt the most
Those higher powers that humans boast
Is not so much a fault like that,
Nor yet her fondness for the cat,
But on our pleasant country strolls
Her dull indifference to holes!

Oh, if I once had time to spend
To reach a hole's extremest end,
I'd grab it fast, without a doubt,
And promptly dull it inside out,
Then drag it home with all my power
To chew on it in a leisure hour!

Of all the mistresses there are
Mine is the loveliest by far.
Fain would I wag myself apart
If I could only reveal my heart.
But on some things, I must conclude,
Mine is the same attitude.
—Burges Johnson in Harper's Magazine.

Hard to Please.

Mr. Sally—You seem worried. There's no danger.

Miss Vain—That's just it—no chance of a heroic rescue, and all the folks talking about me!

Change.

"When old Uncle Weatherby was a poor farmer he used to go up to town and eat pie with a carving fork. The people smiled."

"You don't say!"

"Then later on he began eating it with a tablespoon. The people laughed."

"I don't blame them."

"From that he changed to a knife. They roared."

"Great Scott! And is he still sticking to the knife?"

"No. Since they found oil on his farm and rated him as a millionaire he eats pie with his fingers and everybody nods his approval and says he is bizarre."—Chicago News.

On the Other Hand.

She—And do you really think you cannot live without me?

He—You want the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, I suppose?

She—Certainly.

He—Well, I can live without you, all right, if necessary, but I don't see how you can possible live without me.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Pride.

"You need not be so critical," says the person accused. "You say I have a vinegary disposition, but every one knows that you have one too."

"I acknowledge it," retorts the accuser. "But mine is a genuine pure cider vinegar disposition, while yours is the commercial compound of sulphuric acid and water."—Woman's Home Companion.

Mental Limitations.

"Your honor," said the arrested chauffeur, "I tried to warn the man, but the horn would not work."

"How did you not slacken speed rather than run him down?"

A light seemed to dawn upon the prisoner.

"Gee!" he said. "That's one on me. I never thought of that."—Houston Post.

Cooking For Him.

"May Pechis graduated from our cooking school last year and now"—

"Yes, I know—she's taking a post-graduate course."

"Not at all. 'I was going to tell you that she was married last week'—

"Yes, that's what 'I mean."—Philadelphia Press.

Two Rates.

"I begin to realize," said young Mr. Kallow, "that 'I may no longer a mere youth now that I've got a little hair on my lip."

"Yes," said Miss Knox, "and 'I suppose in a month or so you'll have another one."—Detroit Free Press.

One Great Advantage.

"Of what benefit to society will the discovery of the north pole be?"

"Well," answered the scientist, "for one thing it may put a stop to the loss of life and property among the explorers who want to be the first there."—Washington Star.

The Woman's Way.

"Yes," she said, "I made him acknowledge the corn."

"How?" queried her friend.

"I stepped on it," she explained.—Detroit Tribune.

A Definite Proposition

If you are ailing you may take the most highly recommended pills, tinctures or elixirs, but you have little chance of deriving any benefit. If you take FERROL, however, you take no chances; you must receive benefit, for the simple reason that FERROL contains in palatable and easily digested form the essential elements that go to the production of health, vim and energy. If you burn coal you get heat; if you take FERROL you get increased strength and energy with just as great certainty.

FERROL

is phosphorized Oil and Iron. It is suitable to all seasons and all conditions. It is just as readily digested and just as much required in hot weather as in cold. It is taken with advantage to every one at every stage of life from infancy to old age.

To those who are threatened with lung trouble, who are suffering from coughs, colds, bronchitis or any kindred trouble or whose system is run down or weight impaired FERROL is a prime necessity, because it is the only preparation which can be absolutely depended upon to effect a permanent cure.

Bottle Nursing.

It is commonly supposed that nursing infants with the bottle is a modern custom, but some time ago Dr. Gottstein pointed out that that custom was widely prevalent in German cities 200 years ago, and more recently Dr. Grotjahn discovered pictorial evidence of such nursing 1,500 years ago.

The largest topaz in the world, now in the Vatican at Rome, weighs seven pounds and has carvings upon it that occupied three Neapolitan lapidaries sixty-one years.

Around the Earth.

The time required for a journey around the earth by a man walking day and night, without resting, would be 428 days; an express train, forty days; sound at medium temperature, thirty-two and one-half hours; light, a little over one-tenth of a second, and electricity, passing through a copper wire, a little under one-tenth of a second.

The Knife In France.

The knife is a historic weapon in France. Henry III. and Henry IV. were killed with one, Louis XV. was wounded by a knife in the hands of Damiens in 1757, and it was with the knife that the Duke of Berri, an heir presumptive to the French throne, was murdered by Louvel in 1820.

National Cemeteries.

Every superintendent of a national cemetery must be an honorably discharged disabled soldier or officer of the regular or volunteer army.

Memory Bells.

Memory bells are toys peculiar to Japan and are given by Japanese youths to their sweethearts. They are constructed of slips of glass delicately poised that the least vibration sets them jingling. The memory bells are hung in a window, where the draft will set them in motion. The delicate tinkling serves to remind their owner of the giver; hence the pretty, fanciful name.

Colored glass came from Egypt. The Egyptians carried the art to great perfection apparently before history begins to tell of it.

The very best of flour, butter and cream—the most modern plant, the very best baker in Canada. A biscuit superior to any other you have ever tasted. Say "Mooney's" to your grocer.

Tennis and Lawn Tennis.

There are thousands who imagine that tennis and lawn tennis are identical. In lawn tennis, the modern game, is always known as court tennis, whereas lawn tennis is generally known as "tennis." The games are in many respects very different. The court, which in lawn tennis is open, in tennis is closed at the back and sides by the walls, and almost invariably above by a roof. There is a considerable amount of play off the back and side walls. The balls are harder than lawn tennis balls, being, in fact, of the consistency of cricket balls. Hence the rackets are heavier and the gut is thicker.—Fry's Magazine.

Songs and Sentiment.

It is a singular fact that in proportion to the wealth of melody of a nation so does its emotional side develop. Remarkable instances of this are to be found in the United Kingdom. In Scotland, Ireland and Wales, countries rich in national songs, the emotional nature is strong. In England, where the melodies, if sweet, at any rate are not so touching and appealing, sentiment is slight.

The History of Man.

The ecclesiastical authorities divide the history of man into six ages: First from Adam to Noah; second, from Noah to Abraham; third, from Abraham to David; fourth, from David to the Babylonish captivity; fifth, from the captivity of Judah to the birth of Christ; sixth, from the birth of Christ to the end of the world.

COULD SCARCELY WALK.

A RHEUMATIC SUFFERER CURED BY DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

Rheumatism is rooted in the blood—that is a medical fact every poor rheumatic sufferer should know. Liniments and outward applications cannot possibly cure rheumatism. They are a waste of money, and while the sufferer is using them the disease is steadily getting worse. Only when the aching joints and muscles and nerves get the rheumatic new health free from pain. Among those who can bear witness to the truth of these statements is Miss Dorsina Langlois of St. Jerome, Que. Miss Langlois says: "For years I was a great sufferer from rheumatism and tried many remedies without getting relief. I could not stoop or straighten up" said Miss Langlois, "and the slightest help until almost by chance my attention was directed to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After taking them and in the course of a few weeks I could see they were helping me. Little by little the pain began to go, and the stiffness in my joints. I continued taking the pills for several months when every symptom of the trouble had disappeared. I have not felt a twinge of rheumatism since, and bless the day Dr. Williams' Pink Pills came to my notice."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills never fail to cure rheumatism because they go right to the root of the trouble in the blood. That is why these pills cure all the common ailments due to poor and watery blood, such as anæmia, headaches and backaches, indigestion, neuralgia, St. Vitus' dance, general weakness, and the distressing irregularities of growing girls. If you weaken and suffer you will save time and money if you will use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to-day. Be sure that the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" is printed on the wrapped around every box. Sold by all druggists or dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Old Whist Terms.

The following passage is from the Adventurer, No. 35, March 6, 1753:

"On Sunday last a terrible fire broke out in Grub Street, occasioned by the following accident: Mrs. Overall, the housekeeper, having lost three rubbers at whist running without halting a trick, nevertheless notwithstanding she had changed chairs, fursed the cards and ordered Jemmy, the footboy, to sit cross-legged for good luck, gave out of all patience and, taking up the devil's socks, as she called them, flung them into the fire, and the flames spread to the servant's room."

Swabbers are the ace of hearts, the knave of clubs and the ace and the deuce of trumps at whist. To be a swabber is to shuffle the cards very carefully or to change the pack.—London Notes and Queries.

Why Rain Clouds Are Black.

The color of a cloud depends on the manner in which the sunlight falls upon it and the position of the observer. It will be noticed that high clouds are always white or light in color, and this is because the light by which they are seen is reflected from the under surface by the numberless drops of moisture which go to form the cloud. Heavy, black clouds, on the other hand, are found much nearer the earth, and as the light falls on them more directly from above, giving a silvering to the cloud, the heavy, underwater appears black owing to the complete reflection and absorption of the light by the water drops. This is often shown by an observer in a balloon, the blackest rain clouds appear of the most dazzling brilliancy white.

Hundreds of men may be cured—but the day of curing people from suffering is over—forever.

"For years I had Piles, which I pretended and that family. The itching pain was sometimes almost unbearable. Often I suffer so severely it was next to impossible to retain my chair. It was a horrible job to walk. I tried many remedies, but with poor success. This winter, the first week in January, I got Mira-cure. I suffered greatly for about a week, but after that I got relief. To-day I am entirely free. No more suffering. No more operations required. "Do my sufferers honor, Mira Ointment was advised. I used it. It was a short time, all the irritations and pain ceased. I can now walk with ease and attend my duties as a member of the Fire Department. "I strongly recommend Mira Ointment to every one suffering from this annoying complaint.
